FINE GOLF PLAYING BY SENATOR REED

Made Low Score Saturday at Park Club Links.

MANY WERE OUT SATURDAY.

EIGHT SCORES FOR M'CUTCHEN CUP TURNED IN.

Anderson Tied for Third Place With George C. Worth—W. R. Faber Was Second—Fred P. Taylor Was Present But Did Not Hand in Score—No Contestants Out for the Buttfield Cup—The Scores.

Even with Admiral Dewey twenty-four miles away and the greatest of all military pageants in progress, the McCutchen Cup managed to bring out a good field of competitors on the links of the Park Golf Club Saturday afternoon. A dozen competed for the trophy and eight score cards were handed in. Senator Charles A. Reed stayed at home to devote the day to golf and carried off first honors easily. W. de la R. Anderson, the club champion, was on hand and managed to score for the first time for several weeks even if it was only half a point, trying for third place with George C. Worth.

There was a good attendance on the course during the morning but a better one in the afternoon. Green Keeper Barrie had completed the cutting of the fair greens over the entire course. As the grass will grow very little more, another cutting is not likely to be necessary. Then the new putting green for the first hole, which is a great improvement over the old, was used for the first time. The sod has hardly had a chance to settle yet but it was smoother than the old one.

Gifford W. Cooley, who stands third for the cup, made the rounds during the morning with J. P. Murray. It was the first time for a month that Cooley has handed in his score. He has been out occasionally but has taken little part in the contest. He believes that he has gotten away from his hoodoo at last and will soon be able to play his old game once more. His gross score was 115, where he used to make close to the even 100.

Of late, Anderson has been off his usual form. He also made the rounds for the trophy during the morning in company with W. J. R. Thiers. His score was 99. Thiers did not turn in his score.

In the afternoon, the low score for the day was made by Senator Reed. He completed the eighteen holes in 120, which with a handicap of 30, gave him a net score of 90. That will undoubtedly end the Senator, for the greens committee will be after his handicap and cut a generous slice off it as is their custum when any of the limit men begin to make definite improvement. The Senator played in company with Samuel Townsend.

Anderson went around in the afternoon with W. R. Faber and the latter succeeded in doing just one better than Anderson's net score, which gave Faber second. George C. Worth came in for half a point by tieing Anderson for third with 99 net.

Fred P. Taylor was on hand again and the comparison between Taylor and Anderson was watched with interest. He played with Wm. M. McCutchen. Taylor was not at his best and neither made any record of the scores.

The play of Saturday resulted in something of a shakeup among the bunch who are close behind the first three. Anderson was the only one of the leading three to score and he simply added half a point. Senator Reed took a big jump from ninth to fourth, where he is now tied with Charles E. Faber with seven points. Worth left George T. Rogers and G. W. Faber behind and remains fifth, while the others have been forced back to sixth by the advancement of Senator Reed. W. R. Faber came up from the end of the column to fourteenth place.

The scores handed in during the day were as follows:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
Charles A. Reed.....	120	30	90
W. R. Faber.....	124	26	98
W. de la R. Anderson	99	0	99
George C. Worth.....	119	20	99
Charles E. Faber.....	129	24	105
Gifford W. Cooley....	115	9	106
George T. Rogers....	127	21	106
Samuel Townsend...	136	24	112

There is still a month left in which the McCutchen Cup will be played for every Saturday and yet no one has a sufficient lead to be anything like sure of winning. Senator Reed, Councilman Rogers and George C. Worth are all possibilities and have been scoring frequently of late. If, however, Anderson gets back in his old form which keeps his score below 95, his chances for the cup are by far the best. At present, he leads by two and a half points. Meredith Dryden, second

RALLY DAY FOR METHODISTS

Special Services for Sunday-School in Vincent Chapel Yesterday Afternoon.

The Sunday-school of the First M. E. church held a Rally Day service in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon. The chapel was prettily decorated with golden rod and other autumn flowers and leaves. There was a large attendance. Superintendent J. W. Jackson presided. There was special singing by the school and a cornet solo by Robert W. Davis. The feature of the service was a roll call of classes, each class responding with a scriptural quotation.

The committee in charge consisted of Harry Gee, chairman, G. M. Rittenhouse, O. E. Blanding, R. W. Davis, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, Miss Eva Jenkins, Miss Margaret Cory, Miss Elsie Hornem, Miss Persis Snodgrass and N. A. Miller, musical director. Mrs. J. Hervey Doane was chairman of the sub committee on decorations.

MAY TEACH IN COLLEGE.

PROF. MORRIS OFFERED A CHAIR IN RUTGERS' COLLEGE.

Professor Has the Offer Under Consideration and May Leave Dunellen School Where He is Now in Charge.

Prof. Morris, superintendent of the public schools of Dunellen, has received a flattering offer from the trustees of Rutgers' College to a professorship in that institution. It is understood that Professor Morris has the offer under advisement and that it is quite possible that he will accept. If Prof. Morris decides to accept the offer from Rutgers he will probably tender his resignation to the Board of Education at once.

Who his successor will be has not yet been decided upon. It is understood that the Board may take some action upon the matter at tomorrow night's meeting.

Since Prof. Morris has been in charge of the Dunellen schools he has given entire satisfaction. His contemplated change will be a surprise to the citizens of the borough as it was to the members of the Board.

GUESTS SAW DEWEY.

Plainfielders Entertained by Scott Foster Along the Line of the Dewey Parade.

Scott Foster, president of the People's Bank, of New York, who has spent a number of summers in Plainfield, returned with his family last week in time to extend the hospitalities of his handsome home on Seventy-second street to a large number of guests, whose pleasure it was to witness the celebration attending the welcome of Dewey to New York on Friday and Saturday.

Among these guests were included a number of Plainfield friends. The site of Mr. Foster's residence, commanding a fine outlook on the Hudson River and overlooking Riverside Drive, made the place an exceptional one for a view of both the marine and land parades. A platform built at the front of the house gave ample accommodations to the invited sightseers. In addition, many resorted to the roof of the house Friday, the day of the marine parade, as the housetop afforded a rare view of the river for a long stretch of distance, up and down.

A dainty and bountiful luncheon served both days completed the arrangements for the pleasure and comfort of Mr. Foster's guests, who counted themselves happy to be included in his list of friends.

Want Aid, Not Jeers.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—There were those who were inclined to laugh at the efforts of the "Plainfield Advancement Association" for municipal wanter plant and cheaper gas, but today as the direct outcome from the efforts of association, an application for franchise will be made to the Council tonight. This will be a saving to all consumers of gas of one hundred per cent. To the citizens of Plainfield we say, withhold jeers and lend us your aid. J. E M.

Work on the Bridge.

Work is progressing favorably on the new bridge being erected by the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at the foot of Grove street on Greenbrook road.

A New Stone Culvert.

A stone culvert is being located at the corner of Duer street and Lincoln place by the borough officials, and when completed will be greatly appreciated by all.

More Street Curbing.

The Street Commissioner has arranged to do some curbing on West Second street, in the vicinity of Liberty street.

AMERICAN PATRIOTISM

REV. GIDEON M. SHOTT TALKS TO YOUNG MEN.

Freedom and Liberty Essential to Christian Manhood—To Ensure Good Government Church and State Should Unite.

Rev. Gideon M. Shott, pastor of the Baptist church of Scotch Plains, addressed the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. His subject was "The Christian Young Man and His Country."

The incidents of the past few days, in which the patriotism of the country had been displayed so earnestly by the American people was a strong evidence he said of the love the people of this country bore for the freedom they enjoyed. Patriotism in itself, was a grand thing and its incentive for good was enobling; but when patriotism was used as a hobby it was a flat failure. The great trouble with some patriotism was its liability to drift into wrong channels, and when it was used to assist men to become rich it was misdirected and should be discountenanced. On the other hand patriotism that makes men and women love their country was to be commended and was praisworthy. It is that love of country, said the speaker, that makes better men and women—better citizens. Liberty and patriotism should go hand and hand. Liberty is the genius of America and as such is characterized by a sense of Liberty that should be possessed by all Christians or even those who have a spark of Christianity in their breasts.

But among us there is today a class in chains that are by no means possessed of liberty and that class can not free themselves from the chains that bind them closely. Liberty perches on the banner of the church as well as the State. Without the assistance of the State the freedom which some men seek from the thraldrom of the rum question can not be secured.

Mr. Shott then drifted into the evils of the saloon and stated that if traffic in liquor was to be checked the State would have to lend its assistance. With a union of the State and church he thought that the saloon would be driven out of business. In a word he considered the saloon the most enslaving of anything in the land today. While men were bound by its shackles there was no freedom or liberty, and therefore the boasted patriotism of the American people was simply a hobby and not as sincere as it should be.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN.

PEOPLE'S GAS COMPANY ORGANIZED THIS MORNING.

William A. Coddington Chosen President—Application for the Franchise to be Made to the Council Tonight.

The Peoples's Gas Company, which was incorporated last Saturday, has perfected an organization. The incorporators, consisting of Messrs. William A. Coddington, J. Wesley Johnson, Nelson Runyon, George J. Tobin, James E. Martine, David C. Smalley, Vincent W. Nash, John H. McVey, Edward White, Hugh H. Hammill, Barker Gummere, William G. Hendrickson and Charles Howell Cook, met this morning at the office of Reed & Coddington and elected these officers:

President, William A. Coddington; vice-president, J. Wesley Johnson; secretary, Vincent W. Nash; treasurer, Charles Howell Cook. The board of directors chosen are the same as the incorporators.

It was also decided to apply to the Common Council this evening for a franchise to lay pipes and operate in this city.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of Grace P. E. church for September are: Harris Egan, Edwin Daniel, Herbert Smith, Malcolm Davis, and the Misses Mabelle Smith, Jessie Little and Mildred Ulrich. Edwin Daniel received the Grace church cross.

Pushing Work on Hope Chapel Addition.

The new edifice for Hope chapel is now completely enclosed, and the work of finishing the interior is being pushed rapidly. An effort will be made to dedicate the structure early this fall if at all possible.

In the Crescent Avenue Church.

Rev. Dr. Charles L Thompson, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, preached two very interesting sermons at the Crescent Avenue church yesterday morning and evening.

Excellent Appointment.

The Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school yesterday took the initiative toward the formation of a Home Department in the school by the appointment of Miss L. Remsen as superintendent.

—An entertainment will be given in Hope chapel Friday evening next.

ENGINEER WAS ASLEEP

He Paid Penalty For Negligence By Death.

BAD WRECK ON LEHIGH.

A REAR END COLLISION EAST OF NEW MARKET.

Occurred a Little After 4 o'Clock This Morning and Blocked the Tracks—The Signals Were Set Against the Trains Proceeeing, But Engineer Did Not Heed.

With the engineer asleep at his post, a locomotive at the head of a heavy freight train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad crashed into the rear end of a coal train a mile east of New Market at 4:21 o'clock this morning. The engineer, Peter McGlynn, of Jersey City, paid the penalty of death for his negligence. He was crushed beneath the wreck of his locomotive. The remainder of the crews of the two trains escaped injury. The locomotive, a caboose and six large coal gondolas were piled up across both tracks and the rails were torn up for some distance.

Yesterday afternoon a train of fifty-four loaded coal cars of the gondola type left Packerton over the Lehigh Valley Railroad, bound for Jersey City. The train was pulled by locomotive No. 778, one of the large camelback freight engines. Peter McGlynn was the engineer. He boarded at 9 Duave avenue, Jersey City. He had a wife living in New Brunswick. His parents live in Philadelphia. McGlynn came to the Lehigh Valley in 1893 after the strike. After acting as fireman for a time he was promoted to engineer. He was a non-union man. The fireman of the train was Harry Jones, of Jersey City. The conductor was Norman Gardinier, of Newark.

At Bethlehem, Pa., they caught up with another coal-train drawn by locomotive No. 363, Engineer Young, of Easton, and Conductor Miller, of Easton. Both trains were running extra as is the custom with all slow coal and freight trains. The first train gradually pulled away and was not seen by those on the rear train until just before the collision.

A mile east of the New Market station there is a railroad bridge over New Market pond. Just beyond it there is a siding from the east-bound track. A hundred yards back there is a semaphore which automatically shows a danger signal when the switch is open. A quarter mile back is another semaphore showing the green cautionary signal automatically when the switch is open.

The first train, drawn by engine No. 369, started to enter the switch and go on the siding. The two semaphores showed he red and green lights, warning following trains. A flagman also was sent back. When locomotive 778 rounded the curve at New Market Fireman Jones heard Engineer McGlynn singing to himself as he was accustomed to do when he grew sleepy. The singing died away and Jones heard it no more.

When the train came into the straight stretch from New Market to the Samptown curve it was moving at a slow speed, not over seven miles an hour. Fireman Jones did not look ahead and had no idea of the proximity of the other train until he heard a noise at the side of the track. There was a flagman standing there. Then he looked ahead and saw the lights of a caboose on the track only a short distance away.

With a shout to Engineer McGlynn to look out, Jones stepped off the moving locomotive. As the speed was not great, he alighted without difficulty. It was not until then that Engineer McGlynn put on the air brakes. The brakes were connected through for only three cars and failed to stop the heavy train in the short distance that remained. There was plenty of opportunity for the engineer to jump, but it is supposed that he thought the train was moving so slowly that there would be no serious results from the collision.

Although it will never be known for a certainty whether McGlynn was asleep or not, there seems little doubt but that he was as he must have seen the warning semaphores and the caboose lights ahead had he been awake. It is supposed that the fireman's shouts roused him.

When the locomotive struck the

AN IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL

OBSEQUIES HELD OVER REMAINS OF LATE CHARLES SCHIPPER.

A Wealth of Beautiful Floral Tributes—Many Business Associates of the Dead Man Attended the Services.

The funeral services of the late Charles W. Schipper were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the house, 705 West Seventh street, where a very large number of people assembled to pay their last respects to one whom they had known to admire and love for his many excellent qualities.

The remains rested on a handsome bier which was completely covered and surrounded with beautiful flowers, consisting of large wreaths and bunches of the choicest roses. They were tributes from friends, neighbors and business associates and represented the highest esteem of the givers for the departed.

Rev. Jacob Loch, pastor of the Lutheran church, Brooklyn, had charge of the services. He delivered an eloquent and deeply impressive eulogy over the departed. He first spoke in German, and then made a few remarks in English. He dwelt upon the fact that though the nineteenth century was one of enlightenment everyone is as much mystified concerning death as the people of one hundred years ago. He pointed all to Christ who is able to take away the fear of death. He believed that the departed held in his hand the palm of victory and had won a victory of peace. He referred tenderly to the bereaved ones and invoked the divine blessing on them. In concluding his remarks he offered an impressive prayer.

Following the above speaker, Rev. Dr. Rodman, pastor of Grace P. E. church, offered prayer and pronounced the benediction. During the services a male quartette from the Liederkranz Society, of New York, of which Mr. Schipper was one of the founders, sang two beautiful selections in the German. This part was one of the most impressive of all.

An opportunity was given those present to view the remains, after which they were interred in Hillside Cemetery. The pallbearers, old friends, schoolmates and business associates of the departed, included Messrs. Rasmus, Gudewill and Lee, of New York; Col. Mason W. Tyler, Ernest R. Ackerman, W. I. Rushmore and Emil Woltman, of this city; Mr. Graas, of Brooklyn; P. Smith, Mr. Schipper's partner, of New York, and Capt. Pohle, of the Steamship Lahn, upon which Mr. Schipper returned to this country last week.

Included among the mourners were a large number of New York business men who had known Mr. Schipper for many years.

Mr. Schipper, who was a member of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, gave very largely of his means to that institution, and his fellow members of the board attended the funeral in a body, occupying the front parlor.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL OFFICERS.

Joseph A. Robinson Chosen Superintendent in Congregational Church.

The annual meeting of the Sunday-school of the Congregational church was held yesterday afternoon. The reports of the officers showed the school in a flourishing condition. The following officers were elected: Superintendent, Joseph A. Robinson; assistant superintendent, Louis I. Van Alstyne; secretary, Stacy Ravnolds; assistant secretary, John W. Kirkner; treasurer, J. A. Powlison; librarian, Charles E. Steiner; assistant librarian, George E. Fuller; musical director, Mrs. M. E. Dwight.

Report of State Convention.

The report of the State convention was made at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church last night by the delegate, Miss M. G. Morse. State Treasurer E. E. Anthony and Local Union Secretary Miss Florence G. Hawkins, who attended the State convention, were also present and spoke at the meeting. Rev. C L. Goodrich was the leader.

A Guest With Rear Admiral Schley.

Capt S. C. Peck, of West Front street, will go to New York Wednesday evening to attend a dinner to be given at Delmonico's by the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, of which he is a member. Rear Admiral Schley is commander of the Legion this year, and he and other dignitaries will be there.

—There will be a meeting of Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, this evening.

—All young man interested in the evening class work of the Y. M. C. A. are invited to be present at the opening of the educational department at the association building this evening.

BROKE HIS LEG.

George Serrell, of This City, Badly Hurt on a Transport at Havana.

George Serrell, of this city, an officer on the Transport Burnside, now lies in Hospital No. 1, at Havana, suffering with two fractures of the leg, one at the knee and the other at the ankle. The accident happened sometime ago, but definite information concerning the accident has been hard to secure.

It seems that Mr. Serrell was assisting in the unloading of some cargo at Havana, when a boon that became loose, swung around and struck him from the rear. He was thrown from the transport to another boat and in falling his leg was broken in two places.

A few days ago a letter was received from the surgeon in charge, and he said that Mr. Serrell is doing fairly well, but recovery will be slow.

IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

PLAINFIELD POULTRY FARM COMPANY IN TROUBLE.

City Judge Runyon is Temporary Receiver and Will Probably be Made Permanent Tomorrow by the Chancellor.

In the Court of Chancery at Newark tomorrow the stockholders and the creditors of the Plainfield Poultry Farm Company have been ordered by Chancellor McGill to show cause why City Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, should not be continued permanent receiver for the company.

Judge Runyon has been serving as temporary receiver upon the order of the Chancellor, granted on the application of William N. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, this city, who is one of the stockholders in the concern. Judge Runyon is obliged to furnish a bond of $35,000 for the faithful performance of his duties, the bond to be approved by John H. VanWinkle, one of the special masters of the court.

Schoonmaker, who is a millionaire, has invested fully $30,000 in the poultry farm enterprise, which has been run under the direction of William Corbs. Thousands of ducks and chickens are raised annually there for the New York market, and the farm is regarded as the biggest enterprise of its kind in the country.

Recently the company became involved in legal troubles with Mrs. Allen, who claimed the ownership of the farm on which the enterprise is located. After an arbitration of the issue Mrs. Allen's claim was upheld. This litigation proved quite costly for the company.

LANDED ON COBBLES.

Painful Experience of a Plainfield Cyclist Trying to Ride Down the Mountain.

John Thompson, a machinist, living in Stebbins place, met with an accident last evening about 7 o'clock which nearly cost him his life. Early in the day he rode his wheel over the second mountain to visit some relatives. Returning home he attempted to ride down the mountain. In doing so he lost control of his wheel and was thrown a considerable distance against a pile of stones. His head was severely cut and his neck wrenched. For a time he lay in a semi-conscious condition. He was found by a man coming to Plainfield and was assisted to Dr. Pittis's office on Somerset street, where the latter worked for several hours in treating the man's injuries. About 11 o'clock Mr. Thompson was removed to his home, where he is doing as well as can be expected.

Happy Surprises.

There were two happy surprises yesterday at Trinity Reformed church. The first one was at the morning service, when the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, took a seat in the pulpit and assisted in the devotional exercises preceding the sermon by Rev. A. E Main, after an absence of three months, and the other surprise was at the session of the Sunday-school in the afternoon, when H. J. Martin paid a visit to the school and his class, after an absence by illness of over two months. A warm welcome was accorded both.

Assignee's Sale.

VanEmburgh's stock is now offered at 135 East Front street in the store formerly occupied by the trading stamp company, at cut prices. W. R. Codington, assignee.

Council Meets Tonight.

The regular October meeting of the Common Council will be held this evening and there will be several important matters considered at that time.

Entertained the Bachelors.

Arthur Cannon, of Craig place, who is to join the benedicts soon, entertained a party of friends at dinner yesterday at the Kensington Hotel.

CHEAPER GAS RATES WILL BE POPULAR.

Organization of People's Company Arouses Great Interest.

WHAT'LL OLD COMPANY DO?

THAT IS AN INTERESTING QUESTION IN PRESENT VIEW.

The New Company Promises to Put in a Thoroughly Up-to-Date Plant Capable of Meeting Demands of City and Borough for Twenty-Five Years—A Communication on the Subject.

The project to establish another gas plant in this city will no doubt meet with favor by the citizens generally. The new company, which was incorporated last Saturday, promises to supply gas for all purposes at a cost not to exceed $1 a thousand. It is possible, however, that gas will be supplied at a lees figure than $1—say 90 cents. This would be about $1 cheaper than is at present charged by the Plainfield Gas and Electric Company. There is a general opinion that gas can be manufactured and distributed to consumers at as low a figure as 50 cents a thousand. If this is true, then the present company is making an enormous profit at $1.80, which is charged in this city at present.

The gentlemen interested in the new gas company are men posesed of public spirit and have sufficient capital to push the new enterprise to a success. Application will be made this evening to the Common Council for a franchise for laying pipes through the streets and operating the plant. It is probable that the old company will attempt to prevent the granting of this franchise on the ground that the city is well provided with gas and electric light which that company will maintain is supplied to the citizens as cheaply as it is possible to make and distribute it. Such a statement will be denied by the men interested in the new company, who will strive to show that the people are paying an enormous sum for a commodity which ought to be provided at a rate vastly cheaper than it is at present.

Plainfield is one of the few cities in the country where such high rates are charged for gas. New York city, as a result of strong opposition, has finally secured gas at the low figure of about seventy-five cents a thousand. However, previous to the gas war of last spring the citizens had not paid nearly as much for gas as the people of Plainfield have in the past few years. While it is not so many years ago that as high as $2 50 was paid in this city for gas. It is now believed that the Common Council will refuse to grant the franchise which the new company will ask. Cheaper gas is among the possibilities of the future. With cheaper gas and cheaper water as an incentive, little difficulty will be had to induce people to locate Plainfield.

The new company will, if granted a franchise, put in a thoroughly up to-date plant in all respects, capable of supplying the needs of Plainfield and North Plainfield, so far as the use of gas is concerned, for twenty-five years.

The following letter from a Press reader on the subject of dollar gas, and the propoeition of the new company, tends to show that there is going to be varying opinions about the question of granting another franchise for supplying the commodity in Plainfield:

To the Editor of The Daily Press—The Common Council is to be asked this evening to grant a franchise to a new gas company which promises gas at a dollar a thousand feet. Certainly, dollar gas is very much to be desired, and no doubt we ought to have it and might have it without causing any hardship to the Plainfield Gas Company. The question is how best to reach it—the cheapest way and most permanent in its results. If a franchise is granted to another company then soon the streets of Plainfield will be torn up from end to end and cross-cut at frequent intervals from curb to centre, and, as we all know, never made good again until repaved by the city at the expense of the tax-payers. Then there will be war, and following that, as surely as day follows night, will come peace and consolidation, and one company instead of two, and rates such as seem best to the consolidated company. What will have been the gain and how short-lived? and what the loss? First there will be the loss and annoyance arising from the disturbed and ruined streets; then, moreover, a great loss to the community, will surely be a loss, though all may not realize it, of the duplicate set of machinery and pipes for the manufacture and distribution of gas which the

SHE DID HERSELF PROUD

New York's Honors to Dewey the Crowning Event in American History.

THE FESTIVITIES CLOSE

The Great Three Days' Reception Carried Out With Few Mishaps and no Fatalities.

The Admiral Affected to Tears—His Voice Trembles When Speaking of the Honor Done Him—Major-General Miles and Other Men of Prominence Talk About It.

New York, Oct. 2.—Greater New York, after having spent almost a full week of time, bubbled over with enthusiasm and spent money enough to establish a hundred national banks, in her welcome to Admiral Dewey, congratulates herself that she has successfully carried out the crowning event of the nineteenth century, and that she has bestowed upon a worthy hero the grandest reception ever tendered an individual in the history of the world.

Those who were officially responsible for the success of the celebration, feel particularly elated over the fact that during all of the festivities which were witnessed by at least 2,000,000 visitors, there were no accidents of a startling nature, and not a single life was lost to mar the pleasure of the occasion. Nearly all of the visitors have returned to their homes and the city has again taken on its everyday appearance of a hustling centre of business activity. The work of removing the decorations, tearing down stands, etc., has commenced, and within forty-eight hours New York will look practically the same as she always does when not dressed up in holiday attire. Admiral Dewey, whose courage and bravery were so manfully demonstrated in the "little unpleasantness" between the Spanish and American fleets in Manila Bay, has also demostrated the fact that he is a tender hearted man as well. The attention shown him and the kind and patriotic words showered upon him by city and state officials, reception committees, school children, and the visiting multitudes in all walks of life, affected him to tears on more than one occasion, and while he says that he was glad when it was over, he cannot talk of the great display of friendship and hospitality without his voice trembling with emotion.

Before taking the train for Washington where another reception awaits him, the Admiral said he had not been fully informed as to what he would have to submit to over at the National Capital, but if he was to be treated no worse than New York treated him, he thought he might be able to undergo a couple of more days of it, after which he would go to the home of his brother in Vermont and take a short rest.

Saturday Evening's Banquet.

The men behind the guns of the Olympia had their particular innings in the celebration in the evening at the Waldorf-Astoria, and though they were rather leg-weary after marching in the long parade the smoker, buffet-lunch and vaudeville performance arranged for their enjoyment was doubly attractive.

There were 450 jackies at the smoker; 250 from the Olympia, 25 each from the ships in Sampson's squadron—the New York, Brooklyn, Texas, Massachusetts and Indiana—and 75 from all the other naval vessels in the parade.

The smoker was begun at 8 o'clock, and the lunch, which was really something more, was served the first thing. All kinds of sandwiches, lobster, chicken, potato and herring salads, many special confections, contrived by the chef, Nesselrode pudding, Neapolitan cream, fancy cakes, coffee and nuts, were served, also whiskey and beer to drink and cigars and pipes to smoke. There was no limit to anything.

While the sailor boys were enjoying their fun amid the splendors of the brilliant ballroom the vaudeville was going on under the direction of Oscar Hammerstein.

Anna Held, Marshall P. Wilder, James J. Corbett and his sparring partner, Joe Kennedy, Louise Beaudet, the Hawthornes, Marie Dresseler, Ezra Kendall, Falletti's monkeys and a host of special artists furnished an admirable show.

The boxes were filled with army and navy officers, their families and other guests of the city.

Randolph Guggenheimer made a short speech of welcome to the jackies, tendering them the freedom of the city.

Miles Praises the Reception.

In an interview after the reception was brought to a close, Major-General Nelson A. Miles said:

"It was the grandest thing I have ever seen. Certainly it surpassed anything in the way of a reception to a man of the people in the history of this country. It was magnificent, and New York has more than reason to feel proud.

"I attended the Queen's Jubilee in London, and have no hesitancy in saying that as a spectacle our parade was far superior. There may have been more spectators in London—on that point I cannot speak authoritively—but in point of impressiveness and enthusiasm the occasion could not stand comparison with ours.

"What impressed me most in making a comparison between the two occasions was the difference between the arrangements for handling the crowds and the crowds themselves. The London crowd might more properly be called a mob. The police arrangements were entirely inadequate.

"A better policed, better dressed, better fed, more orderly, generally prosperous appearing set of people than those who lined the route of the parade could not be found in any gathering of similar numbers on the face of the globe.

"Again, the decorations for the Queen's Jubilee were nowhere in comparison with the decorations that New York had up. Our decorations were always tasty and in some places they ran to the point of lavishness. It is characteristic of the American people to do a thing well when they do it at all, and this characteristic was never more perfectly exemplified. I say again that New York has good reason to feel proud.

"I do not know of a place in the world that could produce such an ideal line of march. Riverside Drive, with all the advantages nature and art have bestowed, is simply beyond criticism as a parade ground for a military pageant, and along the rest of the line there was nothing to be desired. Fifth avenue was a spectacle to stir the heart.

"I was most agreeably impressed with the appearance of the troops. In point of physique and general soldierly bearing their equals could not be gathered anywhere in the world. In an experience that encompasses many parades I have never seen better marching considering the diversified character of the men in line.

"It was a pleasure to see that the people were keen to observe this fact, too. The applause for the soldiers was hearty and spontaneous all along the line, and the boys deserved every cheer they received.

"I cannot say that anything caught my attention strongly enough to be picked out and commented on. The parade was great and grand and impressive all the way through.

"Perhaps I might say that few of us who saw the gathering around the arch in Madison square will live to see anything to equal it. None of us will I could observe, in no sense political, but purely patriotic.

Were Purely Patriotic.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, who is stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, said:

"The demonstrations were, so far as I could observe, in no sense political, but purely patriotic.

"The American people, regardless of party, gathered here to exhibit their admiration for a man whose name will go down to history as great as that of Farragut.

"I never have witnessed grander spectacles than I have seen here. New York has simply outdone herself in her hospitality to visitors, and the magnificance of her welcome to America's great naval hero.

"We hope to have a chance to show what Chicago thinks of Dewey. I shall extend to him a formal invitation to be our guest. If he accepts we shall at least try to equal New York's welcome, though the task would be a stupendous one indeed.

"Next to Dewey it seemed to me that Schley, the hero of Santiago, secured the greatest part if popular applause. The warmth of his reception was so intense as to dwarf that tendered Sampson, his rival.

"I doubt if your superb demonstrations have ever been surpassed in any city of the globe. I congratulate New York on the skill and courtesy manifested in caring for Dewey and the hundreds of thousands who thronged here to do him honor."

A Magnificent Tribute.

In declaring that Admiral Dewey had become another Farragut, Governor Bushnell, of Ohio, had the following to say:

"It was the event of the nineteenth century. I doubt if any city ever equalled it. I would not expect to see it surpassed were I to live a hundred years longer.

"It was a magnificent tribute to Dewey the hero. It showed that he has become another Farragut in the affections of loyal American citizens.

"I do not think the ovation given to Dewey means his nomination for the Presidency, though that might happen were he to become a candidate. I understand he is a Republican. But I expect President McKinley to be nominated by our party."

Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, called on Admiral Dewey at his apartments at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and invited him to attend the celebration there next week, at which time President McKinley will be present and lay the corner stone of the new government building. The Admiral thanked the mayor for the invitation, but said he would be obliged to decline.

Admiral Dewey, accompanied by several officers of the Olympia, and a few invited friends, left Jersey City shortly after noon on a special train for Washington. The president of the Pennsylvania Railroad had kindly placed his private car at the disposal of the Admiral, and it was in this palace on wheels that the trip to Washington was made.

Texas' Old Capital Burned.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 2.—The large stone building erected here in 1882 by the state and used for several years by the state as a temporary capitol, has been destroyed by fire. The building was still owned by the state and was leased to the city and part of it was occupied as a school. The original cost of the building was about $68,000 and it is a total loss.

Dewey Wanted at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 2.—Admiral Dewey will be invited to Georgia, as the honorable guest of the State Fair, which opens on Oct. 18. Mayor Woodward and a delegation of citizens will meet the Admiral in Washington and, after securing the co-operation of Flag Lieut. Brumby, attempt to induce his commander to spend a day in Atlanta. Admiral Schley has already pledged himself to attend the fair.

Ex-Postmaster Willett Killed.

Washington, Oct. 2.—James P. Willett, postmaster of Washington under President Cleveland's last Administration, and Superintendent of the Post Office Department and City Post Office building, was killed instantly by falling down an elevator shaft from the fourth story to the basement of the new post office.

Big Fire Caused By Lantern.

Newburg, N. Y., Oct. 2.—One hundred thousand dollars is the estimated loss by the fire which destroyed the crate and box factory of O. B. Whitney, at Marlboro, Ulster county. There was an insurance of $60,000 on the property. The fire was caused by the overturning of a lighted lantern.

Got a Sentence of 115 Years.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 2.—Fred Felton the negro who assaulted six white women in this city last month, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 115 years' imprisonment in the penitentiary.

THE CARTER CASE ENDED

Five Years Convicted Captain Must Serve in a Military Prison.

DISMISSED FROM ARMY

The Man Once Honored and Respected, Brings Disgrace Upon Himself and His Friends.

Sentence is Approved by President McKinley—Carter to be Taken to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas—Nothing But a Pardon Can Save Him From Serving Full Time.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The case of Capt. Oberlin M. Carter of the Engineer Corps of the Army, convicted in April, 1898, of conspiring to defraud the United States Government, has been finally disposed of by the President, and orders have been issued directing the execution of the sentence of the court-martial. This finally ends the case and nothing but a pardon can save Captain Carter from serving out the sentence imposed. The President's approval of the finding of the court that covicted Capt. Carter has met with general approval in army circles. It is accepted as a clear vindication of the military court of which Major-Gen. Elwil S. Otis was chairman. It was, however, totally unexpected by the friends and counsel of Capt. Carter, who, after the argument of Wayne MacVeagh before the Attorney-General on Wednesday, fully expected that a trial before a civil court would be granted Capt. Carter.

The case of Capt. Carter was of more than usual interest to the officers of the army. Capt. Carter was for a long time a general favorite among the officers of the Engineer Corps. It was more than a surprise to his fellow officers when it was charged against him that he had conspired with contractors to defraud the Government in the contracts for the improvement of the harbor at Savannah. Gen. John M. Wilson, Chief of the Engineer Corps, was thunderstruck when Capt. Gillette, who had been sent to Savannah to relieve Capt. Carter, requested permission to come to Washington to lay before the Chief of Engineers a statement regarding the contracts entered into by Capt. Carter. The latter had the implicit confidence of the War Department, but Gen. Wilson immediately directed Capt. Gillette to proceed to Washington. Then followed charges of irregularities, which resulted in the arrest of Capt. Carter and his trial by a military court, which, after a four months' hearing, agreed upon a verdict of "guilty" and sentenced Capt. Carter to be dismissed from the service of the United States, to pay a fine of $5,000, to be confined at hard labor for a period of five years, and to have the disgrace made more ignominious by the publication of the courts' findings in a newspaper or newspapers where Capt. Carter was known. It is this sentence which President McKinley approved and the arrest of Capt. Carter in New York followed.

The President's approval of the findings of the court-martial bears date of Sept. 29. The War Department in announcing the order for Carter's dismissal and imprisonment made public for the first time the text of the sentence imposed by the court-martial. Secretary Root's action on the findings of the court-martial was made public also.

Captain Carter will be taken at once to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, to begin serving his sentence of five years in the military prison. It is understood that he has threatened suicide but a close guard is kept over him to prevent such a move.

Funston Proposed for Congress.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 2.—The Topeka Daily Capital nominates Gen. Funston for Congressman-at-large. It says Funston's nomination will bring thousands of votes to the Republican ticket and insure its election in Kansas. The Capital calls upon the people without regard to party to rally to the support next year of Gen. Funston. The Populist leaders say if Funston is nominated they will run lieutenant Col. Little of the Twentieth Kansas for the same office and have Little challenge Funston for a joint debate on the expansion question.

Members of Lumber Trust Indicted.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 2.—Fourteen of the wealthiest men in Texas have been indicted as members of the Lumber Trust. The Grand Jury made a clean sweep of the trade membership in this city, and the prosecutions will be vigorous. The price of lumber has been advanced in Dallas sixty-five per cent. in the last three months. The operations of the lumber trust of Texas extend into old Mexico, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Kansas, all over Texas, and to portions of many other states and territories.

Ten Eyck Was Defeated.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 2.—Mark Lynch, the Halifax champion sculler, defeated James A. Ten Eyck of Worcester and James Norris of Halifax in a three-mile race in single sculls, for a purse of $300. The race between Ten Eyck and Norris for second place was a great struggle, particularly at the finish, when the boats were almost lapping. Lynch had crossed the line two lengths ahead of Ten Eyck, in 21m. 35s.

Found an Overturned Yacht.

St. Pierre, Miq., Oct. 2.—The tugboat Liberte picked up a new vessel, floating keel up, and towed her into port. The craft was a centreboard vessel, 112 feet long, and it is believed that she is an American yacht, probably upset in the gale of September 11.

Another Earthquake in Skagway.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 2.—The steamship Dirigo has arrived from the north with news of still another earthquake at Skagway at 1 A. M. on Saturday last. It did no further damage. This is the fourth earthquake recorded there this season.

REVOLUTION IS ENDED.

Believed That the Trouble in Venezuela Will Cease.

Port of Spain, Oct. 2.—It is the generally accepted belief here that the revolution in Venesuela is ended. General Casto, the leader of the revolution, is expected daily to announce his Cabinet.

General Hernandez at the time of his incarceration by President Andrade, ordered his officers to join General Castro's forces—which they did—there is now no division in the revolutionary party. The best feeling exists between the Hernandez and Castro factions.

The troops of the Venezuelan government, under General Luciano Mendoza, are now entrenched at Los Colorados, with a view to making a final stand there against General Castro.

The final battles in former revolutions have been fought at Los Colorados. As it is a railroad town it is easy to get heavy ordnance forward to the trenches.

General Castro has been successful in outwitting the government. The advance guard of the revolutionists proceeded to Los Colorados while the main army, under General Castro, made a circuitious route on the mountains around Piedraazul into El Valle, three miles from Caracas, without and opposition, leaving the government troops under General Mendoza in the rear.

General Castro's advance guard is now at the gates of Caracas.

After an Editor's Scalp.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.—F. W. Beadle, editor of a Republican newspaper in Sarpy county, came very near being mobbed. Mr. Bryan spoke in Papillon, the county sent, early last week. In Beadle's newspaper Saturday he printed a paragraph as follows: "Then the brave Colonel returned to Howard's house and went to bed, but whether to sleep off the effects of a jag or not we are unable to say." Sarpy county Democrats are largely from the South, and so many of them started on the hunt for Beadle that he thought it advisable to slip out of town and is now in Lincoln. He says he meant it as a joke, but his fellow-citizens do not take it that way.

Archie Mulle Captured.

North Adams, Mass., Oct. 2.—Archie Mulle of Nassau, Rensellaer County, N. Y., has been arrested in this city on a charge of murdering Nelville E. Lord, a farmer of Nassau. The murder occured in the little New York village Friday forenoon. Lord was killed with an ax and a boy was seriously injured and may die. The motive is supposed to have been robbery. At a hearing, Mulle agreed to return to New York and he was delivered to Constable Lowrie of Nassau, who had followed him into Massachusetts.

McLean Opens His Campaign.

Hamilton, Ohio, Oct. 2.—The democratic State campaign was opened here with a great demonstration and several speeches by John R. McLean, candidate for Governor, by the candidates for other officers on the Democratic State ticket and others. Platforms were erected on all sides of the Court House in the public square, for overflow meetings. Decorations of bunting and portraits of McLean, Bryan and Dewey were everywhere displayed. The meeting was full of enthusiasm.

Handsomely Remembered the School

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 2.—The endowment fund of Earlham College, the Episcopal co-educational institution in this city, received a handsome addition when word was received from New York that Francis T. White, of that city, had contributed $25,000. Earlham College is endeavoring to procure an endowment sufficient to carry on its work irrespective of the income from pupils, although the attendance this year shows a gratifying increase.

Fever Keeps Increasing.

Key West, Oct. 2.—There are twenty-two new cases of yellow fever reported; two deaths.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 2.—Two new cases of yellow fever and one death is shown by latest reports here. Mrs. C. I. Waite, wife of the cashier of the First National Bank, died of the disease. The record to date is ten cases and four deaths.

Dewey to be Made a LL. D.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 2.—The University of Chicago faculty has decided to grant to Admiral Dewey the honorary degree of LL. D. The matter has not been announced officially owing to Admiral Dewey's failure to accept the invitation to attend the festival celebration. The degree will be conferred next year, when he has consented to visit Chicago.

For Elections in Porto Rico.

San Juan, Oct. 2.—General Davis has issued an order defining the rules and regulations for municipal elections throughout Porto Rico. There will be sixty-nine elections, beginning on October 20, under the supervision of army officers. The voters and candidates are limited to taxpayers and members of the professions. The term of office is one year.

Death of Morris Kirkpatrick.

Easton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Morris Kirkpatrick, member of the law firm of W. S. & M. Kirkpatrick, was found dead in bed at his home here, death having resulted from heart disease. For eighteen years he had been United States Commissioner and also president of the Easton Board of School Controllers. He was prominent in Masonic circles.

Spanish Cabinet to Retain Power.

Madrid, Oct. 2.—A dispatch from St. Sebastian says the Spanish Ministry will retain office, with the exception of General Polavieja, Minister of War, who will be replaced by General Azcarraga, who held the war portfolio in the last Canovas Cabinet.

Three Inches of Snow Fell.

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Three inches of snow has fallen in this vicinity. The oldest inhabitant remembers nothing like it so early in the season. It is thought that fruit is too far advanced to be injured, unless the cold continues.

DOANE & EDSALL.

I am a dentist, as you know, and have been troubled with severe headaches for about five years. I was treated by many physicians and relieved temporarily only. I saw Ripans Tabules advertised in the Philadelphia Record, and tried them. I have had no headaches since I commenced taking them, and feel much more able to do my work at the chair. I started to take the Tabules on Friday, October 22, 1897, and have taken two a day ever since.

A box of ten packets containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores. This low priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the 5 cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY No. 10 Spruce Street, New York or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. RIPANS TABULES may also be had of grocers, general storekeepers, news agents and at liquor stores and barber shops.

CAUGHT HIM AT LAST.

Defaulting Bank Teller is Captured After Fifteen Years.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 2.—Charles A. Hinckley, alias Charles S. Morris, has been arrested at Princeton, B. C., on a charge of grand larceny. Behind this arrest there is a story of considerable interest, which runs back for a period of fifteen years.

On May 14, 1884, Hinckley, who was teller of the West Side Bank in New York city, disappeared with $97,000 in cash. Nothing more was heard of him from that day to this. He eluded detectives so cleverly as to puzzle the entire police force employed in the attempt to locate him.

In the meantime Hinckley dropped himself off a transcontinental train in the wilds of the Northwest, locating in a place known as Lake of the Woods. Here, uninterrupted by the minions of the law, he doubled his fortune in five years, and won the esteem of all whom he met in his business of mine company promotion.

In 1889 he struck out for the Kootenay mining camps, finally locating in Princeton, a mushroom town, engaging large capital, and starting out as a vice president of the Columbia Town Site Company, where for years he has been busy helping to mark the map of British Columbia, selling town sites. He was seized as a criminal after living honestly and worthily fot fifteen years and amassing a fortune from the funds he had misappropriated from the bank.

The steps necessary for extraditing Hinckley have been taken, and in a few days he will be on his way to New York to be tried.

Theodore M. Bertin, the cashier of the West Side Bank, and Frederick A. Camp, attorney for the same bank, are here from New York and have assisted in running down the thieving teller.

PRISONERS WELL TREATED.

Americans Released by the Filipinos Look Well.

Manila, Oct. 2.—The American prisoners who were surrendered by the Filipinos were dressed in new Filipino light blue uniforms, with canvas shoes and hats. They were well and hearty and their appearance indicated that they had been well treated. They said that at first they received only rice as rations. They objected to this and later they got coffee, hot rolls, chicken, pork, vegetables and wine. They received, an allowance of twenty cents a day for tobacco and luxuries. There was a feast at Tarlac on Sept. 17, and Aguinaldo gave each of the prisoners $4. Each man received $3.50 additional when he reached Mabalacent. The men were not required to work and were allowed to roam all about the towns.

The surrendered prisoners are Serg. James Boyle, Corporal E. C. Drew, Privates Joseph McElrath, William E. Miller, John Cranshaw and Thomas L. Daly, of the Sixteenth Infantry; Corporal Otto Sheu and Privates Otto H. Wagner, Albert Rubeck and Peter Rollings of the Third Infantry; Private Paul Spillane of the Ninth Infantry; Private L. Ford of the Fourth Infantry, and George Graham and Charles Wilander, both civilians.

The envoys sent by Aguinaldo for a conference with General Otis were treated very courteously, but the general frankly refused to recognize their so called government.

Death From a Football Game.

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 2.—E. L. Cowden, a young man attending Eastman College, died in his boarding house here from an injury received in a football game played last Wednesday. Young Cowden got in a rush and was badly bruised. He attended school the next day, but that night was seized with severe pains in the abdomen. His condition grew worse and he expired yesterday afternoon. His home was in Texas.

Head Cut Off by Trolley Car.

Seneca Falls, N. Y., Oct. 2.—John E. Dowdell, aged fifty-two years, a coachman for Mrs. Hannah B. Gould, was run over and instantly killed by a trolley car near Kingdom Switch. His head was severed from his body, an arm cut off and his leg and back were broken. The body was recognized by a benefit association card and some letters which had been given him to mail. He leaves a wife and four children.

Tanner Not to be Renominated.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 2.—The verdict of Chicago Republicans who attended the meeting of party leaders from all parts of the State in Springfield last week is that John R. Tanner will not be a candidate for renomination as Governor, and that his withdrawal from the race will be forced upon him by his friends.

America Favored by the Sultan.

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—The customs officials having to pass 20,000 sacks of American flour arriving directly from the United States, on the ground that the flour was unwholesome, an energetic protest was made to the Sultan, and an irade was issued ordering the admission of the flour.

Herkimer's Democratic Ticket.

Herkimer, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The Democrats in county convention here nominated, for member of Assembly, Lynn R. Wheeler; for County Treasurer, H. M. Golden. The ticket is regarded as the strongest ever put up by the Democrats in Herkimer county.

Another War Rumor

Ella—Lieut. Masher seems to be rather attentive to Miss Willing of late.

Hattie—Yes, and she is evidently skirmishing around trying to precipitate an engagement.

The Retort Courteous

She—I am afraid you only know the worst side of my husband.

He—Perhaps I did—until I met you.

She—What am I to infer from that?

He—Now I know his better half.

Possibly

Mae—I wonder why Harry doesn't propose. He has been attentive to me for over two years.

Ethel—Perhaps he is afraid you would accept him.

BURGHERS ARE MASSING

Boer Troops Gathering on the Frontier and May Raid Natal This Week.

ENGLAND EXPECTS WAR

Believes That First Move in a Hostile Line Will be Made on Delagoa Bay by Kruger's Men.

Prospects of a Backdown on the Part of the Transvaal Not of an Encouraging Nature—The British Troops Are Ready to Make a Dash on Pretoria.

London, Oct. 2.—War now seems certain. Every stage has depended upon President Kruger. If he would not back down when the British demands were expressed less sweepingly, he scarcely can do so now, when they are formulated with almost brutal frankness. The negotiations, according to President Kruger's own statements, and judging from all the available information, seem to have reached a crisis.

Rumors of the interference of a foreign Power continues to crop up, but the most sanguine scarcely believe this would turn the British from their determination; though speculation is rife regarding the awkward complications which might ensue by German or Russian diversion in various parts of the globe.

The most probable solution of the present situation seems that the Boers, who must have seen the efforts of the British Government to avert hostilities until the arrival of reinforcements, having, weeks ago, planned a campaign, will put it in action, perhaps as early as this week. They probably will avoid engagements, devoting their energies to the destruction of property and the capture of prisoners, perhaps including a raid on Delagoa Bay. It seems unlikely that they will attack through Laing's Nek and other passes of that boundary, for the simple reason that these points are so openly talked about as their probable points of aggression, keenneet observers believing it to be more likely that the Boers will operate through Zululand, thus creating a diversion of the 15,000 British troops, now chiefly massed at Ladysmith.

In the meanwhile a British army corps, consisting of 20,000 men, will be sent out. Parliament will be summoned and no doubt the necessary supplies will be granted.

It is the general assumption that the main object of the British will be the capture of Pretoria. The duration of the conflict is a matter of the wildest surmise, though the Continental and British papers do not express the faintest doubt that it will result in the defeat of the Boers and the addition of their country to Great Britain's colonies.

The underlying motive actuating the British Government has been the suppression of a far-reaching conspiracy for the establishment of a Dutch federation, from the Zambesi to the Cape. It long has been suspected that the Cabinet was prompted by more vital questions than the Outlander rights, and if Mr. Chamberlain is quoted correctly it would appear that Great Britain will not stop until reassured of the absolute safety of her supremacy in South Africa.

A telegram from Pretoria says the wildest excitement prevails there and that the war preparations are proceeding rapidly. Big guns, field telegraphs, burghers, munitions of war and provisions are being hurried off to Volksrust, the projected base of the Boer operations against Natal.

Ten More Are Missing.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Another party of survivors of the wrecked steamship Scotsman has arrived here. The party included several more of the cabin passengers and the steerage passengers who were rescued by the Allan Line steamer Grecian which arrived at Belle Isle after the departure of the Monifort with the greater number of the wrecked passengers. The Grecian also brought back forty-seven of the Scotsman's passengers and crew. All were in a destitute condition. There are still ten more passengers of the ill-fated ship missing. The Scotsman's crew are held by the police for robbing the passengers and perpetrating other depredations after the ship grounded.

A Relative of McKinley Killed.

Deadwood, S. D., Oct. 2.—W. C. Linn, said to be a distant cousin of President McKinley, was killed in his cabin in the Galena mining district, nine miles southwest of this city, by an explosion of giant powder which he had placed beside a stove to thaw out. He lived only a few minutes. Linn came to the Black Hills in 1876, and was a messenger for a long time on the Northwestern stage coach between Pierre and the Black Hills. He was known as the tallest man in the Hills, being 6 feet 4 inches in height.

Chicago Will Celebrate.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 2.—Chicago will hold her fall festival, the corner stone of the new Post Office will be laid, and the city will be decorated and illuminated for a week, in the first part of October, as never before. Admiral Dewey, President Diaz of Mexico and Governor General Minto of Canada will not be here, but it seems certain, that President McKinley will lay the non-union corner stone of the Post Office and brave the anger of the Chicago Bricklayers' Union, of which he is a member.

Found a Mastodon's Remains.

Olivet, Mich., Oct. 2.—Mastodon remains, said to be nearly enough for an entire skeleton, have been found near here. Legs, bones, ribs, vertebrae, thighbones, and a large number of small bones were found. The complement of leg bones was complete, the largest being thirty-eight inches long and twenty-five inches in circumference. The longest rib was forty-five inches long. The vertebrae were nearly a foot across and four inches thick.

New Jersey and Corporations.

That New Jersey is the favorite legal home of big corporations is shown in the fact that there were 1,945 corporations chartered and authorized to issue capital stock to the amount of three and a half million dollars in the State during the fiscal year of the corporation department, which ended Saturday.

Nearly two hundred of these corporations are each capitalized at $2,000,000 and upward. Six hundred of them each have a capitalization of $1,000,000 or better.

Fifteen thousand corporations in every section of America are today operating under the laws of New Jersey. By the incorporating of these concerns, the State has legalized the issuance of stock aggregating nearly eight billions of dollars.

This year has witnessed the formation of more corporations in New Jersey than any other in the history of State.

For the twelve months just ended the State has received in filing fees alone $728,023,54, as against $125,000 for the previous fiscal year. That the receips are not larger is due to the fact that New Jersey charges a very modest fee for launching a corporation. The fee for filing a certificate of incorporation is less than in any other State of the Union, outside of Delawate, which is just now making a vigorous effort to induce corporations to go there, and West Virginia, another competitor, which, however, limits the authorized capitalization of any single company to $5,000,000.

Of the gigantic corporations or trusts legalized by the State none, outside of the Standard Oil Company, has ever come to New Jersey and erected a large plant. The Sugar Trust, having a capitalization of $72,506,400, has two refineries in the State. The United States Rubber Company, capitalized at $39,688,500, has also a comparatively small amount invested in New Jersey. The American Cotton Oil Company, capitalized at $30,000,000, is another concern to have a small amount of money in use in the State.

It was reported in some newspapers that Governor Voorhees, of New Jersey, had refused to lead the New Jersey troops in the Dewey parade, on the ground that as a Governor he held a rank equivalent to that of an Admiral and that it was not fitting he should salute an Admiral. It was ascertained that there was not the slightest basis of truth in the published report. Governor Voorhees never posed as a military man, though he has devoted much attention to the National Guard of his State. He deemed it more fitting, therefore, that he should ride in one of the carriages, among the other civilian Governors, and that the Jersey troops should march under the command of Brigadier General Wanser.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The first theatrical offering at Music Hall this week will be the sparkling spectacular musical comedy, "The Air Ship," by Joseph M. Gaites, which is heralded as being absolutely different from anything ever seen in the way of comedy. It is a hilarious, rollicking skit, with specialties, but is said to be no more like the average run of such performances than a wild rose with the dew glistening on its petals is like a florist's Jack rose which has wilted and is held in its place in some floral tribute by a toothpick stuck through its heart. Catchy songs, charming dances, big novelty acts and up-to-date specialties are among the pleasing features of Jos. M. Gaites' big spectacular musical comedy, "The Air Ship," which will be seen tomorrow night.

A splendid scenic outfit has been given by Wm. T. Keogh to his new western play by Scott Marble, author of "The Sidewalks of New York," "Down in Dixie," etc," entitled "The Great Train Robbery." The scenes are laid in the southwest and were all painted from photographs and sketches of the actual localities, secured only with great trouble and expense. Views in Kansas City, Northern Texas and Indian Territory are shown. One especially fine scene is a representation of the famous Red River Canyon. The play will be at Music Hall Thursday, October 5th.

"A Stranger in a Strange Land," which causes shrieks of merriment at the Manhattan, New York, is quite in accord with Webster's definition of a farce—"Something constructed without regularity and full of humorous conceits." It is wildly absurd and improbable, but it makes people laugh until the tears come. Comic complications are involved in grotesque entanglement that becomes more and more ingenious until almost the final moment. Many farces go to pieces in the last act, but in Wilmer and Vincent's offering the last act is the funniest of the three. With one genuine Indian and a couple of bogus ones setting a quiet English household into a tumult of disorder and everybody at cross purposes, the consequent mix-up is irresistibly ludicrous. The farce is delightfully clean, and it is admirably acted. Cyril Scott, one of our best light comedians, gives distinction to the role of a prevaricating spendthrift; George Osbourne's "Tana-mee" is a strikingly graphic study of the thievish, vagabondish Indian of the reservation, and M. A. Kennedy is convulsingly funny as a well-meaning old blunderer, especially in the suicide scene. Maude White is dashing and breezy as "The Omaha Girl," and capital work is done by Walter Clifford, J. T. Galloway, Chas. Swain, Catherine Mulkins, Kate Lester, Angela McCauli and Jane Corcoran.

There is a strong flavor of doughty deeds by brigands bold at midnight, mute in the title of "The Highwayman," deKoven & Smith's comic opeara, coming to Music Hall Wednesday evening, October 11th. We are to be shown a young Irish officer, Dick Fitzgerald, who through ill luck at cards, takes to the road, a la Dick Turpin, to retrieve his fortunes. With its enlivening story, amusing situations, scenic beauty, handsome women and characteristic melodies in deKoven's tuneful style, the patrons of the house are promised an entertainment of an unusual enjoyable sort.

THREE CORNELIUS VANDERBILTS.

Cornelius is a favorite name in the Vanderbilt family. Two of the name have played important parts in the history of this country. What Cornelius III may contribute to the family's fame will probably depend upon the provisions of his father's will, soon to be known. A breach occurred between father and son because of the marriage of the latter to Miss Grace Wilson, and it is not known whether a complete reconciliation ever took place between them. The young man has for several years been engaged in the engineering department of the New York Central railroad, one of the family's principal properties, and it is said he has shown unusual ability, having invented several valuable appliances for use in railway machinery. Naturally the young man is in line to succeed his father as the head of their branch of the family, and those who know him say he has the characteristics that have made the name of Vanderbilt synonymous with great railway enterprises, but it may be that he will not have full opportunity to employ his talents, and may have to stand aside for his brother Alfred W.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Thursday, October 12th, there will be a meeting in the Park Avenue Baptist church of the East New Jersey Baptist Association.

—Deputy Grand Master Workman Nash will pay an official visit to Shrewsberry Lodge, A. O. U. W., at Red Bank, Thursday evening.

—Owing to the Dewey celebration there was no quorum present at the meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R., Friday evening.

—Rev. Mr. Goodrich will address the meeting of the Swedish Mission Society next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Congregational church.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will hold its semi-annual business meeting and election in the church parlors this evening.

—The grand medical examiner of the A. O. U. W., of New Jersey, has given notice that he will not pass on any applications for membership between Oct. 12th and 22d.

—There will be a regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the lecture room of the church.

—The Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold an all day sewing meeting in the church parlors Thursday. Garments will be made for the family of a missionary in Alabama.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Resick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

—The new stand pipe being erected on the mountains by the Plainfield Water Supply Company is completed and will be put in use in a few days.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful. Invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

Fall Opening
---OF---
Fine Millinery
-:- AT -:-
Woodhull & Martin's.

OPENING DAYS
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A rare display of exclusive millinery. The season's choicest production. All the newest novelties in Fancy Felts, Tam-o-shanter Golf Hats, Empire and Gainsboroughs. The newest shades in Millinery Materials, such as Chiffons, Malines, Velvet Ribbons, Feathers, Breasts, etc. Every lady in the city cordially invited to attend this grand opening.

MISS M. M. GASSNER.

Golf Suitings.

Fashion makes it imperative that Golf Suiting be worn. We are inclined to encourage their use, for no more durable and stylish suitings were ever introduced to the buying public. Double-faced, warm, serviceable, need no lining. Our line ranges in price from $1.25 to $3.98 per yard, and we believe our styles equal to the best shown by N. Y. houses. Our prices we believe to be lower, as we purchased early before the subsequent rise in price.

Underskirts. New fall styles are now on sale, and let us say to you—you may look many a day for a more attractive lot of styles. They are made of satines, Italian cloths, mercerized cottons, morreens, etc., in both black and colors.

New waists in flannel, brilliantine, satine, silk, etc. Styles are exclusive and prices are right.

Sundry Novelties.

New Embroidered Chiffons—Tucked Silks, Corded Silks, etc., for dress fronts. All over point-de-venise dress laces in black and cream, plain lace nets, new veilings, new neck novelties, velvet ribbons in satin back and linen back, butter colored lace ties with embroidered ends, black jetted lace nets, etc.

Kid Gloves. We sell no cheap kid gloves. No lady is well-dressed with either cheap gloves or cheap shoes. Better wear a cheap dress. $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 are our prices for good gloves. The last two numbers are entirely new and very desirable. Must be seen, however, to be appreciated.

New Table Damasks.

Our sales in this line are certainly phenomenal. We have surprised ourselves as well as our friends. It is not the result of accident, but rather the natural response to persistent effort to secure and offer to our customers special values. The latest attractions in this department are two special Bleached Damasks at 50c and 75c per yard. The 50c number is worth 75c and the 75c number is worth 89c, or we are guilty of prevarication.

DOWN STAIRS.

The old saying "forewarned forearmed" has proved true in our case in regard to White Iron Beds. Anticipating the rise in price of these goods we bought early and often all the iron beds we could find storage for. Prices have advanced since until we could sell the goods back to the people we bought them of at a handsome profit.

We prefer, however, to give our friends the benefit of our good fortune. Iron Beds, Brass trimmed, at 3.75, 4.98, 5.75, 6.48, 7.98, 8.49, 9.98, 10.75, 11.50, 12.50, 13.75, 14.98. Every bed quoted worth from 15 to 25 per cent more.

MATTRESSES.

Soft Top Mattresses, 1.98, 2.45. Husk, soft top, 2.98. Victor Combination, 1 part, 3.98. Victor Combination, 2 parts, 4.48. 45 lb Pure White Cotton, A. C. A. tick, 2 parts, 5.98. Genuine Felt Mattress, Fancy tick, 1 part or 2 parts, 8.50. Silk Floss Mattress, to order, 15.00. Springs, Pillows, Furniture, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Shades, Rugs, etc.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Duellen, October 2.—Extensive preparations are being made for a musical entertainment to be given at the Methodist church Thursday evening. Some exceptionally fine talent is to be heard on this occasion. Among those who have been secured to take part are Miss May Vincent Whitney, the well-known pianist; Miss Bertha Hurst Whitney, Miss Jennie Udell Smith, of Plainfield, will give selections on the violin; Alfred E. Holmes, bari tone soloist, of Plainfield, and Miss Mabel Jamison, the accomplished soprano soloist, of the Presbyterian church, Bayway, will also sing. The price of admission will be 25 cents.

Station Agent English has been directed by the Central Railroad Company to arrange with William Farrier to lay the flagging in front of the railroad property on the east side of the tracks on Washington avenue and old New Market road.

The Dunellen Banjo Club has elected Miss Ella H. Boice president and leader, and Miss Mary O. Fulper secretary and treasurer. Travis Sutphen and Abner S. Coriell, Jr., have been elected members.

The Chichester-Craig chair factory have a number of chairs ready for shipment to Connecticut and also to Nyack. The firm also has orders for a large number of shoe store stools for a New York house.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education, the board was authorized to borrow $700 to pay the teachers' wages and other bills. The attendance at the schools is reported to be good.

The Rev. Martin Sindall, who has been confined to the house by illness, is much improved. He had a slight attack of malaria.

The Dunellen Dancing Club will hold the first dance of the season at the home of the Misses Dodwell tomorrow evening.

The Republican primary for the borough of Dunellen will be held in the borough hall Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

George Ulrich has sold his property and will move to New York about the 10th of October.

Electric light fixtures are being put into the residence of Mrs. Nelson Runyon.

J. W. Denlinger will occupy the VanMiddlesworth house on Jackson avenue.

Mrs. Charles Rogers has been visiting relatives in New York for a few days.

Two new dwellings are to be built on Dunellen avenue near Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. Wilson, of Hillsboro, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. Whitford.

The street commissioner is having fine stone placed on Lincoln avenue.

NEW MARKET

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, October 2.—Collector William J. Nelson, of the township of Piscataway, has advertised to sell certain pieces of property upon which the taxes have not been paid. The sale will take place at the Hotel Nelson, Friday, October 20th, at 2 o'clock p.m.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Freeholders it was decided to macadamize the Old Bridge road this fall as far as New Brunswick. The Bound Brook and the Black Horse roads will not be worked until spring.

Joseph Mairland, who was quite seriously injured by being thrown from his wheel, is considerably improved and is able to be about.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pierce have been visiting in Philadelphia.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Charles Sykes and daughters, of East Front street, returned Saturday from a two years trip abroad, during which time they have visited many of the principal cities and points of interest in Europe.

The ten-mile bicycle race between Chapin and Hummer for $25 has been called off by mutual agreement. Neither rider desired to race for money, as it would hurt their standing as amateurs. There is little doubt but what there would have been trouble if the backers of the two men had attempted to pull the race off in the village.

Wm. VanWalkenberg led the young people's meeting in the Baptist church Sunday evening. The society has decided to take up a sacred literature course of work under the direction of Rev. Mr. Shott. The society will hold their first meeting Wednesday evening.

Scotch Plains has recovered from its celebration in Dewey's honor. The two days programme in New York called so many of the residents to the city that the village certainly had a very deserted appearance.

Ernest Marsh has returned from a two day's stay in New York, where he was called as a member of the Naval Reserves, to take part in the celebration.

Miss Hattie Wilcox, who has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Nancy Wilcox, has returned to her home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith and family, of Lincoln, have been the guests of Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark.

Samuel Taynor and family move today to Fanwood. Mr. Taynor will open the blacksmith shop on South avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Field and family, of Orange, have been the guests of Mr. Field's parents for a few days.

Clarence Sherber, of Brooklyn, was the guest Saturday and Sunday of his friend Richard Robison.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goodbrough have been spending a few days with relatives in New York.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 2.—A party of fifty men from this town chartered the steam launch "Whileaway" from which to see the naval parade Friday. Just before the parade they were running close to the battleship "New York" when a tug ran into them and stove in the side of the little craft. For awhile there was plenty of excitement but it was found that the boat was not leaking and they enjoyed the parade before going ashore.

Miss Mary Termure, who was run into by a wheelman last week and who was supposed to be suffering from a fractured skull, is reported as being much better and the doctors at the General Hospital at Elizabeth where she was taken, say that she had only a scalp wound.

Mrs. John Z. Hatfield and Mrs. F. R. Baker will attend the State convention of the W. C. T. U. at Atlantic City, which convenes tomorrow.

TO WAKE AT A FIXED TIME.

Processes By Which the Mind Takes the Place of an Alarm Clock

One of the most interesting phases connected with sleep is that in which a determination, formed over night, that one should wake at a certain hour, acts true to the appointed time. In certain instances with which I am acquainted the idea acts perfectly; in others, it acts occasionally, and in other cases again, it fails completely. The explanation of this habit depends on what one may term a "dominant idea," or an idee fixe, as the French term it.

There is something akin in this waking notion to the "dominant idea" with which a hypnotist may impress his facile subject. If we substitute for the hypnotist the individual himself, or, mayhap, the idea of the friend who has been impressing upon him the necessity of sounding the reveille at a given hour in the morning, we can discern the rationale of the action with a fair degree of clearness.

The dominant idea in the shape of the necessity for awakening at a certain time is impressed on the brain, and is probably transmitted to those automatic or lower centres which rule our mechanical acts, which are responsible for the visions of the night, and which are capable of carrying out either in the entire absence of consciousness or in the exercise of a subconscious condition, many complex actions. Through the hours of sleep the dominant idea remains impressed on these lower centres. The head of the business sleeps on while the nightwatchman is awake; and so, prompt to the time, or shortly before or after it, the slumbering brain is awakened to the full measure of its activity.—Harper's Magazine.

A Wild Animal Farm

There is to be a wild animal farm to be started on three of the islands among the Florida keys. The scheme was devised by the Ringling Brothers, who are preparing to stock a herd for their circus.

Wild animals of every description are to be brought from Asia, Africa, and South America and turned loose in their new homes. Parts of the islands are wooded, and in some places there are thick undergrowths like jungles. The beasts will be divided into three classes, according to their ability to get along together, and each class will have an island all to itself.

Expeditions are now being fitted out to make extensive search in every part of the world for zoological specimens. The hunters depart with the intention of bringing back from Asia and Africa great numbers of tigers, elephants, lions, hippopotami, rhinoceri, sacred oxen, hyenas, giraffes, porcupines and all the natives of the hot countries, and from North and South America black and cinnamon bears, mountain lions and specimens of all the animals inhabiting the western hemisphere. Specially designed boats will be provided for the transportation of the animals to the islands. The completion of a work of such magnitude will require some time, and it is expected it will be at least five years before the farm is in perfect working order. When the animals are once landed on the islands their surroundings and food will be as nearly as possible like that to which they are accustomed in their native haunts. The hot climate animals will be allowed to construct their own dens in the woods and jungles, and calves, goats and sheep will be driven out among them, so that they can bring down their own provisions. Small fresh water streams run almost across all three islands and empty into the sea, so that the animals that are in constant need of fresh water will be supplied.

Large and strongly built houses will be erected for the keepers. When it is desired to capture any of the animals regular hunting expeditions will be organized to take them just as they are trapped on their native heaths. But in this case the hunters will have an immense advantage over the system used in the past. They will know every foot of the islands, and will be thus enabled to lay traps for the wild beasts and capture them without the least danger to life or limb. On account of the danger visitors never will be allowed on the islands, and no boats will be allowed to touch the shores excepting those belonging to the circus.

First View of

FALL MILLINERY.

Reception Days

Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7.

Among the many happenings, occasions and events which from time to time you are invited to attend here, this exposition of Autumn Millinery stands out in bold relief as the finest and most complete showing of its kind ever attempted in the history of this progressive store.

To attempt a detailed account of all that has been done to bring this beautiful assemblage of before you would take columns of space. The fact is here, rounded out and complete. We're proud of the exhibit; we're proud of the taste and skill shown by our corps of milliners. We are surprised at the beauty of these artistic creations, and what pleases us most is there's not a bonnet or hat in the whole collection but is so modestly priced as to come well within reach of the great rank and file of our millinery buying public.

Kindly accept this invitation to attend the opening. See for yourself how well we have worked for you. Your millinery wants will be promptly attended to. Your most minute wish carefully carried out. Orders should be given as early as possible so as to avoid the disappointment of delay, which (even with our equipment), sometimes occurs after the season's rush begins.

Greatest Sale of Fall and Winter

CLOTHING

Ever held in Plainfield. Prices that will be in reach of everybody at 214 WEST FRONT ST., NEXT DOOR TO MUSIC HALL.

SALE TO LAST TEN DAYS ONLY.

NEED OF READY CASH causes a sacrifice of fine clothing by manufacturers, their stock offered at 35c on the dollar. Too many goods on hand is the reason for this wonderful sale. Manufacturers must have cash, this is an honest sacrifice of goods by first-class reliable manufacturers who have made up more clothing than they can sell and consequently close out their surplus at an enormous loss for ready money.

We guarantee that for one dollar you get three dollars worth of clothing.

Just Look at These Prices:

Men's woolen suits, worth $9. at $2.75. Men's extra durable trousers, worth $3. at 95c. Men's fall overcoats, worth $7.50, at $2 75. Men's and young men's striped worsted suits at $6 50, worth $16.50. Men's winter overcoats, worth 15.00, at 4.25, and hundreds of other bargains in suits and trousers. These prices don't represent the cost of making these goods, they are clean made garments and bear the labels of the best makers in the country. There will also be sold elegant business and dress suits for men at 3.50, 4.50, 5.50, 6.50, 8 00 and 9.00, actually and honestly worth from 15.00 to 25.00. No shop-worn truck, but clean, honest clothing, good enough for the best dressed man in Plainfield. Bring this ad with you and if we don't show you everything we will pay you car fare both ways.

Come this Saturday at 8 a. m. and get the first pick while the assortment is still large, don't hesitate, don't delay, first come, first choice, come and see for yourself.

Elegant silk lined fall overcoats worth from 15.00 to 20.00, at 4.50, 5 50 and 6.50. Elegant dress trousers, worth from 3.50 to 7.00, at 2 25 and 2.50. Every man and woman within 25 miles of Plainfield should visit this unprecedented sale.

EXCHANGES FOR WOMAN'S WORK.

HOW THE FIRST ONE WAS ESTABLISHED IN NEW YORK. THE SPREAD OF THE IDEA.

BY DAVID A. CURTIS.

It is now nearly a score of years since a benevolent impulse in the active brain of a woman took active form and resulted in an institution which has done great good to thousands of other women. The institution is called the New York Exchange For Women's Work, and while it is not connected with any of the numerous other similar exchanges that have been established in various cities all over the country it is fairly entitled to be called the parent organization, since it was the forerunner of the others, and the others are practically modeled after it.

The way of its birth was this: Mrs. M. L. Choate, wife of the well known William G. Choate, happened, one day in a fancy goods store, to see a lady of refinement and culture selling some fine needlework of her own literally at starvation prices and noticed the tears that gathered in her eyes as she accepted the pittance. It occurred at once to Mrs. Choate that some plan should be devised by which women should be enabled to dispose of their work at fair prices directly to consumers without losing the middleman's margin of profit. She invited to her own house a number of other women well known for their philanthropy and with them discussed the necessity for such an enterprise and asked their aid in formulating a plan for it.

Without going into a detailed account of the various plans suggested, and the arguments presented it is enough to tell what was decided upon and what has grown out of that meeting.

The first step taken was the formation of a society of which Mrs. Choate was chosen president. Among the other officers and managers are the wives of Cornelius R. Agnew, William Amory, George F. Baker, Andrew Carnegie, Frederic Coudert, Charles F. Chandler, William E. Dodge, George Hoadly, M. M. Holmes, Henry Ivison, A. D. Juillard, Russell Sage, John T. Terry, Francis B. Thurber, T. M. Wheeler, J. Henry Work and others to the number of about 40.

These ladies, acting under the advice of a board of eminent lawyers and business men, incorporated themselves under the laws of the state, taking the name of the New York Exchange For Women's Work. They then adopted a set of rules under which to do a regular consignment business for the purpose of carrying out Mrs. Choate's original idea.

As a matter of course, these rules have been modified from time to time as experience dictated, but they remain substantially the same as at first. Nothing was done hastily, but the system was carefully studied beforehand, and time has only elaborated the details of the original plan.

Feeling that the field into which they were entering was too large for them to cover entirely, they resolved to limit their efforts to the disposal of the handiwork of gentlewomen whose circumstances make it necessary for them to work.

A strong disclaimer is made by the board of any motive of exclusiveness in this. The line is drawn where it is because it is absolutely necessary to draw it somewhere. Many hundreds of would be consignors apply to have their work disposed of, and if all were received there would speedily occur a large surplus of supplies over the demand which reaches this exchange.

"And what kind of work is it that is disposed of?" I asked Miss E. S. Vaill, the secretary of the exchange.

"Almost everything that women can make at home," was the comprehensive reply. "One special feature of our work is that it enables a multitude of women to maintain their homes who would without such help as we give be compelled to see those homes broken up, perhaps the family scattered. We learn to appreciate more and more all the time the importance of this point as we see ladies who come here distressed and almost heartbroken with apprehension growing happy and contented with the knowledge that they are wholly or in part self supporting.

"A curious and interesting fact illustrating this," continued Miss Vaill, "is that the demeanor of the ladies who come to us changes rapidly. It often happens when they first come, and it happened especially often when we first began, that they come in a shamefaced way, closely veiled and muffled so as to avoid recognition, and they talk almost in whispers, as if mortified at the necessity of working. But after awhile they come openly, with heads erect and faces glowing with honest pride. The educational effect of our exchange in this respect has been very valuable."

The exchange is located on Fifth avenue, where it occupies the whole of a handsome mansion which is hired at an expense of $8,000 a year. A dozen or more ladies are hired at living salaries to attend to the different departments, such as the fancy work, the infants', the toy, the bric-a-brac and the domestic, or, more properly, kitchen, departments, where the thousand and one varieties of home manufactures are displayed for sale.

It is easy to see that conducting an establishment on such a scale means the expenditure of a large amount of money. This money is raised from several different sources, and the urgent and constant need for a little more money keeps the managers active all the year around in the struggle to make both ends meet.

First the forty odd directors tax themselves $50 or $100 apiece each year. Next they impose an entrance fee, so to speak, on the consignors or such persons as desire to procure the privileges of the exchange for some gentlewoman who is in need. This fee is a mere trifle. Any person contributing $5 yearly may name three consignors whose work will be taken on sale.

Then 10 per cent commission is charged on all sales that are made. As these average between $40,000 and $50,000 a year, this item of receipts is the largest. All these together, however, do not aggregate enough to pay expenses, and the exchange is therefore dependent upon the liberality of its friends to make up deficits.

A visit to the exchange commonly results in the astonishment of the visitor. As I said, the consignors are all ladies of culture who have been reduced in circumstances. This class in the community is larger than most people suppose or can easily realize, excepting by remembering that over 90 per cent of American business men fail.

These ladies commonly excel in some one thing, and the advice of the managers to them is always to do that particular thing, whether it be painting on ivory, embroidering in velvet or cooking crullers. So it comes about that whatever is on sale is probably the very best of its kind, being produced by some lady who learned to make it either as an accomplishment or for amusement.

The bewildering variety of objects displayed can be imagined when it is remembered that there are several hundreds of the consignors. The report for one year, for instance, showed that in a total of $51,000 sales over $10,000 was received for cake and nearly $2,500 for preserves. Decorated china, fancy screens, children's wrappers, chicken jelly and lace lamp shades are some of the numerous items in the catalogue.

In addition to the primary work that was undertaken of enabling women to reach their customers, the managers have undertaken several branches of what may be called auxiliary effort. For example, they have started dressmaking classes for society girls and have succeeded in securing nearly 50 pupils among the wealthy and educated young women of the metropolis. Of course these pupils pay for their tuition and so help to support the exchange. At the same time they are providing for their own support in case they should ever have to earn their living.

There are other classes in stenography, in millinery, in Delsarte, in venetian embroidery and in cooking, and there is also a "shopping bureau," which is well patronized and affords a living to more than one employee. Besides this, a school for general culture has been opened in the country, of which a separate chapter could easily be written.

The effects of this beneficent movement—for the ladies term it beneficence rather than charity, as it is not giving so much as guiding that they do—are widespread and great. Beginning in a modest way in a comparatively small house in Twentieth street, the exchange sold the first year only about $2,000 worth of goods. Now, as said, the sales are about $50,000 yearly, and the association has paid more than half a million dollars to its beneficiaries. More than that, there have been similar exchanges to the number of 60 established in very many of the principal cities of the country.

There is no reason why one should not be established in every large community under rules fashioned according to the necessities of the place, and certainly there seems to have been no plan devised by which more intelligent help can be given to people who deserve help and need it more sorely than almost any other class. Partial reports from the 60 societies tell that they have paid to gentlewomen over $1,500,000.

LONDON'S LATEST PASTIME.

Fencing as an After-Dinner Amusement for Ladies.

Fencing promises to become more and more of a fashionable pastime in London, especially among the fair sex.

The authority for this statement is Mr. McPherson, a professor of the art, who is just now taking part in a series of brilliant assauts d'armes in Paris, and whose presence among the champion swordsmen has given rather an international aspect to some of the bouts.

"In addition to the usual orthodox displays in the fencing rooms in London," he told a Daily Mail representative, "it is becoming frequent to see after-dinner bouts in the circles of the elite between a couple of expert fencers engaged for the occasion—a form of amusement which may yet disturb the serenity of the other lions, the German pianist and the Italian violinist.

"There is especially a movement among the fair sex strongly in favor of the foils. After all, nothing is more graceful in the world than the silhouette lunge brilliantly executed in a short skirt and gymnastic shoes. And besides, the exercise develops muscle, and that's what the sex goes in for nowadays.

"At least one lady fencer, Miss Lowther," continued Mr. McPherson, "is more than a match for the best amateur in England, and the equal of most of the professors. She has practiced fencing almost from childhood. More than one lady in London teaches the art, and altogether there are more ladies practicing fencing in London than men. This result is partly due to the enthusiastic advocacy of the foils by lady Colin Campbell, who is herself an expert. Mrs. Langtry is, of course, well known as another, and other actresses less known are diligent students.

"The Italian school of fencing prevails rather too much in London, and as the reproduction is only more or less like the original, London fencing leaves much to be desired. Certain amateurs, however, stand out brilliantly—Capt. Hutton, Mr. Egerton-Castle, and Sir Charles Dilke. The last named is indefatigable, and is well known in Paris for his prowess.

"Paris is, after all," he added, "the home of the foils. Whereas there are hardly more than half a dozen good salles d'armes in London there are some hundred and fifty in Paris, and the virtuosity of the exponents is pretty much in the same ratio. Rue, Prevost, Kirchoffer, Conte the Italian, and young Desmedt, the Belgian, are the present stars of the professional firmament.

"Latterly in France the foils have yielded in some quarters to the dueling sword, in which the play is notably different. Thomeguex, for instance, who fought Pini, is not a marvel with the foils, but one of the most redoubtable of opponents with the sword, and especially when the wigs are on the green."

There is a prospect of London seeing some of the champions mentioned at a tournament to take place at one of the sporting clubs.

Hygienic Five O'Clock Tea.

No woman with any regard for her digestion will drink tea at an afternoon reception unless she arrives just after the samovar has been lighted and sees the teamaker put the fragrant herb in the pot. When tea is left standing for hours, as is usually the case at an afternoon at home, it becomes tanic acid pure and simple, and is almost as effective in wearing away the coating of the stomach as any other corrosive poison. For promoting indigestion and gastric disturbances tea that has "cooked" for a whole afternoon is quite unexcelled by even bakers' pies or hot biscuits.

A clever device introduced at a woman's club to obviate the calamity of every member becoming a dyspeptic is the tarlatan tea ball. A sufficient quantity of tea to make a teapot full of the cheering beverage is placed in the teapot. The tea is enclosed in a little bag of tarlatan and as soon as the liquid has "drawn" the bag is fished out and thrown away. When the teapot is empty a new tea bag is put in, and fresh tea made. One result of this hygienic precaution is that the club in question evinces as much interest in its 5 o'clock rite as it does in speeches and discussions, thus bringing the members into closer touch with each other than they would be if all their time and energies were expended in political pother.

How to Guard Beauty.

A clever writer says worry is a mortal enemy to beauty and charm of manner. This is undeniably true. Worry over the inevitable is not only a wrinkle inducer and frown instigator, but it is a senseless and wicked rebellion against what cannot be helped. Worry clouds the eyes, makes the voice sharp and impatient, puts hard lines about the mouth and destroys repose and gentleness of manner. Whatever is, is best. Therefore one would best control one's feelings and learn as soon as possible to know that bright eyes, sweet voices and smiles about the mouth will add much to one's beauty and to one's circle of friends.

Watercress Sauce.

Watercress sauce is made by stewing chopped watercress in butter for ten minutes, then adding a pinch of salt, the same of pepper, the same also of mustard and a spoonful of vinegar. Beat till quite smooth with a wooden spoon, then add the gravy from the roasting joint. This is served in a sauce-tureen, and is a pleasant change from ordinary gravy.

AT THE PHILIPPINES

EIGHTY DISTINCT TRIBES OF THE NATIVE PEOPLE.

Notes on the Island By Professor Worcester—Hdbits of the People—Polygamy and Pythons—A Man With a History—The Governor of Sulu.

Dean C. Worcester, Assistant Professor of Zoology in the University of Michigan, has made two visits to the Philippine Islands, the last one continuing for nearly three years from the summer of 1890. He traveled the first time as one of a party at whose head was Dr. J. B. Steere. In his second trip his companion was Dr. Frank S. Bourns. Their object was zoological specimens and ethnological material, and they visited, besides Luzon, the islands of Panay, Guimaras, Negros, Siquijor, Cebu, Mindoro, Basilan, Sulu, Tawi Tawi, Palawan, Cullon, Busuanga, Samar, Romblon, Tablas, Sibugan and Masbate.

Last summer Professor Worcester looked up his notes and photographs that he had made in his sojourn in the archipelago and wrote a book if some 500 pages. It includes some history, political and geographical, and data, and statistics that will be useful to those desire to know these things, but quite 400 pages are taken up with charming descriptions, interesting impressions and instructive observations and conclusions. The volume has been entitled "The Philippine Islands and Their People." It was published a few weeks ago by the Macmillan Company.

A historical introduction of one chapter, a perusal of which cannot fail to prepare readers for a more thorough comprehension of the pages that follow, opens the book. At the end of this chapter the causes of the last revolt of the Filipinos against the Spanish rule are strikingly summarized, but, as some of the lines suggest, there is futility in theorizing on current events and injecting the ideas into what is intended to be permanent literature. Says Prof. Worcester:

"The history of the revolt of 1896 has not yet been written, and at this time and distance reliable facts are not obtainable. I for one was not surprised when the news came that several provinces were in rebellion, for during the years 1890-93, while traveling in the archipelago, I everywhere heard the mutterings that go before a storm. It was the old story—compulsory military service, taxes too heavy to be borne, and imprisonment or deportation with confiscation of property for those who could not pay them; no justice except ofr those who could afford to buy it, cruel extortion by the friars in the more secluded districts, wives and daughters ruined, the marriage ceremony too costly a luxury for the poor, the dead refused burial without payment of a substantial sum in advance, no opportunity for education, little encouragement for industry and economy, since to acquire wealth meant to become a target for officials and friars alike; these and a hundred other wrong had goaded natives and half-castes until they were stung to desperation.

It is probably true, as Prof. Worcester implies, that the average tourist thinks he has seen the Philippines when he visits Manila and makes a few trips ten or twelve miles into the interior of Luzon. He is sure to have seen them if he takes a run down to Iliolo and Cebu. In the absence of records proving the contrary, Prof. Worcester's insinuation is probably correct.

"But," continues the author, "the population of the Philippines is roughly estimated at about 8,000,000. Of the natives, who form the bulk of it, there are more than eighty distinct tribes, each with its own peculiarities. They are scatered over hundreds of islands, and one who would really learn to know something of the country must travel widely. * * * In the study of these primitive peoples and in the wonders of the tropical forests he will find enough that is strange to satisfy his longing for novelty, enough that is grand and beautiful to repay him for the risks he may be called upon to face and the hardships he will certainly be forced to undergo."

"It is hardly possible,' says Prof. Worcester some pages further on, "to make a general statement as to the best season for a trip through the provinces, for this varies with the locality to be visited. The Spaniards epigrammatically describes the seasons as consisting of 'seis meses de polvo, seis meses de lodo, seis meses de todo,' (six months of dust, six months of mud, six months of everything), but when it is dusty in one place it may be muddy in another."

In speaking of diseases in the islands the writer asserts that "The traveler soon learns to recognize several types of fever; one recurs every third day, another every second day and a third daily. If promptly and energetically taken in hand anw of them may be shaken off, but the much-dreaded calentura perniciosa is a very malignant disease, running its course in a few hours, and frequently terminating with black vomit and death. Fortunately 'la pernicosa' is very local in its occurence, and the places where it is known to exist are shunned by natives and whites alike.

"It has been shown in a number of instances that malaria was due to causes that could be remedied. Before the time of Gen. Arolas, Sulu was a fever centre. By improving the drainage of the town and by filling in low places with coral sand, he succeeded in almost completely stamping out the disease. Still more striking results were obtained at Tataan, in Tawi Tawi, by an officer who had worked under Arolas in Sulu. The garrison at this point had suffered terribly, and two Governors had died there, but after the forest was cleared away for half a mile around the blockhouse and the ground thoroughly cleaned up fever almost completely disappeared."

The second visit paid by the writer to the island was in 1892. The first had been confined principally to the settlements. "This time we were determined to get among the savages. In the southern part of Palawan Moros are found, in the central portion and along the northern coasts a tribe called Tagbanuas live, and in the northern mountain region the Battacks dwell. We knew the Taganuas to be a pacific people and we hoped that they might be of use to us." What particularly attracted the naturalist into the interior were the tales of natives that extraordinary mammals existed there, but the Tagbanuas themselves proved of more interest in the end. They are born musicians, but their instruments are of the simplest sort; "drums with sharkskin heads flutes of bamboo, jews-harps of the same material, and guitars or banjos with hemp strings; but the pleasing harmonies which they managed to produce were the more remarkable because of the rudeness of the contrivances which they were obliged to use.'

Further on the author writes: "To my utter surprise I found that they had a simple syllabic alphabet, and that it was in common use. In place of notepaper they used fresh joints of bamboo, scratching their letters on the smooth surface in vertical columns. The possession of this alphabet, as well as their odd religious belief, seems to me to point backward to a day when they had a much higher civilization than at present."

The Tagbanuas have also a code of laws, which are administered according to rote. "Theft is punished by a fine equivalent to twice the value of the stolen article. If the culprit cannot or will not pay the fine he is whipped," and so on through the code.

Polygamy is not allowed, but child marriage is common. The wives are expected to do their share of the work. Divorce is settled by the party desiring it, paying a fine to the other party. The parents of the two settle the amount to be paid. Altogether the Tabanuas must be intersting.

Pythons are numerous in the Philippines, but during the author's first trip he lost faith in their size. The nearer the naturalist got to them the smaller they grew. But on his second visit to Palawan he obtained a huge specimen measuring 22 feet 6 inches and weighing 375 pounds. The story of its purchase alive at so much a foot and of the way it was prepared for civilized eyes to look upon is graphically and not unhumorously told.

The exploration of Sulu proved even more interesting than that of Palawan, and the sojourn in Mindaneo is rich in remarkable discoveries. The Moros inhabit both these islands. In the first visit to Sulu, made in 1887, the naturalists were unable to conduct their work on the island owing to the fighting going on between the Spanish garrison and the Moros. Gen. Arolas was then Governor of the island. It may be recalled that this Spanish officer was the subject of an article in the Century Magazine a few months ago. Prof. Worcester says he is a man with a history; and so he is. He was obnoxious to royalty, and the Sulu was given him to govern with the chance of being killed by natives or the fever. He defeated the aims of both.

Lack of space will not permit following Prof. Worcester further in his journeys through the islands. But what has been given concerning the Tagbanuas indicates, if nothing more, what he has to say about others of our new wards, who are not less interesting than the dwellers of Palawan.

NEW PROBLEMS.

Practical Side of the Colonial Policy Considered.

We are not under the slightest obligations to make haste in propounding a theory of the nature of the new relations between the Philippines and the United States, nor yet to elaborate any comprehensive scheme of government. We must drop the French model and at this point take up English methods. We need not make definitions at all about the status of the Philippines, but simply proceed to do any particular work that may require to be done, and otherwise do nothing at all. First, if the treaty should be ratified we must make a contract with private shipping companies for taking the Spanish soldiers back home at our expense. That will involve our persuading the insurgents to give up their Spanish prisoners. General Otis and Admiral Dewey would seem to be of the opinion that they can arrange that item of business without trouble. After the prisoners are yielded up and are all packed off for Spain the insurgents will have to be persuaded to disband. There is little reason to suppose that we should need for any length of time to retain in the Philippines the services of more than a quarter of the American troops who are now there. There are plenty of men who have in times past served in the native regiments with the Spanish army—many of whom have also subsequently served in the insurgent ranks—who can be readily formed into an excellent body of military police. And since the people are quite certain to be very peaceably inclined and are ready to believe in the benevolence of the mission of the United States, the maintenance of order is not going to be seriously difficult. It will not be a very baffling task to improve the administration of to simplify the existing system of taxa justice as between man and man, nor tion—removing needless burdens from agriculture and business and replacing the corrupt and rapacious methods of the Spaniards with honest and fair Anglo-Saxon methods. These matters, with the policing, are the principal ones that for some little time to come will have to be attended to. They are matters of precisely the same nature as those which without any fuss whatever Gen. Leonard Wood has arranged at Santiago. Every one in this country will be delighted to give the people of the Philippnes the largest possible control of their own affairs.—American Monthly review of Reviews.

A NEW BILLIARDIST.

Experts Think He is a Worthy Successor to Ives.

There has come to Chicago recently a young professional billiard player, at present unknown to fame, but possibly on the threshold of a great career. The young man was discovered in the East by Jake Schaefer, who brought him to Chicago. His name is Ora C. Morningstar, and in the few days he has been playing at Schaefer's new academy he has demonstrated to the older players that he knows a thing or two about ball-to-ball billiards.

Morningstar is another product of the middle West, having been born and raised at Rochester, Ind., twenty-four years ago. There his father had a saloon and billiard hall, and at the age of 14 the young man began trying to play billiards. He had no tutor, he says, and never saw professional billiards played until he visited Chicago when nearly twenty years old. About that time he went to New York in Maurice Daly's employ, and, having shown natural skill and talent with the cue, the youngster was taken by Ives as a playing partner for a month, when the Napoleon of billiards was preparing for the "big four" tournament. This was another chance for the young man, and no doubt Morningstar made the most he could of the opportunity. But, he says, Ives showed no interest in him and taught him nothing by personal instruction, though he realized he learned a great deal by observation. His game and style showed this. He has a clean, easy stroke, a delicate touch, invariably plays the right shot, and has good command over the balls for so young a player. His manner is cool and collected, and though apparently confident in his own ability, he is a quiet, modest young man. This combination of quality is likely to make him popular as his game improves, and if he keeps his feet in the whirl of the town he should command success, there being a great opportunity just now for a young player of more than ordinary merit.

It appears that, like Ives, this new protege of "the Wizard" has been somthing of a ball player and roller skater.

Morningstar says he has a high run record of 226 at fourteen-inch balkline, and he seems to fully realize how much it means for him to be taken under Schaefer's wing.

Speaking of his new pupil Schaefer said: "He is Ives over again. He looks like Frank at the same age, is the same size, has the same stroke, same position and same style when playing. I expect a good deal of him. Of course, he has a lot to learn, but he has the natural ability. I intend to coach him and bring him out and will take him on the road and play exhibition games with him. That will give him a chance to bring out the best there is in him."

John Dahl is quite enthusiastic over Morningstar, saying: "I regard him as the coming billiardist. He naturally has the right stroke and right ideas. He plays the right game all the time and plays it with much confidence. That's the thing. All he needs is developing and experience."

A LONG CHANCE.

How Billiardist Eugene Carter Won a Bet.

That wily billiardist who has lived in Paris so long, and who seems to be able to cope with the Parisian players in mental as well as manual skill, has had many a close call in his sporting experience.

Years ago, when Carter had no thought of entertaining royalty, he happened to be in Buffalo. At that time Carter was the best amateur in that part of the country, with one exception, and that was a young man by the name of Byron Gillette. Carter knew Gillette by reputation, but had never met him. The former had a financial backer of limited means, and the two were looking for "easy game." They managed to run across Gillette, who was also looking for trouble. Carter's backer had $50, which he quietly passed to 'Gene, who issued the challenge. Had he thought that he was addressing Gillette this story would not be written. Gillette covered the money and Carter named his backer—who may be called Jones—as stakeholder. Jones made a pretense of putting the $100 in his pocket, but succeeded in passing it to Carter, who was certain he had a sure thing and promptly offered to bet an extra $100. This trick was repeated until $650 had been put up, of which $600 was from Gillette and $50 from Carter. The game proceeded, and it did not take Carter long to discover that he was outclassed. Jones made the same discovery at the same time, but stuck to his post until Gillette had 10 and Carter 180 to go. It was Carter's shot.

"I must catch my boat," said Jones, and he resigned his position as stakeholder and fled. He came back after a while and stood under the window where he could hear the voice of the marker. Carter was in luck and played like a demon. Jones heard him call 100, and his spirit rose as the score mounted upward. At 150 he could hardly restrain a yell, and when it became apparent that Carter was going to win the game he re-entered the room.

"Give me the money," says Jones, as Carter was making the last shots. "I missed the boat and may as well see it out. Carter won, but he never sought a return match with Gillette, who does not yet know he was betting 12 to 1.

SPORTS OF THE SAMOANS

Some of the Games at Which the Islanders Are Exceedingly Skillful.

BOXING AND WRESTLING

Cheating Is Considered Not Only Legitimate But Even an Important Feature of All Games.

Their Most Popular Sport Is Stick-Throwing—Whole Villages Take Part in the Contests Which Often Last Several Days—The Remarkable Skill Shown By the Participants.

Time is plentiful in the South Seas and cares are few. For the idle islander the day goes lightly by, and, as the day, so glides life itself. A very little delving just to encourage a most lavish nature to yield up its store of food, a little fighting to give life a zest, a great deal of making of speeches, says a writer in Outing.

These island sportsmen are actuated solely by the enjoyment of the sport itself, or of the rivalry to which it gives rise. They have no comprehension of the idea of fair play in anything; cheating is considered not only legitimate but even an important feature of the game, whatever it may be. But as each side is as alert to prevent cheating by its opponents as it is to practice it for selfish advantage, the matter just balances, so that, quite unintentionally, a Samoan game is usually a practical honest contest.

Boxing is common enough now among Samoan athletics, but it is an introduced sport. Old customs of warfare never include any such thing as an empty-handed personal encounter. When men were fighting they were armed; they used the missile spear at the beginning of the attack, and when they came within arm's length the club was used, a heavy club with sharpened edges which cut like an axe.

Wrestling, on the other hand, is of unknown antiquity among the islanders, and has always been a favorite sport of the strongest men. It could scarcely be expected that it would develop along the same lines as wrestling in other lands, and it has not. It would be hard to classify the Samoan style of wrestling. Any hand-hold above the hips is permissible, but a mere hand-hold is naturally of little value in grasping a man fully oiled, as are these people at all times.

THE STICK-THROWER.

But the great sport among the Samoans is now, as it has been for long ages, the village contests at stick-throwing. At this interesting amusement the islanders are content to pass many days of noisy feasting. Success at the sport is the most highly-prized distinction a town can have; defeat is a stain which must be wiped out. Sometimes large wars have grown out of the fluctuating results of the sport.

The materials of the sport are simple. There is needed a long straight stretch of grassy ground, which is easily found on the central plaza of every native community, or, if not there, is never far distant in the cocoanut groves. This is the playing green. The stick is a treasured possession for each player in time finds one stick which just suits him, and is very careful of the cherished possession.

After all this introduction of its accompanying features the game itself is simple enough. It is to throw the stick along the playing green in such a way that it may come to rest as far from the thrower as possible. Thrown directly at the mark and through the air, the light stick carries but a short distance, no matter how strong the caster might be. But when it is thrown so as to hit the ground a short distance away and glance thence into the air, the combination of strength and skill avails to send the stick a long distance before it comes to rest. The stick is held between the thumb and the tips of three fingers held close together, the index finger being at the same time pressed against the butt of the stick. The player stands back from the casting crease and takes a short run; at the same time he swings his arm backward over the shoulder, so that by the time his left foot is at the crease he is ready to discharge the stick from his right hand at the level of the hip. The most successful players cause the stick to glance from the ground about thirty feet away. This glancing on the ground gives much greater force to the flight of the stick. It flies about head high and may cover two hundred feet or more before coming to the ground again. In this secondary flight the head of the stick is seen to be directed slightly upward at a small angle above the horizontal; the butt is at the same time revolving in a circle of about three inches and with a slow motion. This position is maintained to the end of the second flight. When the stick comes to the ground the point is still a little elevated, and thus a few additional feet may be gained by a slide along the smooth turf.

George P. Mellick desires The Daily Press to state that the invitations have not yet been issued by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club for the entertainment they are planning for the Park Golf Club.

Entertained on the Olympia.

Patrick Casey and daughter, Miss Mamie Casey, of West Third street, were guests on board the U. S. S. Olympia yesterday afternoon. Mr. Casey has a nephew, John F. Costello, who is a boatswain on board the flagship. Yesterday he took them all over the ship and then entertained them at lunch. He was formerly on the Oregon but was transferred to the Olympia when the Oregon returned to Manila. He has been twenty-four years in the navy.

Expect Visitors.

Trinity Commandary meets in regular tonight and expects a large delegation from Somerville and Bound Brook.

—One person received the right-hand-of-fellowship at the communion service in the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1 00. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

HAPPENINGS IN A FEW LINES FROM ALL OVER JERSEY.

More or Less Important Happenings and Events in Various Sections Served For a Quick Glance at Another factory was started Monday morning at Moore Brothers' glass works in Clayton, and the fourth and last will begin operations within a week. This will give employment to about 500 men and boys.

The twenty-first annual reunion of the Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteers will be held at Trenton on Thursday, October 19. Major-General J. C. Patterson, of Ocean Grove, has been secretary of the volunteer association for 21 years continuously.

The congregation of the Presbyterian church in Caldwell has extended a call to Rev. W. Chester, of Tonawanda, N. Y., to succeed Rev. Henry K. Denlinger, now of Bloomington, Ill. It is said that Mr. Chester will accept the call. The salary was fixed at $1,800.

It is rumored that a trolley line from Long Branch will be built to Atlantic Highlands and that a line of fast steamers will run to the latter place from New York. Thus the difficulty which is often experienced in landing passengers on the iron pier at Long Branch by reason of fog and rough water would be obviated.

Benjamin Conners, a stylishly dressed young man, is in the county jail at New Brunswick charged with stealing $10 worth of mushrooms from the farm of S. Wortman, at New Dover. Connors is also committed on a peace warrant, having threatened, it is alleged, to kill A. King, a farm hand, who gave information that led to his arrest.

Twenty citizens of West Cape May borough—and twenty means half the voting population—were before Justice of the Peace John Spencer, charged with a violation of the borough ordinance requiring the registry of dogs. A fine of $5 and the costs were imposed upon each. The incident has aroused great indignation, many of those tried having never received any notice of the requirements of the ordinance. The fines have not been paid and the matter will be carried to higher courts for a decision on the validity of the ordinance. The borough Mayor and Council ordered the warrants to be issued.

Caught Between the Bumpers.

Wm. Ellis, aged 22 years, a brakeman on a P. & R. freight train, was caught between the bumpers of two freight cars at Westfield Saturday evening about 8 o'clock. He was brought to the hospital in this city, where he is doing so well that he will be able to return to his home in Philadelphia in a few days. He was crushed across the chest, but the injury was not serious, although it knocked him out for the time being.

Cadi Home Again.

City Judge Runyon was back on duty again this morning. He fined Archie Davis $3 for being drunk Sunday afternoon.

inevitable consolidation will make useless, and will show, also, to have been unnecessary and unreasonable from the outset.

The better, cheaper way and the way promising permanence, the way that is in line with the spirit of the times, is for the city to own and monopolize the manufacture and distribution of gas. That way I commend to our city fathers, and I hope that they will be slow to do anything to promote a wasteful competition in a business which is a natural monopoly, and which, like the pumping and distributing of water, the sewerage of the city, and other such matters, ought to be done by the city. THE LEHIGH WRECK caboose it pushed the first train along the track nearly fifty feet. Then something caught. The caboose shifted to one side and the engine was derailed. Then it tipped over on its right side crashing into the last car of the standing train. McGlynn was struck in the abdomen by the corner of the coal car and then crushed beneath the ruins. He was instantly killed. One of the rails was turned upward and pierced the bottom of the tender projecting ten feet into the air.

The east bound milk train was due at the time. The first train had started to go on the switch to allow it to pass. The flagman of the first train stopped it just before it crashed into the wreck. Two cars and the caboose of the first train and the locomotive and four cars of the second train were wrecked. Both tracks were torn up. Wrecking trains arrived shortly from Perth Amboy and Easton. The steam wrecking crane from Packerton arrived later this morning. Assistant Train Master J. A. Droege, of Jersey City, went to the scene of the wreck and took command at the field telegraph station which was established there.

The west bound track was opened for traffic at 10 o'clock and the other will be used this afternoon. Until they were opened, the passenger trains on the Lehigh Valley were run over the Jersey Central between Cranford and Bound Brook.

In Dr. Schenck's Place.

Yesterday morning Rev. Dr. Main pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, preached for Pastor Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church. His sermon was greatly enjoyed by a large congregation. In the evening Rev. E. O. Moffett, pastor of the Reformed church at Pine Bush, N. Y., occupied the pulpit and delivered an excellent sermon on "Soul Saving."

For Violent Patients.

Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the borough, has had a set of plans drawn for a building to be added to "Brookside Retreat," which will be used solely for the more violent patients. The new addition will be provided with all the up-to-date conveniences and will be modern in every respect.

The Filipinos have a national drink that is a liquid terror. It tastes like a combination of red pepper and gasoline, and makes a man see more queer things than a microscope can discover in Chicago river water. In describing the effects of this awful drink a Minnesota corporal said: "It gives a man the jaggedest jag that ever came down the pike. There is a Boston chap in our company who filled up on the stuff. Next day he was asked how he felt. 'I feel,' he said, 'as if I had been drawn through the Back bay, mopped over the Common and dropped from Bunker Hill Monument.'"

TO FILL IMPORTANT CHAIR AT RUTGERS

Prof. Morris, of Dunellen, Will Instruct In Mathematics.

A RESPONSIBLE POSITION.

HAS RESIGNED AS PRINCIPAL OF DUNELLEN SCHOOLS.

Board of Education Will Meet Tonight to Take Action on the Resignation—Will Succeed Prof. Scattergood, Who Goes to Georgia — Prof. Morris is a Graduate of Rutgers College.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 3—At this evening's meeting of the Board of Education Prof. Richard Morris, principal of the Dunellen schools, will tender his resignation. When the Daily Press stated yesterday that Professor Morris had been offered a position in Rutgers College and would possibly resign his position here, it proved a surprise to many of the citizens of the borough, who had come to look upon the Professor's connection with the Dunellen schools as a fixture. It is expected that the resignation of Prof. Morris will be accepted by the board, as an understanding to that effect has been arrived at.

The position which has been tendered to Prof. Morris in Rutgers is that of instructor in mathematics, a branch in which Prof. Morris is thoroughly proficient. It will be remembered that Prof. Morris is a graduate of Rutgers and that before coming to Dunellen he had been offered the position of assistant to Prof. Scattergood, but declined. The position which has now been tendered to Prof. Morris is that held by Prof Scattergood, who has accepted a position in the University of Georgia.

Though Prof. Morris had made only a verbal contract with the Board of Education to fill the position of superintendent of the Dunellen schools, he did not like to break the agreement without the consent of the Board. The Board, however, while disliking to part with Prof. Morris, did not wish to stand in the way of his securing a position such as the one offered at Rutgers, which is understood to be permanent.

Since Prof. Morris has been at the head of the Dunellen schools he has already shown that he is abundantly able to fill the position. He has not only gained the respect of the members of the board of education and the citizens generally, but has also endeared himself to the pupils of the school, who have learned to love him for his untiring devotion, painstaking efforts to assist them in their studies, and withal his universal fairness and kind disposition. Prof. Morris will be greatly missed. There have been a number of applicatons for the vacancy, but as yet no selection has been made. An appointment will probably be made at this evening's meeting of the board.

DIMES DID THE WORK.

St. Patrick's Church, of Elizabeth, is Built Entirely by 10 Cent Subscriptions.

St. Patrick's Catholic church, of Elizabeth, finally completed at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars, has been opened. It will be dedicated by Bishop Wigger, either October 5th or October 12th.

The cost of the building was met by 10-cent subscriptions, collected through the indefatigable efforts of Father Oscar Gessner and the congregation during a period of ten years.

The church is elaborately decorated, contains a beautiful altar, a very large organ and a number of memorial windows, the cost of which was defrayed by individual parishioners. Its tall and massive stone towers are visible for miles.

A chime of bells will be placed in the belfry, and will be rung for the first time on the coming New Year's Eve. Father Gessner received many congratulations Sunday on the completion of his church.

Pastor's Leaving Resented.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Meeker has decided to leave the First Methodist Episcopal church of Orange and become the pastor at the Market Street Methodist Episcopal church at Paterson. Members of the Orange church are not pleased over the sudden change. The official board has resolved that the pastor ought not to leave until the bishop appoints his successor. It is said that Mr. Meeker's salary will be $700 more in Paterson than it is in Orange, but denies that this is the cause of his leaving.

—When in Newark lunch in the coolest, cleanest dining room in the city, "Walsh's Blue Room," 677 Broad, corner West Park.

THE LEHIGH VALLEY SHOPS AT NEW MARKET

That Is What Mahlon Vail Farm Was Brought For.

IT MEANS WORK FOR 1,000.

SHOPS AT JERSEY CITY AND EASTON MAY BE CONSOLIDATED.

Would be a Big Thing for This Section if the Shops are Located ere—It is Known That Lehigh Officials are Desirous of Removing the Present Shops From Jersey City Very Soon.

It was announced here today that the recent purchase of the Mahlon Vail farm was in the interest of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, and that the latter company will probably abandon their present car repair shops at Easton and Jersey City and consolidate and establish them at New Market, which is considered central enough to serve both divisions in satisfactory shape.

It has been known for several weeks that the Lehigh Valley officials have determined to remove their present shops from Jersey City, and it was said that they would be established on ground purchased between Elizabeth and Newark Since that time, however, it is said that the company reconsidered their determination in this respect and will build at New Market.

The farm is over 100 acres in extent, and will provide ample room for sidetracks, buildings, etc., which will be necessary to the car shops.

It is estimated that it will bring at least a thousand people to New Market, and this means much in the way of stores and improvements of all kinds. It is also stated that if the shops are brought there it will bring the trolley.

PROPOSED SPEEDWAY.

EVERY ASSURANCE THAT PROJECT WILL BE CONSUMMATED.

It Passes Through a Fine Section—Two Drives Are Provided For—Plans Drawn For it by Engineer Hubbard.

Now that Plainfield is assured a handsome drive and speedway there is a great deal of interest manifested in the scheme. Workmen are employed every day on the new road, which is Woodland avenue, and before snow flies the avenue will be well opened up. It extends from Prospect avenue, near the Darling property, to the property of Councilman George P. Mellick just beyond the grounds of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Evergreen avenue, Denton avenue, Cedar avenue, Randolph road, Belleview avenue to city line, thence past the Hillside Cemetery and Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds.

Two drives are provided for. One will be of dirt and will be used for a speedway. The other will be a macadamized road. Sidewalks will be laid on each side of the roadway which is to be 100 feet wide. In the centre there will be a row of handsome trees that will provide plenty of shade and will add greatly to the general beauty of the drive.

The work is now so well under way that success is assured, and another feature that will add much to the value of the property is the opening and laying out of Woodland Park. In this as well as in the new driveway the property owners all along the line are evidencing a great deal of interest, and are not at all slow in putting up the necessary cash to carry on the work.

Plainfield has needed for a long time a speedway, where lovers of fine horses can enjoy themselves and not molest or be molested, and there are certainly a sufficient number of such people in the city who will give their aid and money to further such a scheme.

Elaborate plans for this great improvement have been drawn by Civil Engineer F. J. Hubbard, and are now on exhibition at the real estate office of S. D. Drake, North avenue.

Can't Get Enough Rails.

Owing to a great scarcity of iron it is doubtful whether the Arlington avenue trolley could be constructed this fall even if the franchise is granted. There has been great difficulty experienced in securing rails, as all of the principal iron works are running night and day and are even now unable to fill the orders. It is said that the works now have orders which will keep them busy until next July.

Newark Boys Coming.

The class in physical culture from the Newark Y. M. C. A. will meet with the local association this evening at the opening of the class in physical culture. The Newark boys will be in charge of Prof. Smith.

ARLINGTON AVENUE TROLLEY MOVES BACK

Change is Made in the Proposed Route.

TO GO DOWN PARK AVENUE.

APPLICATION MADE FOR NEW GAS COMPANY FRANCHISE.

Application Referred to Street and Sewers Committee, to be Reported Later—Corrections Made in Assessments Under the Martin Act, Some of Which Are Erroneous—Other Work.

The regular October meeting of the Common Council held last evening was not of long duration, but considerable business was considered, the most important of which was that in reference to the Arlington avenue trolley. Mr Barrows called up the old ordinance and had it placed back on its second reading. He then made a few changes regarding the route. Instead of the trolley running across fields in the vicinity of lower Arlington avenue, it will strike Park avenue, where it will touch the property owned by the Hillside Cemetery Association. After these changes were made the ordinance was adopted on second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised.

A little later the Plainfield Street Railway Company applied to the Council for a franchise to operate a trolley along Arlington avenue according to the new route. This application is complete and is constructed according to the wish and desire of both Council and company. It was received and it is the intention of the Council at a meeting to be held on Thursday, October 19th, when there will be further public hearing, to adopt the new ordinance on a second reading and to kill the old ordinance.

The People's Gas Company, incorporated, an account of which organization has appeared in these columns, applied to the Council for a franchise to establish a gas plant in this city, locate mains, etc., and agreeing to sell gas for not more than $1 per thousand feet. The application was referred to the street and sewers committee and will be reported on later.

Residents along the lower part of Arlington avenue petitioned the Council for two fire hydrants as protection to the property in that locality. Residents in the vicinity of Rock avenue and the Central Railroad asked the Council to take steps to make the crossing at that point more safe, through the erection of gates or by other means.

The Plainfield Avancement Association, through President N B. Smalley and Secretary J. E. Martine, submitted to the Council the resolutions adopted at the last meeting relating to municipal ownership of Plainfield's water works. The matter was referred to the committee on laws and ordinances, which includes the special committee having the above matter under consideration

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that during the past month seventeen sewer permits were granted, and Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of ten permits.

Mr. VanHerwerden offered a resolution providing for the borrowing of $3,000 on account of general fund and $1,500 on account of fire fund, in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Mr. Smith, from the committee on the assessment and collection of taxes, stated that during the past year many persons had complained that they have been erroneously assessed under the Martin Act, and the committee had discovered that in many cases the complaints were just. He then offered resolutions providing for the correction of several amounts. In the following cases they have been marked "assessed by error:" Christopher Becker, 234 236 East Fourth street, $13 50; George Geiblehouse, 1045 1049 Arlington avenue, $32 90; Frank Herbst, 309 Stebbins place, $9.20; H. P. Williams, 1027 West Front street, $33; lot 229 222 East Ninth street, A. J. Brunson, $47.55. In the following cases the accounts have been paid once and they have been so marked on the collector's books: J. T. Vail, 155 161 East Second street, $30 91; estate of Elizabeth D Vail, 715 717 Watchung avenue, $93 84; 420 422 East Sixth street, $33 12; 426 428 East Sixth street, $44.16; heirs of H. W. Vail, 424 East Sixth street, $8.28; J. T. Vail, 301 345 Woodland avenue, $7 73.

Mr. VanHerwerden offered a resolution that the books of the collector be presented to the Council for consideration, and after an opportunity was given the members to examine the books, he moved that the books be returned to the collector.

There being no further business the Council then adjourned.

COLUMBIA IN THE LEAD

Yachts Are Rapidly Approaching Finish.

WEATHER WAS PERFECT.

SHAMROCK WAS FIRST TO CROSS STARTING LINE.

Yachts Left Anchorage At 9 o'Clock—Start Was Made At 11:15 — Shamrock Led Until 12:10—The Columbia Was in the Lead Around Stake Boat.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 3—The morning of the first meeting of the Columbia and Shamrock for the America's cup dawned bright and clear, an ideal day for yachting.

The course selected was down the Jersey coast for a distance of fifteen nautical miles and back to Sandy Hook light slip.

Both of the yachts left their anchorages inside the Horseshoe at Sandy Hook at 9 o'clock, and were towed to the starting point.

At 10 o'clock the work of getting under sail was begun and the challenger and the cup defender manoeuvred about the light ship waiting for the starting gun.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the starting gun was fired and both yachts started for the lead. The wind was blowing 12 knots an hour.

The Shamrock was the first to cross the line at 11:15 o'clock, fifty seconds ahead of the American craft. In half an hour the Shamrock had increased her lead to two minutes.

The wind then dropped to a seven knot breeze and the Columbia began to creep up, passing the British yacht at 11:10. At 12:48, the Columbia had slowly increased its lead and was a minute and a half ahead.

The distance between the yachts slowly widened as they approached the stake boat. At 1:15 the Columbia was leading by three minutes and ten seconds while the breeze had freshened to ten knots.

The yachts turned the stake boat at 1:22, with the Columbia pulling away from its antagonist. At 2:16 the American craft was well away in the lead by 6½ minutes with a good prospect of winning.

As this edition goes to press the Columbia is still leading and the general impression is that the first race will be hers. The result of the race will be announced by The Press as soon as it is known.

FIRST REHEARSAL.

Chorus of 100 Voices Commenced Practice for the Production of "The Messiah."

The first rehearsal of the local chorus, which is to render the oratorio, "The Messiah," at Christmas time, was held in the Sunday-school rooms of the First Baptist church last evening and proved very successful. E. J. Fitzhugh, of Brooklyn, the old leader of the Choral Society, was the director and was greatly pleased with the showing made. There were over a hundred singers present and responses received from others who will bring the total number up to 110, which is about as many as can be accomodated. The sopranos and altos are very strong but there is still an opportunity for a few more tenors or basses, who may apply to the secretary, Nelson Runyon. The rehearsals will be held every Monday evening.

Made Permanent Receiver.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, October 3—In the Court of Chancery this morning Chancellor McGill made City Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, permanent receiver of the Plainfield Poultry Farm Company. The application was made by William H. Schoonmaker, who is the heaviest creditor of the concern. The company owes him over $20,000.

Discharged From Hospital.

James Smith, of Newark, who was injured several weeks ago while working at a merry-go-round in North Plainfield, was discharged cured from the hospital today.

NO BASKET BALL AT CRESCENT RINK.

Board of Education Decided Against Renting it.

THE COST WAS TOO GREAT.

SO GIRLS WILL NOT PLAY BASKET BALL THERE.

Some Talk, However, of Renting the Y. M. C. A Gymnasium For One or Two Afternoons a Week For High School Girls—Board Meeting Was a Very Short One—Other Routine Business.

The girls of the Plainfield High School will not play basket ball in the Crescent Rink this winter unless the Girls' Athletic Association foots the bill. The Plainfield Board of Education considered the matter at the regular monthly meeting last evening and decided that the charge of $150 for the use of the rink, without light and heat, was too much.

The regular October meeting of the Board was held last evening at the Stillman building. The report of Collector Martin showed school taxes to the amount of $671.91 collected, together with $41.12 interest, making a total of $713.03 which was deposited in the City National Bank. There was the regular batch of bills ordered paid.

Mr. Lounsbury brought up the question of awarding a contract for the carting of the ashes from the public schools. He had received a bid of $120 from Fernando Brown and advised that it be accepted. Last year the work cost $110, but there was more to be done this year. The building committee, of which he is chairman, was given power in the matter.

Then the Board went into executive session during which time the renting of the rink for basket ball and drilling was considered. No final action was taken on it as Superintendent Maxson did not report favorably on it. It was practically a decision on the part of the Board against renting the rink. There was a discussion of the possibilities of securing the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for one or two afternoons a week for the use of the High School girls.

ENDEAVORERS ELECT.

Trinity Reformed and Congregational Church Societies Choose Officers.

At the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held last night the nominating committee, composed of A.K. Willett, William F. Oliver, Mrs. F. C. Adams, Henry Seader and Miss Emma F. Gillem, preeented the following list of names as officers to serve the society for a year and they were unanimously elected:

President, Edgar F. Sheppard; first vice-president, George Bolsterli; second vice-president, Charles M. Dolliver; treasurer, Chauncey Colthar; recording secretary, Harry F. Crawford; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel A. Woodruff. After the election of officers E. E. Anthony, State Treasurer of the Endeavor Society, made an address telling of the recent State convention held at Camden.

The semi-annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church was held last evening in the church parlors. The election of officers was held and resulted as follows: President, Phillip Suffren; vice-president, Stacy Raynolds; secretary, Miss Anna E Manktelow; treasurer, Harold C. Nomer; chairman of lookout committee, Harold Tomlinson; prayer meeting committee, Miss J. Louise Jenkins; social committee, Miss Katherine Dwight; flower committee, Miss Alice Miller.

The Firemen's Parade.

Arrangements are now about complete for the firemen's parade that is to be held in the borough next week Thursday. If the weather is favorable event will be one of the largest in the history of the borough. The members of the borough companies have received their new uniforms and everything is satisfactory.

Police Changed About

The local police have been changed about and are now patrolling different beats. Roundsman Frederickson is now doing day duty, while his colleague, Roundsman Flynn, has returned to night duty.

Grade is Lowered.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company has completed its work of lowering the grade on West Fourth street, and the street is now ready for macadamizing.

Important Business Coming up.

The Borough Council will hold its regular October meeting next Friday night, when important matters will be considered.

PRICE OF COAL GOES UP TO $5.50 A TON.

Increase Agreed to by Local Dealers This Morning.

LEHIGH EXPECTS A STRIKE.

800,000 TONS OF COAL STORED AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Increase is Fifty Cents Per Ton—Railroad Officials Expect a Strike Most Any Time Now, and Are Prepared For it—All Domestic Coal Comes Under Increase of Price Made Today.

When Plainfielders awoke this morning and witnessed frost little did they think that before the sun goes down today the price of coal would advance fifty cents. Such is a fact, however, and all of the local dealers have agreed to the increase. This applies to all domestic coal and hereafter and until another move is made by the coal combine consumers will pay $5.50 per ton for this commodity.

In connection with the above it may be stated that there is coal troubles brewing in certain sections, especially among the mines operated by the Lehigh Valley Railroad. It is an acknowledged fact that for sometime past the railroad officials have been expecting a strike among the miners. In view of this there is stored at South Plainfield today 800,000 tons of coal to be used in emergency. The railroad company expecting trouble stored this coal so that they would experience as little difficulty as possible in case of a strike.

A Press reporter was informed this morning by a person well up in authority that a strike is looked for at any time. It appears that the miners have a grievance, but just what it is cannot be learned at present.

MAYOR DECIDED AGAINST

JUSTICE ABBOTT SAYS HE MUST PAY PROTESTED CHECK.

The Check Was Issued to "J. C. Monroe," Whom the Mayor Said He Did Not Know, at Request of Capt. Swenck.

Justice Abbott this morning rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiff in the action of Oscar Richter, of 302 Broadway, receiver for D. M. Torrey, a banker in New York who failed several months ago, against Mayor George W. Rockfellow, of this city, to collect a check for $180 which the Mayor had drawn and Torrey had cashed, but which was afterwards protested at the First National Bank in this city. The case has attracted considerable attention owing to the parties concerned in it.

On October 1, 1896, Mayor Rockfellow drew a check for $180 in favor of "J. C. Monroe," at the request of Capt. S. W. Swenck, a retired army officer, and gave it to the latter. Swenck resides on Park avenue in the suburbs of this city and is an intimate friend of the Mayor's. Shortly after that the check was presented to Torrey with the name of "J. C. Monroe" endorsed on the back of it. Torrey turned the check over to the National Park Bank of New York for collection, and it was made by another check drawn by Mr. Rockfellow on the First National Bank of this city. When this latter check came back to the First National Bank in the course of business it was protested and never paid

After the failure of Torrey the protested check was found by Receiver Richter, who brought suit to recover the amount of it from Mayor Rockfellow. On the stand Mayor Rockfellow stated that he did not know of "J. C Monroe," but had drawn the check at the request of Capt. Swenck.

ON A WILD RUN.

Spirited Team Owned by A. E. Hoagland Made a Dash for Liberty.

A team of horses owned by A. E. Hoagland, the expressman, made another dash for liberty yesterday afternoon on Madison avenue. The horses were in charge of Bob Wood, the driver, who left them in front of his house while he partook of his dinner. At the same time the horses were given their noon-day meal. They were frightened by something and started off at their usual lively gait. They ran through Madison avenue to Eighth street, where they were stopped by a couple of men. The only damage was the breaking of a piece of harness. Wood, the driver, soon appeared and took charge of the rig.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver to be in Charge.

Hereafter Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, will have charge of the Sunday evening services at the First Church of Christ, and an effort will be made to build the church up.

—Miss C. D. Elliott's art studio reopened Oct. 2d. See adv.

BRUNSWICK COMPANY WANTS TO COME HERE

Superintendent Radel Feeling the Pulse of Plainfield.

WOULD BUILD A BELT LINE.

SEVERAL DIFFERENT ROUTES ARE PLANNED FOR TROLLEY.

The Traction Company Officials Visited Plainfield Yesterday and Looked Over the Ground—Promise to Do the Right Thing by the City if a Franchise is Granted to Their Company.

There now appears to be reasonable chances that Plainfield will in a short time have trolley communication with New Market, Metuchen and South Plainfield, in connection with the present facilities of reaching Dunellen, Bound Brook and New Brunswick. The idea is to construct a belt line that will take in the places mentioned, and a number of influential Plainfield people have succeeded in securing the interest of the Brunswick Traction Company in the scheme.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Radel, of the Brunswick Traction Company, came to Plainfield in company with Mr. Band, of the same company. They met several Plainfield people who are interested and the matter was talked over in a practical, business-like manner. The trolley company are now willing and desirous of reaching Plainfield through a belt line system.

With the belt-line system will also come cheaper fares and Plainfielders will be able to ride a greater distance for less money than at present. The Brunswick Traction Company are anxious to secure patronage in this city, especially so on account of the way they have been treated by the Plainfield Street Railway Company. They claim to have been treated shabbily and have been unable to form any reasonable agreement with the Plainfield company.

The exact route to be adopted for the trolley from Metuchen to this city has not yet been decided upon, but there are two or three different routes, any one of which can be secured. It is claimed that consents have been secured and if the franchise can be secured the road will be built within a short time.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Important Work of the Y. M. C. A. Started Last Night.

There was a good attendance last evening at the opening of the educational department of the local Y. M. C. A. H. C. Munger, chairman of the committee, presided. Mr. Munger introduced A B. Meredith, who addressed the meeting. Next week the bookkeeping and commercial course will be started. The instructors are Max Moraller, Edwin H. Beekman and Clifford Braider. Classes in stenography meets Monday and Thursday evenings, George Weeks Sanford, instructor, with Clarence B. Vail as assistant. Rev. G. Hauser will be the instructor in German, there being two classes Friday evenings. Spanish will be taught by Jose A. Machado Thursday evenings. The mechanical course will be taught Monday and Thursday evenings, the instructors being S. R. Hollingsworth, Joseph F. T. Fuller, I. F. Niles and A. Russell Bond.

A Rare Display.

A rare display of millinery is to be found in the millinery department of Woodhull & Martin's big store in the Babcock building. The fall opening of the department began today and will be continued tomorrow and Thursday. Miss Gassener, the able head of the department, has secured the newest novelties in every line of bonnets and hats, felts, golf hats, Gainesboroughs and all.

Somerville Carnival Next Week, Too.

Owing to the unfavorable weather during the week of the five-day carnival at Somerville, the carnival will be continued Wednesday and Thursday, October 11th and 12th. There will be races each day, and fine music. There will also be speaking by Hon. William D Daly, of Hudson county.

Relief Association Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Relief Association will be held next Friday in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning.

New Trolley Cars Expected Soon.

Work is progressing favorably on the new box cars for the Plainfield Street Railway Company, and it is expected that they will be delivered before a great while.

A Great Display.

A great display of new untrimmed hats is now to be found at Lederer's. There is also a fine assortment of ready-to-wear outing hats.

DEWEY IN WASHINGTON.

Royal Welcome Tendered the Admiral by Admirers at the National Capital.

A PATRIOTIC GREETING.

The Crowd at the Depot Cheers Itself Hoarse As the Popular Hero's Train Arrives at the Depot.

Private Residences, Business Places and Government Buildings Profusely Decorated—Grand Display of Fireworks—Dewey Received at the White House.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Upon the arrival of the special train here bearing Admiral Dewey and his escort party, there were sent up a chorus of cheers (from the thousands of people gathered at the station) that almost shook the buildings in the vicinity and the Admiral was once more made to understand the fact that all American citizens are glad of the opportunity to do him honor.

The great welcome prepared for Admiral Dewey at the National Capital while not so elaborate as that in New York, is just as enthusiastic from a standpoint of patriotism and will go down in history as the greatest ovation ever given an American citizen in the District of Columbia. The city is profusely decorated and flags and bunting display the national colors in remarkably pretty and original designs on private residences, business places and the government buildings. There are hundreds of Dewey portraits displayed in all parts of the city.

The War and Navy Departments, which have been beautifully decorated on many occasions have never looked so pretty as they do now, and it would be indeed a difficult task to originate anything in the future that could outshine their appearance in point of brilliancy.

As the train pulled in the 3d United States Cavalry was in waiting as a guard of honor, and escorted the Admiral and party up Pennsylvania avenue and Fifteenth street to the Executive Mansion. The Secretary of the Navy received Admiral Dewey in the east room at the White House and presented him to the President. This ceremony consumed a quarter of an hour. Shortly before 8 o'clock, Admiral Dewey, the members of the Cabinet, President McKinley, the members of the Reception Committee, and the scort from the station, accompanied by aides, proceeded through the south grounds of the Executive Mansion to the southeast gate and thence to the reviewing stand at the south end of the Treasury.

Occupied an Arm Chair.

Admiral Dewey occupied an armchair in the prow of the boat in the centre of the great platform. A signal was given and the civic procession started. In the meantime the parade had formed at the Capitol. It swung into Pennsylvania avenue promptly at 8 o'clock, and reached the Treasury stand fifteen minutes later. Two hundred men, attired in white duck uniforms similar to those worn by the jackies of the navy, were stationed at intervals along both sides of the avenue from the Capitol to the Treasury. They manipulated the fireworks apparatus and exploded Roman candles in such a manner that there was an arch of fire over the entire procession.

Following an informal suggestion by President McKinley to the local committee of preparations some time ago, a distinctive feature of the fireworks was the burning of red fire. Barrels of red fire were lighted and nine huge searchlights were turned upon various public buildings, particularly the Capitol, the mammoth new city post office and the tall white shaft of the Washington Monument. A large device composed of almost 1,000 incandescent lights glowed from the front of the Post Office building, easily visible from Admiral Dewey's point of vantage at the Treasury stand. In the center of this device was a large circle of electric fire enclosing the words "Manila Bay, May 1, 1898." To the left of it in letters of white, there blazed the instructions which were sent to Admiral Dewey at the outbreak of the war with Spain, "Capture or destroy Montojo's fleet—McKinley." and to the left, Dewey's immortal command which opened the late war, "When you are ready, Gridley, you may fire."

After the civic parade was reviewed by Admiral Dewey the people who lined the avenue turned in and followed the procession, passing in review before the Admiral and the distinguished party on the stand.

The 3d Cavalry then escorted Admiral Dewey to the home of Mrs. Washington McLean, at Connecticut avenue and K street, where the Admiral will make his home for the present.

The state dinner given by President McKinley to-night in honor of Admiral Dewey will be a much larger affair than was originally planned. This was brought about by the fact that a large number of State executives and other distinguished persons from out of town are in Washington to take part in the reception. The number of invitations to the state dinner has accordingly been increased, and the dinner will take place in the main corridor, adjoining the blue and red parlors, instead of in the state dining room, where the space is too small to accommodate the party.

The Official Welcome.

Admral Dewey's reception in Washington is what the federal officers of the District choose to call the official welcome of the hero of Manila to the United States, in as much as the President, members of the Cabinet and other government officials have had the most to do with the arrangement of the program.

The city is full to overflowing with visitors and governors of states are as thick as they usually are in Washington when a President is inaugurated. Nearly 20,000 men were in line for the parade which followed the sword presentation exercises. The parade, which presented a decidedly patriotic appearance, moved up Pennsylvania avenue, and was reviewed by Admiral Dewey, President McKinley and members of the Cabinet from the reviewing stand in front of the Capitol. The portion of the program consisting of the presentation of the sword voted Admiral Dewey by Congress was performed before the parade started and was the most impressive ceremony that has been witnessed in Washington in many years.

The presentation speech delivered by Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, was a magnificent oratorical effort and a great tribute to Admiral Dewey's worth in the service of his country. He referred feelingly to the Admiral's achievements in Manila Bay. Admiral Dewey was too much affected by Secretary Long's remarks to make a speech of acceptance of any considerable length and contented himself with saying but very few words.

The several addresses of welcome were greeted with loud and prolonged applause and when this part of the festival was finished Admiral Dewey was treated to such a shower of floral tributes from the lady spectators as to almost cover him up. There were more than an express wagon load of flowers presented to him during the early part of the day.

Britain Probably Gets Award.

Paris, Oct. 3.—The Anglo-Venezuelan Commission will give its award to-day, and it is said that Great Britain has obtained a decided victory.

Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Brewer start for London on Wednesday and will sail for New York on the White Star line steamer Majestic on October 11.

Former President Benjamin Harrison goes to Berlin on Wednesday. From there he will go to The Hague. Brussels and London, where he will spend a few days prior to sailing for the United States on October 18.

Sir Richard Webster, George R. Askwith and Messrs. Imthurn, Buchanan and others go to London on Wednesday.

After the court had risen former President Harrison was asked as to how the award would go. But he professed ignorance. He did not seem anxious regarding the subject.

H. Vignand, secretary of the American Embassy, who called upon Mr. Harrison at the same time, said the former president's argument was much appreciated by the court. To this Mr. Harrison replied:

"We did our best in what I know is a right cause, but in an arbitral tribunal such as this it is all a toss-up. It does not resemble an ordinary tribunal, to the judges of which it is absolutely immaterial which party wins. I hold that for international disputes there should be a permanent arbitration court, as I said here when questioned on the subject, and not men specially appointed for a given object."

Two Killed in Lodging House Fire.

Bradford, Pa., Oct. 3.—At least two lives were lost in a fire which destroyed the building at No. 50 Main street, the upper stories of which were used as a lodging house. There was a shoe store on the ground floor. George Brown, a colored man, and Katie M. Conkling, a servant, were cremated, and it is feared that there are other bodies in the ruins. Jessie E. Doyle roused the sleeping occupants, enabling many to escape.

Active Volcanos in Alaska.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—A despatch to the Chronicle from Tacoma, Wash., says:

"Harry Lee of Chicago has returned from an exploring trip along the southern and western coasts of Alaska, where he has gathered a collection of Alaskan animals and birds. He says that volcanoes have been in eruption this summer in western Alaska. These are the volcano on Unga Island and two others, located west of Mount St. Elias and north of Cook Inlet.

"The volcanoes ejected smoke and fire. The Unga Island volcano is known to have emitted lava, compelling the miners and prospectors to move back."

Cure For the Plague.

Paris, Oct. 3.—La Fronde publishes the report of an interview with Prof. Calmette, the Pasteur Institute commissioner, who has returned from Oporto, in which the professor says that before his arrival the mortality, among those striken with the plague amounted to 33 per cent. Of fifteen treated with the serum, he adds, not one died. That restored public confidence, and in three days he inoculated 423 persons.

Chinese Police Assist Pirates.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 3.—Oriental advices say that the British gunboat Wivorn left Hong Kong Sept. 12 for West River for the suppression of pirates who have been carrying on depredations there recently. A serious disturbance took place at Hang Cau between Japanese passengers on a steamship and the Chinese. The Chinese police, instead of controlling their countrymen, assisted in the assault.

Big Steel Company Incorporated.

Harrisburg, Oct. 3.—A charter has been issued by the state department to the Sharon Steel Company, Sharon, with a capital of $3,000,000. Senator William Flinn and Christopher L. Magee of Pittsburg, are directors.

Rockland County Frostbitten.

Nyack, N. Y., Oct. 3.—There was a hard frost in the interior of Rockland County, killing plants and ruining the crops. It is years since ice has been seen in this vicinity so early in the season.

Result of Swedish Elections.

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 3.—The elections for members of the second chamber of the Riksdag have been concluded. The Leftists gained eighteen and the Rightists gained five seats.

Siege Raised in Belgrade.

Nisch, Servia, Oct. 3.—A ukase has been issued raising the state of siege which was established in the Department of Belgrade after the attempted assassination of ex-King Milan.

PLENTY OF IT.

Lots More Proof Like This, and it is all from People You Know.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof that the representations made for a household necessity are true, that place is Plainfield. If the cures in Plainfield numbered some half dozen there might be grave doubts about their genuineness. That many people in a place the size of Plainfield might have based their opinions on pure imagination, but when public endorsation reaches scores, and as many more endorsers are willing to testify to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, the evidence and the proof is incontrovertible. Investigation, the most superficial, will prove that Doan's Kidney Pills are an actual household necessity in Plainfield. Here is one of our endorsers:

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis of No. 212 Somerset street, foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Mfg., Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. A bladder trouble set in. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment by the time I had finished the third box the pain in my back and lameness disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I gladly recommend them as such whenever I have a chance."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

A Specific for Cancer.

"THE MISSISQUOI SPRING WATER has in some cases seemed to be of great benefit in arresting the progress of the disease. In a few instances, one of cancer of the breast and four of uterine cancer, the apparent effect has been more striking than any results I have seen from any other agent."

Fordyce Barker, M. D.

"I can fully endorse all that my friend Dr. Barker has said about the MISSISQUOI SPRING WATER. I have prescribed it with benefit in a few cases of cancer. I also consider it a great remedy in all scrofulous diseases, and in syphilitic affections. In these diseases its true value has not yet been fully recognized by the profession. It is also an admirable remedy in affections of the digestive organs, and in some diseases of the kidneys."

WAR ON IN TRANSVAAL

Kruger's Forces and British Troops Come Together in a Fierce Conflict.

BOERS ARE VICTORIOUS.

The Long Looked for Trouble in South Africa Has Finally Come to the Surface

Thirty-Seven British Killed in the First Battle — Boers Follow up Their Advantage and Capture Dundee—British Cavalry to Be Reinforced.

London, Oct. 3.—A bulletin from Cape Town says: Boers and British have clashed at Dundee. The Boers attacked in force, killing thirty-seven of the British soldiers. Following up their success, the Transvaalers re-attacked and finally captured the place. They now hold the city and the surrounding country. Reinforcements of British cavalry have started from Charlestown.

London, Oct. 3.—A special dispatch from Pretorio says that General Jan Kock will command the Boer forces on the Natal border. Commandant Cronje on the southwestern and General Schalk Burger on the eastern frontier, while General Malan will be in command in Rustenburg. Altogether there will be nine generals in command of columns.

A complete plan of campaign has been arranged with the Orange Free State.

A rigorous censorship is maintained over all press telegrams.

President Kruger made an address to the troops which started for the Natal border, appealing to their patriotism and wishing them godspeed.

The Morning Post complains again editorially that, although the Government put its hands to the plow in July, October has arrived without visible progress having been made, and the paper asks what it is waiting for, and expresses the opinion that "the expectant attitude maintained is hardly consonant with the high-sounding words that have been used."

It is understood that the Colonial Office received an important dispatch from Sir Alfred Milner, British High Commissioner for South Africa, the contents of which, however, have not been made public.

London, Oct. 3.—The Berlin correspondent of the News wires:

"According to the advices from The Hague Dr. Leyds, the European representative of the Transvaal, has named Tuesday as the day for a formal declaration of war by the Boers.

"There is an unconfirmd rumor in circulation here that Queen Victoria has written Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, deploring the turn events have taken in South Africa and assuring the Dutch monarch that she had gone to the utmost limits of her constitutional rights in the endeavor to secure peace."

The Cape Town corrspondent of the Chronicle telegraphs:

"Almost every Afrikander in the Cape House of Assembly or actively engaged in political life, and almost every minister of the Dutch Reform Church in the colony, has relatives in the Boer forces. A painful line of cleavage between Britain and Afrikanders is already manifesting itself."

The Standard's correspondent at Newcastle, Natal, describing the flight from Johannesburg, telegraphs:

"The train occupied nearly twice its usual time, owing to stoppages to allow precedence to trains going with burghers to the front. The passengers suffered great inconvenience, particularly the women and children, being unable to get enough food. The men were drenched with rain in the open trucks.

"British and Dutch were being commandered when I left and their goods were being seized. So far as I can learn, there are undoubtedly at least 20,000 armed Boers, well horsed, at different points on the border, especially in the direction of Natal. They boast their intention of invading Natal next Wednesday and of sweeping the British into the sea. It certainly looks as if Natal would be invaded in force.

"The burghers seem sturdy, folk. They are dressed in a variety of costumes. The chief defect discernibly if the large number of officials of inferior physique who accompany the troops. These are likely to prove a source of weakness.

"From Johannesburg to Volksrust the greatest enthusiasm seemed to prevail. It is estimated that 20,000 Boers with field guns now command all the heights within a fifteen-mile radius from Charlestown."

Gale Sweeps Grand Banks.

Provincetown, Mass., Oct. 3.—The schooner Willie L. Swift, of this port, has arrived bringing news of a terrific gale which swept the Grand Banks on Sept. 14. By it twenty-two fishermen were lost and the seventeen vessels on the banks at the time were greatly damaged. The Swift lost three men, her mainboom and gaff, cable, anchors and dories. The gale was one of the worst experienced in years.

Daniel Dockerty Free.

Grafton, Mass., Oct. 3.—The local authorities have received word that Daniel Dockerty, one of the burglars who robbed the Grafton Bank of $120,000 on Oct. 25, 1875, has been released from a prison in England, where he was serving a life sentence for murder. Dockerty was pardoned by the crown. He formerly lived in Hoboken, N. J.

Women Burned to Death.

Pierrepont Manor, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Two women, Miss Lucina Clark, aged forty-five years, and her mother, an invalid aged ninety years, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home here.

Sullivan Defeats Quigley.

New York, Oct. 3.—At the Broadway Athletic Club, Spike Sullivan knocked out Jerome Quigley in the sixth round.

FISHED UP RICH TREASURE

Money Thrown Away By Mad Man Found in Housatonic River.

Derby, Conn., Oct. 3.—A tin box containing $1,380 was found in the Housatonic River, five miles above this city, a few days ago, and the money has just been identified as that of the late Dwight Washburn, an Oxford farmer, who while mentally unbalanced threw it into the river in April, 1898.

Washburn would not trust banks, kept his savings, the accumulation of many years, in his farmhouse. He became afflicted with the delusion that his enemies were trying to get his money, which he kept in a tin box, and one day he took the box and wandered away. He returned without it and told his relatives that he had thrown it into the Housatonic River for safe keeping. He shortly became dangerously insane. While under the care of an officer he took the latter to the point on the river bank where he alleged that he threw in the money box. The river bed was dragged, but nothing was found. Washburn then became unmanageable and was sent to the Middletown Retreat for the Insane, where he died within a few days, grieving piteously over the loss of his money.

The money box was recovered by two young men who were fishing. They were about to throw the box away, but, seeing that it was securely locked, their curiosity was aroused, and they took the box to a hardware store to have the lock fitted with a key. The money was found intact The find was advertised, and Smith E. Wheeler, former conservator over Mr. Washburn, identified the box as the one in which his charge had kept his money for years. The money will go to Washburn's nearest relative, a niece.

Fever Reports From Havana.

Havana, Oct. 3.—The yellow fever report for September shows that eight Americans, eight Spaniards, one German and one Frenchman died during the month. The total number of cases during the month was fifty-four. At present there are twelve cases on hand, the majority convalescent.

Surgeon-Major Davis says he is well satisfied with the situation. He believes that within the next thirty days there may not be more than two or three cases. The weather is cooler and the city is clean. The surgeon-major considers it remarkable that Casa Blanca, formerly the worst part of the city, has had only one case of yellow fever.

Zinc Works Closed Down.

Jolpin, Mo., Oct. 3.—Ninety per cent. of the zinc miners in this district have stopped work in compliance with an order from the Missouri and Kansas Zinc Miners' Association. An effort is being made to force the smelters to pay a schedule of prices laid down by the association a few weeks ago, to which the smelters have refused to accede. At Webb City alone 1,500 miners will be thrown out of work temporarily.

Aeronauts Badly Injured.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—John Giroux, an eighteen-year-old aeronaut, while making a balloon ascension, became entangled in the ropes and fell when the balloon was one hundred feet from the ground. Giroux is alive, though severely injured.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—Albert McPherson, a young aeronaut, was thrown from the trapeze bar of a balloon near Glen Park, and injured so seriously that he will die.

Escaped Prisoners Recaptured.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 3.—Five men who were held in the Newport County Jail on the charge of holding up and robbing the Portsmouth car stables about two months ago, have escaped from the institution. The men were among the most desperate in the country, and were captured in Bridgeport, Conn., soon after the robbery. After a long chase the Newport police succeeded in recapturing the robbers.

Filipinos Want Peace.

Manila, Oct. 3.—The Filipino envoys held another conference with General Otis. General Alejandro insists that the natives desire peace, but that they can continue the war indefinitely, as they are well supplied with food. Aguinaldo's aim is to get recognition for his civil government, while General Otis declares that he will recognize him only as leader of the insurgent army.

Papal Delegates to Canada.

Quebec, Oct. 3.—Mgr. Falconio archbishop of Acerenza and Matera, the recently appointed papal delegate to Canada, arrived on the Vancouver from Liverpool and was received at the wharf by a large body of clergy and influential laymen. His powers are similar to those of Mgr. Satolli.

Cuba's Death Roll.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Gen. Brooke reports from Havana deaths as follows: Havana military hospital, Ray K. Murray, civilian employe, Quartermaster's Department, consumption, died 29; Puerto Principe, Edwin E. Blouch, H, Fifteenth Infantry, appendicitis, died the 29th.

Big Loan for British Government.

Lodon, Oct. 3.—The fall in Consols was partly due to rumors current on the Stock Exchange of an imminent issue of from twenty to twenty-five millions of Consols. The War Office officials, however, decline to either confirm or deny the report.

Accidentally Killed by Gas.

Torrington, Conn., Oct. 3.—Joseph E. Salisbury, of New Haven, a traveling salesman of that city, died in Conley's Inn here, from the effects of accidentally inhaling illuminating gas.

A Pertinent Query.

Teacher—Yes, children, the angel of death smote the first-born of each Egyptian family.

Tommie—What did he do when he ran up against twins?

Small But Strong.

Mr. North—You say you like spirited horses; what is your favorite breed?

Mr. South—Toe tell yo the truth, suh, a pony of brandy.

DOANE & EDSALL.

MRS. GEORGE FOSTER. Doctor, what can I do for belching of wind?
DOCTOR H. Belching of wind is due to fermentation of the food in the stomach. This is usually caused by the inability of the stomach to digest the foods containing starch. Avoid all intoxicants, fresh bread, rolls, rice, oatmeal, potatoes, peas, beans, corn, cake, pastry, pie, pork, sausage and rich foods. After meals take a Ripans Tabule. One will give you prompt relief, and their continued use for a week or two will cure the trouble if you abandon the foods that principally cause it.
A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the Family cartons (12 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

YACHT RACES BEGIN.

Over 100,000 People Witnessing the International Event.

New York, Oct. 3.—Upward of a hundred thousand people, it is estimated, "went down to the sea in ships" to witness the great yacht race. So large an audience has probably never before been collected for any purpose on the open sea.

The races, starting at 11 o'clock, may be over by 4 o'clock each day. The time limit for the yachts is six hours. In other words, unless the yachts cross the line by 5 o'clock the race will be declared off, provided the race starts at 11 o'clock.

The yacht winning three out of five races will be awarded the cup and the international championship. The flagship, the Corsair, takes its position near the Sandy Hook Lightship in the morning of each race day and come to anchor. An invisible line drawn between the two ships is the starting and finishing line. The course sailed over by the Columbia and Shamrock is announced only a few minutes before the race commences. The yachts are signaled which course to follow by flags displayed from the string stays (between the two masts) of the Corsair. Previous to the race a tugboat will mark off the course and place buoys to indicate the turning points.

American yachtsmen are apparently confident that Columbia is able to keep the cup on this side of the Atlantic. Here are the opinions of both sides:

C. O. Iselin—The Columbia is the fastest singlesticker ever built. I think the cup is safe.

Sir Thomas Lipton—We hope to "lift the cup." I believe that Shamrock is the best challenger sent over here. I have never failed in anything, so if I miss this year I'll come again next.

Capt. Barr—Columbia is a wonder. I don't see how she can fail to win.

William Fife, Jr., designer of the Irish racer—I have every confidence in the ability of Shamrock as a racing machine. We built her to win the cup and I think she will.

Dr. Mackay, of the Erin—I never saw a faster yacht than the Shamrock. It will be a fine race.

Clarence A. Postley, Commodore of the Larchmont Yacht Club—It will be an interesting race, and I believe our boat will win.

Col. David E. Austen, Secretary of the Atlantic Yacht Club—The Columbia is now superior to the Defender, and she is my choice against Shamrock.

The course is a triangle, each leg of which measures ten miles, or to beat to windward of fifteen miles and return to the stakeboat. The Columbia and Shamrock are towed down to the starting line, and allowed a few minutes in which to sail about before the signal for the start is given.

The selection of the triangular course or the beat to windward is governed by the force and direction of the wind at time of the race.

Columbia's spinnaker boom was found by Official Measurer John Hyslop to be two inches too long and the end had to be sawed off. The American cup defender's load line was also found to be two and a half inches short of its allotted ninety feet, and 1,700 pounds of lead had to be added to her ballast.

An Andree Sensation.

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 3—The buoy marked "Andree Polar Expedition," which, with the anchor attached, was found Sept. 9 on the north coast of Charles Island by the master of the Norwegian cutter Martha Larsask, was opened yesterday in the presence of a number of experts and members of the Cabinet. It was found to be the so-called North Pole buoy which Andree had arranged to drop if he succeeded in passing the pole.

Heavy Frosts Near Boston.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The temperature was unseasonably low in Boston and vicinity for the past three days. There have been heavy frosts and it is feared that much damage has been done in the country districts. In the city the temperature fell to 34.5 degrees, the lowest on record at the United States weather bureau here for any Oct. 2 in twenty-seven years.

Want Hanna to Stop It.

Cleveland, Oct. 3.—An appeal has been made to Senator Hanna by the G. A. R. to make Pension Commissioner Evans quit giving out interviews to the newspapers regarding frauds in seeking pensions. This request was made by Commander-in-Chief Shaw.

Justices Renominat d.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Justice Daniel J. Kenefick, Justice Warren B. Hooker and Justice Truman C. White have been renominated for Justices of the Supreme Court by the Republican Judicial Convention for the Eighth Judicial district.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 3.—After three days of rest the stock market opened to the accumulated reports of probable war in the Transvaal and consequently prices were off. Some stocks showed pretty large declines. Tennessee coal, for instance, declined 6½ points. All the English markets in London were weak to-day, but there wasva little activity and hardly any liquidation on the decline. The reports from the Transvaal were alarming. Before the close of the day there was a rally.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Closing prices for spot: Wheat 74¾, corn 31⅝, oats 23⅛, pork 8.20, lard 5.47.

Tommy's Turn

Tommy—Miss Upjohn, I want to know the names of the twelve Disciples.

His Sunday School Teacher—Certainly, Tommy. They were Peter, James, John, Andrew, Philip, Thomas, Judas, and—and—I can find the names of the others in a moment——

Tommy—No fair lookin'! I knowed you couldn't do it!

His Frank Confession

There had been a few words, and she declined his proffered arm.

"I do not need your support," she said, haughtily.

"But I need yours," he replied.

He could not forget, even in the excitement of a lover's quarrel, that she had considerable money in her own right.

TRYING TO SAVE CARTER

Attorney Kellogg Will Put up a Hard Fight for His Client's Liberty.

CARTER IS STILL IN JAIL

Kellogg to Make Application For a Writ of Habeas Corpus to Stop Execution of Sentence.

President McKinley to be Appealed to For a Pardon if These Proceedings Fail—Will Contend That the Offense Was a Civil and Not a Military One.

New York, Oct. 3.—Luther L. Kellogg, of the counsel for ex-Capt. Oberlin M. Carter, U. S. A., convicted of robbing the Government of $1,700,000, will make an attempt to free his client.

Carter is still in the military jail on Governor's Island, where he was taken Saturday, from the smoking-room of the New York Athletic Club.

Mr. Kellogg says: "We hope on two grounds. One is that we can secure a writ of habeas corpus in the United States court; the other is that President may be induced to see the case in a favorable light and pardon my client.

"We must work quickly and before the prisoner reaches Fort Leavenworth jail, where he is sentenced to serve five years and pay a fine of $5,000. I am going to Albany, but I won't say what for.

"We shall maintain among other things that the court-martial had no jurisdiction and that the offense, if any, was a civil one. If we fail the petition will be sent to President McKinley. Carter's friends will sign it."

The order for his removal to Fort Leavenworth has not yet arrived at Governor's Island, and Capt. B. K. Roberts, commandant, said that as soon as it did, he would begin to make arrangements for the prisoner's transfer.

For breakfast, a tin plate of hash, half a loaf of bread and a tin cup of coffee are served the ex-captain, but he doesn't have much appetite.

Friends are allowed to send him delicacies, some of which he shares with the soldier on guard outside of his cell.

One of the soldiers at the post said that the ex-captain objected strenuously to the size of his cell when he arrived Saturday, but that his request for more luxurious quarters was denied.

R. E. Westcott, a brother-in-law of Carter, expressed himself as hopeless for any mitigation of sentence.

"Our family has not interested itself directly in Capt. Carter's case," he said, "beyond securing Wayne MacVeagh for his counsel.

"He has failed to get Carter's release and surely we can do no more. I do not care to express any opinion concerning the case."

Root Annulls the Contract.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—Secretary of War Root has annulled the contract of the Atlantic Contracting Company for the improvement of the river and harbor at Savannah, Ga., and at Cumberland Sound. The action followed immediately the opinion rendered by the Attorney General that the contract should and could be cancelled at once. It is said that the government has ample ground upon which it might act, as well as the charge that the company was involved with former Captain O. M. Carter, now in prison on Governor's Island. Carter, on behalf of the government, had supervised the work of the company.

An effort will be made to indict the contractors who were mixed up in the deal with Captain Carter at Savannah.

Sword For Captain Chadwick.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 3.—Arrangements for Chadwick Day in Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 10, when West Virginia is to present a sword to Captain French E. Chadwick of the cruiser New York, have been completed. President McKinley has written to say that he cannot be present, but Rear-Admiral Sampson and his staff will be there. Governor Atkinson will make the presentation speech.

Rats Sink a Steamship.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 3.—The steamship Olympia brings news of the loss of the steamship White Cloud, which was proceeding from Hong Kong to Manila under an American charter. The vessel foundered when about ninety miles from Hong Kong and seven men were drowned. The crew had just time enough to get away from the steamship when she foundered.

Schooner Badly Damaged.

Vinyard Haven, Oct. 3.—The schooner Winnie Lawry of Boston, bound from Edgewater, N. J., for St. John, N. B., with a cargo of coal, is sinking at this port. The schooner sprung a leak during a strong northerly wind Saturday night about forty miles northeast of Cape Cod.

Ex-Senator Harlan Dying.

Mount Pleasant, Ia., Oct. 3.—Former United States Senator James Harlan, the only survivor of Abraham Lincoln's cabinet, is at the point of death at his home in this city. His daughter, Mrs. Robert T. Lincoln, who is at Monmouth Beach, N. J., has been summoned.

Looting of the Scotsman.

Liverpool, Oct. 3.—On arrival here from Queenstown, the police arrested twelve firemen of the British steamship Scotsman, which was wrecked on Sept. 21 in the Straits of Belle Isle, while bound from Liverpool to Montreal, on the charge of looting the passengers' cabins on board the Scotsman.

Thirty Buildings Burned.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—A special despatch to the Tribune from Pittsfield, Ill., says: "Fire almost destroyed the town of Nebo, in the southern part of the county. More than thirty buildings were burned."

The Newark News points out that the Legislature last winter, while patriotism was at fever heat, and the Maine had not yet been forgotton, appropriated $500 to erect a monument in Havana to the memory of the Jerseymen who lost their lives on that ill-fated battleship. The act authorized the Governor to appoint two commissioners to act in conjunction with the Secretary of War in selecting a suitable site for the memorial and to see to its erection. It was provided that these commissioners should serve without compensation, and as the amount of the appropriation would not permit any part of it to be used for expenses there was no rush of applicants for the job. Governor Voorhees announced that he would be glad to appoint any one who would volunteer or any Jerseyman going to Cuba for business or pleasure, but there was no response, and as a result the commendable puppose of the Legislature has never been carried out. It was a proper and praiseworthy sentiment which inspired the lawmakers to provide for a lasting tribute to the memory of the citizens of this State who perished in Havana Harbor, and it is is to be hoped that means will eventually be found to carry it out.

Unless an international hog trust is possible, pork ought soon to be cheaper in this country through the operations of a syndicate of French, German and Russian capitalists, who have raised $50,000,000 to compete with American pork exporters. The plan is to raise hogs on a large scale in Siberia, where it can be done cheaper than in the United States, and to establish at the proper points slaughter houses run on the most approved American plan.

TELESCOPE THAT DISCOVERED THE TRIPLE STAR.

Prof. Campbell, with the great telescope of the Lick Observatory, has made a great discovery. It was supposed that only one companion sun shared the solitude of Polaris—the Pole star—but Prof. Campbell has discovered a second companion sun, the three forming a triple system.

The Paterson Guardian appeared yesterday under the new management into which it has passed. It promises to sustain its former well known sterling Democratic character, and to maintain an excellent news service. The new talent has the best wishes of The Daily Press.

A wife in Cleveland, O., who is being sued for a divorce, has been ordered by the Court to pay $4 a week alimony to her husband pending the decision of the case and $20 attorney's fees. The emancipation of women may have its drawbacks after all.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

If The News is foolish in insisting that Passaic should have dollar gas somehow, there are a lot of fools in Plainfield, too. The People's Gas Company filed articles of incorporation Saturday. It is capitalized at $100,000, and has some of the best men in the community behind it. Tonight an application will be made to the Plainfield Council for a franchise. One of the stipulations will be that the company will sel gas at not more than $1 a thousand feet, and as much lower as the volume of business will warrant. Inasmuch as the Plainfield Gas and Electric Company is getting $1.80 for gas, and within the past few years has charged as high as $3, the opposition company will receive a warm welcome.—Passaic News.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A New Jersey man has patented a hitching post which will accommodate bicycles as well as horses, the portion of the post nearest the pavement being provided with slots of sufficient width to admit the wheel of the machine.

* * * * * *

There is located at the saloon of J. A. Elatz a telephone which anyone can use by dropping the necessary price in a slot. To use the phone one must drop at least a dime in the box. There is no way of beating the machine. By dropping a penny in the slot a slight noise is made which "central" can hear, but the operator can always tell how much is dropped in the box and therefore can determine quickly whether anyone wants a call or not.

* * * * * *

New Brunswick has finally awakened from its Rip VanWinkle lethargy, and its merchants are about to hustle for some of the business which has slipped away from them while they have been watching the grass grow among the cobble stones of that antiquated city. The latest thing about this old Dutch city is the spasmodic endeavors the merchants are making to increase their trade. In their efforts to pose as enterprising the New Brunswick mercantile houses have caught the spirit possessed by the Newark business men and they purpose trying the free ride system adopted last summer by the largest "village in the State." Next Tuesday the experiment of running a free excursion to some of the nearby boroughs is to be tried. Everyone riding on the trolley who wishes a free trip must pay his fare when the conductor gives him a ticket which entitles him to a rebate from any of the thirty odd business men who are paying for the excursion. Strange to relate, Plainfield is included in the list of places to which the excursion will be run. Why what nonsense! But then, that must be a joke! What man or woman would think of going from Plainfield to New Brunswick to buy goods? Why, that sleepy, old town hasn't got a dry goods store that would even do credit to a country village. Certainly, no man or woman in this vicinity would think of going to New Brunswick to trade, when right here at home are to be found some of the finest equipped mercantile establishments to be seen outside of New York city. If you can't find what you want in this city there's no need to go to sleepy New Brunswick.

JERSEY RIFF-RAFF.

Odd Facts of Interest Gleaned From Various Sections.

The immense corn crop of South Jersey is now being harvested, and the yield is even more prolific than anticipated.

One hundred and ten loads of tomatoes were received at the Alloway canning factoty, breaking the record for one day.

The oyster business at the Greenwich piers is picking up. One shipper sent away 600,000 in the past six days, and expects his weekly shipments to average 1,000,000.

Poetry secured the release of Leslie Beers from the Camden Jail. Seeing his verse in print caused Beers to get in jail again the same day. He beat a man who would not read it.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

A Birthday Party.

Miss Genevieve Hazard, of Lyman place, gave a party on Saturday afternoon to celebrate her eighth birthday. The following little girls helped to make it a happy occasion: Marguerite Van Norden, Florence Phillipe, Grace and Nelly Squier, Hazel Grant, Ethel Manchester, Ella Sandbug, Viola Staats, Erickson Van Norden, Dorcas and Genevieve and Russella Hazard.

Sergeant Kiely Laid up for Repairs.

Sergeant Kiely is now able to be about again with the aid of a cane after being confined to his home for over a week with a sprained ankle. He is not yet able to return to duty however. The Sergeant sprained his ankle by a fall from his wheel, the result of a collision with another wheel man who ran into the Sergeant.

To Arrange for the Parade.

The Exempt Fireman's Association will hold a business meeting tomorrow evening to make arrangements to participate in the fireman's parade in the borough the 12th of October. A full attendance is desired.

Out of Danger Now.

Mrs. Michael Walsh, of West Third street, who was recently gored by a mad cow, is still at the hospital under treatment. She is out of danger and hopes soon to be out again.

—City Steam and Hand Laundry, 19 Somerset street, clean lace curtains and blankets and will return them to you white. It requires skill and carefulness to do this work and make them a dainty white without injuring a thread, but this laundry can do it. Give them a trial.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF

to the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee upsets the stomach, ruins the digestion effects the heart and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c. per package.

Fall Opening
---OF---
Fine Millinery
-:- AT -:-
Woodhull & Martin's.

OPENING DAYS
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A rare display of exclusive millinery. The season's choicest production. All the newest novelties in Fancy Felts, Tam-o-shanter Golf Hats, Empire and Gainsboroughs. The newest shades in Millinery Materials, such as Chiffons, Malines, Velvet Ribbons, Feathers, Breasts, etc. Every lady in the city cordially invited to attend this grand opening.

MISS M. M. GASSNER.

Golf Suitings.

Fashion makes it imperative that Golf Suiting be worn. We are inclined to encourage their use, for no more durable and stylish suitings were ever introduced to the buying public. Double-faced, warm, serviceable, need no lining. Our line ranges in price from $1.25 to $3.98 per yard, and we believe our styles equal to the best shown by N. Y. houses. Our prices we believe to be lower, as we purchased early before the subsequent rise in price.

Underskirts. New fall styles are now on sale, and let us say to you—you may look many a day for a more attractive lot of styles. They are made of satines, Italian cloths, mercerized cottons, morreens, etc., in both black and colors.

New waists in flannel, brilliantine, satine, silk, etc. Styles are exclusive and prices are right.

Sundry Novelties.

New Embroidered Chiffons—Tucked Silks, Corded Silks, etc., for dress fronts. All over point-de-venise dress laces in black and cream, plain lace nets, new veilings, new neck novelties, velvet ribbons in satin back and linen back, butter colored lace ties with embroidered ends, black jetted lace nets, etc.

Kid Gloves. We sell no cheap kid gloves. No lady is well-dressed with either cheap gloves or cheap shoes. Better wear a cheap dress. $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 are our prices for good gloves. The last two numbers are entirely new and very desirable. Must be seen, however, to be appreciated.

New Table Damasks.

Our sales in this line are certainly phenomenal. We have surprised ourselves as well as our friends. It is not the result of accident, but rather the natural response to persistent effort to secure and offer to our customers special values. The latest attractions in this department are two special Bleached Damasks at 50c and 75c per yard. The 50c number is worth 75c and the 75c number is worth 89c, or we are guilty of prevarication.

DOWN STAIRS.

The old saying "forewarned forearmed" has proved true in our case in regard to White Iron Beds. Anticipating the rise in price of these goods we bought early and often all the iron beds we could find storage for. Prices have advanced since until we could sell the goods back to the people we bought them of at a handsome profit.

We prefer, however, to give our friends the benefit of our good fortune. Iron Beds, Brass trimmed, at 3.75, 4.98, 5.75, 6.48, 7.98, 8.49, 9.98, 10.75, 11.50, 12.50, 13.75, 14.98. Every bed quoted worth from 15 to 25 per cent more.

MATTRESSES.

Soft Top Mattresses, 1.98, 2.45. Husk, soft top, 2.98. Victor Combination, 1 part, 3.98. Victor Combination, 2 parts, 4.48. 45 lb Pure White Cotton, A. C. A. tick, 2 parts, 5.98. Genuine Felt Mattress, Fancy tick, 1 part or 2 parts, 8.50. Silk Floss Mattress, to order, 15.00. Springs, Pillows, Furniture, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Shades, Rugs, etc.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 3—An evening of music, song and recitation will be held at the Methodist church Thursday evening. Some well-known people will take part. This will be the society event of the autumnal season in church circles. An interesting programme has been arranged.

A disgraceful row took place at New Market Saturday afternoon between several well-known people. One Bill Roantree, it is claimed, started the fracas. In a few moments there was a lively scrap in front of Davis' grocery. No arrests were made.

While coming down from Flemington Sunday night Frank Teuzeo ran into a cow which was grazing alongside the highway, and his wheel was badly wrecked.

The Misses Julia and Nellie Dodwell will give a small dancing party at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dodwell, this evening.

Miss Lilly Warden is entertaining one of the members of the Georgia Regiment that came on to participate in the Dewey celebration.

A birthday party will be given at the home of Rubbie Smalley, on Fairview avenue, this evening.

The Chichester-Craig chair factory yesterday shipped a quantity of stools to out-of-town parties.

Prof. and Mrs. Richard Morris have been entertaining Mrs. Messerole, Mrs. Morris' sister.

Some improvements are being made to the Fisher property on Prospect avenue.

The trees about the Whittier School building are being trimmed.

PLAINS AND FA...

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 3.—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Baptist church was held in the parlors of the church last night.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff, of the Methodist church, preached a very interesting sermon Sunday evening upon lessons learned from the Dewey celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Provost, of Decatur, Ill., who have been spending a month with Freeholder and Mrs. John Robison, have returned to their home.

Mrs. Edward Smith, of Plainfield, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Messler, for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Morey and child have returned from a short visit with Mrs. Morey's parents in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexandra MacCauley have been entertaining their neice, Miss Bates, of Newark, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Devine and family, of Plainfield, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Taynor.

Clinton Clark has purchased Wm. H. Carter's milk business. Mr. Clark took possession Monday morning.

Rev. G. M. Shott spent Monday in New York attending the ministers' weekly conference meeting.

The Misses Squires have returned from a short visit with relatives in Rahway.

Cup Offered by Mr. Schepflin.

The feature at the grounds of the New Jersey Bowling Greens Club at Communipaw Saturday was to have been the final round between James Shaw and Thomas Patterson for a pair of handsomely mounted bowls presented annually to the club by the president. Charles Schepflin, of the Middlesex Bowling Greens Club, of Dunellen. Shaw was on hand, but Patterson failed to appear.

Richard Davis, of Newark, has been visiting Plainfield friends.

To Accommodate

those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Bright and fresh as a June flower, "The Air Ship," a spectacular musical farce comedy, will float across the stage of Music Hall tonight with scenic features of more than ordinary merit for such a production, and it will no doubt find a cordial reception throughout the country. The author is J. M. Gaites, who wrote "A Railroad Ticket." In "The Air Ship" a real air ship is introduced in the second act, where the Klondike voyage is seen. Fifteen people ride in the vessel across the stage, and upon their return, laden with wealth and pretty girls who had captured rich husbands in the gold fields, the air ship encounters a terrific thunder storm, through which, however, it passes uninjured. A happy denouement takes place at Old Point Comfort. The piece leaves the theatregoer in a happy mental condition and a desire to see it again, which is a good test of a popular attraction. Neither the author or management have any apology to offer for presenting "The Air Ship." They believe it is suited to amuse and please the public, which is the chief aim and ambition today of all theatrical managers.

* * * * * *

Wm. T. Keogh's latest novelty offering in the amusement line is a sensational western play called "The Great Train Robbery," from the pen of Scott Marble, which will be seen at Music Hall Thursday night. It has a strong dramatic plot and story, as well as startling situations and vividly realistic features. It is said to possess more than a usual amount of comedy. Its great popularity depends not only on a train robbery, in which the action is terribly real, but it arises mostly from the fact that it shows typical western characters, real untamed Indians in all the glory of war paint and feathers, and other interesting concomitants. Aside from being a well-drawn and really fine play, it is amusing and instructive. A big amount of dramatic material seems to have been found for it and is said to have been used with good judgment. The company is large, and judging from the names in the cast should be an admirable one.

* * * * * *

The scenes of "The Highwayman," to be presented at Music Hall Wednesday evening, Oct. 11th, are written in an atmosphere of wayside inns, lonely country roads and pastoral glades, when gentlemen at the beginning of the century comforted themselves with the philosophy that if hanging was a bad fate, starvation was worse, and therefore resorted to robbery as a fine art when luck was against them. It is a genuine comic opera, bubbling over with fun and infectious music, and gorgeously mounted.

First View of

FALL MILLINERY.

Reception Days

Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7.

Among the many happenings, occasions and events which from time to time you are invited to attend here, this exposition of Autumn Millinery stands out in bold relief as the finest and most complete showing of its kind ever attempted in the history of this progressive store.

To attempt a detailed account of all that has been done to bring this beautiful assemblage of before you would take columns of space. The fact is here, rounded out and complete. We're proud of the exhibit; we're proud of the taste and skill shown by our corps of milliners. We are surprised at the beauty of these artistic creations, and what pleases us most is there's not a bonnet or hat in the whole collection but is so modestly priced as to come well within reach of the great rank and file of our millinery buying public.

Kindly accept this invitation to attend the opening. See for yourself how well we have worked for you. Your millinery wants will be promptly attended to. Your most minute wish carefully carried out. Orders should be given as early as possible so as to avoid the disappointment of delay, which (even with our equipment), sometimes occurs after the season's rush begins.

Greatest Sale of Fall and Winter

CLOTHING

Ever held in Plainfield. Prices that will be in reach of everybody at 214 WEST FRONT ST., NEXT DOOR TO MUSIC HALL.

SALE TO LAST TEN DAYS ONLY.

NEED OF READY CASH causes a sacrifice of fine clothing by manufacturers, their stock offered at 35c on the dollar. Too many goods on hand is the reason for this wonderful sale. Manufacturers must have cash, this is an honest sacrifice of goods by first-class reliable manufacturers who have made up more clothing than they can sell and consequently close out their surplus at an enormous loss for ready money.

We guarantee that for one dollar you get three dollars worth of clothing.

Just Look at These Prices:

Men's woolen suits, worth $9. at $2.75. Men's extra durable trousers, worth $3. at 95c. Men's fall overcoats, worth $7.50, at $2.75. Men's and young men's striped worsted suits at $6 50, worth $16.50. Men's winter overcoats, worth 15.00, at 4.25, and hundreds of other bargains in suits and trousers. These prices don't represent the cost of making these goods, they are clean made garments and bear the labels of the best makers in the country. There will also be sold elegant business and dress suits for men at 3.50, 4.50, 5.50, 6.50, 8.00 and 9.00, actually and honestly worth from 15.00 to 25.00. No shop-worn truck, but clean, honest clothing, good enough for the best dressed man in Plainfield. Bring this ad with you and if we don't show you everything we will pay you car fare both ways.

Come this Saturday at 8 a. m, and get the first pick while the assortment is still large, don't hesitate, don't delay, first come, first choice, come and see for yourself.

Elegant silk lined fall overcoats worth from 15.00 to 20.00, at 4.50, 5 50 and 6.50. Elegant dress trousers, worth from 3.50 to 7.00, at 2 25 and 2.50. Every man and woman within 25 miles of Plainfield should visit this unprecedented sale.

Child's 3-piece middy suits at 75c, worth 2.00. Boy's school suits from 8 to 16, at 1.00, 1.25 and 1.50, worth from 2.50 to 5.00. Children's knee pants at 15c, this is a special and won't last long. Boy's knee pants, strictly all wool with double seat and double knees, extra heavy weight, worth 75c at 39c.

THE HOBO ON THE PILOT

Things Came His Way and He Took Advantage of Them.

"It was way back in the seventies," said an old engineer. "I was pulling the 'limited' east from Council Bluffs to Chicago over the Rock Island. The night was bitterly cold. We had gone about twenty miles out and had stopped at a night office for orders and had started up again, when the fireman reached over and said: 'There is a hobo on the pilot; saw him get on at the depot.' 'Sure?' I said. 'Go out on the running board and see if he's there yet.' The fireman did as he was ordered to do and returned with the information that the hobo was still there.

"'Well,' said I, 'it's a bitter cold night, and if he can stand it out there I am willing he should ride with me.' And on we went toward Chicago, with old '211' barking like sixty at the low joints ahead and forgetful of our 'head-end' passenger on the pilot.

"By and by, by the faint glimmering of the headlight, I thought I saw ahead what seemed to be a bunch of cattle on the track. As we approached it the bunch seemed to grow larger. It was now too late to do anything, so I just pulled her wide open and old 211 hit that bunch of cattle 'ka-bif.' To paraphrase the language of Tennyson, who glides into raptures of admiration over the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava, there was just simply cattle to the right of us cattle to the left of us, cattle to the rear of us, but none any more in front of us. After it was over our thoughts reverted to the hobo on the pilot. 'Go out and see if he is still there,' I said."

"Well," said an old brakeman, under whose feet the frosts of many winters had crackled as he wended his way in the dark over many a long train of box cars, and who had been listening to the story. "Well," said he, "was he killed?"

"No," replied the engineer. "There he sat, as large as any hobo could sit, on the pilot with an oyster can milking one of those darned cows."

A Haunting Fear.

"I wonder if Miss Clinger would sing 'For All Eternity?'"

"Don't ask her. We mustn't risk it—fear she would."

Could Remember Some Things.

Traveling Missionary—How many children have you, Mr. Burdock?

Farmer Burdock (doubtfully)—Well, now, I dunno. There'e Dick and John and Kate—wife, how how many children are there around here?

His Wife—Nine; five boys and four girls.

Traveling Missionary—A fine family and a fine farm, Mr. Burdock. You keep stock, I presume?

Farmer Burdock—Oh, yes; I've got 173 head of Jersey cattle, 589 sheep and 91 hogs.

Summing Up the Situation.

The young woman was chewing gum very rapidly as she walked through the zoo.

She paused to look at the giraffe.

"Well," she exclaimed; "ain't he the rubberneckest!"

Then she chewed gum more rapidly than ever.

He Apologized.

Bilson—I understand you called me a flannel-mouthed old duffer.

Jilson—No. Some one has been stringing you. I hope I have too much sense to use such highly improper language as that. Flannel shrinks, you know, and that is more than I could truthfully say of your mouth.

Their Understanding.

The Maid.—I found a four-leaved clover this morning. There is an old saying that the finder will be married within a year.

The Bachelor—Indeed! I was under the impression that the finding of a four-leaved clover was an omen of good luck.

Nature's Influence on Man.

"Nature exercises a wonderful and mysterious influence over men. Certain plants are poison to some folks and medicine to others."

"Yes, and my husband is always troubled with rheumatism when the grass begins to get tall upon our lawn."

What He Was Looking For.

Lady—So you are looking for a square meal, eh?

Tramp—No'm; I'm looking for a round one.

Lady—I never heard of such a thing. Pray what is a round meal?

Tramp—One dat hasn't any end to it, mum.—Chicago News.

How It Happened.

Mrs. Watts—Here is an odd story in the paper; a man started to repair a pigsty, which so enraged the animal that it killed him.

Mr. Watts—Perhaps the pig thought the man was going to begin housecleaning.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Man of Letters.

"The fellow who fixed the alphabet in its present shape," said Rivers, "must have had a strong distrust of greenhorns."

"Why?" asked Brooks.

"Because he arranged it so he could always keep an I on the J."

His Simple Request.

"My poor man, here is a penny—all I can afford to give you, as my earnings are very small."

"Well, c-c-couldn't you manage to work a little harder in future, so you can gimme a bit more?"

Mixed Motives.

"She insisted on being married in June."

"Well, she must have been smitten."

"Then she let out that her hair won't stay frizzled in July and August."

FASHION HINTS.

New Ideas In Various Departments of the Wardrobe.

The line of white in the front of mourning bonnets is permitted only to widows. In all other cases of mourning it is omitted.

The wearing of gloves by a hostess on her "at home" day is not countenanced by women of the best taste. It is a caprice of fashion which is necessarily but temporary.

DINNER BODICE.

Strong rice water is employed instead of starch for linen by some of the best French laundresses.

Kerosene is useful for other purposes than burning. Shoes which have become stiffened by dampness may be softened by being dressed with kerosene, and it will also serve to brighten pewter and tin and to clean iron articles.

The fashionable coiffure is as loose as possible. The hair is waved throughout and arranged in a bouffant style, the ends being drawn to the top of the head and coiled simply. A careless effect is, above all things, desirable, but the carelessness must not degenerate into untidiness.

A picture is given of a dinner bodice. It is tight fitting and is of ruby surah shirred all over. A corselet of renaissance guipure covers a part of the bodice, and the larger portion of the sleeves and the entire collar are covered with guipure. The corsage is worn without a belt and is slightly pointed in front. A bow of ruby foulard is placed at the left side. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SKIRTS.

Different Methods of Hiding the Fastening.

The one absolute rule with regard to the closing of the skirt is that it shall be invisible. It may be at the middle of the back, at the middle of the front, at one or both sides or at the hip, but it must be adequately disguised. Whenever trimming follows the line of a seam the matter is simplified, as the decoration will conceal the fastening; also when the fastening occurs at each side of the tab-lier it may be converted into a decoration in itself if the edges of the openings are stitched and lines of ornamental buttons are used. Where there can be no such arrangement, however, the only method is to press the edges of the opening very flat, underface them smoothly and employ invisible buttons which fasten by pressure, like certain kinds of glove buttons.

A narrow band of stiff muslin is now placed in the hem of the skirt. The skirt may be additionally sustained by gathering the silk frill, which is placed inside the hem, on a cord or even two cords, instead of on a silk thread.

The picture shows a design for a bridesmaid's gown. It is of pink crepe de chine, the skirt being ornamented with groups of horizontal tucks. Around the foot are four narrow accordion plaited frills, edged with narrow lace. The bodice, which is closed at the side, has groups of horizontal tucks and a yoke of guipure over pink silk. The yoke is encircled by two circular ruffles of crepe de chine and a plaited frill bordered with lace. These are carried down the edge of the opening to the waist. The sleeves are tucked horizontally. The belt is of black velvet, and black velvet choux trim the bodice. The black velvet hat is trimmed with black plumes.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Oriental Criticism.

"I have just been reading the honorable works of one of your most famous female English poets," said the educated Japanese, "and I cannot understand her so exceeding popularity. I refer to the 'Mother Goose.' There is one of her poems of celebrity in which she acquaints us of 24 blackbirds that sang after they had been beforehand baked into a pie. The 'Mother Goose' I regard and consider as one of the greatest liars of the English speaking antiquity."—Chicago Tribune.

BACHELOR MAID'S TRIUMPH.

Now Has Her Own Latchkey and, of Course, Her Own Hours.

Not content with wresting every known perquisite of emancipated man, the Bachelor Girl has now torn the last sacred belonging from him. This time it is the latchkey that goes—the latchkey that heretofore has been supposed to be the sole property of the man about town who meanders home in the early morning hours somewhat the worse for wear.

But the Bachelor Girl is nothing if not determined, and so she has adopted the last remaining article that man could call his own. When the key came, the pocket had to come with it, of course, and now it is cut in the back of the dress skirt very near the belt line, and with a bit of flap over it to conceal the fact that a coat tail is missing. And thus it is that the freed woman goes on her way, conscious that she may at least enter her own doors at all sorts of coveted and fascinating hours without arousing everyone from the butler to the aged grandparent who "disapproves, Harriet, disapproves."

When the pocket came the key chain had to follow in its wake, and, behold from a suspender button proudly sewn to the tailor girl's "weskit" hangs the jeweler's device, for she has not been emancipated long enough to leave off sterling silver and take to plain nickel plate. She will, though, when moons have rolled around and she becomes as wise as the latchkey will let her be.

When the Bachelor Girl went into business she was forced into some of the needs of a man, and some of the patented rights of his royalty had to come to her, and so there came the key ring, in the train of the key and chain, and there was another chance for the smithy to turn out pieces of artistic workmanship. They are oftener heart-shaped wires of silver, solid and wide, of course. So it seems that woman never gets so "new" that she cannot carry hearts around. Other designs are serpents, and over their spring-set tails go the door-key, the mail box key, the escritoire key and all the rest of the lot that used to be always "among the missing."

A Little Trick of the Modiste.

One of the most successful modistes in New York owes her prosperity very largely to a scheme so simple it is strange that no one has ever thought of it before. It is as follows: The dressmaker's establishment is in a double house—that is to say, one with rooms on either side of its hallway in the middle. One side is dedicated to one sort of customers, the fat; the other to another sort, the lean. No "plump" woman was ever known to pass beyond the portals leading to the side not intended for her, and no "sylph" has ever yet been permitted to acquaint herself with the mysteries of the apartments consecrated to those of adipose figure. Of course, it is the mirrors. Every dressmaker has them of the two sorts, but not every dressmaker has been shrewd enough to keep the two so distinct and separate. The fat customer at this particular establishment sees herself at all sides in glasses that make her look like the sylph she isn't, while the living skeleton herself would present rounded contours if reflected by the magic mirrors lining the walls of the thin rooms. "Thick" and "thin" is the way the two sets of apartments are designated by the employes of the establishment. The audience into which a brand new patron is ushered for the first time is without mirrors of any kind, and the first that Elise says to Celeste, when she announces the new arrival, is: "Shure, an' is she thick or thin?"

A Good Field For a Clever Girl.

Almost all the so-called society girls in New York have become absolutely dependent upon the hairdresser for the correct arrangement of the hair for their balls, dinners and dances. They have their hair dressed at five o'clock in the afternoon sometimes to go to a ball at ten. A clever young woman who wanted to make some money for herself, and who had known the luxury of a hairdresser at one time in her life, saw an opening. She went to a good place, took a few lessons, without giving her name, of course, and then she told her girl friends she would come and dress their hair for them. What has been the consequence? She is simply overrun with orders. Her quickness and knack and knowledge of how a swell girl wants to look (having been one herself) are of immense service to her. The girls whose hair she has dressed this winter vow that they never looked so well in their lives.

An Ingenious Made Over.

An ingenious woman who had a cloth gown with a close-fitting jacket blessed with huge sleeves has made a blouse front of the tops of the sleeves, using the original fronts of the jacket, cut somewhat on the bias, to form a narrow skirt to the bodice, first cutting off the jacket at the back of the waist line. The bodice is belted with velvet and velvet forms the sleeves, a big, flaring turned-back cuff having been made from the lower part of the sleeve. The cloth and velvet are of dark green and the braid used in trimming the blouse is black. No one could guess that this frock was not an entirely new one, and as it is quite up to date now in style, what does it matter what its previous form was?

Not Discontented Women.

"The Moslem woman is satisfied with her condition and would on no account accept the freedom of the Christian woman," writes Mme. Hyacinthe Loyson, wife of Pere Hyacinthe, who during her travels in the Orient was freely admitted to the harems.

QUEER FOLK, THOSE PEOPLE WHO LIVE ON THE SHORES OF THE FJORDS OF NORWAY.

Queer Customs of These People Who Never Bow or Offer Their Hands When Calling At a Neighbor's House.

Inhabitants of the shores of the fiords and the valleys of the coast range of Norway are the most taciturn of people. A peasant calling at a neighbor's house neither bows nor offers his hand. He does not even take off his cap. He simply says "Good day," or uses the customary Norwegian greeting, "Thanks for the last." Nor is the host distracted from whatever he is doing by the entrance of a visitor. He merely looks up and responds, "God bless you" or "No thanks needed," but his words and accent leave the visitor in no uncertainty as to whether he is welcome or not.

When a farmer is about to take a journey he packs his wagon, hitches up his horse and gives his wife minute orders concerning the work to be done during his absence, but it never enters his head to mark the parting with a "Goodby" or a pressure of the hand. There is the same absence of greeting or any signs of satisfaction on his return. He first cares for the horse and then, surrounded by his children, who always expect little presents upon these occasions, he unpacks the purchases he has made in the city. He does not kiss his wife nor greet her in any way, and she, on her part, does not allow her momentary occupation to be disturbed at all by his coming.

Old Eilert Sundt who, some forty years ago, made a laborious investigation of Norwegian customs, said to a peasant: "It seems to me that your wife ought to leave her work and give you her hand and a 'How are you?' when you come home."

The peasant could not restrain his mirth. He said: "Why, all the farm hands would laugh at us."

"Did you ever hear of a farmer saying 'Good day' to his wife when he came home?" Sundt asked.

"Yes," the peasant answered. "There was a man in the parish a good many years ago who had that singular habit."

Love-talk and affectionate demonstrations of every kind are avoided studiously, even between parents and children. The children receive the best possible care. It may be mentioned, incidentally, that each child has its own little chest containing among other things one shirt for each pear of his life. But parents never pet children who have left the cradle. The customary "Good morning, mamma," and "Good night, mamma," almost universal elsewhere, are unknown in Norway.

Even when the grown son or daughter leave the paternal roof to seek occupation elsewhere no handclasp is expected. When the daughter leaves as a bride she does offer her hand to her parents, but in token, not of farewell, but for gratitude for benefits received in the home.

Courtship is caried on by means of an intermediary, usually an elderly man. This agent calls on the girl's parents and after expressing his desire to borrow a plow or buy a calf and beating about the bush gradually he works up the real object of his visit. If he finds that the suitor is acceptable he leaves, promising to call again soon. Meanwhile the news is imparted to the girl, who, as a rule, is of the same mind as her parents, as sentimental considerations count for little with her.

Months may elapse before the suitor makes his formal offer. Next the parents have further parley with the aged deputy of Hymen in regard to dowry, wedding expenses and other details, and then the betrothal takes place.

As for the wedding itself it may be remarked that it is usually as brilliant and showy as possible. A peculiar cumstance is that the bride leaves her home and is conducted by her father to the bridegroom's house a week before the wedding day. On that day she sits like a statue among her female relatives and friends. Her long and usually golden hair is hanging down her back. Her bosom is covered with gold and silver pins and brooches adorned with dangling disks. Around her waist is wound a long and magnificent girdle made of gilded plates of silver bearing the prettiest designs of the German Renaissance—a masterpiece of old Norwegian gold smith's work—and on her head is the old-fashioned, tall, pointed crown, usually made of gilded silver or copper. The wedding festivities do not differ greatly from those of other countries. There are musicians in plenty, a lavish "spread" and the guests often number 300.

Squaws As Lacemakers.

Specimens of the beautiful lace that is being made by the Chippewa Indians are now seen in a few of the fashionable houses of New York. They are mainly in the form of table covers, bed spreads and piano covers. The lace is peculiarly adapted for these purposes, as the designs are bold and forcible and show to great advantage when placed over a delicately colored silk lining. In quality and style, however, the lace is quite s subject to variation as is that of any other make, and ample opportunity is therefore afforded for the individuality of the worker to assert itself.

It is to Miss Sibyl Carter, of New York, that the Chippewa squaws owe their knowledge of lacemaking. In 1891 she conceived the idea of teaching them this accomplishment. The bead work they formerly made, while it displayed their patience and nimbleness of touch, was quite unsalable. The accomplished teacher that Miss Carter, aided by the Episcopal mission, sent to them, was Miss Pauline Colby. She speaks of her pupils as being most eager to learn, and says that the idea once grasped they work with an accuracy which far surpasses that of white women.

From the first the lace found a ready sale among wealthy New York women, who encouraged the work by giving large advance orders. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan have fine bedspreads of it for which they paid $200 apiece. Mrs. Astor, too, has been a liberal patron. The Indian women receive at the rate of 10 cents an hour for the completed work.

Blood flows through the bones of very young children almost as freely as through the veins.

TOWER AT BUFFALO.

It is to be by Far the Highest in the World.

Unless present plans miscarry visitors to the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo in 1901 will see a tower greater and more ornamental than the great Eiffel Tower of Paris. The plan submitted provides for a beautiful structure, 1,152 feet in height. The complete dimensions of the tower are 400 square feet at the base and 1,152 feet in height. The elevator will have a carrying capacity of 10,000 an hour, for there will be thirty-three high speed electric "lifts," sixteen running only from the ground to the first landing, which will be 225 fet above the ground, or as high as Bunker Hill Monument.

From that elevation eight more elevators will start, and will rise to the second landing, which will be 450 feet above the ground, or as high as the most lofty of the Egyptian pyramids. There four other elevators will start and reach to the third landing, which will be 675 feet from the ground, and four more elevators will carry the daring sight-seers from that point to an elevaton of 1,000 feet.

Above that point there will be three more landings, and one elevator only will make the trips from the fourth to the fifth, sixth and seventh landings. It is figured that the journey from the ground to the top of the structure can be made in six minutes, including the four changes from one to another elevator.

From the four corner supports of the tower, at the base, each of which is fifty feet square, will rise arches 200 feet across and the same number of feet in height. These archs will support a great landing, containing 87,600 feet of floor space, and which will easily accommodate 20,000 persons.

At the second landing there is another landing with 25,600 feet of floor space, on the third landing the space is to be 12,100 feet, and on the fourth landing the floor space will be 2,025 feet—the various landings, exclusive of the first great one, being large enough to accommodate 20,000 more persons, and the last landing wil be an even 1,000 feet above the ground.

To build this great pile of ornamental stel work it is estimated that an expenditure of $800,000 will be necessary. Inasmuch as the Effel Tower cost $400,000 more than that, and as the first year's business paid for the cost of construction, the men who wish to outdo Paris at the coming fair at Buffalo feel that the chances are bright for them.

HIS LAST ACT.

The Late Cornelius Vanderbilt's Noble Gift to a Poor Man.

The last act of charity exercised by the late Cornelius Vanderbilt before his death fell to a Newport man, and the check that reached him arrived simultaneously with the announcement of his benefactor's death. The recipient of Mr. Vanderbilt's check, whose name is withheld for family reasons, was once a prosperous business man in Newport, and had considerable property in what is now the cottage section of that city.

Business reverses followed in rapid succession until nothing remained but the man's little homestead in which he and his wife are spending the declining years of their life. Becoming hard pressed the unfortunate man was compelled to mortgage the homestead to satisfy pressing claims. Being no longer able to work, and having no credit the erstwhile business man was compelled to live practically upon the bounty of his friends.

His interest money became in time a source of worry to him, and at length even his old friends deserted him. The bank which held the mortgage on the property served notice on the owner that unless the interest and mortgage, which was long overdue, were paid by last Tuesday, the mortgage would be foreclosed and the property sold to satisfy the claim against it.

The unfortunate old man told his troubles to one of his few remaining friends and excited the sympathy of one who was in no position to aid him in a financial way, bu thought that by circulating a subscribtion list he might be able to procure enough to to save the homestead for the old couple. After starting out and meeting with but poor success, the friend applied to Mr. Vanderbilt and stated the circumstances of the case.

Mr. Vanderbilt asked for the address of the old man, whom he remembered having had business relations with in his palmy days, and said he would consider the matter. Mr. Vanderbilt in some occult way had the case investigated, and before going to New York to his death made out a check which in addition to the amount already collected was sufficient to pay the interest and mortgage on the home of the old couple and return to them their little property.

The check reached its destination on the morning that Mr. Vanderbilt died in his New York residence.

Brown or White Eggs.

It is generally thought by household authorities that brown-shelled eggs are superior to the white-shelled varieties. An investigation has been made into the relative merits of the two kinds of eggs at the California experiment station, with the result that the impression hat brown-shelled eggs are richer is not borne out by chemical analysis. Further, a physical examination proves that the main point of superiority though extremely slight, are possessed by the white-shelled eggs. But practically there is no difference, so far as the food value is concerned, between the two classes.

Woes of a Penny Saver.

A young man in Buffalo, from some impulsive freak, took it into his head to save all his cents. He wearied after two years when he got 1,200 of them and tried to sell all he could of them, but nobody would buy even at 80 cents on the dollar. Some shopkeepers intimated that he might have been robbing poor boxes, and the agony of the young man is not to be measured by a cigar boxful of cents.

One of the longest-lived birds on record died recently in London. It was a parrott named Ducky, the property of the Prince of Wales, and was a century and a quarter years old.

A UNIQUE GAME.

New Kind of Swindle Perpetrated in the French Capital.

Swindling is as monotonous as ethics or mathematics and the various ways and means resorted to in the last decade of the nineteenth century for obtaining possession of other people's money were matters of common knowledge in the Egypt of Rameses the great. But the Parisian police now affirm that a new departure has been made on the banks of the Seine. And this is how it was worked:

An office was hired in a good business street by the inventor of the trick, who assumed the title of somebody and company, chemical agents. Being convinced advocates of women's rights they employed some members of the fair sex, who dressed in the height of fashion, used the most fashionable perfumes, and then visited singly the best apothecaries' shop. One of these fair, false emmissaries would stop her cab at the chemists' come in, and, taking out her purse, ask for another bottle of Dr. Beaumont's elixir. "Dr. Beaumont's what?" said the young man behind the counter. "The elixir; don't you know?" "No; I am afraid I never heard of it." "Oh, how tiresome; and my poor rheumatic husband will be so disappointed. Are you sure it was not here that our servant bought it before?" "No, madam; it was not here. Where is it sold wholesale?" "It is sold wholesale, I think—" and here the lady showed the ticket on the bottle. "It costs eight francs."

That same day the chemist bought the elixir wholesale, laying in a fair stock of it, and meanwhile many of the confreres were doing likewise. But, as nobody called any more on the obliging chemist to buy the elixir, one of the curious confraternity analyzed the specific, which was supposed to relieve rheumatism. He found that it was at least perfectly harmless, consisting of water colored by coffee grounds. The police were then let loose upon the ladies and the chemical agents, but they had all moved on, leaving no address.

The Radiophone.

A new electrical invention called the radiophone was introduced to the public at Madison Square Garden recently.

This device bears the same relation to the telephone that wireless telegraphy does to the old system. In the radiophone wires are dispensed with and in their place shafts of light are used.

In the second balcony at one end of the long hall was suspended an arc light, backed with a powerful reflector. A telephone transmitter designed to carry a strong current was connected in short circuit about the arc. By this arrangement current was secured from the arc in proportion to the resistance of the diaphragm of the transmitter.

The variations produced in the current of the arc lamp produced corresponding changes in the heat rays emitted, and these changes affected the glass bulb of the receiver and ear tubes. These virbations were communicated to the receiver and the sound reached the ear as in the ordinary telephone.

THE RADIOPHONE.

Ear tubes like those of the Edison phonograph were used. An ordinary telephone transmitter is also employed.

The simplest explanation of the invention is that the heat rays which travel along the reflected beam of light answer the purpose of the sound waves used by the old method. Wireless telephones are promised to be valuable to ships at sea for signalling to each other. Many ships now carry search-lights, which undoubtedly would answer the purpose.

A stout, black-bearded gentleman walked into one of the hotels the other evening carrying a peculiar-looking package. It had the general appearance of a gun case, except that it was extremely short and inordinately thick. While he was registering and chatting with the clerk a couple of guests got into a heated discussion as to the character of the queer parcel, and one of them finally made bold to introduce himself and propound the question to the man with the black beard. He smiled. "The case contains a gun," he said, and proceeded to extract a singular weapon. The stock was like that of any ordinary shotgun, but the barrel was fully four inches in diameter and covered with leather. At the breech here was a square box garnished with several little levers. "I am an amateur ornithologist," he continued, "and this is a gun camera for the purpose of studying wing movements. I level it on a flying bird, just as I might a real firearm, and pull the trigger. Instead of exploding a shell it springs a shutter and I have my subject transfixed on the film. I can take twelve shots, and it reloads very much like any camera. The form is simply for convenience in focusing, and it has enabled me to get some really remarkable pictures. For instance, I have photographed such fast flyers as snipe in every conceivable position, from head on to point blank retreat—something that would have been absolutely impossible with any other style of instrument. It is of French make, and the only difficulty I find is in getting films to fit the chamber. I've caused a good deal of surprise among sportsmen in the field," added the owner, putting his curious weapon back in its case. "When they see me bring the thing to my shoulder they expect a report like a cannon. I've often thought it would be a fine machine to intimidate a burglar with and at the same time secure a portrait for the police."

"What's the reason of your enmity to that politician?" asked the rather romantic young woman. "Did he cross your path early in your career?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "He didn't cross my path. We were after the same office, and he ran over me from behind."

An Arkansas newspaper contains the following advertisement: "This hotel will be kept by the widow of the landlord, Mr. Brown, who died last summer on a new and improved plan."

ALL-ROUND ATHLETE

The Record of J. Ford Powers, America's Champion.

J. Fred Powers, who won the title of America's champion individual all-round athlete at the recent Amateur Athletic Union competition in New York City, is a rough diamond, athletically speaking.

He has never had the advantage of the coaching of any of the famous athletic trainers of the country. His methods are peculiarly his own and some of them are not considered in the best of form by experts.

His development, too, is uneven, as shown by his measurements, but he has the "get-there" faculty in his competitions.

In appearance he is tall, long-limbed, slim-waisted, broad-chested and moves with a graceful stride that betokens considerable reserve power. Yet a careful observer would not pick him out as a champion all-round athlete.

The records with which he won the national championship are these: Putting the shot, 40 feet, 1¾ inches; high jump, 5 feet, 11 inches; 880-yard walk, 4m. 28 4-5s.; throwing the 16-lb. hammer, 106 feet 8 inches; pole vault, 10 feet 4½ inches; 120-yard hurdles, 18s.; broad jump, 21 feet 8¼ inches. In all these events he stood first. He was second in the 100-yard dash in 10 3-5s.,

J. FRED POWERS.

and in the 56-lb. weight, 16 feet, 6¾ inches, and fourth in the mile run, 6m, 24 3-5s. Of these events he had never before entered a competition for half-mile walk, high hurdles, 100-yard dash or weight-put. In the others his record, except in the hammer throw, is much better than he made in New York, where all the events were crowded into one afternoon.

He has done 41 feet 8½ inches in the shot put; 5 feet, 11¾ inches in the high jump; 11 feet 1½ inches in the pole vault; 23 feet 1¾ inches in the broad jump, has a record of 4m. 50s. in the mile run.

Powers was born in Burlington, Vt., September 10, 1876. In the winter of 1895 he appeared in competitive sports for the first time.

The games in which Mr. Powers won his championship in New York by no means fill the measure of his all-round excellence as an athlete. He is a fine gymnast, both on the horizontal bar and trapeze, and probably the fastest basket ball player in the country. He is an expert at discus throwing, having made a throw in practice at Worcester oval only a few days ago of 122 feet 4 inches.

Mr. Powers is always in good condition. He is a total abstainer, and always has been, from liquor, beer and tobacco in all their forms. When he is training for competitive games he is careful to get regular sleep and plenty of it, and, of course, he practices steadily, but he takes no special care of his diet. He says his stomach is always in first-class condition, and he eats anything he takes a fancy to. Even at the training table at Norte Dame University he declined to be bound down to the regular diet and drank coffee and ate pie and cake just as usual.

A Famous Terrier.

Sporting men on both sides of the Atlantic are still grieving over the death recently of Tinier, a well-known little bull-terrier who became famous among sporting men a few years ago for his remarkable rat-killing achievements. He was a descendant of the still more widely known Tiny, at one time believed to be the best rat dog of his weight, 5¼ pounds, ever bred, either here or in England. Tinier, however, was the holder of the remarkable record of having killed fifty rats in 28 minutes and 3 seconds. He weighed 5 pounds 6 ounces. The best judges of dogs and the oldest sporting men had pronounced him the pluckiest dog of his weight ever thrown into a pit. So great was his endurance and gallantry that in all of his battles with rats, even when several rats had fastened to his lips, Tinier was never known to utter the least cry of pain or to show the slightest sign of suffering or of any intention of flinching. Throughout his long career, though pitted against the largest rats that could be secured, he had never "gone under." He is estimated to have disposed of more than five thousand rats in his time, the aggreate weight of which would probably more than one and a half tons.

It is not generally known that Tinier was not his real name at first. Originally he bore the more imposing name of "Little Prince Hal." When he became better known he ws often exhibited with his famous parents on a crimson velvet cushion, edged with gold fringe, both being surrounded on three sides by a row of candles, to set off their gold-trimmed cushions more brilliantly. And as Hal looked smaller and lighter built than Tiny, being, in fact, five or six ounces lighter, he got the stage name of Tinier, which was embroidered on his cushion and afterwrd it clung to him.

A Tennis Team.

Arrangements have been completed by George Wright, of Boston, to take a team of tennis players to the Pacific Coast to meet the representative players in that section. The party will include such men as Holcombe Ward, Dwight F. Davis and Malcolm D. Whitman. The team is made up exclusively of Harvard men.

GOLF.

After spending the summer at Belmar, Fred P. Taylor has returned to his home in Washington Park and will now be an almost daily visitor at the links of the Park Golf Club. Taylor and W. de la R. Anderson are considered the best players in the club, but the question as to which is the better of the two is an open one. They met on the course a month ago, but both were way off their usual form and the meeting was not satisfactory in settling the question of superiority. Taylor has been playing all summer on the links at Spring Lake, N. J., where he holds the record. Taylor is away back in the list of competitors for the McCutchen cup, but that is because he has only played a few times. He has 2½ points to Anderson's 13, so it will only be by some great exhibition of golf that Taylor will be able to get among the leaders for the McCutchen cup during the remaining month of play.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Charles Dupee, of this city, who was a candidate for full back on the Yale 'varsity team last year, played in that that position in Yale's opening game Saturday against Amherst. Yale won easily and Dupee did his share in making two touchdowns. Dupee is trying for half back, however, and will play there hereafter. He has an excellent show for a place on the team this year.

The football season opened Saturday at most of the colleges throughout the country. None of the big teams made any remarkable scores and there was nothing out of the ordinary in any of the games. Many of the colleges gave up the preparatory training before college opened and returned to the old ways. It is too early in the season as yet to make any comparisons of the principal college elevens on the gridiron this year.

The season for the football team of Rutgers College will open this afternoon on Neilson Field, New Brunswick when the Rutgers boys will meet the Columbia University team. The game will begin at 4 o'clock. It is probably that quite a delegation of Plainfield enthusiasts will go to New Brunswick this afternoon to witness the game. The Rutgers boys have a much stronger team than last year and Plainfielders will have a chance to witness a number of college games at New Brunswick this fall.

AT THE TRAPS.

The New Brunswick and Dunellen Gun clubs met at Island Park, New Brunswick, last Saturday afternoon in a match. The Dunellen boys were defeated by eight birds. The clubs will meet again next Saturday at Dunellen.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1 00. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

In a Nutshell:

Autumn Millinery Opening.

The autumn millinery opening at Bonn's, 140 West Front street, began this morning and will be continued tomorrow and Thursday. Everything in bonnets and hats from the simplest to the most elaborate is to be seen, and all the latest fashion. The exhibition is well worthy of a visit from every woman in Plainfield who is at all interested in the way her hat and bonnet should look.

Site for New Gas Plant.

S. D. Drake has evidenced a sufficient amount of interest in the People's Gas Company as to offer that company a piece of property at Dewey Park for the purpose of establishing their plant. In doing so he hopes to be able to secure cheap gas for Bound Brook and neighboring places as well as Plainfield. The attention of the company has been called to the offer and it will be considered.

To Study Manufacture of Woolens.

Henry Baldwin Drake, of Duer street, has resigned his position with Abegg & Rusch, New York wholesale merchants, and will next week begin a two years' course at the Philadelphia Textile School, where he will study the manufacture of woolens. He will make his home in Philadelphia during that time.

First View Tomorrow.

Crosby & Hill will be glad to see all their patrons in the millinery department for the first view of the fall millinery which begins tomorrow and continues for the rest of the week. A tasteful display haf been prepared under the direction of Miss Daly.

An Advertisement Social.

"An Advertisement Social" will be held Thursday evening, October 12th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Batchelor, West Eighth street, under the auspices of the First Baptist church Christian Endeavor Society.

"Knowledge is Power."

A meeting of the class of 1900 of the Plainfield High School was held yesterday afternoon. The motto was decided on. It is "Scientia est potestas," which means "Knowledge is power"

THEY ARE IN GOOD FAITH

PURPOSE OF NEW GAS COMPANY IS SET FORTH.

Has No Intention of Eventually Selling Out to the Present Monopoly—Ask for the Support of the Citizens.

General interest is manifested in the intentions of the People's Gas Company, which promises $1 gas. Some seem to think that the company have entered the field in order to eventually sell out to the old company. In this respect the following letter will be of particular interest:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The article in Monday's Press, signed "X," favoring municipal ownership of a gas plant, would meet with favor from every member of the People's Gas Company. The aim of the People's Company is to secure healthy competition to private ownership, but at this time opposition to the prepared franchise on the lines suggested by "X," will only cause opposition and delay for this great public need in Plainfield.

Citizens, be not deceived. This and many more propositions of a similar kind will be sprung by the old and well fed monopoly to stay this, the people's demand.

Competition is the life of all enterprise and thought. The People's Gas Company are organized for honest and legitimate business, not a thought or desire to consolidate or sell out. They feel and know that there is ample field and a fair profit in this city for gas at $1, or less if volume of business shall come to them. Let the people stand by the People's Company and the People's Company will stand by them.

NOTHING UNUSUAL

The Apparently Stupid Witness Knew a Thing or Two.

It was in a Duluth court, and the witness was a Swede who was perhaps not so stupid as he seemed to be. The cross-examining attorney was a smart young man, whose object was to disconcert the witness and discredit his testimony.

"What did you say your name was?" was the first question.

"Yahn" — very deliberately — "Petersen."

"John Peterson, eh? Old man Peter's son, I suppose. Well, John, where do you live?"

"Where Ah live? In Dulut'."

"Now, Peterson, answer this question carefully. Are you a married man?"

"Ah tank so. Ah was married."

"So you think because you got married you think you are a married man, do you? That's funny. Now tell the gentlemen of this exceptionally intelligent jury who you married."

"Who Ah married? Ah married a woman."

"See here, sir! Don't you know any better than to trifle with this court? What do you mean, sir? You married a woman? Of course, you married a woman. Did you ever hear of anyone marrying a man?"

"Yas. Mah sister did."—Life.

What Saved Him.

A young artist had presumed to fall in love with the daughter of a famous ship owner. It was long before the dawn of aesthetic taste. The profession was looked upon as merely an excuse for idleness.

When it became known that the rich ship owner's daughter had encouraged the suit of a painter, society was shocked. The young man had talents, no doubt, but they were talents of a sort that did not count in those days.

One day a friend entered the ship owner's house, and the mother and sisters of the woman—begged him to remonstrate with the obstinate Emily and save the family honor.

"The family honor!" said he. "What has Emily been doing now?"

"Doing!" answered the full feminine chorus. "She's going to disgrace us all by marrying the artist!"

"Pooh! pooh!" was the quick reply. "The fellow isn't enough of an artist to make it anything of a disgrace."

The women were indignant, we are told, but it is pleasant to know that when the wealthy ship owner heard the story he was so amused that he withdrew all opposition to the marriage.

A Glorious Life

Storekeeper—Don't you find farming a very lonesome and cheerless life, Mr. Hayseed?

Mr. Hayseed—Lonesome and cheerless? Why, I git up in the morning and milk a few cows; then comes the breakfast, and from that time till dark there's lots of work to do.

Storekeeper—How do you amuse yourself after supper?

Mr. Hayseed—Oh, I sit out on the porch, when the weather is fine and smoke my pipe and listen to the corn growing, and then to go to bed.

Didn't Interest Him

"A very wealthy man," said the native, pointing to the one under discussion. "Shall I introduce you?"

"Has he any daughters?" asked the titled foreigner.

"No."

"Then what's the use?"

$3,000 LOSS BY FIRE IN GROCERY STORE

Stock of V. L Frazee Badly Damaged This Morning.

WAS IN REAR END OF STORE.

SUPPOSED TO HAVE CAUGHT FROM A HOT STOVE.

Discovered by Raymond Schenck, a Clerk, Shortly After 7 o'Clock This Morning—Fire Department Quickly on the Scene and Did Good Work in Preventing the Fire From Doing Worse Destruction.

The grocery store of V. L Frazee, at 151 West Front street, had a narrow escape from being destroyed by fire early this morning. As it was, the rear of the store is badly burned and the large stock of goods contained therein is a total loss.

The fire was descovered about 7:15 o'clock by Raymond Schenck, a clerk, who first noticed smoke pouring from the ceiling and coming from the rear of the store. Mr. Schenck immediately made an investigation and was startled to find the rear room in a blaze. He at once gave the alarm and the fire department was notified from box 12, at Front and Somerset streets. With the firemen came a crowd of citizens, for that box always causes intense excitement, from the fact that it calls the firemen to the business section of the city where are located the large stores and costly buildings.

When the chemical engine and hose wagon from fire headquarters in charge of Assistant Chief Jennings put in an appearance the firemen found the smoke pouring from the front and rear doors of the store, while the rear of the place was a sheet of flame. Assistant Chief Jennings at once ordered a line from the chemical engine to be run in and with a stream from that the battle was begun. It was a hot fire and for a time the firemen found their hands full. The chemical stream had but fairly got to doing good service before First Assistant Murray and Fire Chief Doane put in an appearance. The latter then took charge of the fire. He approved of the good judgment of Assistant Jennings in not putting in a stream of water from the hydrant, although a line had been laid from the hydrant at Park avenue and Front street.

The efforts of the firemen were successful, and in twenty minutes the fire was under control and the destruction of the building averted. The rear room of the store was badly burned, however, and the stock of goods completely ruined. Mr. Frazee estimates his loss at about $3,000. He carried an insurance of $2,500. Fortunately he has a carload of goods at the freight depot and he will not be prevented from continuing business, although the fire will in a measure inconvenience him.

The fire is supposed to have caught from a stove, in which there was a hot fire, in the rear room. In close proximity to this stove were a number of empty flour sacks and some boxes which caught fire from the heat.

The building is owned by the estate of Mrs. Caroline P. Cutter, but is in charge of Fred Cutter.

The second floor of the building is occupied by Charles Krewson billiard parlors. No damage was done there. Neither did the butcher shop of Charles F. Koch on the west suffer any damage.

This morning's fire again demonstrated the efficiency of the chemical engine. A stream from the hydrant would not have had as good results in quickly extinguishing the fire, which at one time threatened the destruction of the building and adjacent property, but much more damage would have been done.

Off to His Field of Duty.

Rev. W. Thomas Kenny, colored, pastor of the Second Baptist church, of Rochester, Pa., and secretary of the Allegheny Baptist Association, composed of the colored churches of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, will leave Plainfield today for his field of labors. He has been visiting his sister, Mrs. H. W. Lewis, of Arlington avenue, and others of his acquaintances in this city, during the past ten days.

Nimble Fingers to Sew.

The members of the Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold an all day sewing meeting tomorrow in the church parlors. Garments will be made for a missionary and his family now quartered in Alabama.

CRUEL MISCHIEF.

Somebody Telephoned to a Cranford Mother That Her Son Had Been Killed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, Oct. 4—A telephone message delivered at the residence of F. H. Jones at this place at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening, caused Mrs. Jones to become hysterical and physicians were summoned to attend her. The message stated that her son, Frank Jones, a prominent young society man of this place, had been killed in New York city.

Frank Jones reached home safe and sound at 7 o'clock, and when he heard of the message at once set out to find who sent it. The police are employed on the case, but as yet no clue as to who sent the message has been obtained.

As soon as Mrs Jones saw her son she recovered from the shock, but is still in a nervous condition.

MAYOR CHOSEN FOREMAN

HE HEADS THE GRAND JURY DRAWN YESTERDAY.

Only One Important Case to be Considered—Justice Gummere in Place of Justice Van Syckel—Names of Jurors.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 4—The October term of the Supreme Court convened yesterday with Justice Gummere presiding in place of Judge VanSyckel, who was detained on account of the recent death of his wife.

George W. Rockfellow, Mayor of Plainfield, was sworn as foreman of the Grand Jury. The other jurors are:

Elizabeth—Wm. M. Oliver, Charles O. Morris, Jr., Robt. A. Waterbury, James B. Irwin, Dr. Alfred Q. Donavan, Erastus G. Putnam, Elias R. Meeker, James C. Ogden.

Plainfield—Robert H. Cook, George J. Tobin, Daniel W. Littell.

Westfield—Chas. O. Smith.

Cranford—George A. Morrison.

Rahway—Frank H. Bliss, John Farrell, Joseph T. Mead.

Springfield—Theo. W. Harris.

New Providence—John Burnett, Sr

Roselle—John N. Meeker.

Summit—John H. Nelson, Daniel H. Beach.

Fanwood—George Kyte.

Justice Gummere, in addressing the Grand Jury, said that the only important criminal matter to which their attention need be called was the homicide case, which happened at a settlement in this county known as New Orange.

The jurors then retired for deliberation and the lists of causes were called and dates for trials arranged.

Justice Gummere announced that Justice VanSyckel would be in court next Tuesday and that Judge Vail would relieve him of the trial of all Circuit Court cases, beginning this morning.

There are 22 cases in the list of Supreme Court causes and 16 causes in the Circuit Court. There are few cases of general public interest.

As nothing was in readiness this morning Court adjourned to next Monday morning when several cases will be brought up.

SEVEN SISTERS

Gather the Home of Mrs. DeGroff in Dunellen to Celebrate Her Birthday.

There was an interesting event at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. DeGroff in Dunellen a few days ago, when seven sisters gathered to do honor and celebrate the birthday of one of their number. It was Mrs. DeGroff who had the pleasure of a visit from her sisters on the auspicious occasion when the ladies gathered to pay their respects and extend congratulations to the hostess on the happy event. Those who were present were: Mrs. James D. Miller, of Newark; Mrs. C. E. Boltz and Mrs. O. B. Garthwaite, of Rahway; Mrs. Anna B. Clark and the Misses Irene and Evalyn H. Crowell, of Plainfield. The above, with Mrs. DeGroff, are the seven daughters of Mr. and Mrs. D E Crowell, of No. 10 Craig place, this city. It was the first time in some years that the seven sisters have been able to meet together. The interior of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. DeGroff had been prettily decorated for the the occasion with flowers, potted plants and the National colors, giving the parlors an inviting appearance.

Much to be Done.

Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas will meet this evening to work the adoption degree on three candidates. The degree team is requested to meet for rehearsal a half hour before the lodge meeting. The welfare committee has provided a vocal and instrumental entertainment. There will also be a substantial collation provided by the candidates A pleasant affair is looked forward to.

THE "STAR" CRASHED INTO A COAL TRAIN.

Switchman Neglected to Close Switch This Morning.

TWO TRACKS WERE BLOCKED

ACCIDENT OCCURRED HALF A MILE EAST OF DUNELLEN.

Ellis Benward, Switchman, Left Switch From Westbound Passenger Track to Westbound Freight Open and Then Signalled All Right to Approaching "Star"—Five Coal Cars Were Derailed.

An open switch, half a mile east of Dunellen on the Jersey Central Railroad, sent the little "Star," the inspection engine of the railroad officials, into the middle of a westbound coal train at 6:10 o'clock this morning. The "Star" was temporarily disabled, five coal cars were derailed and traffic was blocked on the westbound tracks for two hours. Fireman Jacob Duncan, of the "Star," was slightly injured about the head by jumping just before the collision. The blame is laid on Ellis Benward, the night switchman, who forgot to close the switch.

Benward lives in a flat on Front street, Dunellen, with his wife and several children. He was formerly a brakeman on the Jersey Central and had an arm crushed in an accident. Then the company made him switchman.

This morning Benward opened the switch from the westbound freight track to the westbound passenger track to allow the 5:28 New York local to pass from the yard where it was made up, to the passenger tracks. To those he talked with after the accident he said that he did not remember closing the switch again.

The "Star" was bound westward early this morning after some of the officials. The open switch closed the block signals and they showed the engineer of the "Star," Arthur Kirkendall, of Jersey City, that there was something wrong in that block. So he slowed up. Switchman Benward, at his litle house a hundred feet beyond the switch, waved his white flag signalling "all right."

The "Star" went ahead until the switch was almost reached. Then engineer Kirkendall saw the signal at the switch showed that it was open and yelled to his fireman to jump. Duncan, who also comes from Jersey City, jumped and cut his hand and head. He went to Muhlenberg Hospital where his wounds were dressed and he then went home.

The "Star" took the switch all right and crashed into the middle of a long train of empty coal cars that was passing. The train was drawn by locomotive No. 367 and was moving very slowly. The coal train parted and the first car that the "Star" struck was overturned. The breaking of the air pipes set the air brakes on the rear part of the train and it stopped. But for the brakes it would have crashed into the "Star" from behind.

The engineer of the coal train kept moving and thereby saved the "Star" and his train from more serious damage. The "Star" remained on the track and derailed four more of the coal cars before it stopped. The brass work and the cylinder on one side of the "Star" was torn away and damaged. It was towed back to Jersey City later in the morning.

The wrecking train from Jersey City with the steam crane arrived in a short time. The wreckage was removed and both tracks repaired before 8:30 o'clock.

Benward admitted that he left the switch open and then signalled to the "Star" to come ahead. The blame therefore will be laid to him and he will probably be discharged. Had a fast passenger train passed instead of the "Star," the result would have been very serious indeed.

GIFT FOR ADMIRAL FROM DR. COLES

Occupies a Conspicuous Place on Olympia.

WAS A HANDSOME BRONZE.

IT WAS OF PARTICULARLY APPROPRIATE DESIGN.

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, Found it at Tiffany's and Sent it to the Admiral—Received a Courteous Letter in Reply—Has Since Presented Admiral Dewey With Souvenir Spoons.

When the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship, sailed into New York Bay last week, a handsome bronze, the work of one of France's greatest artists, occupied a prominent place in the cabin of the Admiral. This bronze was a gift from Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, to Admiral Dewey and was sent to him shortly after the news of the great victory at Manila reached this country. Of course, it was several months after that when the bronze arrived at its destination.

The bronze shows the figure of an eagle standing on a large rock. At the foot of the rock, on a smaller one, lies a dead heron, the cruelest of birds. Shortly after the victory at Manila, Dr. Coles was in Tiffany's store in New York. He found the bronze and noticed the particular appropriateness of it to the occasion. The eagle is supposed to typify the United States and the dead heron Spain. In the heron's tail, there were twelve feathers, one for each of the war ships in the Spanish fleet that Dewey destroyed. On the base of the rock where the eagle stands, the names of the ships and their captains, composing Dewey's fleet, are engraved. On the standard supporting the bronze, the names of President McKinley and his cabinet were engraved.

On receiving the gift of Dr Coles, Admiral Dewey wrote a note to Dr. Coles, cordially thanking him and expressing the hope that he might be able to thank Dr. Coles in person at no distance date.

Dr. Coles was at Tiffany's one day last week when the first of the souvenir spoons, right from the die, designed in honor of the Dewey celebration, was received by Mr. Tiffany. Dr. Coles immediately directed that the spoon be sent to Admiral Dewey with his compliments. The spoon was sent on board the Olympia as that warship lay at anchor in New York Bay.

THE STATE W. C. T. U.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY BEING HELD AT ATLANTIC CITY.

An Unusually Large Attendance of Delegates—Mrs. S. R. Krom Will Read a Paper on Subject of "Anti-Narcotics."

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Atlantic City, Oct. 5—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the State W. C. T. U. opened last evening and will continue until tomorrow evening. There are an unusually large number of representatives present from all parts of the state and the programme, a lenghty one, is highly interesting and instructive. Plainfield is well represented by several members.

Every feature of temperance work is to be touched by bright and entertaining papers to be presented by the most able members of the Union, and no doubt a great advancement will be made along certain lines.

On the programme Plainfield has a place in the person of Mrs. S. R. Krom, who will present a paper on "Anti-Narcotics," and Mrs. A. M. Bodine, of Dunellen, also has a place on the programme, and she will lead the devotions tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Krom takes part tomorrow afternoon.

Special meetings will also be held for the election of national delegates, etc., during the time of the convention.

Contests at Quoits

There were some interesting contests at quoits after last evening's meeting of the Heptasophs. Messrs. Boss and Laing were pitted against Messrs. Nash and Lounsbury. The latter team won two games out of three. Then Messrs. Nash and Lounsbury defeated Messrs. Addis and Laing, and Messrs. VanCamp and Armstrong outpointed Messrs. Kirch and Green. The assessment prize was won by Mr. Lounsbury.

ACTIVITITY RESUMED AT Y. M. C. A. GYM

Formal Opening of Physical Department Last Night.

"MEDAL CLASS" PRESENT.

GAVE AN EXHIBITION OF GYMNASTICS TO LARGE AUDIENCE.

Physical Director Leonard M. Smith Was in Charge—Newark Boys Did Some Excellent Work on Various Apparatus—Fine Club Swinging by Nine-Year-Old Lad—Supper to Visitors Afterwards.

The formal opening of regular class work at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was held in the gymnasium last evening in the form of an exhibition of gymnastics which was under the direction of Leonard M. Smith, physical director of the Newark Y. M. C. A. Seven members of the Newark "Model Class" gave an exhibition of their skill in window diving, one of their number going through an opening 14 by 11½ inches. Next came class and individual figures on the flying rings. The work was a sample of what can be done through practice.

High horizontal bar work was worthy of special mention, being composed of class and entertainment moves. While the gymnasts were resting, Master R. Smith gave a club swinging exhibition, which was a work of wonder for a boy only nine years of age. He is a member of the boys' class.

Parallel bars and the horse were also used in great style. High jumping was shown. The best done was 5 feet 4 inches, which was cleared by two members of the class.

The names of the members of the "Model Class" present were H. Albertson, G. Ketcham, H. Lehlbach, B. Phillips, C. Widner, D. Long and W. Kramer. The exhibition was witnessed by fully two hundred spectators who filled the visitors' gallery and the vacant space around the gymnasium floor.

At the conclusion of the exhibition the visitors were given a supper at the building.

Starting with this week, the regular class work will be resumed. The Business Men's class will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 5:30 to 6:15 o'clock. The evening class will meet on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings from 8:15 to 9:15 o'clock. The boys' class will meet Tuesday afternoons from 4 to 5:30 o'clock, and Saturday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock.

The formation of a ladies' class was announced and the hours of meeting will be announced at a later date.

DAILY PRESS THANKED.

King's Daughters Appreciate the Efforts Made in Behalf of the Baby Camp.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—The members of the executive board of the City Union of King's Daughters wish to extend to you their thanks for your kindness in not only assisting their work in a financial way this summer; but in your co-operation with their work by interesting the readers of The Press in it also. By their ready reply to your appeals the camp has not only been paid for, but a surplus is retained for use in the work. Thanking you, I remain,

Yours truly,
Carrie M. De Graff,
Cor. Sec'y.

ATHLETICS AT RUTGERS.

Boom in Them is Due to Contributions From Trustees and the Four Classes.

Athletics has taken a decided boom at Rutgers College, New Brunswick, by reason of a liberal contribution which has been made to the Athletic Association by the Board of Trustees and the four classes. The Board of Trustees has contributed $200 to the funds for the use of the association, and the amounts contributed by the classes follows: Freshman class, $137; sophomore class, $87; junior class, $61, and senior class, $101.

It is estimated that about $350 will be required to support the football team this year, and as the association was close to $200 in debt, there is now sufficient cash on hand to meet all obligations and end the season free of debt. This is gratifying to the faculty of the college, as well as to the students.

A Visiting Minister.

Rev. E. Walpole Warren, rector of St. James and Holy Trinity churches, New York, will officiate in the Church of the Heavenly Rest Sunday next

Vice-President Williams Here.

Vice President Williams, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, is a guest at the home of Arthur Peterson, on Prospect avenue.

A MARAUDING FELINE.

Dunellen Faces a Demand for $6 for Damages Alleged to Have Been Done by the Cat.

At Monday evening's meeting of the Common Council at Dunellen a petition was presented from P. M. Ising, of Church street, asking the board to reimburse him to the amount of $6 for the loss he alleges to have sustained by the destruction of numerous chickens and ducks which have been killed by a cat owned by O. A. Douglass, editor of the Call. The petition did not state whether the cat in question was of a vicious disposition or of the Thomas gender. After a brief discussion upon the alarming increase of the felines in Dunellen and the fact that many of them are disturbers of the peaceful slumber of the citizens generally, it was decided to refer the petition to the law committee with power.

GOOD DAY FOR WEDDINGS

PASTOR GARDNER TIES NUPTIAL KNOT FOR TWO COUPLES.

Both Ceremonies Performed at the Grace M. E Parsonage—One as Morning Waned and Other as Evening Came.

That springtime is not the only season when a "young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" was shown by the fact that yesterday Grace M. E. church parsonage was the scene of two marriage ceremonies. At 11:30 a. m. Martin W. Apgar, a dealer in general merchandise at High Bridge, and Miss Ella Farley, of the same place, were pronounced "husband and wife" by Pastor Gardner. At 7 p. m. Edward A. Hudson and Margaret F. VanAman received the sanction of the church to their marriage, and went forth upon their new and untried experience with the blessing of Rev. Mr. Gardner and wife.

NO TAVERN WANTED.

Citizens Again Oppose Mrs. Woodruff's Efforts to Get a License for Lyons Farms.

Mrs. Ada Woodruff, the widow who despite the opposition of the villagers of Lyons Farms, in Union county, obtained a license last year in the Union County Court to conduct an inn and tavern, is again in trouble.

The chief and only objection against her seems to be that the village in its long existence of 150 years has never had a tavern or hotel of any kind within its limits. The religious portion of the community were shocked when Mrs. Woodruff last year applied to the court and got a license before they knew what was contemplated. They asked Judge Vail to reopen the case, but he refused.

Mrs. Woodruff's opponents now admit that she has conducted her place in a respectable, exemplary manner and that on this score there is no cause for complaint, but declare the sentiment of the village is against having any such business in Lyons Farms.

Mrs. Woodruff has champions and there promises to be a lively time in the Union County Court of Common Pleas next week when the widow's application comes up. Both sides will be represented by counsel.

TO NEWARK FREE.

Another Big Excursion Arranged by the Merchants of the Jersey Metropolis

Five of the big Newark dry goods merchant have arranged to run another free excursion of shoppers from points between Somerville and Cranford to Newark Wednesday, October 11th. A special train will run over the Central Railroad of New Jersey, leaving Somerville at 8:30 in the morning and making Cranford the last stop. The train will return from Newark at 4:30 p. m. As before the passage on the train will be absolutely free. Special tickets will be issued at the various stations. To these tickets a coupon will be attached, which the conductor will tear off and give to the holder. When the coupon is presented to any of the five merchants in the arrangement the fare paid for the ticket will be refunded, no purchase of goods or other obligations being imposed.

Studied Paul's Life.

A regular session of the Association Volunteer League or missionary study class of the Y. M. C. A. was held last evening. The life of Paul, the missionary, was the Bible lesson. An interesting letter from E B Taylor, an absent member of the league, was read.

Park Club Governors.

The annual meeting of the Park Club was held last evening. F. O. Ball, J. H. Howell and John Valiant were elected to the board of governors without opposition.

Miss Pearl Kinsey, an operator at the local telephone office, is enjoying a vacation of one week.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., July 10.

Yours respectfully,
Geo. W. Rockfellow, Mayor.

The board then proceeded to nominations for the ensuing year as follows: President, M. W. Tyler; vice-president, J. Evarts Tracy; secretary, W. M. Stillman; treasurer, John B. Dumont; library committee, J. Evarts Tracy, W. H. Larrabee, H. P. Talmadge; art committee, Rowland Cox, John B. Dumont, Alexander Gilbert.

The action of the president and treasurer in paying the regular bills for August and September, was approved.

The communication of Col. Julian Scott referring to the return to the owner of the picture "Battle of Golding Farm," was referred to the art committee with power.

The application of Miss Grace W. Cooley, for special teacher's priviedge, was referred to the library committee with power.

A communication from Prof. John Dalziel, referring to his gift of limestone rock with trilobites, which was found in Fanwood, was read, and the secretary was directed to extend to him the thanks of the board for his gift.

The following recommendations made by the librarian were referred to the library committee with power:

1—Extension of the travelling library system to the Relief Association.

2—The issuing of special cards to students.

3—Purchase of the printed cards of the American Library Association indexing the publications of the Smithsonian Institution.

4—The purchase of the Brown and Perry pictures to an amount from $5 to $10.

5—The matter of placing labelled boxes containing application forms in public places in the city.

The recommendations in the matter of cutting down certain trees in the library grounds, and the providing of bicycle racks, were referred to the executive committee with power.

A Head-On Collision.

Courtlandt Adams, of Netherwood avenue, and Charles Smith, an employe of J. W. Gavett, participated in a head-on collision last evening at the corner of Park avenue and Front street, while trying to turn the corner on their bicycles. Mr. Adams suffered the greatest damage. His front wheel was a total wreck, while Smith's wheel escaped with slight damage. Neither rider was injured to any extent.

First Contest Between the Columbia and Shamrock Declared "No Race".

CROWDS DISAPPOINTED.

Iselin and Lipton Regret the Necessity of Delay in Decisive Meeting of Their Flyers.

The Shamrock's Racing Qualities a Surprise to the Yachting Talent—The Two Racers Declared to Be Very Evenly Matched—Shamrock Finishes Ahead.

New York, Oct. 4.—The first of the contests between the big sloop yachts Columbia and Shamrock, for the America's Cup, resulted in "no race." The failure of either yacht to score a victory in the opening event of the series was a great disappointment.

While C. Oliver Iselin, principal owner of Columbia, and Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of Shamrock, both regret the necessity of another day's delay in a decisive meeting of their flyers, each is confident the next trial will result in neither accident, drifting-match nor fluke, but that it will be a squarely contested race with the better boat the winner.

Before the officials in charge of the yacht race had shown by signal that the contest was off, owing to the expiration of time limit, many of the excursion steamers had headed for the bay, their captains satisfied that it would be impossible to finish the race.

The last half hour of the race was a period of anxiety for the excursionists, who, fearful that the Columbia would be beaten, prayed that the time limit would expire.

On the New York Yacht Club's boat, the Republic, the greatest admiration was expressed for the admirable manner in which the Shamrock was sailed. There were some among the members who were of the opinion that the Columbia stood too close toward the New Jersey shore on her longest starboard tack, thereby losing a slant of wind which the Shamrock caught, and which helped her to make up the distance that she had lost when the Columbia beat her around the stakeboat.

It was the universal opinion that the race was one of the best sailed for the America's Cup, and that the defender, if not matched against a better boat, certainly is matched against the most skillful crew and the best men in command who have ever sailed a race for the famous trophy on this side of the ocean.

The yachts were taken in tow just off the Highlands when the race was stopped, and as they were pulled up the bay their crews and officers were cheered again and again by the passing steamboats.

As the Republic passed the Columbia the band on the yacht club's steamer played "The Star Spangled Banner," and Mrs. Iselin, who was on the deck aft, waved a salute to the passengers on board the Republic.

The manner in which the Shamrock was handled and the way she sailed was a great surprise to nearly all the spectators, and since the yachts have given a fairly good line on their respective racing abilities in what was to have been the initial event of the five races to be sailed, it is not so much a case of the Columbia having everything her own way as was generally supposed. One thing is certain, and that is that the races will be exciting enough to please almost anybody, and that the matter of winnig is about as nearly on even terms as it would be possible to have it. Since the "no race" event was finished the odds in the betting on the Columbia have been pulled down and what money is put up now is being placed at "evens."

The crowds that went down to Sandy Hook to-day to witness the race is greater than that of yesterday and it is estimated that fully 200,000 are watching the yachts in their great struggle to see which can make the best manoeuvres and cross the finish line first.

The "No Race" Event.

Sandy Hook, Oct. 4.—Both yachts passed out of the Hook in tow. As the Columbia passed out she had her mainsail, jib and stays set. The Shamrock had similar sails spread. The tow lines were cast off as the yachts reached the bar, and amid the shrieking of the whistles of the countless excursion craft that plunged and rolled in the choppy sea that prevailed, carefully picked their way toward the judges' boat, J. Pierpont Morgan's Corsair.

The wind was blowing between nineteen and twenty-two miles an hour and was shifting from northeast to north and back, west-southwest being the direction in which the course was laid.

The Columbia arrived at the Sandy Hook Lightship ten minutes ahead of the Shamrock.

The yachts got away with the wind from the northeast, blowing at the rate of twenty miles an hour. In the preliminary manoeuvring the Shamrock got a little the better of the jockeying, and when the starting gun was fired she flashed across the line a length in the lead.

Both yachts had mainsails, jibs, staysails, baby jib topsails and club topsails set, and two minutes after crossing the line the Shamrock flew her enormous spinnaker to the breeze, the boom being lowered to port.

The Columbia was less than a minute behind the Irish boat in setting her spinnaker, but seemed unable to catch up with the Britisher. Balloon jib topsails were sent up in stops immediately after the spinnakers went up, and as the stops were broken out the speed of the yachts was visibly accelerated.

The Columbia's proximity to the Shamrock astern permitted her to do considerable blanketing of the Irish yacht, and the gap that separated them at the start began to lessen, but very slowly. The broad reach at the start was quickly changed to a full run before the wind, each yacht's full 20,000 square feet of sail drawing to the utmost.

The wind lessened in force somewhat, having decreased to about fifteen miles an hour. The distance at this time between Shamrock and Columbia was about 400 feet, the Shamrock leading.

For ten minutes after the start it seemed as if the Columbia were decreasing the lead the challenger got at the start, but this apparent superiority in speed did not last long. It was fifty seconds at the start and later it was about one minute and twenty seconds, so that the Irish boat was making faster time than the American.

In an hour the Shamrock led the Columbia by about three hunderd yards. She made first-class weather of it, throwing little water up forward and leaving a wake that was scarcely distinguishable from the shore. The wind was growing lighter, blowing barely seven miles and hour. The Shamrock was a revelation to those yachtsmen who thought her slower than the Columbia in light airs. The Irish boat simply glided along while the Columbia appeared in comparison to be sluggish. The Columbia took in her spinnaker and shifted her mainsail to port and after a few minutes fast sailing took the lead. Immediately after the Columbia took in her spinnaker the Shamrock followed suit and also put her mainsail to port. A hauling of the wind to the northward made this necessary.

The Columbia turned the stakeboat 7 minutes ahead of the Shamrock.

When the time limit had expired both yachts were over three miles from the finish, with the Shamrock 40 seconds in the lead.

PRESIDEDT DINES DEWEY.

Most Elaborate Social Function in History of White House.

Washington, Oct. 4.—President McKinley in honor of Admiral Dewey, gave the largest dinner party in the history of the White House social functions. Covers were laid for more than eighty persons. The guests included the Cabinet, the Governors of nine states, Justices of the Supreme Court, some of the members of both houses of Congress, army and naval officers.

It is a White House tradition that no partiality ever is shown in making preparation for any one set of guests at state functions, but the rule was broken on this occasion, and in the arrangement of the table the choice of flowers and the draping of flags, which made so brilliant an addition to the ordinary decorations, the taste of the President was consulted, and more of his personality, perhaps, entered into the hospitality he was extending to Admiral Dewey than ever has been the case with former state affairs.

The red corridor was bright with crimson light. The table was all in red, with meteor roses, begonias and orchids massed in places and roses. Hung on the wall back of the President was his special flag, and facing it the white-starred flag of the Admiral. The Secretary of War's flag was draped at one end of the hall, and at the other was hung the flag of the Secretary of the Navy. The East Room was hung wth flags, and mantel and window seats were banked with palms. Mrs. McKinley entertained the wives of members of the Cabinet in her apartments, and before the evening was over they all met in the library, and were presented to the Admiral.

Each guest was presented to Admiral Dewey by the President. The two walked together to the red corridor while the Marine Band played with unusual spirit "See, the Conquering Hero Comes." The company sat about two hours at the table. The toast to Admiral Dewey was given by President McKinley, and it roused an enthusiasm unusual in the formal atmosphere of the Executive Mansion. Coffee was served at small tables in the state dining room, and this was the smoking room of the occasion.

On this, the same as on every other occasion where Admiral Dewey has appeared since his arrival in the United States, he was cheered to the echo.

Dewey Will Accept the Home.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Admiral Dewey is deeply touched by the raising of the Dewey Home Fund, which amounts to about $50,000. He said to Charles H. Allen, Assistant Secretary of the Navy:

"I can't tell how much I appreciate the raising of that fund. Some time I will tell you, but I can't find words to do it now."

"Some persons have been saying that you would not accept it," said Mr. Allen.

"I don't see how I could refuse such a gift, raised in such a way," said the Admiral.

It is expected that a substantial increase in the fund will be made within the next few days.

British Steamship Ashore.

Norfolk, Oct. 4.—The British ship Hartfield, Capt. Cristee of Liverpool, from South America, for Philadelphia, loaded with iron ore, went aground off Faise Cape life saving station, near Currituck Inlet. The sea is very rough, but the life-saving crew is prepared to take off the crew of twenty-three men. Assistance has been sent from here.

Harlan Slightly Improved.

Mount Pleasant, Ia., Oct. 4.—Ex-Senator James Harlan seems to be a little stronger. There appears to be no hope for his permanent recovery, as he is suffering from chronic liver and stomach troubles. He has just given $10,000 to the Iowa Wesleyan University.

The Cherokee Floated.

Wood's Holl, Mass., Oct. 4.—The steamer Cherokee has been floated from the ledge of rocks on the shore of Naushon Island on which she struck September 19, and is now lying at anchor in Tarpaulin Cove.

Incendiarism in Hayti.

Port-An-Prince, Oct. 4.—The Hotel Communal, in this city, was destroyed by an incendiary fire. Ten other buildings were burned.

To Receive Catholic Faculty.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—As the result of Emperor William's advice the University of Strassburg is to receive a Catholic faculty. That action ends a long and bitter controversy.

Cubans Offer to Help England.

London, Oct. 4.—The war office, it is reported, has received an offer from 2,000 officers and men of the Cuban army for service in the Transvaal.

GRANT IS CONGRATULATED

His Work in Battle With Filipinos Praised by His Fellow Officers.

A DISPLAY OF BRAVERY.

Operations on the Firing Line Are Conducted With Marvellous Coolness and Courage.

The Filipino Loss in Killed and Wounded Much Greater Than at First Reported—Americans Again Advance in Force Driving the Enemy Before Them.

Manila, Oct. 4.—General Frederick D. Grant is receiving congratulations from his fellow officers of the army over his repulse of the Filipinos on the Bacoor road. At the same time he is making a vigorous advance on the enemy.

The native attack was repulsed with heavy loss to the enemy, General Grant conducting the operations in person on the firing line. The American casualties were eight wounded and two killed. The Americans again advanced in force, driving the enemy before them.

The attack on Bacoor began at half-past 8 o'clock in the morning and the fight lasted until dark. General Grant acted with promptness and vigor and showed extreme bravery under the heavy fire to which he and his troops were subjected.

The Filipinos first cut the telegraph wire running from Bacoor to Imus and ambushed the American patrol, consisting of eight men. A signal sergeant was killed and two other Americans were wounded.

The little band was reinforced by a company of the Fourteenth Infantry and three companies of the Fourth, which were hurriedly sent out from Imus and fought their way through along the road to the relief.

The enemy were fighting at 4 o'clock in the afternoon from across a deep river fifty yards wide,

General Alejandrino, the head of the Filipino military commission now conferring with General Otis, said in an interview:

"Our government is willing to accept a protectorate under the United States. We fought Spain because we did not wish longer to be a colony. A colonial government under the American rule would be worse than the Spanish, because you know nothing about the way to govern colonies. We do not want to be experimented on for a century while you learn how. With England it would be another matter."

Kruger's Brother Wants to Fight.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Augustus Hopper Kruger, a half-brother of "Oom Paul" Kruger, passed through Chicago on his way to the Transvaal to join his famous relative in the fight against the English. He came direct from his home at Neligh, Neb., and left for New York. He wished to have Mayor Harrison aid him in raising a regiment of Irish and Germans in Chicago to go to the Transvaal to join the Boer forces. The mayor was absent from the city. Herr Kruger believes implicitly that victory is to perch on the banner of "Oom Paul" in event of war with the British. He said that he had sons and grandsons in Kearney, Neb., whom he expects to follow him to South Africa in three or four weeks.

Volunteer Ships Expected.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—The transports Newport and Pennsylvania are expected to arrive from Manila to-day. The Newport has the signal corps on board, and the Pennsylvania is bringing home the First Washington Volunteers. The transport Tartar, with the Twentieth Kansas Volunteers is expected about Saturday. The transports Valencia, City of Para and Zealandia are to sail on Friday, carrying two regiments of regulars to Manila.

Will Ask for a Pardon.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—At a mass meeting in the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church plans were matured which will result in sending Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis to Memphis, Tenn., to sue Governor McMillin for a pardon for her husband, Edward Curtis. Curtis was taken back to Tennessee to complete a prison sentence last week, and the sympathy of many has been aroused for his family.

Fall Broke His Neck.

Hicksville, Ohio, Oct. 4.—Frank W. Zuber was driving home from Antwerp, Ohio. Near the bridge across the Maumee River his horse became frightened and tipped the buggy over down a twenty-foot embankment. Zuber's neck was broken and he died instantly.

English Bank Rate Advanced.

London, Oct. 4.—The governors of the Bank of England met and decided to raise the bank's rate of discount from 3½ to 4½ per cent. Consols opened ⅝ to ½ under Tuesday's closing, at 102¼ for money and 102⅝ for the account; but latar recovered ¼.

Des Moines' Disastrous Fire.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 4.—Fire destroyed the five-story department store of the Harris Emery Company and spread to the Masonic Temple, Murphy House, Hegele Cigar Company Building and Hill Shoe Company Building. The total loss is estimated at $500,000.

The Ground Was Frozen.

Plainfield, Wis., Oct. 4.—Thermometers here registered 20 degrees above zero, which breaks all previous records for early October weather. The earth was frozen one inch deep. Potatoes are badly frozen and the loss will be extensive.

Rolling Mills Destroyed By Fire.

Portland, Me., Oct. 4.—The Portland Rolling Mills at Ligonia were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $75,000. The mill was erected in 1865 and employed 125 men.

DYING IN HER HOME.

One of Mrs. Eyler's Victims Said to Be at Point of Death.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 4.—Sadie Wiseman, the former inmate of the State Industrial School at Trenton, is at the point of death at her home, No. 64 East Main street.

It was on the sworn statement by this girl that, after the investigation by Governor Voorhees of charges of cruelty preferred against Mrs. Eyler, the matron of the Industrial School, Mrs. Eyler was held to answer criminal charges.

The girl's condition, according to Arthur W. Bishop, president of the New Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, is directly traceable to brutal punishment inflicted upon her while an inmate of the school by the matron and her assistants.

Miss Wiseman has a severe affection of the throat, inflammation of the stomach and some lung trouble.

Mr. Bishop has made a complaint against Mrs. Eyler charging her with assault and battery.

As a last resort the girl will undergo an operation, but it is not improbable that, in her weak condition, she will die under the knife.

A few weeks ago a friend of the girl instituted in her behalf a suit for $50,000 damages against Mrs. Eyler and the trustees of the State school. This suit will now, in all probability, be closed by the death of the girl.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 4.—Fears of the physician that Sadie Wiseman could not survive the operation about to be performed, proved only too well founded. She died a half hour after the use of the knife, without ever coming from under the influence of the ether. Before the operation Sadie, as a former inmate of the Industrial School for Girls, in Trenton, made an ante-mortem statement to Justice of the Peace John Keys in the presence of President Bishop of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and Eugene Pulis, a member of the same society.

Report of State Board of Health.

Albany, Oct. 4.—The bulletin of the State Board of Health covering the State health statistics for the month of August shows that for that month, compared with the preceding month, the annual death rate per thousand of population from all causes has fallen from 18.7 to 17.6. There were 1,300 fewer deaths reported than in August, 1898, and 800 fewer than the average for the past ten years. Allowing for delayed returns the death rate will not exceed 18 per thousand of population, the average for the past ten years having been nearly twenty. For the three summer months there has been an average daily mortality of 334, against 342 in 1898.

Students Engage in Fierce Fight.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 4.—Freshmen and Sophomores clashed at Lake Forrest University. Four score undergraduates, many of whom were girls, punched heads, scratched faces and pulled hair, and when the two-hour engagement ended, battered countenances and aching bones told the story of the bitterest class-fight the Presbyterian college has ever known. Among the injured are John Biggs, sophomore, head bruised and cut, taken from the scene unconscious; Henry McCarter, president of the freshman class and left tackle on the 'varsity football team, face bruised.

Conscience Troubled Him.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 4.—Last week Charles Milligan stole $13 from a roommate at a boarding house and went to Elwood. The man's conscience hurt him and he called at police headquarters in Elwood and gave himself up, confessing. He was brought to Muncie and has been bound over to the Circuit Court. The man came from Huntington to Muncie.

Cut Down by a Coal Barge.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The British Schooner Wallula, inward bound from River Herbert, N. S., with a cargo of lumber, was cut down by the coal barge Lone Star. She soon became waterlogged, and but for the nature of her cargo and prompt work on the part of tugs would have sunk in the main channel. She was towed to an anchorage on South Boston flats.

Maine's Musical Festival.

Portland, Me., Oct. 4.—Portland's auditorium was packed at the opening of the Maine Musical Festival. Three years ago Prof. William R. Chapman organized a festival chorus of 1,000 voices in the western part of the State and a similar one in eastern Maine, a series of concerts being given in Portland and another in Bangor.

Asphalt Under the Town.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 4.—At a depth of 64 feet in East Logansport, a bed of asphaltum four feet deep has been discovered. The material is pronounced to be of the best quality and the promoters, all home people, have leased all the ground in the East End that it was possible for them to obtain.

More Trouble Ahead.

Dublin, Oct., 4.—John Dillon, Nationalist, member of parliament for East Mayo, has declined to speak at the laying of the foundation-stone of the memorial to Charles Stewart Parnell next Sunday, on the ground that the Parnellites are striving to make party capital of the movement.

To Dethrone the Empress.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—A proclamation has been posted in Chinatown calling for aid to dethrone the Dowager Empress in behalf of Emperor Kwang Hsu. It is signed by Kang Yu Wei, the fugitive adviser of the Emperor. He is at present at Victoria, B. C.

Mrs. Belmont's Brother Dead.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 4.—Russell Robbins, a brother of Mrs. Perry Belmont, is dead, from the effects of a fall from his pony, in a polo game some time ago. He was seriously ill but one day. He was thirty-five years old.

President Invited to Richmond.

Richmond, Oct. 4.—The City Council adopted a resolution formally inviting President McKinley to visit the city on the occasion of the launching here of the torpedo boat Shubrick.

I know a lady who was troubled with what her doctors termed intestinal indigestion. Her last doctor had her pursue the Salisbury treatment, which consists of eating only beef and bread dried in the oven and drinking all the hot water she could. I have seen her in the office where she is employed walk along with a glass filled with water steaming hot. The Salisbury treatment did give her some relief and she persisted in it for three months. It was then that she was induced to try Ripans Tabules, and now she finds that there are many eatables (chicken for instance) which she was not allowed to eat at first which she can now eat without distress. She says Ripans Tabules seem to counteract the acidity of her stomach. Their effect upon her has been wonderful and the relief she gets is as much as she ever experienced with the Salisbury treatment, and she can now choose from a more liberal bill of fare.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

BIGELOW ON AMERICA.

Gives His Views of United States Before Geological Congress.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—At the last session of the International Geographical Congress, and in the presence of a distinguished audience, including many colonial and other government officials, Mr. Poultney Bigelow discussed "Colonial Administration in Different Parts of the World." The paper was received with marked favor.

Mr. Bigelow said it had taken centuries of business and bloodshed to reach the state of comparative civilization now enjoyed by the world. We were just beginning to realize that what interested one interested all, and that in colonial matters the most important condition to-day was unity among the whites, whether English, Russian, French or German.

"In the far East," continued Mr. Bigelow, "the United States has now become a rival of Europe through the occupation of Manila. Americans thus become next door neighbors to Hong Kong and are almost equally interested in the projected railway terminating at Kiao-Chou. In common with Germany, however, the United States has experience yet to purchase, and from observations made during the war I fear my country is learning her lesson at an extravagant price.

"The United States has officially commenced the government of a tropical empire under conditions which make it probable that the Americans will repeat the blunders which the Englishmen corrected a century ago. Much as the Filipinos dislike Spanish rule, they dislike Yankee rule even more. Nor is this to be wondered at. Methods successful against American Indians and against negroes are not found successful in the Philippines, nor do they attract a high spirited race such as inhabit the Philippines.

"The curse of America to-day is that her politicians and newspapers stand in fear of the mob. Any one who dares to criticise the wisdom of mob inspired machinery is howled at as an unpatriotic, if not as a traitor. The war fever has gone to the brain of the American mob, especially that section which did not go to the war. Consequently the colonial operations of the United States are marked by great haste in preparation, by frequent changes of plan, by reckless expenditure of life and money and by lamentable failure to fulfill the reasonable anticipations of the merchant class, who are, after all, the best judges of colonial administration."

Held up a Stage Coach.

Ouray, Col., Oct. 4.—Two masked men stopped the Sneffel stage one mile this side of the Camp Bird Mills and eight miles from Ouray. They were after the daily shipment of gold bullion form the Camp Bird Mine, and unloaded the mail and baggage looking for it. However, they overlooked the box containing $12,000 worth of gold, representing two day's production of the mine. The mails were left untouched and the passengers were not molested. Shriff Edgar was notified and with a posse overtook the highwaymen near Yankee Boy Basin. After a brisk exchange of shots the Sheriff retired to secure reinforcements.

Atlanta Sends For Dewey.

Atlanta, Oct. 4.—The city council has decided to send a delegation composed of three of its members, a committee of the Atlanta Business Men's League, three members of the Chamber of Commerce, and Governor Candler, to Washington to invite Admiral Dewey to Atlanta. Should Governor Candler accompany the committee he will extend the freedom of the state to the admiral. The Atlanta delegation is to leave the date of the visit to the admiral's convenience in the event of his acceptance.

Prominent Wedding Announced.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The announcement has been made that the marriage of Miss Rosamond Tudor, the youngest and only unmarried daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Tudor, to Alexander Agassiz Higginson, the only child of Mayor Henry Lee Higginson, will be celebrated in Trinity Church at high noon, Oct. 9. Mr. Higginson's mother is the eldest daughter of the late Prof. Louis Agassiz, of Cambridge. Mr. Higginson will take his bride to Montana where he has business interests.

Scotsman's Crew Sentenced.

Liverpool, Oct. 4.—Four greasers, three firemen and two coal trimmers of the British steamship Scotsman, wrecked Sept. 21 in the Straits of Belle Isle, who were arrested on their arrival here from Queenstown, were charged with being in possession of goods belonging to passengers of the Scotsman and formally arraigned. Four, having been previously convicted, were sentenced to a month's imprisonment with hard labor. The others were fined £2 and costs.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 4.—Stocks were still weaker to-day, and Sugar, Tennessee Coal and Tobacco showed the heaviest decline. The action was due to continued unfavorable news from London.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Closing prices for spot: Wheat 74, corn 31¼, oats 22⅞, pork 8.21, lard 5.18.

The Reason.

Browne—Why did Smith knock over his daughter's suitor and then throw him down the steps?

Towne—I believe he objected to the young man because the latter was not a member of the church.

A Better Graft

Jimmie—My paw's goin' to take me to the seaside.

Tommy—Huh! That's nothin'. My paw's goin' to take me to all the ball games.

Then and Now

He used to say that she was plump
And she was pleased at that;
But they were married years ago,
And now he fills her days with woe
By telling her she's fat.

The Prevailing Craze

Old Lady—And whose little pet are you?

Little Boy—I ain't nobody's little pet. I'm de champeen fedderweight o' dis ward.

THE ARTILLERY MOVING.

Orange Free State is Making Preparations for Fighting on the Frontier.

BRITISH FLAG IS DOWN.

Believed That the Free State Forces Will Cross the Frontier and Capture Kimberly.

Rumors of a Fight and a Conflict is Expected at Any Minute Unless England Backs Down—Capture of the Diamond Mines Imminent and English Panic Stricken.

London, Oct. 4.—A telegram from Paris announces that M. Arnaud, president of the International Arbitration and Peace League, has sent an appeal to Lord Salisbury entreating him to choose a Power to act with a Power chosen by the Transvaal, with the object of averting war.

The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs that Mr. Hofmeyr, the Afrikander leader, will go to Pretoria to make a last effort for the maintenance of peace.

Arrangements for the dispatch of war stores and men continue. A quantity of balloon material has been sent to South Africa, the War Office considering that military ballooning will prove of the greatest value in the kind of warfare expected there. The chartering of transports still continues. Five vessels of the Cunard line now are engaged.

Cape Town, Oct. 4.—Detachments of Orange Free State artillery are moving in the direction of Kimberly, which is almost on the Free State frontier.

Residents of Colony frontier towns from Kimberly to Mafeking are panic-stricken. It is believed the Free State forces will cross the frontier, seize Kimberly and attempt to hold the British re-inforcements from the South in check. If they are successful, the Boer raiders from the north can operate with a free hand.

Prime Minister Schreiner of Cape Colony is anxious to resign, but his colleagues have prevailed upon him not to do so. The Indian troops from Simla have arrived at Durban.

Johannesburg, Oct. 4.—The Mining Commissioner issued an official proclamation on Sept. 29, stating that in the event of war the mines would be worked and the miners would be protected. This assurance has now been withdrawn, and the commissioners advise all British subjects to leave the Transvaal as soon as possible.

London, Oct. 4.—The Boers will open war with Great Britain at once. All the reliable information about the situation converges about this conclusion.

In the last twenty-four hours there has been an ominous absence of direct messages from the Transvaal. The Boer Government has established the strictest censorship over the telegraph.

The British diplomatic agent, Conynham Green, was to leave Pretoria by a special train. The British flag, it is believed, has already been hauled down from the legation building.

Cape Town is greatly wrought up over a report that the Boers have already occupied Laing's Nek, within the Natal territory, dislodging the single British regiment which was stationed there. There was an entire absence of detail in the first story of this alleged movement, and it is therefore pretty generally suspected.

If it is true it is doubtless the cause of the report received yesterday, and afterward disproved, that Dundee had fallen to the Boers.

A part of the London press is bitterly assailing the Government for its evident lack of military preparations for the present emergency. The situation of the British troops on the Natal border is openly described as most critical and the War Office is accused of gross mismanagement. It is declared that there is overt treason in Cape Town, with the implication that an uprising if Boers and Boer sympathizers might easily overcome the two British battalions on guard there.

Symptoms suggestive of panic are observed in various public utterances. It is apparent that many leading men in England fear a great disaster to British arms in South Africa.

The Government is urged to send Imperial Comissioners to treat with President Kruger. This, in face of the stubborn attitude of the Boers, is almost a candid confession of weakness, whether physical or moral, or both.

A letter from Johannesburg says: "If it comes to a fight I believe the Boers will make a massacre of it, blow Johannesburg to bits and shoot us on sight. In fact I have been told so by one in office."

Strike Grows at Cramps'.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 4.—Seven hundred boilermakers and iron shipbuilders, with about 200 helpers, have gone on strike at Cramp's shipyard, demanding a working day of nine hours. The shipbuilders include riveters and caulkers and the strikers say the action of those men and the boilermakers is practically to tie up the entire plant. The machinists and blacksmiths, numbering almost 200, have been on strike for several weeks.

Has a Famous Old Clock.

Rensselaer, Mo., Oct. 4.—J. K. Worrell, of this city, has a clock 200 years old and it was owned once in Fayette County, Kentucky. It stands 7½ feet high and indicates the time of day, changes of the moon, the moon's phases in all countries, day of the month and the day of the week. It is made of mahogany and is without a scratch.

Horace Norton Captured

Lowville, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Horace Norton, who murdered Miss Widrich, at Fulton Chain, on September 21, is in jail here. He was captured by W. W. Nickerson and his son Roy, of Turin, and Under Sheriff Munyon, of Herkimer, on the farm of Mrs. M. P. Clark, near Turin, after a desperate fight.

The Yacht Races.

Sir Thomas Lipton is such a genuine sport, thus far showing that there is none of the croaker in his make-up that if his Shamrock should carry off the international cup as the result of the series of yacht races started yesterday the American people would be happy in the thought that if it has got to depart from us it will fall into such worthy hands, although everyone has hopes that the result will not be in that direction.

The conduct of Sir Thomas has been such, however, that if he should win two out of the five heats that will constitute the race, leaving the then final and deciding heat for Columbia to demonstrate the American trait of winning on the finish, no one would begrudge the satisfaction that such an outcome would undoubtedly bring to him. Besides, it would add a zest and competition to the races that would arouse more interest than has ever been known in the contests before.

The performance of the Shamrock yesterday showed that the trim little craft is no slouch, but at the same time we Americans naturally feel that the Columbia is destined to be the victor. Though we have admiration for Sir Thomas' excellent sporting proclivities and realize that the Columbia has a foe worthy of her best efforts, nothing will shake our confidence in the fact that the trophy will remain on this side of the big pond the same as it has ever since international yacht races were inaugurated.

Those Copper Mines.

Referring to the recent statement that has been made of the possibility of the reopening of the old copper mines in the first range of the Watchung Mountains, the Elizabeth Journal says:

Within the past thirty years the chimney of the old copper smelting works was standing just at the foot of South Mountain, about three miles north of Somerville. Copper mines were opened on the south slope and on the north slope of this mountain, but, as stated, the ore was somewhat rebellious, and the cost of extracting the copper was then too great to pay for working. Now it may be entirely different, and modern machinery may revive this old industry and make money out of it. The Watchung and contiguous mountains are full of copper, and it is well-known that the New Jersey copper is the purest in the world. It would be a good thing if these old mines could be reopened successfully, but the story that capitalists are soon to reopen them, etc., has been told so often that people will believe it only when they know it to be true.

The Newark Advertiser, which looks at all public matters from an independent stand, has this to say of the effect that the Daly-Atkinson manifesto had upon the public:

The wordy manifesto recently issued by a committee of some Democratic Silverites in New Jersey, who met in a Philadelphia hotel, has fallen flat, as we predicted it would. Comparatively few people took the trouble to read the long document, and the press of the State has almost ignored it. The object of the authors of the manifesto was to divert the minds of voters in a State election from State questions to an issue in National politics that has not the most remote bearing on State affairs, and which could not come within ten thousand miles of settlement by reason of any result of the November election. The utter indifference shown to the manifesto ought to convince the men behind it that they are barking up the wrong tree this year, and are only exhibiting their impotency in State political affairs.

The area of the Transvaal is 120,000 square miles, or about the same size as the combined areas of the States of Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut and Vermont.

Perhaps it was counting their chickens before they were hatched that made Plainfield's poultry farm unprofitable to its owners, remarks the Newark Evening News.

The United States government receipts during September were $37,579,372, a surplus for the month of $8,754,772.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Taxes are higher this year than last in nearly every municipality in the State. In many instances the increase is in the amount to be paid the county, and for this stone roads are principally responsible. In other cases local improvements compel the raising of more money. Nowhere does it appear that the additional burden imposed upon the taxpayers is due to extravagance or a wanton misuse of the public funds. The taxpayers seem to be getting value received for their money.—Newark News.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

V. L. Frazee, who grocery was seriously damaged by fire this morning, suffered the loss of his old fire hat, which he wore when a member of Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1. The hat was kept on a shelf in the rear room where the fire originated. Mr. Frazee was not at the store when the fire was first discovered. In the excitement no one thought of the old relic and it was destroyed. Mr. Frazee keenly feels the loss of the hat which was highly prized.

It is really rather hard on Admiral Dewey to ask him to be responsible for all the faces that have been distributed broadcast over this section of the country. There are all varieties of portraits with the Admiral's name attached and many of them have hardly any resemblance to each other. Those who had the opportunity of seeing the Admiral last Friday and Saturday found that many of these alleged portraits looked very little indeed like the hero. Some of them really do not look like him at all, and it is hard indeed to trace the resemblance.

That most delicious of Thanksgiving turkey accompaniments, the cranberry sauce, will probably rarely be seen this year except on the tables of the well-to-do. It is estimated that the cranberry crop in South Jersey this season will be less than half as large as that of last year. The failure is ascribed to the recent heavy rains and the unusually early frost. The bogs east of Vineland, which are considered the largest in this section of the country, will yield this year only about 40 per cent. of the usual crop. The same percentage in loss is reported from other growers in different parts of South Jersey.

Among the many residences in Plainfield there will be none built more substantially nor with a greater regard for the prevention of the spread of fire than the handsome residence now being erected on West Seventh street, near Grant avenue, for A. C. Stebbins, superintendent of the Pond Tool Works. Mr. Stebbins is having the residence built to occupy, and he wants it just as near perfect as it is possible to make it. The provisions of the building ordinance have more than been complied with. The floor timbers and all the woodwork is considerably heavier than the required size. The "slow-burning" construction has been followed throughout the house, and if ever it catches fire Mr. Stebbins and his family will have plenty of time to remove their belongings before the fire can eat its way through the house.

The Helping Hand for October, a monthly issued by the Woman's Board of Baptist Missions at Boston, has a remarkably fine picture of Miss Julia G. Shinn, of Lakewood, who spent two years in Plainfield in work connected with the First Baptist church, and who will sail today for Burma to enter on foreign missionary labor. The picture is accompanied by the following interesting autobiographical sketch:—"I have the distinction of a birthplace quite as noted as Abraham Lincoln's—a little hamlet, as near Lakewood as anywhere else, known as 'Cedar Bridge.' Have lived in Lakewood most of my life, and had the advantages of the public school there; later went to Peddie Institute and was graduated there. Still later to 'Philadelphia Training School for Christian Work,' and lastly to Newton Theological Institution. These institutions have all done their part, but, alas! their subject was too hard to insure eminent success. The days are full of work. But I am well and enjoying it. My church home is in the First Baptist, of Lakewood, N. J."

Since Cranford is about to have a local telephone exchange, and none of the Cranford physicians have subscribed for a telephone, the Cranford Chronicle tells of a resident who had noticed this fact and asked one of the medical men the other day why it was so. The reply was that doctors have troubles enough now without inviting others, and in explanation the physician went on to say:

"You would be surprised if you knew how many people act on the theory that medical advice obtained in any other way than by a personal call at the doctor's office or by his call at their homes, ought to be free as air or sunlight. They accost us on the street, talk about the weather, and then slip in a series of questions that is a doctor's business to answer at so much a call. To decline to answer would be an affront, and to send in a bill for open air advice would be tantamount to a deliberate insult.

"This being so, it is easy to see how a telephone would increase the opportunities of the deadhead. From his point of view the doctor who would expect pay for answering a telephone call could only be compared to a swindler." "No," the doctor sighed, "a telephone won't do—so long as human nature remains as it is now."

Queer set, these Cranford pill mixers.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee 15 and 25c.

Fall Opening
---OF---
Fine Millinery
-:- AT -:-
Woodhull & Martin's.

OPENING DAYS

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A rare display of exclusive millinery. The season's choicest production. All the newest novelties in Fancy Felts, Tam-o-shanter Golf Hats, Empire and Gainsboroughs. The newest shades in Millinery Materials, such as Chiffons, Malines, Velvet Ribbons, Feathers, Breasts, etc. Every lady in the city cordially invited to attend this grand opening.

MISS M. M. GASSNER.

Golf Suitings.

Fashion makes it imperative that Golf Suiting be worn. We are inclined to encourage their use, for no more durable and stylish suitings were ever introduced to the buying public. Double-faced, warm, serviceable, need no lining. Our line ranges in price from $1.25 to $3.98 per yard, and we believe our styles equal to the best shown by N. Y. houses. Our prices we believe to be lower, as we purchased early before the subsequent rise in price.

Underskirts. New fall styles are now on sale, and let us say to you—you may look many a day for a more attractive lot of styles. They are made of satines, Italian cloths, mercerized cottons, morreens, etc., in both black and colors.

New waists in flannel, brilliantine, satine, silk, etc. Styles are exclusive and prices are right.

Sundry Novelties.

New Embroidered Chiffons—Tucked Silks, Corded Silks, etc., for dress fronts. All over point-de-venise dress laces in black and cream, plain lace nets, new veilings, new neck novelties, velvet ribbons in satin back and linen back, butter colored lace ties with embroidered ends, black jetted lace nets, etc.

Kid Gloves. We sell no cheap kid gloves. No lady is well-dressed with either cheap gloves or cheap shoes. Better wear a cheap dress. $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 are our prices for good gloves. The last two numbers are entirely new and very desirable. Must be seen, however, to be appreciated.

New Table Damasks.

Our sales in this line are certainly phenomenal. We have surprised ourselves as well as our friends. It is not the result of accident, but rather the natural response to persistent effort to secure and offer to our customers special values. The latest attractions in this department are two special Bleached Damasks at 50c and 75c per yard. The 50c number is worth 75c and the 75c number is worth 89c, or we are guilty of prevarication.

DOWN STAIRS.

The old saying "forewarned forearmed" has proved true in our case in regard to White Iron Beds. Anticipating the rise in price of these goods we bought early and often all the iron beds we could find storage for. Prices have advanced since until we could sell the goods back to the people we bought them of at a handsome profit.

We prefer, however, to give our friends the benefit of our good fortune. Iron Beds, Brass trimmed, at 3.75, 4.98, 5.75, 6.48, 7.98, 8.49, 9.98, 10.75, 11.50, 12.50, 13.75, 14.98. Every bed quoted worth from 15 to 25 per cent more.

MATTRESSES.

Soft Top Mattresses, 1.98, 2.45. Husk, soft top, 2.98. Victor Combination, 1 part, 3.98. Victor Combination, 2 parts, 4.48. 45 lb Pure White Cotton, A. C. A. tick, 2 parts, 5.98. Genuine Felt Mattress, Fancy tick, 1 part or 2 parts, 8.50. Silk Floss Mattress, to order, 15.00. Springs, Pillows, Furniture, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Shades, Rugs, etc.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 3.—Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian church of the borough, officiated yesterday at the wedding of Frank Boyer, son of Mrs. C. M. Boyer, formerly of this place.

An official test of the Watchung Water Company will be made next Friday evening, when it is expected that Fire Chief Doane and other prominent persons will be present. An entertainment is to be provided for the members of the Common Council and invited guests at Taylor's Hotel.

A Democratic primary will be held Saturday evening at the borough hall at 8 o'clock for the purpose of choosing delegates to the Democratic county convention to be held at New Brunswick, Wednesday, October 11. The call is signed by George W. Day.

There was an alarm of fire Monday evening, but there was no fire. The alarm was sent in to give the fire laddies a chance to test the new fire hydrants and enjoy a wash down by the courtesy of the Watchung Water Company.

Supt. Sebring, of the Watchung Water Works, has under consideration a proposition from the city of Plainfield to supply water to some streets in the extreme western part of the city adjacent to the borough line.

At the Republican primary held Monday evening at the borough hall Furman H. Gise was chosen a delegate to attend the county convention to be held at New Brunswick tomorrow.

There are letters at the postoffice for Henry Dougherty, John Frey, Mrs. J. James, Ella B. McGraw, W. M. Rider, Mrs. Geo. Stuts, Gustave Schenipp, George Walton.

J. B. Lane, who has recently recently returned from Camden, where he attended the Christian Endeavor convention, delivered an able address at Cooper Hospital.

Mrs. Wilson Fredericks and son Allen spent Monday with his sister, Mrs. Clarence Oakland, of New Brunswick.

Miss Rebecca Swackhamer, of Phillipeburg, has been visiting her brother, Mayor R. J. Swackhamer.

Capt. John Wherley and wife, of Somerville, were guests Sunday of Mayor and Mrs. Swackhamer.

Miss Annie Fenner, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Terry have been visiting Mrs. A. M. Naughtright, of Middle Valley.

Dr. and Mrs. P. W. Brakeley are attending the exposition at Philadelphia.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 4.—Chestnuts and hickory nuts are very plentiful in the woods nearby this year, and the boys in town are reaping a harvest. Every day the woods are filled with a merry crowd.

There has been no effort made yet to have the property owners along Westfield avenue move their fences back to the road line as called for in the township map. As it is the road is far too narrow for trolley track and driving.

Terrill road is being improved by a covering of crushed stone. The work is being done under the direction of Town Committeeman Terry who has charge of the roads in that district.

The Town Committee met in the town rooms last evening. Business relating to the declaring of the amount of the dog tax for the ensuring year was transacted.

Miss Wagoner who has been spending a week with her cousins, the Misses Cook, has returned to her home in Madison.

The Board of Education met in the parlor of the school building last evening. Routine business was transacted.

Mrs. Wm. Gere has returned from a visit of several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brockway, of Brooklyn.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company hold their regular monthly meeting in their rooms this evening.

Miss Jennie Frentz has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. William Hazel, of Elizabeth.

Lecture in Scotch Plains Baptist church tonight by the pastor on "Foregleams of the Messiah."

Miss Jimmerson, of Lyons Farms, has been visiting her sister Mrs. Edward Wade.

Mrs. G. M. Shott is spending a month visiting relatives and friends in Ohio.

Mrs. George Stiliger has returned from a visit with friends in Brooklyn.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

FALL MILLINERY.
Reception Days
Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7.
Among the many happenings, occasions and events which from time to time you are invited to attend here, this exposition of Autumn Millinery stands out in bold relief as the finest and most complete showing of its kind ever attempted in the history of this progressive store.
To attempt a detailed account of all that has been done to bring this beautiful assemblage of
before you would take columns of space. The fact is here, rounded out and complete. We're proud of the exhibit; we're proud of the taste and skill shown by our corps of milliners. We are surprised at the beauty of these artistic creations, and what pleases us most is there's not a bonnet or hat in the whole collection but is so modestly priced as to come well within reach of the great rank and file of our millinery buying public.
Kindly accept this invitation to attend the opening. See for yourself how well we have worked for you. Your millinery wants will be promptly attended to. Your most minute wish carefully carried out. Orders should be given as early as possible so as to avoid the disappointment of delay, which (even with our equipment), sometimes occurs after the season's rush begins.

Greatest Sale of Fall and Winter
CLOTHING
Ever held in Plainfield. Prices that will be in reach of everybody at 214 WEST FRONT ST., NEXT DOOR TO MUSIC HALL.
SALE TO LAST TEN DAYS ONLY.
NEED OF READY CASH causes a sacrifice of fine clothing by manufacturers, their stock offered at 35c on the dollar. Too many goods on hand is the reason for this wonderful sale. Manufacturers must have cash, this is an honest sacrifice of goods by first-class reliable manufacturers who have made up more clothing than they can sell and consequently close out their surplus at an enormous loss for ready money.
We guarantee that for one dollar you get three dollars worth of clothing.
Just Look at These Prices:
Men's woolen suits, worth $9. at $2.75. Men's extra durable trousers, worth $3. at 95c. Men's fall overcoats, worth $7.50, at $2 75. Men's and young men's striped worsted suits at $6 50, worth $16.50. Men's winter overcoats, worth 15.00, at 4.25, and hundreds of other bargains in suits and trousers. These prices don't represent the cost of making these goods, they are clean made garments and bear the labels of the best makers in the country. There will also be sold elegant business and dress suits for men at 3.50, 4.50, 5.50, 6.50, 8.00 and 9.00, actually and honestly worth from 15.00 to 25.00. No shop-worn truck, but clean, honest clothing, good enough for the best dressed man in Plainfield. Bring this ad with you and if we don't show you everything we will pay you car fare both ways.
Come this Saturday at 8 a. m. and get the first pick while the assortment is still large, don't hesitate, don't delay, first come, first choice, come and see for yourself.
Elegant silk lined fall overcoats worth from 15.00 to 20.00, at 4.50, 5 50 and 6.50. Elegant dress trousers, worth from 3.50 to 7.00, at 2 25 and 2.50. Every man and woman within 25 miles of Plainfield should visit this unprecedented sale.
Child's 3-piece middy suits at 75c, worth 2.00. Boy's school suits from 8 to 16, at 1.00, 1.25 and 1.50, worth from 2.50 to 5.00. Children's knee pants at 15c, this is a special and won't last long. Boy's knee pants, strictly all wool with double seat and double knees, extra heavy weight, worth 75c at 39c.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Das 13. deutsche Bundesschießen wird, wie der Centralausschuß nun endgiltig beschlossen hat, in Dresden in der Zeit vom 8. bis 15. Juli 1900 abgehalten werden.—Hier ist der Bildhauer Otto Fritzsche gestorben.—Geheimrath Professor Dr. Böhmert, der Schöpfer des den Kindern Dresdens gewidmeten „Heideparks," beging unter allgemeiner Betheiligung seinen 70. Geburtstag. Dr. Scheven legte in die Hände des Jubilars ein Huldigungsschreiben seiner Freunde und Verehrer nieder, die ein kleines Kapital von 14,300 Mark gesammelt haben—den Grundstock einer zu schaffenden Professor Victor Böhmert-Stiftung.

Chemnitz. Mit einem Kapital von 3,000,000 Mark soll in der Umgebung ein Elektrizitätswerk für den Betrieb einer bis Burgstädt gehenden Bahn, zur Beleuchtung der zahlreichen Industrieorte in der Umgegend von Chemnitz und zur Abgabe von Kraft für gewerbliche Zwecke errichtet werden.—Die hiesige Handelskammer beschloß, im Interesse der ärmeren Klassen der Bevölkerung die Generaldirektion der sächsischen Staatsbahnen zu ersuchen, dafür zu wirken, daß überall auf den deutschen Bahnen der Margarine dieselben Verkehrserleichterungen gewährt werden, wie sie für Butter schon bestehen.

Leipzig. Die große Strumpf- und Trikotwaarenfabrik von Roscher in Markersdorf-Burgstädt ist durch ein großes Feuer gänzlich eingeäschert worden; sämmtliche bedeutenden Lagervorräthe sind mitverbrannt. Der Schaden beträgt über 250,000 Mark. Mehrere hundert Arbeiter sind brodlos.

Lomatsch. In der hiesigen Spar- und Vorschußkasse wurde eine große Unterschlagung entdeckt. Der Kassenvorsteher wurde verhaftet.

Radebeul. Zur Feier ihres 25jährigen Bestehens hat die chemische Fabrik von Heyden für ihre Arbeiter 100,000 Mark gestiftet. Die Zinsen sollen zu Unterstützungszwecken verwandt werden. Ein in der Fabrik seit 25 Jahren beschäftigter Arbeiter erhielt ein Geschenk von 1000 Mark.

Zwickau. Durch Hochwasser der Mulde wurden in hiesiger Umgebung Brücken und Chausseen zerstört und zahlreiche Fabriken und Kohlenschachte unter Wasser gesetzt.

Thüringische Staaten.

Eisenach. Der Stationsassistent Kutschbach in Gerstungen wurde durch eine Rangirmaschine überfahren und getödtet.

Gera. Von der hiesigen Strafkammer wurde die Gutsbesitzersfrau Trinks aus Oberröppisch wegen Milchfälschung zu 50 Mark Geldstrafe beziehungsweise zehn Tagen Gefängniß verurtheilt.

Sondershausen. Neulich Abends wurden in Rockensußra durch ein Feuer vier Wohnhäuser und Nebengebäude in Asche gelegt.

Weimar. Mit dem kürzlich im Alter von 86 Jahren verstorbenen Professor Friedrich Martersteig ist wieder ein gut Stück von Altweimar dahingegangen; auf seiner Jugend ruhte noch der Glanz der Goethe'schen Epoche. Martersteig war, wie der hier noch lebende Professor Karl Hummel, mit Friedrich Preller befreundet, doch war er mehr Historienmaler. Einige seiner besten Bilder schmücken die Wartburg; am bekanntesten sind seine Kreidezeichnungen „Körners Leben"; seine größte Schöpfung aber ist das mächtig wirkende Wandgemälde „Bernhard von Weimar vor Breisach" (1638), das in dem darnach benannten großen Bernhardsaale des weimarischen Rathhauses hängt.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. In hiesigen Bank- und Finanzkreisen erregt eine grandiose Unterschlagung in den Bureaus der Kommers- und Diskontobank, eines der ersten Bankinstitute Hamburgs, mit einem Stammkapital von 36,000,000 Mark, gewaltiges Aufsehen. Die Prokuristen dieses Instituts, Dittmer und Täubert, sind verhaftet worden. Das Manko in den Kassenbeständen der Bank, das sie durch fortgesetzte Unterschlagungen verschuldet haben sollen, beträgt 300,000 Mark.

Bremen. Der Norddeutsche Lloyd hat für den Hafen von Gibraltar einen eigenen Tender, „Undine" genannt, erbauen lassen, der für das An- und Absetzen der Passagiere seiner Schnelldampferlinie Genua-New York in Gibraltar bestimmt ist. Der mit allen Bequemlichkeiten versehene Dampfer besitzt eine Geschwindigkeit von zehn Knoten.—Der „Norddeutsche Lloyd" hat das nunmehr fertiggestellte Kaiserdock in eigene Verwaltung übernommen.

SOME ACTIVITIES OF WOMANKIND.

BY ANNETTE CRAWFORD.

"What will not woman, gentle woman, dare?"
—Southey.

The young women in California who are successfully filling occupations held exclusively by men in most communities are subjects of interest and discussion among the throngs of tourists who visit the Pacific coast for the winter season.

Among those who have taken up novel and unusual lines of work for women are Mrs. Olive Mason Strong, who runs a sawmill and shingle factory in the San Jacinto mountain district; Miss May Simpson, who is a deputy sheriff in San Francisco; Mrs. Mary A. Costa, who is a bank cashier at San Jose, and Miss Jennie Vincent, who is a pilot in the harbor of San Pedro.

Miss Vincent is probably the only woman steamboat pilot in the world and is a slight, blue eyed, fair haired little lady of 22 years. Some time ago she successfully passed the examination required by the board of pilot commissioners and received the usual certificate. She now pilots Pacific coast steamers into San Pedro and San Diego harbors and expects soon to have a position in the pilot service in San Francisco bay.

Pittsburg has the distinction of having the only woman in this country, if not in the world, who is at the head of a large steel and iron business. The woman who holds this unique position is Miss Y. R. Baumgarten.

Frau Cora von Bultzingslowen, one of the most distinguished of the delegates to the International Council of Women in London, has accomplished substantial reforms in the prison system of Germany, to which she devotes much attention.

The Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary this autumn. Among the most prominent members of the state union is Mrs. Rebecca Ballard-Chambers of Philadelphia. She is a native of Ohio and first entered reform work during the "crusade" in 1873, being herself an "original crusader," with her mother, who was secretary of the Canton Crusaders.

The Society of the American Women In London, which was formed not long ago, is already a great success and has a membership of over 100. It is founded somewhat on the lines of Sorosis of New York and is social, literary and educational in its character. Mrs. Hugh Reid Griffin is president of the society.

Miss Marion Cockrell, daughter of Senator Cockrell of Missouri, who is admired in many social circles from Washington to San Francisco for her unusual beauty and charming manner, has been invited to christen the Missouri when that battleship is launched.

The Viennese Tugenbund, or League of Purity, which is composed of chorus girls of the Imperial Opera of Vienna, has received the distinguished approval of Emperor Francis Joseph, who has ordered his opera director to promote them as fast as their abilities will warrant. Fraulein Reingruber, the president of the league, has been advanced to play the title role in "The Maid of Orleans" and is drawing big houses.

Mrs. Marion M. Cook is the press agent for the Lambardi Opera company. She is a clever woman, with an experience of five years in newspaper work.

Mrs. William Butler Duncan, Jr., a member of New York's fashionable society, is an expert yachtswoman, if the term is admissible. She was voted the bravest woman in the Newport colony because she defied the fierce storm and heavy sea and helped to sail the yacht Esperanna in its victorious race off Newport recently for the Morgan cup.

Among the veterans who attended that Grand Army encampment in Philadelphia was Mrs. Ellen E. Nash of Buffalo. She is fairly entitled to the distinction of being called a veteran and has a war record that few women can match. She enlisted with her husband in the One Hundredth regiment, New York volunteers, in 1861 as regimental nurse and served three years, sharing the hardships and privations of the regiment on the peninsula with the Army of the Potomac, being on the firing line in front of Yorktown, at Williamsburg, Seven Pines and Fair Oaks.

Mme. Loubet, wife of the president of the French republic, is described as a rather stout, gray haired woman, with a very motherly manner and a soft, gentle voice. She puts on no airs and is democratic and economical.

The largest collection of orchids in this country is owned by Mrs. George B. Wilson of Philadelphia, whose conservatories are the Mecca of horticulturists of two continents. Mrs. Wilson is now in Mexico directly overseeing the work of her agents there, who are searching for Mexican orchid wonders.

Mrs. Mary S. Knowles has taught the infant class in the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Sunday school at Delaware, O., continuously for 30 years.

In a recent letter on Canada in the London Times Miss Flora Shaw pointed out the great need for women homemakers in the newly settled districts, especially on the prairie farms of the Canadian northwest. Following Miss Shaw's suggestion, it is proposed to establish in connection with experimental farms training schools or training homes for women colonists. The course of training would embrace dairy work, poultry raising, kitchen gardening, the art of cookery, laundry work, some instruction in the use of carpenters' tools, so necessary in a new country, and a course in first aid to the injured, so that the woman colonist would be qualified to treat gunshot wounds, lacerations, frostbites, burns, etc.

Senorita Mercedes Gensana, daughter of a rich Porto Rican, recently arrived in Grand Rapids as the bride of George Martin, an American soldier who had won her heart. Her husband now works in a furniture factory.

Dr. Julia Holmes Smith, recently elected dean of the National Medical college, Chicago, is the first woman to occupy this position in a coeducational medical school.

Miss Millie Eldridge, who rejoices in the honorary title of colonel and who is the officially adopted daughter of the Missouri department of the G. A. R., is a very pretty young woman of 20. Her home is in Springfield, Mo. Her father is Major J. T. Eldridge, a prominent veteran. She has also been adopted as a sister by the Missouri encampment of the Sons of Veterans and is a member of the Woman's Relief corps. She wears a colonel's uniform with the exception of the—well, she wears a skirt, and she carries a sword.

Living in a Tennessee mountain cabin has been discovered a young woman who is a natural poet and artist of rare ability. Through the influence of a Cincinnati woman she exhibited some of her work in the competition of the Chattanooga Art Students' league and won the first prize, although she had never taken a drawing lesson in her life.

An 18-year-old California girl recently inherited $4,000,000.

Paris is just now raving over a new stage beauty, Mlle. Henriot.

Celeste Mogador, who as the Countess de Chabrillan was celebrated as the only woman of whom the Empress Eugenie was jealous, is living in poverty in Paris. The famous beauty which dazzled Napoleon faded long ago.

Mme. Yacco, known as the Japanese Ellen Terry, is passing through America on her way to the Paris exposition.

Mrs. Ballington Booth is again the topic of interest to women throughout America. The recent announcement that a millionaire woman of New York, a leader of the old Four Hundred, had resolved to donate all her money to the Volunteers and to devote the remainder of her life to the cause and that she had been persuaded to do so through the preaching of Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth calls attention again to this remarkable woman and the beautiful life of self sacrifice which she is leading.

Australia is just beginning to blossom out as a producer of literature. Already a clever young woman, Miss Louise Mack has written two charming books which have attracted no little attention. One of these is entitled "When the World Was Young." Another volume, called "Teens," describes girl life in Sydney and is typically colonial. She is now writing a story of Australian life and regularly contributes a woman's letter to the Sydney Bulletin.

Miss Elsie French, the fiancee of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, is a very pretty girl of 18, possessed of an independent fortune in her own right amounting to nearly $5,000,000. She is of excellent family and in nowise objectionable as a match even for the principal heir of the enormous wealth of the Vanderbilts.

NOT AS HE WISHED.

He Chuckled Over the Joke but Only for a Short Time.

"I have been all over this country and in many others," said Harry H. Porter, a Chicago drummer, to a Tribune reporter yesterday, "but I had to come to New York to get buncoed, and then I was as easy as any farmer. I was standing at Broadway and Thirty-fourth street the other night waiting for a car when I noticed two fellows, about fifty feet away, who were carrying on an animated discussion. They looked to me like college boys and appeared to have reached the exhilirating stage of intoxication. Every now and then they would look at me and then fall to arguing again like a couple of lawyers. Finally they each pulled out a roll of greenbacks and deposited several of them with a bystander, who was, to all appearances, a total stranger to them. The taller of the two boys then approached me and said with a suppressed laugh.

"'Now, don't you let on what I am telling you, but if you will do as I say we will each make a few dollars as easy as rolling off a log. I just bet my friend over there $20 that I could borrow a $5 bill from you. You give me the bill—of course we couldn't run away if we wanted to—and I'll collect the $20 and give you $10 of it. You see, there can't be any "con" game about this. If there were all you would have to do would be to yell "cop" and we would be arrested before we could get twenty-five feet. I just want to give my friend a lesson. He is eternally wanting to bet.'

"Well, I always did believe in training young men in the way they should go, and, realizing that there was no possibility for the pair to escape, even if they were crooks, I gave the fellow a $5 bill. He took it with a chuckle, walked over to the stakeholder, returned to me and handed me a $10 bill, still chuckling at the good joke on his friend. I pocketed the note and began to chuckle a little myself. After awhile I went back to my hotel and was so much amused over the affair that, in my exuberance, I invited the bartender to have a drink. I paid for it with the $10 note and told the cashier the whole story.

"'What do you think about that for easy?' I said.

"'Never saw anything like it,' replied the cashier. 'But you lose. That note's counterfeit.'"—New York Tribune.

The Injustice of History.

The explorer may be lost not only in wildernesses or in ocean wastes, but also in the depths of archives or out-of-the-way corners of libraries, where his unpublished records are stowed away, forgotten, buried almost beyond human ken until some delving antiquarian turns over the musty and yellow pages and becomes a discoverer himself. Here is an illustration or two of this interesting fact.

We know that the smallest of the continents, Australia, is separated from the second largest island in the world, New Guinea, by Torres Strait. The famous Capt. Cook thought he had made a great discovery in 1770 when he sailed through this strait and thus proved that New Guinea was separated from Australia, though on the maps the island was shown as a part of the continent. The fact is, however, that more than 150 years earlier the forgotten Spanish pilot Torres had made this same discovery; and the Spaniards had so long concealed it as a state secret in their archives at Manila that they had forgotten all about it themselves. One day late in the last century, when England was at war with Spain and had seized Manila, an inquisitive man named Dalrymple improved the chance to poke around among the archives, and his most interesting discovery was this record of Torres' work. If the English had not been masters of Manila for a while the truth about this important discovery might have been left for us to reveal. But the laurels were finally given to the man who had won them, and this is how it happened that, generations after his death, the waters which separate the continent for the island came to be known as Torres Strait.—Harper's Round Table.

Star Distance.

The stars are so enormously remote that astronomers reckon their distance from us in "light years"; that is, in the number of years it takes their light to reach us, flashing through space at the rate of over 186,000 miles a second. For example: The distance of one of the nearest of the stars, 61 Cygni, a star of the fifth magnitude in the Swan (Cygnus), or Northern Cross, is seven and a quarter light years.

The distance of this star may also be given as 400,000 times that of the sun. In neither way of reckoning do the figures convey much meaning. A much more vivid impression of the vastness of the interval which separates this star from us is derived from the fact that the star is double—that a telescope separates it into two stars, and that calculation shows that these two stars, or suns, which to the naked eye, and even through a field glass, appear as a single star, are really 5,000 million miles apart. So far away are these two stars that this interval between them shrivels to nothingness, as judged by the naked eye. And yet 61 Cygni is one of the nearest of the stars.

Gould and the Green Reporter.

At heart Jay Gould was tender when innocence and timidity appeared before him. This fact I shall proceed to illustrate. When touring the far West, years ago, he studiously avoided newspaper men, until one day, at Omaha, his superintendent, Syl Smith, begged him to give an interview to a very young and green reporter. "It would help him to get right up in his profession, Mr. Gould, and do him a world of good." Consent being given, the youngster entered the Wizard's private car. At sight of the great little man his knees smote together, his tongue cleaved to the roof of his mouth, his brain seemed paralyzed. He was unable to utter a word. Gould requested him to be seated and ventured a commonplace or two to reassure him. Then: "Well, young man, I hear you want an interview. What can I tell you?" The boy stammered something about a new road; did Mr. Gould intend to sell or not?" "What would you advise me to do?" was the reply, whereat the reporter arose and fled precipitately. Gould held his car an hour and a half after leaving time, and sent Syl Smith all over Omaha to find him, but his hiding place was never discovered.

INDIANA AMISHMEN.

COLONY OF A QUEER SECT LIVING ON FARMS.

Laws Made at Home—One Man Owns as Much Property as His Neighbor. They Are All Happy and Content in Their Way of Living.

Ten miles northeast of Washington, Ind., there is a fertile section of land owned and cultivated by a peculiar sect of people known as the Amish. Little is known of them except by the people living in the immediate vicinity of their settlement.

The Amish came to this country at an early date, and bought rich farms for a nominal price. They have added greatly to their possessions until now this settlement takes up thousands of acres. Their peculiar manners and customs are interesting.

According to their religious beliefs the Amish are not allowed to use buttons on their clothes. Instead of buttons they use hooks and eyes. Their clothing is homespun, and they wear black slouch hats. All Amishmen let their hair grow long and fall over their shoulders. They never shave, not even when young men. They invariably drive fine, big horses. They prefer death rather than to swear in court. They are an economical sect of people, and are great traders. They seldom pay cash for anything, but always insist on trading farm products and poultry for what they want.

Their settlement is divided up into farms of an equal number of acres. They adhere strictly to the code of laws handed down to them by their ancestors. One of these laws is to the effect that no Amishman in the settlement shall be entitled to more of the world's goods than his neighbor. Consequently the farms are about the same size and stocked equally. Another law says if one member of the settlement meets with misfortune his neighbors must go down in their pockets, pay his indebtedness, and, if necessary, buy him a new farm and stock it.

The Amish originally came from a county in one of the Eastern States. There are a few families still living in the East. Whenever a scion of one of the Eastern families emigrates to the Indiana settlement he is immediately presented with a farm equal in size to those of his brethren. The Amish do not believe in courts, that is, they never settle any of their difficulties in the courts. All disputes and disagreements of every nature are taken up for settlement by a majority of the members of the settlement. It is, however, a rare occurrence that the least trouble arises among them. They are law abiding, honest, and truthful. They do not deposit their money in banks, but accumulate and hoard it in their homes. They raise all the farming products usually grown in this section of the country, and are said to be the most successful poultry raisers in the United States.

Their every day life is their religion. They speak the German language, and no other. They are negligent about educating their children, and start them, boys and girls alike, to work in the fields when young. The women and girls never wear flashy colors, and long pants are put on the boys at the age of 2 and 3 years.

Several months ago a young Amishman conceived an idea to discard the hooks and eyes on his clothing, to shave his beard, and to don a suit of store clothes. This he did, and returned to his neighbors in the new garb. He was immediately ejected from the community. His farm was taken from him, as well as his stock and farm machinery, and he was given strict orders never again to put his foot on property owned by any member of the settlement. After several weeks he allowed his beard to grow to its former length, discarded his new clothes for the old, and returned to his people. They finally received him and returned his property to him.

Another Amishman, while doing his trading in Washington, became struck with the idea of wheeling. He purchased a bicycle and went gleefully home, to show the machine to the members of his family. The old Amishmen of the settlement looked wise and called a mass-meeting to decide whether or not it was proper for one of their number to ride upon such a contrivance as a bicycle. The verdict of the elder heads was against the young Amishman, and he was compelled to part with the wheel.—Indianapolis News.

Story of Edison.

It is not every one that understands the ordinary system of banking and the proper thing to do with a bank check. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe was sorely puzzled over the huge check her publishers paid her for her royalties in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and her husband could not tell her how to get money on it. So, also, was it with Tom Edison when he got his first check. When he completed his model of his now famous "ticker" he submitted it to the president of a telegraph company, who asked him to leave it for examination. Edison was out of money and his landlady had warned him for the last time. He had decided to ask $5,000 for his invention, but when the president at the next interview asked his price his courage oozed away, and he faltered out that he would like to have the company make an offer.

"How would $40,000 suit you?" said the president.

"What!" exclaimed the young wizard, "all in money?"

"Certainly; you can have it now."

"All right."

A check was drawn and handed over to Edison with these words: "That is a check for $40,000. Go to the bank around the corner and they will give you the money."

At the bank he got into the long line and worked up to the paying teller's window. Then he pushed the check over the sill. The teller saw that it was not indorsed and pushed it back with fitting remarks, which Edison did not understand, he being even then slightly deaf. He retired crestfallen and the thought dawned upon him that he had been swindled. He had another scene with his landlady that night and visited the telegraph president the next morning in sheer desperation. He told of his experience at the bank and begged for his money or his model. He was properly identified at the bank, indorsed the check and got his money in big bills.—New York Press.

THE SAILOR'S SLANG

Names That Sailor-Men Use To Their Mates While Abroad.

Our sailors having acquired a remarkable slang of their own, as will be seen by the following, which are in daily use on board:

The boatswain is "Tommy" or "Tommy Pipes."

The carpenter is "Chippy."

An able seaman a "jarbee."

A stoker is a "cinder knotter."

The Master-at-Arms Chief of Police) is the "jaunty."

His assistants (ships' corporals) are called "crushers."

A carpenter's crew is a "wood spoiler."

A cooper is called "Jimmy Bungs."

The ship's steward assistant, "dusty."

The captain of the hold, "tanky."

The boatswain's mate, "buffer."

A bandman is a "wind jammer."

The sick bayman is a "poultice mixer."

The painter, "Putty."

The sailmaker, "Sails."

Signalman, "Bunting Tosser," and the drummer, "Sticks."

Biscuits are "hard tack," and preserved meat, "Fanny Adams;" it is also referred to as "soup and bully."

Fresh meat boiled with vegetables in the copper is "copper rattle," while plum pudding is "plum duff" or "figgy dowdy."

To be asked by a messmate to pass the "lighthouse" is simply a request for the pepperbox; a similar request for a "gibby" means a spoon.

To hear a man being "smashed" means that he has lost his petty officer rating, while to hear that he got a "lift" expresses the opposite—that he has received promotion.

A man breaking his leave is said to be "stething it," and if after punishment he is heard to upbraid himself for his folly, he is said to be "flogging the cat." "Long may your big jib draw" conveys to a messmate all the possible good you can wish him; while "I'll stretch you along like a Yankee main tack" has a far different meaning.

"Cocking a chest like a half-pay admiral" is often used to describe the bulk of a person who is considered to be putting on side.

To be told that you look like "a billy goat in stays" is not a compliment.

To "spin a cuff" is to tell a story, and to be told to "cut" the latter signifies you are to stop and generally to go on with the job in hand.

The order to "heave round," "look suppery," or "shake a leg," means you are to make haste.

To "top your boom" or "shove off" is to leave the company you may be conversing with.

While the modern expression, "Well, you take the cake," is now often used, its equivalent, "Well, you paul my capstan" still may be heard.

To be told to "buck up and take a chilly" is an intimation for you to shake yourself together, especially so if the person in question has had a "cooking day"—a drop too much. The sun is said to be "over and foreyard" when referring to anyone not sober, and to hear of so-and-so having "rolled up" means that he is dead.

"Raggie" doesn't sound very select, but such is the expression used on the lower deck. Once a man takes a liking to one man more than the remainder of the ship's company, they at once become known as "raggies."

Naval proverbs are interesting, but not very expressive. For instance, "First on the topsail and last in the beef skid" is that expression made concerning a smart seaman.

"Pick him up and pipe clay him and he'll do again," is often used to express that a marine has slipped down a ladder leading to the lower deck.

Jack Not Always Victim.

A shipping master named Millet put a sailor aboard the British freight steamship Beltor, just before she left her Brooklyn pier for Fernandina. Millet had received an advance note from the agents of the ship for $18, the amount of the sailor's wages for one month. The note was payable after the ship sailed, provided, of course, that the sailor should be aboard. Feeling sure of his man, Millet paid him $12, his share of the advance money. The other $6 representing Jack's expenses for board and other things, the shipping master retained. Jack's baggage was put aboard and he appeared to be ready for the voyage. A moment after he got the money, however, he climbed over the ship's side and went running up the pier. Millet saw him and started after him. After leaving the pier Jack ran into a saloon. Millet came in panting and saw Jack standing placidly up against the bar drinking a schooner of beer. A throng of longshoremen were doing likewise at Jack's expense. Millet said: "Come, man, hurry with your drink; the ship is going to pull out in a moment."

Jack stared hard at Millet, and said: "What ship are you talking about?"

Millet asked Jack to quit fooling and come along. Jack looked indignant, declared that he was an honest British sailor, and had no recollection of having seen the shipping master before. Then he grew warm and said he suspected that Millet intended to "shanghai" him, but with the help of the honest laboring men present he hoped to prevent any such high-handed proceeding. The longshoremen growled approvingly of Jack's sentiment. Millet began to get nervous. Jack invited the bartender to fill 'em up again for all hands. Millet saw there was not much hope of getting Jack to return to the ship, so appealed to him to at least give back the $12. Jack said that inasmuch as he had never seen the shipping master before, he did not see how it was possible for him to have any of the shipping master's money. The longshoremen growled again in chorus and moved toward the shipping master, who got out in a hurry. The honest sailor was still setting 'em up several hours later, and the longshoremen were swearing that they would see that nobody interferred with his rights.

"Oi say, father," said little Timmie O'Brien, "whoy didn't Saint Patrick sign the Declaration of Independence? Didn't they ask him?"

"Yis, Timmie, they asked him all right," said Mr. O'Brien, "but, ye see, he t'ought th' man that brought it to him was wan o' these autygraft- hunters, an' he chocked him out o' the house."—Harper's Bazar.

WHO IS THE NEXT?

THE SPORTING EDITOR OF THE SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER ASKS.

Not a Case In the History of the Prize Ring Which Equals That of Jeffries—The Heavyweight Champion Has a Marvelous Record Left Hand.

"Who ought to beat Jim Jeffries?" "What kind of man is most apt to beat him?"

These questions were put to me recently, and like the frugal darkey, when the sliding scale of charges for musical instruction were explained to him, I feel like taking "the last lesson first."

In all the history of Fistiana, both ancient and modern, there is not a case which parallels that of Jeffries. Somewhere in the Fall of '98, in big New York, he failed to outpoint dusky Bob Armstrong, within a given time, and was voted a tyro. Less than a year later—and without having had a ring engagement meanwhile—he met and defeated the only Bob Fitzsimmons, taking Sportdom by storm and being hailed as the greatest thing in heavyweights that ever happened. If this wasn't an instance of entertaining a champion unawares, what was it?

Now if Jeffries's talent as a fighter was grossly underrated when he boxed Armstrong, is it not possible that his showing with the Cornishman may have caused his fistic abilities to be slightly exaggerated? In a time like this it may smack of lese majeste to hint at such a thing, but I throw out the suggestion merely to remind my readers that it is a poor rule that won't work both ways.

When the boilermaker earned the championship he fought carefully and cleverly, but it must be remembered that after the first few rounds the other fellow threw caution to the winds, thus making Jeff's task much easier.

The principal lessons taught by the Fitzsimons-Jeffries fight are that Jeffries possesses a marvelous left hand, and that his power to resist punishment is pretty nearly abnormal. Fitzsimons bit the dust while trying to get past that left, and Fitzsimmons lost courage because his own left hand punches had no more effect on Jeffries than fly kicks.

Jeffries's left was always a power in the ring. It had the speed of a bullet in his 'prentice days. It came from every direction, sometimes soaring and plunging like the bowsprit of a wind-driven yacht but more often swaying and sweeping like the jib of a mighty crane. To Tommy Ryan, I understand, is due the credit of drilling Jeff in the matter of hitting straight, but whatever the source of this added accomplishment, the fact remains that Jeffries possesses a highly educated left. The man who expects to win from him at outfighting must be a veritable Napoleon at the gloving game.

The kind of man most apt to beat Jeffries I think is a man of great physical strength who is seasoned enough to stand a battering and clever enough to break past that terrible left at times and indulge in exchanges of broadsides.

Not having had opportunities of sizing up John L. Sullivan when the old time king of the ring was at his best I am not in a good position to institute comparisons between the two big fellows. I incline to the belief though that Sully, with his cannon ball rushes and his indifference to violent rebuffs, would have forced a passage past the boilermaker's left and scored a victory after a savage spell of breast to breast work. If Jeffries has a weak point I think it will develop during infighting.

Between Sullivan's day and Jeffries's day there flourished a number of heavyweights, any one of whom taken at the flood, might have done for Mr. Jeffries. Of these fellows—they were simon pure products of the Queensberry system—Jim Corbett and Peter Jackson were the pick. They were wizards at feinting, footing, timing and swatting and they made a careful diagnosis of each case they handled. Sometimes they wore a man down gradually, at others they droped him suddenly with a merciful thwack on the "point," but whatever the style of finish they indulged in they were artists in their line.

These brilliant performers are in the sere and yellow, while Jeff is in the green leaf and one has to bridge a gap in order to make comparisons. I am wondering however, if, after all, Jeffries's rapid, rangy left might not have proved effective foil to all the nimble tricks of these dancing Dervishes. I'll admit that I want to see more of the boilermaker's favorite fist before being thoroughly satisfied that either Corbett or Jackson knew enough to discount it. Until such time it is my belief that "the man most apt to beat Jeffries" is a counterpart of Sullivan, Jackson or Corbett.

This is somewhat of a poser. The Sullivans, the Jacksons and the Corbetts have passed out and a quick sweep of the pugilistic horizon suggests that we will have some trouble in getting our new champion licked. Not that we are particularly desirous of seeing him hammered and humbled, but because we are always on the qui vive to discover that "better" man who is supposed to be lurking somewhere in the shadows whenever a "good" man develops.—W. W. Naughton.

A tasteful appearance in dress often comes as much from good laundering as from the quality of the clothing. Good laundering requires good soap and Ivory Soap is the best.

GOLF.

On Saturday morning, October 14th, at 10 a. m., there will be play for the Schoonmaker cup on the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank, of this city, has presented a handsome silver loving cup to the Colonia Golf Club, of Rahway, to be contested for by the ladies of that club. The competition will be held Thursday afternoon. Mr. Cruikshank is a member of that club.

These are great days for golf playing. The golfers who have not been able to take advantage of them have missed one of the most delightful seasons of the year. Both local courses have seen a good crowd out all this week to take advantage of the fine weather. Both courses are in good shape and the royal game is at its height.

There is every prospect of a big field of competitors out for the McCutchen Cup Saturday afternoon on the links of the Park Golf Club. Everybody is home from their summer vacations now and but for the boys now off to college, the golfers are home and ready to enter in the local events. Saturday there is nothing to interfere with the playing and so a good attendance may be looked for if the day only happens to be fine.

It is to be hoped that a special match will be arranged on the links of the Park Golf Club between W. de la R. Anderson and Fred P. Taylor to settle the long-disputed question of superiority before the season ends. A match between the two young men would be watched with great interest by every lover of golf in the city. Both are rather off their usual form at present, but they are likely to pick up again before the snow flies, and it will be a worthy contest when they meet in their old form.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

It is not likely that Raymond A. McGee, of the borough, will be a candidate for the Yale 'varsity eleven after all. He injured his knee again in practice so that he had to give up the game entirely for a time and will not be able to play before the season is so far gone that it will be impossible for him to make a place on the team.

The football season will open on Martine common Saturday afternoon with the first game between the Alis team and the Westfield eleven. In the five years previous, the Alis boys have always managed either to defeat or tie Westfield and now the latter is bound to win. The Plainfield boys are hard at work and promise to give Westfield a lively rub in the opening game.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." YOUNG PASTOR PRESIDES

REV. M'KELVEY ELECTED MODERATOR OF ELIZABETH PRESBYTERY.

The Meeting Being Held at Pluckamin—Last Night Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards Spoke on "Foreign Missions."

The Elizabeth Presbytery convened at Pluckamin yesterday in the Presbyterian church, with an unusually large attendance. The exercises at the opening included Scripture reading by Rev. Dr. Cobb, of Elizabeth, and prayer by Rev. Dr. Richards, of Plainfield. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. McNulty, of Woodbridge, the retiring moderator, who selected as his text Mark vii :24.

Then followed the election of a moderator, the choice falling to Rev. Joseph McKelvey, of Plainfield. Rev. H. W. Hathaway, of Elizabeth, was elected temporary clerk.

Yesterday afternoon the business session was continued until 5 o'clock, and last night a popular service was held, at which Rev. J. E. Stuchell, of the Presbyterian church spoke on "Home Missions," and Rev. Dr. Richards on "Foreign Missions."

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"The Great Train Robbery," which comes to Music Hall tomorrow night, is produced this season with great spectacular effects, and exhibits new subjects for theatrical treatment. The action is laid in the southwest. The scene of the first act, however, is located in Kansas City. The play tells a vivid, exciting, romantic and martial story, rich in incident and picturesque in its surroundings and in its character studies. An attempted robbery of an express office in Kansas City and its results take the principal characters to thrilling scenes in Texas and Indian Territory, where lawlessness has long held its reign of terror and imperiled the lives and fortunes of honest settlers. Grandly, realistic scenes depict the interior of a gambling saloon in a mining camp, a view of a trail through the wilderness, a dugout in the foothills, a mountain torrent, a railroad station on the plains, and a superb view of the famous Red River Cannon. Before this majestic background stirring events occur, that become real in their startling similitude to the actual life of this region. These assume an incalculable value in impressing fading facts that mark the progress of a Nation's civilization, and in this respect may be said to form an appreciable excerpt from the pages of passing history.

* * * * *

As previously announced, the great operatic success, "The Highwayman," as produced at the Broadway Theatre, New York, will be at Music Hall, Wednesday, October 11th. DeKoven and Smith created this comic opera, and it has none of the cheap features that spoil so many efforts. It is consistently musical and artistic throughout, and does not drop to extravaganza. There are several comic numbers, including: "The Farmer and the Scarecrow," "A Sailor's Song and Hornpipe," "A Jack Tar's Life," "Kitty O'Brien," and a topical song, "We're on the Track."

NEST OF MURDERS.

Jimmy Strickland Tells a Blood-Curdling Story to the Public Prosecutor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Oct. 4—Prosecutor John J. Voorhees is investigating a story which may throw light upon the murder of Patrick Cronin, whose body was found in a swamp near Jamesburg last summer, by supplying a possible motive for the murder.

Reuben Strickland, a white man, and George Day, a negro, are now in State prison for minor offenses. They are to be brought to New Brunswick to plead to indictments charging them with murdering Cronin. The Prosecutor has been working on the case for months. He thinks he has a strong case against the two men, but the motive puzzled him. It is now said he has a clue that may prove of great importance and perhaps may fix another homicide upon Strickland. The story was told the Prosecutor by James Strickland, 6 years of age, son of the man accused.

The boy says, according to the prosecutor, that when his sister Anna became a mother his father took the infant and chopped its head off with an axe. The Prosecutor is working on the idea that if this tale be true he can find that in some manner Cronin, who had been a friend of Strickland and Day, became aware of the child's fate, and that this led to his death.

TROUBLE OVER TRENTON FAIR.

Mr. Muirhead, Blamed for Small Attendance, Says He'll Resign.

There is friction in the management of the Inter-State Fair, and one faction in the board of directors is blaming the other for the fact that the attendance at the fair last week was only 72,000 for the five days, or 22,000 less than the attendance of last year. As a result Secretary John Guild Muirhead, who has been the guiding hand of the fair for years, says he will resign.

Mr. Muirhead has been criticised by one faction in the board of directors as too expensive in his methods. This year there was considerable retrenchment, and now the friends of Muirhead blame the cheese-paring economy. Muirhead's friends say the falling off in attendance was due to the Dewey celebration and other uncontrollable causes.

ROUTE OF THE PARADE

STREETS THAT BOROUGH FIREMEN WILL MARCH OVER.

It is Planned for the Parade to Cross on to the City Side—Will Form on Craig Place and Chatham Street.

The committee in charge of the firemen's parade, to be held in the borough Thursday afternoon of next week, has just completed the line of march and it is published today officially. The line given in the News yesterday was not correct. It will be noticed that the march is a short one. The longest stretch is on Somerset street, while in almost every other street or avenue only two or three blocks are covered, thus reaching all of the important streets. The committee has exercised great care in making up the line of march and believe that everyone will be satisfied. No doubt people along the line will be generous in their decorations and give the laddies a warm reception. The line of march is as follows:

Form on Craig place and Chatham street, right resting on Somerset street, up Somerset street to Codington avenue, countermarch to Grandview avenue to Westervelt avenue, to Jackson avenue, to Vine street, to Lincoln place, to Duer street, to Linden avenue, to Washington avenue, to Myrtle avenue, to Sycamore avenue, to Mercer avenue, to Rockview avenue, to Harrison street, countermarch to Rockview avenue, to Grove steet, to Front street, to Park avenue, to Second street, to Watchung avenue, to Front street, to Somerset street, to Chatham street, to Westervelt avenue, to Manning avenue, to Somerset street and disband.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Samuel St. J. McCutchen and family, who have had a cottage at Belmar during the summer, have returned to their home on Rockview avenue.

Mrs. J. Farrington and daughter, Louise, of Bound Brook, are spending a few days with Mrs. Farrington's brother, S. H. Ferrine, of Park avenue.

Dr. C. A. Rowley, of Rochester, N. Y., returned home today after spending two weeks visiting his brother, Wm. Wilder Rowley, of North Plainfield.

—Seafood for everybody at Rogers this week. Place your order early.

—Edward Phillips, well-known in threatrical circles, is having a large-sized "Silo" constructed on his farm in Washington Valley.

—An entertainment will be given at Washington Hall tomorrow evening by Miss Pauline Saddler, for the benefit of the Ridgedale Debating Society.

—The three and nine cent store, 23 Somerset street, will on Friday and Saturday have a special price on fine decorated soup turren's and large sauce pans. See advertisement.

—If ordinry remedies give you only temporary relief, your headaches are probably the result of eye-strain. Glasses correctly fitted will effect a permanent cure. Leech, Stiles & Co., eye specialists, at 107 East Front street, every Thursday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, October 4.—Governor Voorhees has received a letter from Capt. French E. Chadwick, of the flagship New York, making some suggestions regarding the presentation by the State of New Jersey of a sword to Rear-Admiral Sampson, October 25th. He said the ceremonies will be attended by Rear-Admirals Higginson, Phillip and Crowninshield; Capts Brownson, Commander Wainwright, Lieutenants Blue, Usner and Winslow. Capt. Chadwick suggested that the hour of the presentation be changed from noon to later in the day.

Bad Wreck Near Allentown.

A report has been received here of a bad wreck that occurred during last night on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad at Allentown, and all trains coming east have been delayed.

The train due in this city this afternoon at 2:12 was over an hour late, and other trains are running behind their scheduled time.

Just what the wreck is cannot be ascertained or how serious it it is.

The wreck train used at the Dunellen wreck this morning was sent to the scence of the other wreck as early as possible.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by L. W. Randolph, druggist. Guaranteed.

NOTABLE AUTUMNAL CHURCH WEDDING.

Dryden-Green Nuptials Celebrated Last Evening.

FINE CHURCH DECORATIONS

CEREMONY PERFORMED IN GRACE P. E. CHURCH

Rev. E. M. Rodman Tied the Nuptial Knot—Wedding Party Presented a Brilliant Scene—Full Choral Service at the Church—Reception Followed Ceremony at Home of Bride's Parents.

One of the notable weddings of the autumnal season was that of last evening, when Miss Ethel Carey Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Green, of 78 Mercer avenue, became the wife of Meredith Dryden, of Watchung avenue. The wedding took place at Grace P. E. church. It was a full choral service, the choir of the church taking part under the direction of Mrs. William A. Freeman, the organist.

The handsome edifice was resplendent in all its beauty, while the presence of such a large assemblage of Plainfield's society, as well as many persons of note from points distant, combined to make the scene a notable one. It was a pink and white wedding, the feature of the decorations being the use of water myrtle, prevalent in Maryland, which was secured for the occasion. It has the appearance of clematis, but is more beautiful. The prevailing colors were produced through the use of the water myrtle, palms and choice flowers, arranged about the chancel.

Previous to the ceremony and while the guests were being seated by the ushers, Mrs. Freeman rendered a selection of classical music on the organ. At the hour set for the ceremony the vested choir appeared and walked to the front of the church singing a familiar processional hymn. There the bridal party was met, and proceeding toward the altar through the main aisle the choir sang the Lohengrin wedding march.

Following the choir were the ushers, Volney F. Green, brother of the bride; Albert O. Woltman, Edgar I. Serrell, of this city, and Percival A. McGuire, of New York. Then followed the flower girls, Marion Smith and Isabel Taylor, of this city, who were gowned in pink brussels net over pink taffeta. They wore pink taffeta hats and carried baskets of flowers.

After the flower girls was the maid of honor, Miss Mary Fritts, of this city, who wore a gown of pink brussels net over pink taffeta She carried pink roses. Then came the bride, upon whom all eyes were turned. She was leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage. Richly gowned in white satin, trimmed with old point lace, and wearing a veil, she was the admiration of all.

At the chancel, where the party met the groom and his best man, Fred H. Freeman, of this city, they separated and formed a semi-circle, with the bride and groom standing in the centre of the group. The ceremony was then performed by Rev. E. M. Rodman, pastor of the church, and was made very impressive. The service was performed with a ring. As the bride and groom proceeded to the altar the choir chanted a beautiful anthem.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party reversed and left the church while the Mendelssohn wedding march was being played. As the bride and groom proceeded down the centre aisle they graciously acknowledged the many admiring glances of relatives and friends.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 78 Mercer avenue, where a large assemblage of guests gathered to do honor to the popular young couple. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion, the prevailing colors being the same as those at the church, except in the back parlor, where a pleasing diversion was secured though the use of autumnal flowers. The parlor was decorated with the water myrtle, palms and flowers

During the hours of the reception and while the bride and groom were receiving the congratulations of the guests, sweet music was discoursed by an orchestra. A sumptuous wedding supper was served during the evening.

A favored place sought by the guests was the room where the bridal gifts were displayed. There was a handsome selection comprising silverware, goldware, glassware, china, and many articles of both use and beauty, all of which gave unmistakable evidence of the high esteem in which the happy couple are held by their friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a costly

Farmer Gulick Made a Victim of Ingrate Guest Who Stole $100 From Him.

Peter VanFleet, a brother of Arthur VanFleet, who was sent to State Prison for horse stealing, was employed by Abram Gulick, near Dunellen. VanFleet was consumptive and went away for a time. He returned last Friday for a visit and was welcomed. He left the house at about noon, and it was discovered later that he had visited Mr. Gulick's bedroom and carried away about $100. No trace of him has been found.

REUNION OF OLD VETS.

THIRTIETH NEW JERSEY VOLUNTEERS HAD A GOOD TIME.

The Reunion Held in Bound Brook Yesterday—A Number of Plainfield Survivors Participated in Festivities.

The ninth annual reunion of the Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers was held in Bound Brook yesterday, 120 members of the regiment being present. The veterans marched through the town, preceded by the Bound Brook Cornet Band, to the Goddess of Liberty Hall, where they held their business meeting. They then marched to Bound Brook Hall, where a collation was served, provided by Camp Middlebrook Chapter, D. A. R.

The address of welcome, in behalf of the Mayor and Common Council, was delivered by Hon. R. H. Brokaw, and Rev. T. E. Davis welcomed the veterans in behalf of the citizens. Hon. James J. Bergen replied. Other speakers were J. B Cleaver, Captain Lanning, of Philadelphia; Rev. C. T. Anderson and Rev. J. O Jones. The toastmaster was ex-Sheriff B. F. Totten, of Middlebush.

These officers were elected: President, A. S. Schenck, of Somerville; vice president, J. F. Hubbard, of Plainfield; secretary and treasurer, James A. Bowman, of South Branch.

Plainfield was represented by about fifteen members of the regiment.

The reunion was one of the most pleasant that has been held in many years. In fact, the veterans report that they enjoyed themselves better than in previous years when they have visited larger cities.

CHOKED BY A BURGLAR

Cranford Man Was Nearly Insensible When a Neighbor Scared Off the Thief.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, October 5—F. C. Winckler had an exciting conflict with a burglar Tuesday night.

About 10 o'clock Winckler, who was in the house alone, heard some one on the lower floor and went down to investigate. He did not have a light, and no sooner had he reached the bottom of the stairs when he was seized by a man, who endeavored to strike him on the head. Winckler shouted for help, but the intruder got him by the throat and choked him almost into insensibility.

A neighbor had heard his calls, however, and when the burglar heard help coming, he let go of Winckler and made his escape through a window.

The burglar did not succeed in taking anything.

CHURCH TROUBLES BEFORE PRESBYTERY

Dissension in Westminster Church at Elizabeth.

PASTOR ALLOWED TO RESIGN

RESULT OF BAD BLOOD IN THE BASKING RIDGE CHURCH.

Petition Against Westminster Church Congregation in Electing Elders—Dr. Richards Chairman of Committee That Tried to Solve the Difficulty—Presbytery to Meet Here Next Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Pluckamin, October 5.—The Elizabeth Presbytery, which was in session in Pluckamin this week, with Rev. Joseph McKelvey, of this city, as moderator, was taken up with the consideration of several important matters in the Presbyterian churches in this district.

The trouble in the wealthy Westminister church in Elizabeth, which has received considerable newspaper notoriety during the past few months, was one of the first things taken up for consideration. It was brought up by the receipt of a petition from John C. Rankin, Jr., against the action taken by the congregation in the election of elders. The petition was referred to a committee of which Rev. W. R. Richards, of Plainfield, was chairman. It took the committee the whole afternoon to discuss the trouble among themselves, and Dr. Richards finally made a report stating that the committee appreciated the sad condition of affairs in this important church, and asked for authority to confer with the Westminster session and report to the presbytery at synod in Asbury Park two weeks hence.

The trouble in the Basking Ridge church was next called up by the petition of Rev. E. C. Mason, pastor of the church, to be relieved from the pastorate of the society. There has been much trouble and bad blood between two factions in this church and the pastor decided that it would be best for the interests of the church for him to retire. The Presbytery voted unanimously to grant the request of Rev. Mr. Mason.

The committee on Sabbath Observance reported a set of resolutions in which it was recognized that there is a baneful influence in Sabbath desecration, which is a menace to the existance of civil and religious institutions. It urged all members to have a more scrupulous regard for the observance of the Sabbath and recommended that pastors give frequent instructions along this line to their congregations.

The next session of the Elizabeth Presbytery will be held in Hope chapel in Plainfield.

HOT WATER ON HIS FEET.

Redfern Sutton Overturned Teakettle on the Kitchen Stove.

Redfern Sutton, of Elm place, has been confined to his home the result of emptying a tea-kettle full of boiling hot water on his feet. The accident occurred last Monday morning soon after Mr. Sutton left his room to get his breakfast. He went to the kitchen where there was considerable smoke. He thought something was the matter with the stove, and in attempting to lift the tea-kettle to one side he poured the contents upon his feet. In consequence his feet began to swell and reached such proportions that he was unable to get his shoes on.

Bodies Under Railroad Wreck.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Mauch Chunk, Oct. 5—When the Central-Lehigh Valley wreck crews engaged in clearing of Monday's wreckage at Oxford Curve, a few miles north of this city, raised the smashed locomotive from amidst the debris, they found two bodies charred beyond recognition. It was known that Brakeman Heimbach, of White Haven, was buried in the wreck, but the finding of the second body was unexpected. The remains have not yet been identified. Kannapel, the injured lineman, died Monday evening in St. Luke's Hospital. The only living person of the quartette on the ill-fated engine is Engineer VanBuskirk, of Lehighton. He is in a precarious condition, and has not been able to disclose the identity of the victim found with Heimbach beneath the wrecked engine.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mabel Gillies and Nelson VanWinkle, both of Central avenue. The wedding will take place in a short time.

NOT LIKELY TO FINISH.

Competing Yachts Contend With a Light Breeze.

HARD TO SEE YACHTS.

HAZE COVERS THE OCEAN AND IS INCREASING.

Yachts Made a Good Start With Shamrock in the Lead by Two Lengths—Breeze was Very Light—Yachts Change Lead.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 5—The second of the international yacht races was started this morning before a huge fleet of excursion boats. The course this time is fifteen miles straightaway and return. The wind was light and there was a haze that increased during the day.

The yachts were towed out to position an hour before the appointed time and immediately began preparations for getting up sail. Then they manœuvred about the Sandy Hook light ship waiting for the signal gun.

The judges' boat gave compass-course signals D.C.L. at 10:33 o'clock, which meant that the course would be southeast by east.

The starting gun was fired at 11 o'clock and a minute later the Shamrock crossed the line with the Columbia two lengths behind.

At 11:10, there was little appreciatable difference in the relative positions of the yachts. Soon, however, the American began to pick up and at 11:26 passed the Shamrock and took the lead.

The Columbia gained but very slowly. The increasing haziness made it difficult to distinguish the yachts from the fleet of press and excursion boats that followed.

At 12:27, it was reported that the Shamrock had crawled up on her rival and was slightly in the lead.

At 12:35, the Columbia had managed to get the lead again by six lengths over the English craft and appeared to be gaining.

At 2:10 the yachts had not passed the stake boat, which marks the turning point, and, as this edition goes to press, there is every prospect that the time limit will be exceeded again.

If the wind freshens and there is any chance of a finish in time, The Daily Press will announce it in a later edition.

Phœnix, No. 3, Will Make a Hit.

Phœnix Engine Company, No. 3, held a drill on Dennis street last night in preparation for their visit to Plainfield next week. Morris Bauer, the foreman, was in charge and the company executed many clever manouvres with the utmost ease. They will surely make a hit next week.—New Brunswick Times.

BLAZING OIL STOVE GUTTED DINING ROOM.

A Threatening Fire in The Home Of Dr. Buchanan.

STOVE WAS TOO FULL OF OIL.

PRESENCE OF MIND EXHIBITED BY MRS. BUCHANAN.

She Did Not Commit Any Rash Act in the Excitement, and Therefore Escaped Personal Injury—Nearly Everything in the Dining Room Destroyed by the Flames—Damage Will be About $200.

A threatening fire occured last evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, 43 Duer street, but owing to the presence of mind of Mrs. Buchanan, who was entirely alone in the house, serious damage was prevented. The fire was the result of an oil stove. In the afternoon Mrs. Buchanan used the stove and it worked perfectly. About 5:30 o'clock she had occasion to use it again and in filling the tank with oil it is supposed that she put too much in, for the stove had been burning but a few minutes when it blazed up and became enveloped in flames.

Mrs. Buchanan did not lose her head and attempt to throw the stove out of doors, but hastened across the street to Gulick Brothers' grocery and secured assistance from the clerks. By the time they reached the house the dining room, where the fire occurred, was a mass of flames which were leaping madly from one end to the other, rapidly destroying everything therein. It was at once determined that the fire department was needed and word was sent to headquarters. Several firemen responded with extinguishers and soon put the fire out.

In the meantime Mrs. Buchanan fortunately rescued her husband's ledger and the silver ware that was in the room above. Everything in the room was destroyed and it is said that the loss will reach $200.

The insurance will adequately cover the loss and George White, of the borough, who carries the policy on the contents, will settle the loss in a few days.

GOLD FEVER IN HUNTERDON

Company Formed to Dig the Precious Metal Out of an Abandoned Mine at Woodglen.

The little village of Woodglen, which nestles among hills of upper Hunterdon county, is again excited over the discovery of gold near there.

The place where the gold was found is upon the lands of Farmer John Apgar, and at the mouth of a deserted mine. Thirty years ago an iron mine was opened there, but was abandoned on account of lack of capital on the part of the workers. Some time ago Farmer Apgar took specimens of the rock to a chemist for analysis. He pronounced the ore to contain $9 worth of silver and $16 worth of gold to the ton. This would make mining barely pay.

Farmer Apgar found better specimens and a few days ago he took them to a professor at Rutgers College. An analysis made there showed the ore to contain $43 worth of gold to the ton. The result of this was the forming of a local company Tuesday with a capital stock of $15,000. The work of reopening the old mine will begin at once.

An Impersonator.

OVER OLYMPIA IT WAVES.

Flag on Admiral Dewey's Ship is the One Presented by Bryant School Pupils.

The pupils of Bryant school in this city are in high patriotic fervor just now owing to the receipt of the news that the stars and stripes which fly over the Olympia, which was Admiral Dewey's flagship until yesterday, are on the national emblem which the pupils of that school sent to the Admiral a year ago. The flag is one of the handsomest in the navy, and Plainfield may well feel honored to know that the flag under which Admiral Dewey and his brave men came home was purchased and given to them by the school children of Plainfield.

WANT TO BE BOUGHT OFF

TROLLEY PLANS HELD UP BY ROSELLE PROPERTY OWNERS.

Want Bigger Prices for Property Than Rikers Are Willing to Pay, and the Matter May Go to Court for Adjustment.

Work on the trolley line of the Elizabeth and Westfield Company at Roselle is rapidly progressing. Tracks are now being laid on Third avenue, and also on Sheridan avenue. The work of cleaning up First avenue, where rails have been laid, is being rushed along. The dirt taken from that thoroughfare is being used for filling in the private right of way west of the Roselle Club stables. Tracks have been laid on Third avenue from the Elizabeth city line for quite a distance in the borough.

Every effort is being made to arrange for the widening of Second avenue. Many of the property owners have received checks for their land, and all arrangements have been made with each property owner excepting Daniel Schwarz, Henry Lass and Henry Berry, who have been made most liberal offers, but still hold out against the improvement.

The offer made Henry Lass was to add to his property, move his building and place all in as satisfactory a condition as heretofore, and also to give him a bonus of several hundred dollars. The Schwarz offer was similar, his building to be removed across the street on a new lot and a large bonus is included. A liberal offer has also been made to Mr. Berry, but up to date each is holding out for more money.

One of the commissioners of Roselle engaged on the county road plan, has stated that the offers are of a most liberal nature, and far exceed any of the north side. In the event of the Rikers going to law with these objecting property owners, the railway company will not pay one more cent than the law compels it to.

FIRE LOSS SETTLED.

V. L. Frazee Paid $500 in Settlement of Insurance Claims on His Grocery Stock.

V. L. Frazee, whose grocery store was visited by a fire yesterday morning, will be open and ready for business tomorrow as the result of the promt settlement of the insurance held by the agency of Liefke & Laing. The adjusters arrived yesterday, and after Mr. Frazee had expressed a strong desire to get open for business as soon as possible they agreed to make a quick settlement. Mr. Frazee placed his loss at $500, and the adjusters immediately agreed to pay that in settlement of the insurance claim. It is not thought that $500 will cover the loss sustained by Mr. Frazee, but in his desire to serve his customers again he is willing to stand some personal loss.

In the absence of F. S. Cutter, representing the Cutter estate, Wm. A. Woodruff, insurance broker, has settled the loss on the building with the insurance company.

Preparatory Service.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the preparatory service, preceding the administration of the Lord's Supper Sunday morning, will be held in Trinity Reformed church, and the pastor and elders of the church will meet after the preparatory service to receive persons who desire to unite with the church.

DAUGHTER MARRIED AT SILVER WEDDING.

Dual Celebration in Family of J. A. Blatz.

AN ELABORATE CEREMONY.

MISS ETTA M. BLATZ WEDDED TO A. ARTHUR CANNON.

Big Reception at the Revere House Followed—Was Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz—Handsome Floral Decorations—Couple Will Reside in Plainfield.

The marriage of the daughter and the silver wedding anniversary of the parents marked yesterday as an important day for the family of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Blatz, of 223 Somerset street. Their only daughter, Miss Etta Monica Blatz, was wedded to Augustus Arthur Cannon, of Craig place, at St. Joseph's church last evening at 6:30 o'clock. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Revere House in honor of the newly wedded couple and the older couple who had just completed the twenty-five years of married life. It was one of the most elaborate weddings of the autumn season.

The church was thronged to the doors with the relatives and friends who had come to witness the tieing of the nuptial knot. The interior of the church was profusely decorated with flowers and plants, green and white forming the prevailing colors of decorations. Potted plants, intermingled with white roses, were banked about the railing and altar.

While waiting for the entrance of the bridal party, the organ played softly. When the doors were flung open and the ushers, heading the procession started down the central aisle, the Lohengrin wedding march was heard. It was sung by a quartette composed of Mrs. Francis Brown and Miss Betts, of New York, James E. Bailey and Frank LaPorte, of this city.

The ushers came first. They were Francis Joseph Blatz, of this city, a brother of the bride, John Edward Cannon, of New York, a brother of the groom, Matthew J. Addison, of Brooklyn, and John P. Powers, of Plainfield. They were followed by the four bridemaids, Miss Etta Louise Neuman, of New York, Miss May E. MacLaughlin, of Plainfield, Miss Lillian Grogan, of Westfield, and Miss Anna C. Vollin, of New York. The first two were gowned in white Brussels net over pink taffeta, and the others in white Brussels net over blue taffeta. Pink roses composed the bouquets carried by the Misses Neuman and MacLaughlin, and yellow roses the bouquets of the other two bridemaids.

Walking along and preceding the bride was the maid-of-honor, Miss Mildred Ulrich, a cousin of the bride. Her gown was of mouseline de soie over white taffeta. Her bouquet was of white roses. Then came the bride, leaning on the arm of her father. She looked very beautiful in a gown of white crepe de noir over white satin with pearl and duchesse lace trimming. She wore a tuelle veil, caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of orchids, white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

To the strains of the grand march the procession moved slowly up the aisle and inside the railing, the ushers and bridemaids filing to each side. They were met by the groom and the best man, James Prescott Cannon, of Boston, a brother of the groom.

The tones of the organ were hushed and the impressive Roman Catholic marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. W. H. Miller, rector of the church. He was assisted by Rev. Father Brennan, curate of the church, and Rev. Father Cary, of Carteret, N. J.

After the groom had placed the ring upon the finger of his wife and the service was completed, the triumpant strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march rang out and the bridal party headed by the newly wedded couple, moved down the aisle. The maid-of-honor and the best man followed with the bridemaids and ushers behind them. Mr. and Mrs. Blatz followed. Mrs. Blatz had occupied a seat in the front of the church during the ceremony. She was gowned in grey satin brocade with pearl trimming.

The coaches received them all and soon carried the happy party to the Revere House where a reception was held. The spacious parlors and halls were handsomely decorated for the occasion with potted plants and cut flowers. Pink and white prevailed in the floral decorations.

After Mr. and Mrs. Cannon had re-

MUST WITHDRAW TROOPS

President Kruger Says British Soldiers Must Leave South Africa at Once.

MUST ANSWER QUICKLY.

Active Preparations for War Are Being Vigorously Prosecuted by Both Sides.

Conflicting Reports and Rumors. The Ultimatum of Oom Paul. Feeling in London—The British Troops Have Crossed the Border to Kimberly.

Blomfontein, Oct. 5.—A conflict may be precipitated any moment between the Orange Free State and British troops. A dispatch signed by the Mayor of Boshof, says that a force of British has crossed the Orange Free State frontier from Kimberley and is marching toward Boshof. Boshof is only thirty miles from Kimberley.

London, Oct. 5.—All the mines in the gold fields, says a dispatch from Cape Town, have been seized by the Transvaal Government in accordance with its announcement that such action would be taken on the declaration of martial law. All the saloons in the gold fields district are also reported closed by official order.

Paris, Oct. 5.—A number of papers say that the Boers have sent an ultimatum to England demanding the withdrawal of the troops from the frontiers within forty-eight hours. The papers congratulate President Kruger for coming to this decision.

London, Oct. 5.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Larenco Marques reports that H. M. S. Philomel has gone to Durban for the purpose of landing 100 men and a gun.

Commenting editorially on this dispatch, the Daily Mail says it considers that the action reported indicates grave danger. The Admiralty, says the Daily Mail, would not countenance such a measure except in circumstances of unusual emergency; and didn't think it probable that other British warships are converging silently upon the theatre of action.

London, Oct. 5.—The despatch received in Bloemfontein from the Landdrost of Boshof is not credited here, as it is considered extremely improbable. Practically no news from South Africa has been received. The Standard's correspondent at Newcastle, Natal, telegraphing, says:

"The forward movement of the Boer forces, which threatened the Natal frontier has been suddenly arrested. A majority of the burghers who had gathered on the heights northeast and east of Newcastle have fallen back on their original base near Sandspruit. The motive can only be conjectured."

Boshof is the nearest town in the Orange Free State to Kimberly, the great diamond-producing centre in Cape Colony, near the border.

Pressure upon the government to try every measure for the preservation of peace is stronger than ever. It is quite certain that the Cabinet is as anxious as any one to avoid war. Its delay of the ultimatum, which it had prepared to send to Pretoria, was the cause of special wonder before it became known that almost everything except humiliation that would assure an adjustment of the difficulty would be submitted to.

Doubt as obedient to influence from London, Mr. Hofmeyer, the Afrikader leader of the Cape Colony, is on his way to Pretoria, according to a despatch from Cape Town, to make a last effort to prevent war.

According to a despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, Portuguese East Africa, a crowd of Boers, who were assembled at the Machadorp station, forced a refugee passenger to uncover during the singing of a Boer national air, and severely maltreated several Englishmen, stabbing one and kicking and tramping upon others.

It is reported that two women were outrageously assaulted at Paardekop station by the Boers, one being struck in the face with a rifle and the other beaten with fists.

Causes Row Among Presbyterians.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—As a result of a political discussion that was injected into the meeting of the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance, when the alliance refused to entertain the resolution in favor of arbitration in the Transvaal dispute, both of the South African delegates submitted a letter requesting that their names be stricken from the rolls of the alliance. They are Rev. P. G. J. Meiring, of Johannesburg, and H. S. Bosman, of Pretoria. Mr. Bosman has already left Washington to return to his people in South Africa. Dr. Meiring is in receipt of a cablegram from Johannesburg begging him to return to his people in view of the critical situation there.

A solution of the difficulty was reached early in the afternoon session, when a resolution was adopted declaring it the earnest hope of the convention that a peaceful solution of the difficulties between the Transvaal and Great Britain might be reached.

Dr. Meiring agreed to withdraw his request; and the incident is considered closed.

Tons of Grapes Frozen.

Farmer, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The hard freeze of Tuesday, followed by a heavy frost, caught many vineyards in the Seneca grape belt left unpicked and thousands of tons were ruined, being frozen as hard as bullets. One vineyard near this village had 150 tons frozen and other large vineyards suffered in proportion.

More Warships for Manila.

Washington, Oct. 5.—As a result of the conference between the President and Admiral Dewey Wednesday afternoon, the President directed the immediate dispatch to the Philippines of a number of vessels of the navy, including the cruiser Brooklyn and the gunboats Marietta and Machias.

ENGLISHMEN DELIGHTED.

The Shamrock's Showing Fills Them With Hopefulness.

London, Oct. 5.—The momentary disappointment that the first race for the America's Cup should have fallen through has been followed by a feeling of satisfaction that the Shamrock has shown herself a worthy challenger, and hope runs high that she will wipe out a long record of defeat. Among yachtsmen great admiration is expressed for the way in which Capt. Hogarth appears to have handled the yacht. The afternoon papers comment in much the same terms as the morning papers. All believe that the chances of the Shamrock and the Columbia are about equal, and all are gratified at the extreme friendliness displayed by the Americans. The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"Never have the qualities so peculiar to Anglo-Saxons—chivalrous determination to fight a contest to the end on a fair field and without favor—been more conspicuous than they were in the first race."

The Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, telegraphs as follows:

"From Tuesday's abortive race it is quite impossible to form a reliable opinion as to the result of future contests."

Mr. Thornycroft of the firm of shipbuilders which constructed the Shamrock, in response to a request for an opinion on the race, sent the following despatch:

"I consider the result favorable to Shamrock. The light and shifty wind that prevailed renders comparison very liable to be misleading, but the contest should be close."

New York, Oct. 5.—Interest in the yacht races between the Columbia and the Shamrock has increased instead of decreased since the "no race" event of Tuesday and to-day the race is being witnessed by a greatly increased crowd of spectators. A good many wagers have been placed on the result and in the majority of cases the odds have ranged at about 100 to 75 in favor of the Columbia. However, quite a number of bets have been made at even money.

To Try the Offenders.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Acting Secretary Spaulding telegraphed to Captain Robley D. Evans at New York acknowledging the receipt of complaints against pilots and commanders of the steamboats Glen Island, Idlewild and Magenta and the steam yacht White Ladye for violating the government rules in transgressing on the yachting course.

The Acting Secretary regrets that the officers of the White Ladye are not amenable to the American authorities, and directs Captain Evans to prepare complaints against the offending officers of the steamboats named. These complaints he orders to be presented to the local inspectors of steam vessels, in order that the cases may be tried by the latter. The matter will be pressed before the United States authorities immediately.

Court Recognizes Boycott.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 5.—The judges of the Jackson County Court, sitting in this city, have recognized the boycott begun by the business men of Kansas City against the Burlington road. The judges instructed the Sheriff that so long as the boycott was in force he must not travel over the road in taking insane persons to the State asylum in St. Joseph. The fight on the Burlington, which was begun on Saturday last as a result of the Omaha differential, is being pushed by local merchants.

Soldiers' Votes Will Come High.

Albany, Oct. 5.—It will cost the State of New York $100 for each soldier vote received in the Philippines under the law of 1898 and the decision of Attorney General Davies that the country is in a state of war. The last books are now being sent to the army posts. Secretary of State McDonough says that there will not be time to get the nominations to the soldiers in time to let them vote.

Whisky Brokers Fail.

Leith, Scotland, Oct. 5.—The failure is announced of Messrs. F. W. and O. Brickman, the well-known whiskey brokers of this city, with gross liabilities estimated at £550,000 and assets estimated at £79,000. The collapse of the firm is ascribed to bad debts and to the general stagnation of trade.

The Thirty-Fifth Regiment Sails.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 5.—The Thirty fifth Regiment has embarked in the transports Rio de Janeiro and Sikh.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 5—Sentiment with regard to speculation was somewhat better to-day, with stocks generally higher. While the advances were not heavy they were general and the feeling was noticeably bullish.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Closing quotations for spot: Wheat 73½, corn 31, oats 22⅝ pork 8.10 lard 5.37, ribs 5.12

Philippine Music.

Philipine music is becoming popular. Returning voyagers to the far distant islands have introduced it here. Like the Hawaiian, it is distinctive and characteristic of the national life of the people, though without doubt an adaptation of the sweet and melancholy music of the Spaniards. Flute, violin and harp are the favorite instruments, as in the Italian, but it is not like the animated music of Italy. The liveliest strains of the Filipinos are pathetic and melancholy in tone. So, too, are the titles of many of their musical compositions, as, for instance, "Los Dias Ultimas del Verano," ("The Last Days of Summer"), "The Wail of a Lost Soul," "The Approach of Autumn."

The harp twangs softly, the violin bow is gently drawn, while above all floats the wail of the flute, which rises and falls in melancholy cadences. This music speaks as eloquently to the foreigner as to the native. "The Approach of Autumn" is so plaintive and sad that you can almost hear the rustle of the forest leaves, or the sighing of autumn zephyrs through the pine trees.

PLENTY OF IT.

Lots More Proof Like This, and it is all from People You Know.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof that the representations made for a household necessity are true, that place is Plainfield. If the cures in Plainfield numbered some half dozen there might be grave doubts about their genuineness. That many people in a place the size of Plainfield might have based their opinions on pure imagination, but when public endorsation reaches scores, and as many more endorsers are willing to testify to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, the evidence and the proof is incontrovertible. Investigation, the most superficial, will prove that Doan's Kidney Pills are an actual household necessity in Plainfield. Here is one of our endorsers:

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset street, foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Mfg., Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. A bladder trouble set in. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment by the time I had finished the third box the pain in my back and lameness disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I gladly recommend them as such whenever I have a chance."

RESCUED WITH LIFE LINE.

Hardship and Torture Suffered By the Passengers on the Wrecked Scotsman.

A NIGHT ON THE CLIFFS.

New York Passenger on the Ill-Fated Ship Tells a Thrilling Story of the Disaster.

The Fate of Many Likely Never to Be Revealed — Perilous Journey Over Rocks and Through Marshes to the Lighthouse—Ten Hours in Life Boats.

New York, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Walton Aims and her daughter, Miss Nettie Aims, of No. 9 East One Hundred and Twenty-third street, this city, were passengers on the wrecked steamship Scotsman, and have just arrived here from Canada. Both are still suffering from the exposure and Miss Aims is unable to walk. In the tramp across Belle Isle she sprained her ankle, and for six hours afterward was compelled to walk on.

In an interview Miss Aims made the following statement in regard to the hardships and tortures the passengers were obliged to undergo before being rescued.

"It was awful. The last of it is a blur of misery in my memory. Think of it—while we were in peril of our lives, the crew were robbing our rooms below—we were sent ashore one by one on a life line—we had to climb a cliff 1,000 feet high, in danger of falling back into the sea—we walked for hours through a treacherous marsh. Terrible hardships one after another.

"We were lowered by a rope into the second boat. There were thirteen women and two children in our boat. We were out ten hours, skirting up and down the high, rocky coast, without finding a place where we could land. All this time we were slowly freezing.

"About 10 o'clock in the forenoon the captain ordered us back on board as he believed the danger of the ship's slipping off the rocky ledge was over. I went down to our cabin to get some dry clothes. A rough looking man told me to get out that the ship was going to sink. But I went ahead.

"Our cabin was a sight. Our room had been ransacked, and I saw valises that had been slashed open with knives. One passenger found two firemen in his room and drove them out as they were packing up his things.

"In a short time they began to send us ashore on a life line, one by one. It was a thrilling experience, but one harder to bear met us on shore. We were landed at the base of a cliff 1,000 feet high.

"None of us will ever forget that climb. From ledge to ledge, wherever we could find foothold or hand rest, we slowly made our way up the precipice. It took us two hours to climb 300 feet. There, on a projecting ledge, night overtook us.

"It was perhaps 80 by 25 feet, and there were fully 200 persons on it. So cramped were we for room that we weren't allowed to stretch out, but had to huddle our knees up and sit pressed up against each other. This helped us to keep warm, however.

"It was said that there was a lighthouse less than four miles away, and men were sent out to bring aid. A guide came over from th lighthouse later and took some of the men back with him, but said that no woman could stand the trip.

"At 11 o'clock another lighthouse man arrived, and my mother and I resolved to go back with him. I hired two stewards to look after mother, as I knew she would need help. First of all we had to climb the 700 feet of cliff remaining. How we ever did it I don't know.

"There were fourteen of us in all—six women. The way was through a bog. Every step was a pain. To make matters worse I sprained my ankle.

"The trip to the lighthouse is beyound words to describe. There were hollows with marshy places. The moss was slimy and we tripped and fell again and again, bruising ourselves on the rocks underneath.

"The island was full of lakes and our course led us around and between them, with the moss dragging like nets at our feet.

"One of the ladies had to give up. Two of the men volunteered to stay with her. We thought we were lost, but the guide consulted his compass and urged us to climb another hill. Then we sighted the lighthouse.

"Hunting parties were out all the time, but there is no telling whether some of the people may not have wandered away and died in that wilderness. No rollcall was taken on the ledge, so there can never be a full accounting.

"On Tuesday, the day we left, we heard the captain had ordered all those left at the ledge and on the ship to strike for the lighthouse, as the wind was shifting and he feared that if a southeaster came up the icy spray would freeze to death those on the ledge. They hadn't reached the lighthouse when we left on the Montfort.

"We were well treated at the lighthouse, and the officers and sailors on the Montfort were kindness itself."

Found Two More Bodies.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., Oct. 5.—When the Central-Lehigh Valley wreck crews engaged in clearing up Tuesday's wreckage at Oxbow Curve raised the smashed locomotive from the debris, they found two bodies charred beyond recognition. It was known that Brakeman Heimbach, of White Haven, was buried in the wreck, but the finding of the second body was a horrible surprise. The remains have not been identified. Kannapel, the injured lineman, died at St. Luke's Hospital.

Considering Freight Claims.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The Freight Claims Association of the United States has begun its semi-annual meeting at the Shoreham. The meeting is to last two days, and is to consider the subject of claims and some readjustment of the association's rules.

CAN DO AS HE PLEASES.

Navy Department Gives Dewey Unlimited Liberty.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Admiral Dewey made an early start yesterday to keep a number of engagements. Immediately after breakfast he joined one of his associate officers for a stroll on Connecticut avenue, and on returning proceeded to the Navy Department, accompanied by Admiral Farquhar, the new commander of the North Atlantic station, and Supt. Lamberton, his chief of staff, and a Chinese servant. Few people were aware of the admiral's coming, so there was not much of a demonstration when he entered the department.

The admiral went to see Secretary Long and talk over his plans for the immediate future. Secretary Long said that the department was willing to give him perfect liberty to do as he pleased. On the 13th he will go to Boston, to attend the reception there in his honor on the 14th inst. The Olympia will meanwhile have arrived at that place, for her orders are to proceed at once from New York to Boston, to be put out of commission and be repaired extensively.

After the Boston ceremonies, Admiral Dewey is expected to return to Washington to meet his colleagues of the Philippine commission. Secretary Long said that the admiral's time would probably be occupied fully in the deliberations of the commission for some months to come, and meanwhile, in order to leave him free for that work, he will not be assigned to any naval duties. Further than that point, the department has not yet undertaken to define its plans for Admiral Dewey's future.

When all of these details had been arranged the admiral walked over to the White House to keep an appointment made with the President to discuss the Philippine situation.

To Open New Lumber District.

Kane, Pa., Oct. 5.—Work is progressing rapidly on the Pennsylvania end of the railroad that is to connect the coal fields of Elk, Clarion and Jefferson counties with the West Shore road. The line is known as the Shawmut line. The mines of the Shawmut Company are now producing 200 cars of coal a day, and will produce 400 as soon as more electrical mining plants are installed. There are 800,000,000 feet of timber, all of which will be cut and shipped over this line, requiring 25 years. The line will open up for development a rich section of Pennsylvania that has thus far been dormant. A steel mill will be erected at St. Mary's, to employ over 250 men.

Boycott Will Be Removed.

Cleveland, Oct. 5.—Business Agent Pratt, of the Cleveland street car men's union, says that at a meeting of the strikers to be held Friday, the boycott on all persons who ride on the Big Consolidated line street cars will be declared off. The strike, Pratt says, would be continued, but the strikers would cease operating omnibuses except on Broadway, where herdics will be run during the winter in competition with the cars.

Steam Heater Exploded.

Salem, N. J., Oct. 5.—The steam-heating boiler at the residence of R. S. Fogg exploded with great force. Albert Thomas, colored, who had charge of the boiler, had both legs and his right arm broken, several teeth knocked out, head cut, and was badly scalded. He was removed to Cooper Hospital, Camden, in a critical condition. The house was only slightly damaged.

Shortage in Loan Association.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 5.—At a meeting of the Independent Building and Loan Association, No. 1, of this city, a report was made by Expert Accountant Lewis Crater, who examined the books, that there was a shortage of over $12,000. It was decided that the value of shares be reduced to $15 per share. The former treasurer's attorney claimed the shortage will not amount to more than $1,000.

Telegraph Line to Klondike.

Skagway, Sept. 29, via Seattle, Oct. 5.—The Canadian government telegraph line has been completed to Dawson. The Dominion Line reaches from Bennett to Dawson and the wires of the White Pass and Yukon Railroad cover the distance between Skagway and Bennett. The first message over the new line was sent to the minister of public works at Ottawa.

American Interests in Peril.

Shanghai, Oct. 5.—It is reported that Viceroy Chang Chitung has recommended that the government abandon negotiations with the American syndicate under the Washington contract for the construction of the Canton-Hankow Railway and grant the reversion of the undertaking to the Franco-Belgian Luhan combination.

More Fever in Mexico.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Official telegrams announce the appearance of seven cases of yellow fever at Tampico, Mexico. At Jackson, Miss., the yellow fever foci are scattered. There had been twelve cases and four deaths previous to Tuesday. At New Orleans there are now eleven cases of fever under treatment.

The President Starts West.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The President's special train for Chicago and the Northwest left the Pennsylvania station, this city, last evening. The train will go by way of Canton, Ohio, as Miss Mary Barber, the President's niece, is to join the party there.

The President was accompanied by Mrs. McKinley and the entire Cabinet.

TEETH.

If you have any to be extracted remember you will not be hurt in the slightest. My local anesthetic is the best that can be obtained and is not known to the other dentists in this city. Gas strictly fresh, administered by an expert if you want that. If you need artificial teeth you may rest assured that the greatest care will be exercised in selecting shape and color to harmonize with the face, also to restore the features to their natural expression and fullness. This is most important.

RUBBER TRUST SCORED.

Charged By Federal Judge With Acting Unfairly.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—In a decision rendered in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Justice Wood criticized the so-called Rubber Trust, the United States Rubber Company, for what he termed its attempt to take all the assets of the defunct firm of C. H. Fargo & Co., to the disadvantage of scores of other creditors.

The case was an appeal of the United States Rubber Company against the American Oak Leather Company and others, in a suit in which the decision of the court was in favor of the latter. The court held that in the distribution of the former boot and shoe company all creditors but the United States Rubber Company, L. Candee & Co., and the Metropolitan National Bank shall be paid in full. If there is any surplus it is to be divided among those three creditors. The amount involved is $150,000. Those three creditors, according to the court, had used unfair means to secure themselves.

Only One Hope For Carter.

New York, Oct. 5.—Captain Oberlin M. Carter, who was sentenced to be dismissed in disgrace from the corps of engineers in the United States army, sentenced to pay a fine of $5.000 and suffer five years' imprisonment in the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, received new hope when the action of Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court gave a further stay to him preventing temporarily at least the execution of the sentence. The last hope of the prisoner rests in the decision of the Judge in the habeas corpus proceedings, which were argued before him. After hearing the arguments in the case, Judge Lacombe remanded Carter to his former custodians. This means that the prisoner cannot be taken from Governor's Island until the Judge hands in his decision. This will probably be in a few days.

Said to Have Been Embalmed Alive

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 5.—The case of a man who is said to have been embalmed alive is being investigated at this place. A glass-worker of the name of Hunter retired Tuesday night suffering from a headache. At midnight he called his wife, who awoke and went to his side to find him unconscious. A physician pronounced the man dead. Embalmers were sent for and embalming fluid was injected into the body. After his departure Mrs. Hunter held a mirror to her husband's mouth and observed moisture from his breath gather on it. The man's relatives attribute death to the embalming process.

Fears for the Cyrus Wakefield.

San Francisco, Oct. 5.—Fears are expressed for the safety of the ship Cyrus Wakefield, which sailed from New York for this port 183 days ago. She was last heard from at Port Stanley, where she put in after the death at sea of her master, Capt. Henry. She left Port Stanley 89 days ago, in charge of Capt. Chapman, and should have reached here nearly a month ago. Five per cent. insurance is being paid on her. The ship Valkyrie reports passing the mast of a ship in the track of vessels rounding Cape Horn. Mariners say that this may have belonged to the Cyrus Wakefield, which is possibly now making slow progress under jury rig.

Want Diaz Renominated.

City of Mexico, Oct. 5.—Several hundred citizens met here and initiated measures for holding a national convention early next year to nominate a candidate for President and members of the Supreme Court. The sentiment developed in the conference strongly favored the renomination of President Diaz. Public sentiment in financial, commercial and manufacturing circles is largely in favor of renominating Gen. Diaz, whose continued presence at the head of affairs is believed to be essential to national progress.

Afloat From Wrecked Ship.

St. John, Oct. 5.—Fifteen men are adrift in a boat off Cape Race. They are one of six boat loads that put off from the Diamond line steamer Bay State when she went ashore at Cape Ballard. Of the ninety men who took to the boats sixty were picked up by the barkentine Flora and brought here. One boat load got ashore late Tuesday night at Cape Race, but the surf and fog keeps the others at sea. The ship is a total wreck.

Two Fatally Burned.

Milwaukee, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Joseph H. Prudel was trying to make a fire by using oil at her home, when the can exploded. Her clothes were immediately in flames. In trying to rescue her three children from the burning room she also set fire to their clothing. Assemblyman Rechlicz was badly burned in trying to assist the woman and children. Six persons were burned, two of the fatally.

Several Ships Are Missing.

London, Oct. 5.—The Norwegian ship Riverside, Capt. Nielsen, from Mobile March 3, for Grangemouth, and the British steamer South Cambria, Capt. Morgan, from Baltimore August 9, for Havana, have been posted at Lloyds as missing. Neither of the vessels has been heard from since sailing.

Frozen to Death in Klondike.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 5.—Victor Allaire, of Woonsocket; Michael Daily, of this city, and Roger Provost, of Blackstone, have been frozen to death in the Klondike. Their bodies have been discovered on the Koyakuk River, partly imbedded in the ice.

Judge Dawson Passes Away.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 5.—Judge Charles M. Dawson, one of the best known jurists of Indiana, died at his home in this city, aged 51 years. He had been twelve years on the Superior Bench in this city.

Governor Mount in Texas.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 5.—Governor Mount of Indiana and staff, who are to return Confederate battle-flags captured from Texas soldiers during the civil war, have arrived. The ceremony is to occur to-day.

MUST ESTABLISH PEACE

President McKinley's Policy to End the War in the Philippine Islands.

WILL SUSTAIN SOLDIERS.

The Manifest Will of the American People in Furnishing Troops to Be Carried Out.

Fruits of Admiral Dewey's Victory Will Be Sustained—The Campaign Must Be Pushed Vigorously to Crush Present Opposition to the American Forces.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Representative Boutelle, who attended the President's dinner to Admiral Dewey, has summed up the President's informal statement as to his Philippine policy as follows:

"The Administration policy is to carry out the manifest will of the American people in furnishing troops to go to the Philippine Islands to sustain the fruits of Admiral Dewey's victory. The duty that now devolves upon this Government is to maintain our sovereignty over the islands, sustain our soldiers against any enemy and against any disturbance of law and order; everything being for the purpose of establishing a rightful government for the people of the islands in such manner as the American Government, through Congress, shall determine. The campaign must be pushed actively and vigorously, and the opposition to our army must be ended as rapidly as possible. Peace must be established by this Government and maintained thereby until Congress shall determine what shall be done with the islands. From what the President said, it is proposed to bend every resource to the stamping out of all opposition to our authority, the settlement of the war and the establishment and maintenance of peace."

Manila, Oct. 5.—There have been four days of the liveliest kind of fighting. It appears that the insurgents planned that the attack should begin at Imus last Saturday. Then Calamba and Mexico were to be attacked.

A large force which had been hovering in the neighborhood attacked Calamba from the south and northwest, using rapid-fire guns and one machine gun. Col. Kline advanced two companies of the 21st Infantry and one gun and dislodged the weaker wing of the attacking party south of the hills. Meanwhile two companies of 21st with a Hotchkiss gun crossed the bridge and repulsed a vigorous attack from the northwest hills.

The American loss was two killed and seven wounded, including one officer. The insurgents' gun was not captured. In the afternoon the cavalrymen made a reconnoissance close to Mexico, but were outnumbered. One cavalryman was wounded.

At Guagua Bolo men concealed in the grass surrounded and killed three members of the th Infantry who were on outpost duty.

Manila, Oct. 5.—Rear Admiral Watson announces the recovery of the United States gunboat Urdaneta, which was captured and beached by the enemy after a fierce fight, near Orani, on the Orani River, where she had been blockading, under Cadet Welborn C. Wood. The expedition was entirely successful, the Americans suffering no casualties.

Greely Makes Balloon Ascension.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—Brig.-General A. W. Greely, honorary vice-president of the International Geographical Congress, accompanied by Major H. T. Allen, Military Attache of the United States Embassy in Berlin, ascended at Potsdam in a military kite balloon, the invention of Mr. Percival Siegsfeld. Emperor William granted General Greely a special permit to make the ascent. General Greely has purchased a similar balloon for the United States Government.

Gavel From Andersonville.

Dubuque, Iowa, Oct. 5.—Capt. George W. Healy, who spent several months in Andersonville Prison during the Civil War, has presented to Col. D. B. Henderson, prospective Speaker of the next House of Representatives, a gavel made out of pieces of pine wood secured when Healy was a prisoner and saved from the scanty supply of fuel obtained only by the service of carrying out the dead.

Buffalo Assembly Nominations.

Buffalo, Oct. 5.—The following Assembly nominations were made at the Republican conventions here: Second District, Henry W. Hill; Third District, George Balz; Fourth District; William Metzler; Fifth District, Charles F. Susdorf; Sixth District, Nicholas J. Miller; Seventh District, J. K. Patton; Eighth District, Elijah Cook. The First District convention met but adjourned to Monday evening.

Major Davis Transferred.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Major George B. Davis has been relieved as chief commissary of subsistence of the Department of the Lakes and ordered to report for duty in Washington. Major W. L. Alexander will succeed Major Davis.

Ohio Will Have Stanley.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 5.—Gov. Stanley has consented to go to Ohio to assit the Republicans in the state campaign. He will speak Oct. 26, 27 and 28, at places to be decided on by the Ohio state committee.

Mme. Edmond Adam Retires.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The "Petit Journal" announces that Mme. Edmond Adam has retired from the editorship of the "Nouvelle Revue," which she founded in 1879.

Pittsburg Jewelers Fail.

Pittsburg, Oct. 5.—George W. Briggs & Co., jewellers, of this city, have filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy Liabilities, $65 000, assets, $72,000.

The New Gas Company.

The slogan of cheaper gas, or at least at a maximum price of $1 per thousand cubic feet, has a winning sound. In going before the present and prospective consumers of that commodity in Plainfield, seeking their aid and influence in establishing itself in this city ready to do business, the People's Gas Company holds out a popular promise.

At this time when municipal ownership of all commodities that depend upon public rights for their delivery to the people is being agitated in Plainfield, any effort at private ownership of a plant for the manufacture and distribution of gas is bound to meet with opposition from two classes—those who are thoroughly in earnest about municipal ownership, and the others who will accept the idea as a convenient cloak to assume for mercenary purposes—this latter class only hoping to prevent private competition without any idea of allowing municipal control to gain sufficient headway to overcome the monopoly that now exists in this city.

To follow the advice of either one of these classes would probably not serve the city's interests. First, because the people at large are not yet appreciative enough of the advantages of municipal ownership, to unite together to bring about its success in the gas business; and, second, because the purposes of masqueraders is so palpably ulterior that it requires but little perspicuity to see that fact.

We believe that the stockholders of the new gas company are thoroughly in earnest in the intention of giving Plainfield cheaper gas rates, and they have not organized with the hopes of eventually selling out to the old company at a huge profit on the original investment. Under these circumstances the Council should deal favorably with the company in its application for a franchise.

There is one stipulation, however, that should be made in the terms that will provide for the future crystalizing of sentiment in favor of municipal ownership. That is, the franchise, if it is granted, should be very explicit in providing that at any time in the future the city may purchase the plant and all assets of the new company at a price that shall not be in excess of the original cost, plus a reasonable amount for the business that may have accrued to the company from careful management.

This would safe-guard the interests of the people in respect to municipal ownership of a gas works, and would be eminently fair to the stockholders of the People's Gas Company.

Great Work of Central.

The manner in which the New York Central Railroad operated its suburban service during the crush of the two Dewey celebration days last week, has called forth a vigorous protest from those who insist that the patrons of the road were treated with ill-consideration for their convenience and needs in the transit line. The result of the complaint drew forth a long letter from one of the officials, which was published in the Evening Post yesterday, apologizing for the company and attempting to smooth over its discrepancies.

The record of the New York Central in this respect is in strange contrast to that of its namesake in New Jersey. It stands out as an acknowledged fact that the New Jersey Central handled the monster crowds that used its service last Friday and Saturday in an expeditious and perfectly satisfactory manner. The officials of the company had made preparations for carrying an enormous number of extra passengers on those days, and their plans did not go amiss. It required them to break away from the routine of the ordinary day, but in doing this they served their patrons all the more successfully.

The in-bound traffic for New York was cared for with comparative ease, but when evening came and the outbound passengers were coming across the river by the thousands it taxed the capacities and energies of the company's employes and facilities to the utmost, but the rapidity with which the great throng was moved towards their various destinations won the appreciation of all who used the Jersey Central those days.

The Purpose of Advertising.

A Connecticut newspaper in commenting upon the National Export Exposition says that it "will show the buyers of Europe what America has to sell." This leads the Philadelphia Record to add that: "In other words, the splendid exhibition is a great national advertisement which is designed to attract the attention of the world to the saleable products of the United States. In like manner the merchant's business announcements keep his establishment and his wares constantly before the public; and when printed in a popular and reliable newspapers such advertisements contribute more than any other factor to the upbuilding of his trade."

Editor Charles H. Folwell, of Mount Holly, is aiming to be named as supervisor of legislative bills. Mr. Folwell is receiving a great deal of encouragement from the big leaders throughout the State, and it is generally agreed now that he will land the berth. The Governor says he will not make the appointment until after the fall elections. Other aspirants for the place are Editor Williams, of Essex county and Dr. Newland, of Cumberland county.

The Prohibitionists of Somerset county are the first in the field with a county ticket. It is as follows: For Senator, Wm. Lunger, of North Plainfield; Assembly, Theo. S. Quick, of Warren; Coroner, W. H. Vactor, of Bridgewater.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Governor Voorhees has adopted a judicious course in deciding to hear the protest of the Georgia rifle team regarding the award of the Hilton trophy to the New Jersey team. If there was no fraud in the scoring, as everybody in New Jersey believes, it ought not to be difficult to prove it to the satisfaction of the Georgians.—Newark News.

It is about time that the townships were recognized in the distribution of political plums. The townships have been asked to pull chestnuts out of the fire for the cities in Union county about long enough, and we admire the plucky fight that is being made by Maj. J. A. Hicks, of Summit, for County Clerk. Without saying anything disparingly of the present County Clerk, the time has come when there should be a recognition of the men who have helped the city men in this fight. The Republicans of this county have had good, liberal help from the faithful men of the townships, when help was a Godsend. Now let them be fair and liberal in return.—Westfield Standard.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Lieutenant Thomas M. Brumby, flag officer of the Olympia under Admiral Dewey, will go directly to his old home in Georgia from the reception ceremonies in Washington, there to receive a sword of honor, the gift of his native State, and to visit his mother, who is now over eighty years old. She is a cousin of ex-vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson, and represents that type of gentlewoman of the old school, in the days when the daughters of Southern families were not considered educated until they had spent several years at a European school. Mrs. Brumby was presented to Queen Victoria only a few months after the Queen's coronation, when both were mere "slips of girls." It is quite probable that Mrs. Brumby's presentation occurred at an earlier date than that of any other American woman now living.

* * * * *

The medals which the State of New Jersey has given to its soldiers who enlisted in the Spanish-American war satisfied the recipients of them, inasmuch as they showed that those who only stood and waited for active field service had not served in vain. But the insignia of patriotism is, to the minds of the majority of the soldiers, altogether too heavy to wear pinned on the front of the blouse. From the bulk of the medal a soldier seems to think he would need a false chest or a valet to carry it for him. It is cast in brown bronze and the ingredients of copper and tin seem to be almost inconsiderable. The stamping of it—for it was stamped—seems to be good, and with both the National and State shield of arms upon it, it is a trophy which is to be highly prized.

DOES COFFEE AGREE WITH YOU?

If not, drink Grain-O—made from pure grains. A lady writes: "The first time I made Grain-O I did not like it but after using it for one week nothing would induce me to go back to coffee." It nourishes and feeds the system. The children can drink it freely with great benefit. It is the strengthening substance of pure grains. Get a package today from your grocer, follow the directions in making it and you will have a delicious and healthful table beverage for old and young. 15 and 25c.

Fall Opening
---OF---
Fine Millinery
-:- AT -:-
Woodhull & Martin's.

OPENING DAYS

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A rare display of exclusive millinery. The season's choicest production. All the newest novelties in Fancy Felts, Tam-o-shanter Golf Hats, Empire and Gainsboroughs. The newest shades in Millinery Materials, such as Chiffons, Malines, Velvet Ribbons, Feathers, Breasts, etc. Every lady in the city cordially invited to attend this grand opening.

MISS M. M. GASSNER.

Golf Suitings.

Fashion makes it imperative that Golf Suiting be worn. We are inclined to encourage their use, for no more durable and stylish suitings were ever introduced to the buying public. Double-faced, warm, serviceable, need no lining. Our line ranges in price from $1.25 to $3.98 per yard, and we believe our styles equal to the best shown by N. Y. houses. Our prices we believe to be lower, as we purchased early before the subsequent rise in price.

Underskirts. New fall styles are now on sale, and let us say to you—you may look many a day for a more attractive lot of styles. They are made of satines, Italian cloths, mercerized cottons, morreens, etc., in both black and colors.

New waists in flannel, brilliantine, satine, silk, etc. Styles are exclusive and prices are right.

Sundry Novelties.

New Embroidered Chiffons—Tucked Silks, Corded Silks, etc., for dress fronts. All over point-de-venise dress laces in black and cream, plain lace nets, new veilings, new neck novelties, velvet ribbons in satin back and linen back, butter colored lace ties with embroidered ends, black jetted lace nets, etc.

Kid Gloves. We sell no cheap kid gloves. No lady is well-dressed with either cheap gloves or cheap shoes. Better wear a cheap dress. $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 are our prices for good gloves. The last two numbers are entirely new and very desirable. Must be seen, however, to be appreciated.

New Table Damasks.

Our sales in this line are certainly phenomenal. We have surprised ourselves as well as our friends. It is not the result of accident, but rather the natural response to persistent effort to secure and offer to our customers special values. The latest attractions in this department are two special Bleached Damasks at 50c and 75c per yard. The 50c number is worth 75c and the 75c number is worth 89c, or we are guilty of prevarication.

DOWN STAIRS.

The old saying "forewarned forearmed" has proved true in our case in regard to White Iron Beds. Anticipating the rise in price of these goods we bought early and often all the iron beds we could find storage for. Prices have advanced since until we could sell the goods back to the people we bought them of at a handsome profit.

We prefer, however, to give our friends the benefit of our good fortune. Iron Beds, Brass trimmed, at 3.75, 4.98, 5.75, 6.48, 7.98, 8.49, 9.98, 10.75, 11.50, 12.50, 13.75, 14.98. Every bed quoted worth from 15 to 25 per cent more.

MATTRESSES.

Soft Top Mattresses, 1.98, 2.45. Husk, soft top, 2.98. Victor Combination, 1 part, 3.98. Victor Combination, 2 parts, 4.48. 45 lb Pure White Cotton, A. C. A. tick, 2 parts, 5.98. Genuine Felt Mattress, Fancy tick, 1 part or 2 parts, 8.50. Silk Floss Mattress, to order, 15.00. Springs, Pillows, Furniture, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Shades, Rugs, etc.

Greatest Sale of Fall and Winter
CLOTHING

Ever held in Plainfield. Prices that will be in reach of everybody at 214 WEST FRONT ST., NEXT DOOR TO MUSIC HALL.

SALE TO LAST TEN DAYS ONLY.

NEED OF READY CASH causes a sacrifice of fine clothing by manufacturers, their stock offered at 35c on the dollar. Too many goods on hand is the reason for this wonderful sale. Manufacturers must have cash, this is an honest sacrifice of goods by first-class reliable manufacturers who have made up more clothing than they can sell and consequently close out their surplus at an enormous loss for ready money.

We guarantee that for one dollar you get three dollars worth of clothing.

Just Look at These Prices:

Men's woolen suits, worth $9. at $2.75. Men's extra durable trousers, worth $3. at 95c. Men's fall overcoats, worth $7.50, at $2 75. Men's and young men's striped worsted suits at $6 50, worth $16.50. Men's winter overcoats, worth 15.00, at 4.25, and hundreds of other bargains in suits and trousers. These prices don't represent the cost of making these goods, they are clean made garments and bear the labels of the best makers in the country. There will also be sold elegant business and dress suits for men at 3.50. 4.50, 5.50, 6.50, 8.00 and 9.00, actually and honestly worth from 15.00 to 25.00. No shop-worn truck, but clean, honest clothing, good enough for the best dressed man in Plainfield. Bring this ad with you and if we don't show you everything we will pay you car fare both ways.

Come this Saturday at 8 a. m. and get the first pick while the assortment is still large, don't hesitate, don't delay, first come, first choice, come and see for yourself.

Elegant silk lined fall overcoats worth from 15.00 to 20.00, at 4 50, 5 50 and 6.50. Elegant dress trousers, worth from 3.50 to 7.00, at 2 25 and 2.50. Every man and woman within 25 miles of Plainfield should visit this unprecedented sale.

Child's 3-piece middy suits at 75c, worth 2.00. Boy's school suits from 8 to 16, at 1.00, 1.25 and 1.50, worth from 2.50 to 5.00. Children's knee pants at 15c, this is a special and won't last long. Boy's knee pants, strictly all wool with double seat and double knees, extra heavy weight, worth 75c at 39c.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 5 — The report of Prof. Morris for the month of September which was made at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Board of Education, showed that there were 239 pupils enrolled, an increase of about thirty over the previous month last year. The attendance also averages considerable higher than last year. Of the number of pupils enrolled seventy-eight had not missed a single day from school. It is the opinion of the citizens that the schools of the borough are in a better condition than they have been in some years. If the new superintendent proves as capable an instructor and disciplinarian as Prof. Morris has shown himself to be the citizens will have no cause to regret the change which was necessitated by the resignation of Prof. Morris.

The social given on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dodwell, in honor of the Misses Dodwell, was an interesting affair. The evening was made pleasant by music and games. Before the young folks left they were supplied with refreshments. Among those present were the Misses Edna Vail, Grace Burdick, of Westfield; Loretta and Eleanor Dushanek, of Somerville; Margaret Dineen, Pearl, Nellie and Julia Dodwell, and the Masters Charles Vail, Fred Warden, Fred Wilcox, Ernest Peters, William Dealaman, Wm. Giles and Abner Coriell.

Ellis Benward, the switchman who had charge of the yard switches at this place, has been relieved from duty since the accident near the roundhouse early yesterday morning. Thomas Costello has been appointed to fill the post temporarily. Mr. Benward, who feels the embarrassing position keenly, has not been discharged by the Central company.

Charles Vail has accepted a position on the Central Railroad and will assist his father in the park department. The Union News stand at the station which he has had charge of for the present will be under the care of his sister, Miss Edna Vail.

The Misses Loretta and Eleanor Dushanek, of Somerville, have been visiting the family of Conductor Charles Dodwell.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, October 5.—The first meeting for the study of Sacred Literature was held in the Baptist church last evening. Rev. Mr. Shott will have charge of the meeting and in the near future will begin a course of study upon the "Talk of the Stones," or what recent excavations in the Holy Lands have done towards proving the scripture stories. While the meeting has been started for the benefit of the young people's society connected with the church, it is the intention of Mr. Shott to open them to all those who are interested in the study of the scriptures.

J. W. Nickolls and family, who have been occupying the Thomae cottage on the mountains during the summer, have rented through Hand & Allen's real estate agency cottage No. 8 in Fanwood, and will take possession at once.

People in the village are beginning to wonder if the trolley company intends to run open cars all winter. Every third car is an open one. Some rather than take the open air ride wait for the next car.

No dance was held at Emery's pavilion last evening. Mr. Emery is making arrangements to keep the pavilion open all winter, and to do this a number of improvements will have to be made.

Mrs. Welcome and child, of Milford, Delaware, who have been visiting Mrs. Welcome's sister, Mrs. T. M.

To Accommodate

those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

NEW PRINCIPAL CHOSEN

PROF. MESELROVE WILL TAKE PROF. MORRIS' PLACE IN DUNELLEN.

The Former Comes From Tiverty, R. I., and is a Graduate of Brown University—Prof. Morris Goes to Rutgers Next Week.

Prof. Richard Morris, who has been superintendent of the public schools of Dunellen borough for several weeks, tendered his resignation to the Board of Education at Tuesday evening's meeting. The vacancy was filled by the appointment of Prof. Leslie Meselrove, of Tiverty, R. I., who will assume his new duties next Monday. The new superintendent is a graduate of Brown College and has been highly recommended to the board. He has been in charge of the public schools of Tiverty for sometime and is also clerk to the board of village trustees of that place.

Prof. and Mrs. Morris will leave next week for New Brunswick. The house they now occupy will be rented by Prof. Meselrove, who has a wife and two children. While the Board of Education regrets to sever relations with Prof. Morris, they feel gratified that they have been able to secure so capable instructor.

Paff, Jr., have returned to their home.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company held their regular monthly meeting in their rooms last evening. Routine business was transacted.

The Township Committee at their meeting Tuesday evening declared the amount of 25 cents per head as the dog tax for the year.

Mrs. Wm. Bacon, of Plainfield, visited relatives and friends in town yesterday.

Miss Kittie Buckley has returned from a visit with Westfield friends.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 5—The following officers of the Lincoln High School Alumni Association have been elected for the coming year: President, Loyd Thompson; vice-president, Miss Belle Morehouse; secretary, Miss Oliver; treasurer, Robert Carberry.

Hon John B. Green, president of the Board of Education, has been appointed the attorney for the National Merchantile Agency of New York.

The Board of Education has appointed Miss Augusta S. Meeker and Miss Emily R. Watson as extra teachers of the public schools.

Oldenburg.

Oldenburg. Seit Februar d. J. werden in dem Vororte Osternburg auf den ausgedehnten Ländereien des Auktionators Calberla hierselbst Tiefbohrungen veranstaltet, weil man nach bestimmten Anzeichen Grund zu der Hoffnung hatte, auf eine Petroleumquelle zu stoßen. Petroleum hat man nicht gefunden, wohl aber ist man in 328 Meter Tiefe auf ein Steinsalzlager gestoßen, das sich genau bis 340½ Meter tief—also in einer Mächtigkeit von 12½ Meter—fortsetzte. Jetzt ist man bis zu 363 Meter Tiefe vorgedrungen und es haben bis dahin Steinsalz mit kohlensaurem Kalk (Dolomit), Kochsalz, Salzthon und Chlormagnesiumsalzen abgewechselt. Eine chemische Analyse lautete in Bezug auf den Kalisalzgehalt der Bohrproben (schon das Steinsalzlager wäre abbauwürdig) derart günstig, daß man jetzt ein zweites größeres Bohrloch geschlagen hat. Nach Ansicht des die Bohrungen leitenden Ingenieurs ziehen sich die Salzlager meilenweit hin.

Braunschweig. Der Bäckermeister Probst aus Bornum bei Königslutter erhob bei der hiesigen Leihhauskasse den Betrag von 25,000 Mark, kehrte jedoch damit nicht nach Bornum zurück. Einige Tage später fand man ihn erhängt in einem benachbarten Walde, das Geld wurde indeß bei der Leiche nicht gefunden, so daß sich das Gerücht eines Raubmordes verbreitete. Angestellte Nachforschungen ergaben, daß Probst das Geld seinem Bruder übergeben hatte, ehe er Hand an sich selbst legte.

Darmstadt. Als dieser Tage die Familie Rauh von hier in der Schweiz zwischen Engelberg und Grafenried eine Spazierfahrt zu Wagen machte, scheute das Pferd vor einem herankommenden Eisenbahnzug. Der Wagen wurde einen Abhang hinuntergeschleudert. Von den Insassen blieben Frau Rauh und die Tochter todt, während der Ehemann und der Kutscher unverletzt blieben. Ein Sohn des Ehepaares verunglückte vor einigen Jahren am Titlis und liegt in Engelberg begraben.

Bingen. Kürzlich beschloß die Bürgermeisterei, dem Tabaksfabrikanten Karl Gräff nicht mehr als Höchstbesteuertem Sitz und Stimme im Gemeinderath zu geben und Gräff nicht mehr zu den Stadtverordnetensitzungen einzuladen. Die Bürgermeisterei meinte, daß die Stadt selbst Höchstbesteuerter sei. Auf eine Beschwerde Gräffs beim Kreisamte hat dieses erkannt, daß Gräff im Sinne des Gesetzes als Höchstbesteuerter zu betrachten ist.

München. General von Safferling, der frühere bayerische Kriegsminister, ist gestorben.—Die bayerische Staatsregierung hat an die Landesuniversitäten und an die hygienischen Institute die Aufforderung ergehen lassen, sich stets bereit zu halten, um alle verdächtig erscheinenden Fälle auf das Vorkommen von Pesterkrankungen zu untersuchen. Es handelt sich dabei nur um einen Akt der Vorsicht.—Die Besitzer der Spatenbrauerei haben anläßlich ihrer 25jährigen Geschäftsthätigkeit den sämmtlichen Angestellten und Bediensteten der Brauerei namhafte Geldspenden zukommen lassen.—Die Brüder Loibl, die bei der hiesigen Filiale der Deutschen Bank 40,000 Mark unterschlagen hatten und entflohen, sind in Luzern verhaftet worden. Die unterschlagene Summe wurde bei ihnen noch vorgefunden.

Augsburg. Wieder ausgegraben wurde auf Veranlassung der Staatsanwaltschaft die Leiche des unlängst im Lech ertrunkenen Heumachers Assinger. Der Mann hatte erwiesenermaßen vor dem Tode eine Summe Geldes bei sich, die fehlte, als er aus dem Wasser gezogen wurde. Die Sektion ergab jedoch keine Anhaltspunkte für ein an Assinger verübtes Verbrechen.

WOMEN WHO MAKE LAWS.

Two Members of the Idaho Legislature Who Are a Credit to Their Sex.

BY ELNORA M. BABCOCK.

A woman suffrage amendment was carried in Idaho in 1896, and in 1898 three women were elected to the house of representatives, Mary A. Wright, Clara L. Campbell and Hattie F. Noble, all of whom have fulfilled their duties to the complete satisfaction of their constituents and with credit to themselves.

Mrs. Wright, the representative from Kootenai county, the extreme northern part of the state, is a teacher by profession and has long been recognized as one of Idaho's most successful educators. Both herself and husband are heavy taxpayers. She has always taken a lively interest in educational and other public affairs, and while she has made a study of public questions and is well posted, as any gentleman will learn who undertakes to argue politics with her, she is not a professional politician in any sense of the word.

The nomination came to her unsolicited, and it was only after persistent argument that she consented to become a candidate. She received her nomination by a two-thirds vote of her party, and while she spent her campaign in the schoolroom, making but one campaign trip, and that when she was invited to meet the people in the remotest part of her county, at Boomer's Ferry, she was elected by a large majority.

She is an active worker in primaries, county and state conventions and has served on some of the most important committees in these conventions. While in the legislature she was chairman of the engrossing committee, a member of the committee on education and of the committee on privileges and elections. She was also appointed on a number of special and honorary committees and was appointed to preside over the house while that body was in a committee of the whole. She is said to have wielded the gavel with dignity, fairness and impartiality.

Mrs. Wright is a refined and cultured woman, performing her political duties in a quiet, dignified manner that completely silences all opposers. She has made hosts of friends during her stay at the capital.

She began her political work in 1894 and worked hard during the campaign. During the campaign of 1896 she worked for the suffrage amendment, not as a political issue, but as an act of justice to women, appealing to all parties. She says that it is so difficult for them to understand the prejudice that exists in the east and says:

"I only wish the eastern states could see us enjoy our freedom. We are just as feminine as though we had never exercised the franchise, and our husbands, fathers and brothers are just as fond of us as they ever were. Oh, how I wish the east could understand as we do!"

Mrs. Clara L. Campbell represented Ada county in the Idaho legislature the past winter. She was born and educated in Connecticut. She has still a kindly remembrance of her old home and says, "I am proud to have been born in Connecticut and trust I shall never disgrace dear old New England."

Mrs. Campbell is a womanly woman in every sense of the word. She has had no special "career," but has been thrown upon her own resources to a great extent owing to the feeble condition of her husband's health, which has given her a training and experience which, in connection with her sound sense and upright character, fit her for almost any public position of trust and responsibility.

She was married to William O. Campbell in 1868. After the birth of their three eldest sons they removed to Illinois, where they spent a few years. In 1875, owing to the ill health of her husband, they went to the Pacific coast, where she spent some time in Eugene, Or., teaching music.

The continued ill health of her husband, caused by long service in the civil war, called for another change of climate, and in the fall of 1878 they were commissioned by the United States government to take charge of the government school upon the Nez Perce Indian agency. Here they remained for five years. That they might better educate their boys they resigned their position and went to Boise, Ida., which has since been their home.

Mrs. Campbell is a prominent worker in the Relief corps, having served as department secretary and chairman of the executive board.

THE FILIPINO GIRL.

Her Habit of Smoking Is One Which Shocks Americans.

A Filipino girl whose parents make any pretensions to wealth or social ambition will not walk a half dozen blocks unless escorted by some relative, even in broad daylight, but she will sit on a balcony in full view of the street and puff contentedly at a long cheroot, perfectly conscious that she is within the bounds of strict propriety according to native standards.

This habit of smoking by girls and women is one which Americans in Manila find very hard to become accustomed to. We have heard that some women of our own race, members of a class of society more noted for its money than for its good morals, sometimes smoke cigarettes, but they do not make a public exhibition of their daring, and it is generally believed that their numbers are few.

The Filipino woman who does not smoke, however, is a rare exception. A writer in The Outlook says of them:

"They are always glad to accept a cigarette or a small cigar and, if you are not prompt in offering one, in all probability will produce one from their own supply and ask your permission to light it. This habit quickly ceases to attract your notice except under unusual circumstances.

"At a town in Isabella my attention was drawn to a number of young girls returning from their first communion. They were clothed in dresses of pure white, and long veils hung chastely down their shoulders. I drank in the details of the picture with delight until I came to the thick haze that overhung it.

"Through the meshes of each veil a tube of tobacco was thrust, and every pair of dainty lips gave its continual contribution to the cloud of smoke that dwelt around the little group like a halo of universal sanction."

ELIZABETH LYON.

The wife of Lord William Beresford will leave England soon for the purpose of revisiting her native land and witnessing the yacht races. As Miss Lily Price, daughter of Commodore Cicero Price, U. S. N., she became a famous beauty. She was first married to Louis C. Hamersley, and after his death she was married to the Duke of Marlborough. Again left a widow, she later became the bride of Lord Beresford.

Chillicothe, O., is said to be the only city in the United States, perhaps in the world, which has women conductors on its street cars. Women conductors were placed on the cars for the first time June 15, 1897. The plan has proved an immense success.

ALL FOR A PENNY.

How a Young Bachelor Got Over His Annoyance.

It was obvious that he was a young bachelor, and it was equally obvious that the child annoyed him. He was going east in a Fifty-ninth street car. He had dressed in a hurry, and was going to make a call. That was the inference from the careful scrutiny he gave his faultless attire the instant he paid his fare, and the assurance he gave himself that he had his card case all right. Then came the incident of the child.

Accompanied by his mother, who carried a large bundle and was poorly dressed, the four-year-old entered the car at the Circle, and immediately took possession of the side of the car upon which the young man was sitting. There were only three other passengers.

Climbing upon the seat the child proceeded to rush up and down, shouting out of the window. At a lurch of the car the child planted one dusty foot on the young man's trousers and clutched at him for support. The young man frowned, dusted his clothes and glanced at the mother. She expostulated with the infant, but to no purpose. That also annoyed the young man, for, being a bachelor, he believed in strict discipline for children.

Something fell from the youngster's chubby fist and he set up a pout.

"You've lost one of your pennies out of the window. I told you you would. Now give the rest to me," was the mother's comment. The young bachelor looked pleased.

There was no more romping for the child. He wept until Madison avenue was reached. There the motorman left his post long enough to lift him to the street, then helped the woman with her bundle. She was so astonished at the unexpected politeness that she forgot to thank him.

With the departure of the woman, the bundle and the child the young bachelor gave a contented sigh and looked at his watch. Then he caught sight of a penny on the seat beside him. The look of annoyance came back. Then he did a queer thing. He grabbed the penny and signalled the conductor to stop the car. The conductor did it, although he had just started it. The crusty young bachelor sprang from the car, sped back across the avenue and pressed the penny into the hand of the child who was still crying. Then he turned to look at the car he had left, and behold! it was waiting for him. The conductor and motorman had witnessed the performance. Both were smiling as he clambered aboard. They were still smiling when he left the car at Lexington avenue. Then they laughed.—New York Herald.

As Good as His Word.

Among the first of the men who sought gold around the timber line of Grey's Peak came "Mike." He said he came from Ireland by way of Denver. He was young, active and ambitious, and told all who took the trouble to ask that he was just going to find a gold mine, dig out a sack of gold and then go back to Ireland for "Nellie."

The men who listened laughed at Mike, and they laughed more when they saw that he was delving into the most unlikely spot on the whole mountain. They asked him why he did not take a rest and get his hair cut. In a rage Mike said he would never get his hair cut until he found gold enough to buy the claims of the men who laughed, and for nineteen years he has kept his word.

No one knows just when he found the vein of gold which made his fortune, for the hut in which he lived masked the entrance to his mine. It was only when he astonished the miners by walking into the barber shop that his find became known.

The cutting of "Mike's" hair was an event that drew a crowd and grew into a celebration. Now he is on his way to Nellie, and no one knows whether Nellie is wife, daughter or sweetheart.

The Praying Bug.

Of bugs there is no end, for it must be remembered that all insects save flies, bees, ants, moths and butterflies are bugs. The kissing bug season—and it was really a silly one—is over, and now comes the praying bug, a beetle with hardened wing covers that appears, with his forelegs uplifted, as it were in the attitude of prayer. The illustration is taken from life and is of life-size.

Damage by Deer.

Farmers in Androscoggin County, Me., complain bitterly of the injury done to their crops by the protected and rapidly increasing deer. "Why," say some, "if there was any owner of them I could complain and make him take them off, or pay for damage. At this rate it will not be long before we must keep a man with a club in every cornfield in the State."

Too Many Lawyers.

Speaking of what is called the deplorable habit of Legislatures in making laws which are unintelligible to the people and the courts, the Galveston News says: "About half of the law makers are lawyers, but while they may be able to interpret a law made by some other person, it seems that they cannot make one that some other person can understand."

Island of Lakes.

Nearly one-third of the surface of Newfoundland is covered with fresh water, mostly in the form of lakes.

The New Gas Company.

The slogan of cheaper gas, or at least at a maximum price of $1 per thousand cubic feet, has a winning sound. In going before the present and prospective consumers of that commodity in Plainfield, seeking their aid and influence in establishing itself in this city ready to do business, the People's Gas Company holds out a popular promise.

At this time when municipal ownership of all commodities that depend upon public rights for their delivery to the people is being agitated in Plainfield, any effort at private ownership of a plant for the manufacture and distribution of gas is bound to meet with opposition from two classes—those who are thoroughly in earnest about municipal ownership, and the others who will accept the idea as a convenient cloak to assume for mercenary purposes—this latter class only hoping to prevent private competition without any idea of allowing municipal control to gain sufficient headway to overcome the monopoly that now exists in this city.

To follow the advice of either one of these classes would probably not serve the city's interests. First, because the people at large are not yet appreciative enough of the advantages of municipal ownership, to unite together to bring about its success in the gas business; and, second, because the purposes of masqueraders is so palpably ulterior that it requires but little perspicuity to see that fact.

We believe that the stockholders of the new gas company are thoroughly in earnest in the intention of giving Plainfield cheaper gas rates, and they have not organized with the hopes of eventually selling out to the old company at a huge profit on the original investment. Under these circumstances the Council should deal favorably with the company in its application for a franchise.

There is one stipulation, however, that should be made in the terms that will provide for the future crystalizing of sentiment in favor of municipal ownership. That is, the franchise, if it is granted, should be very explicit in providing that at any time in the future the city may purchase the plant and all assets of the new company at a price that shall not be in excess of the original cost, plus a reasonable amount for the business that may have accrued to the company from careful management.

This would safe-guard the interests of the people in respect to municipal ownership of a gas works, and would be eminently fair to the stockholders of the People's Gas Company.

Great Work of Central.

The manner in which the New York Central Railroad operated its suburban service during the crush of the two Dewey celebration days last week, has called forth a vigorous protest from those who insist that the patrons of the road were treated with ill-consideration for their convenience and needs in the transit line. The result of the complaint drew forth a long letter from one of the officials, which was published in the Evening Post yesterday, apologizing for the company and attempting to smooth over its discrepancies.

The record of the New York Central in this respect is in strange contrast to that of its namesake in New Jersey. It stands out as an acknowledged fact that the New Jersey Central handled the monster crowds that used its service last Friday and Saturday in an expeditious and perfectly satisfactory manner. The officials of the company had made preparations for carrying an enormous number of extra passengers on those days, and their plans did not go amiss. It required them to break away from the routine of the ordinary day, but in doing this they served their patrons all the more successfully.

The in-bound traffic for New York was cared for with comparative ease, but when evening came and the out-bound passengers were coming across the river by the thousands it taxed the capacities and energies of the company's employes and facilities to the utmost, but the rapidity with which the great throng was moved towards their various destinations won the appreciation of all who used the Jersey Central those days.

The Purpose of Advertising.

A Connecticut newspaper in commenting upon the National Export Exposition says that it "will show the buyers of Europe what America has to sell." This leads the Philadelphia Record to add that: "In other words, the splendid exhibition is a great national advertisement which is designed to attract the attention of the world to the saleable products of the United States. In like manner the merchant's business announcements keep his establishment and his wares constantly before the public; and when printed in a popular and reliable newspapers such advertisements contribute more than any other factor to the upbuilding of his trade."

Editor Charles H. Folwell, of Mount Holly, is aiming to be named as supervisor of legislative bills. Mr. Folwell is receiving a great deal of encouragement from the big leaders throughout the State, and it is generally agreed now that he will land the berth. The Governor says he will not make the appointment until after the fall elections. Other aspirants for the place are Editor Williams, of Essex county and Dr. Newland, of Cumberland county.

The Prohibitionists of Somerset county are the first in the field with a county ticket. It is as follows: For Senator, Wm. Lunger, of North Plainfield; Assembly, Theo. S. Quick, of Warren; Coroner, W. H. Vactor, of Bridgewater.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Governor Voorhees has adopted a judicious course in deciding to hear the protest of the Georgia rifle team regarding the award of the Hilton trophy to the New Jersey team. If there was no fraud in the scoring, as everybody in New Jersey believes, it ought not to be difficult to prove it to the satisfaction of the Georgians.—Newark News.

It is about time that the townships were recognized in the distribution of political plums. The townships have been asked to pull chestnuts out of the fire for the cities in Union county about long enough, and we admire the plucky fight that is being made by Maj. J. A. Hicks, of Summit, for County Clerk. Without saying anything disparingly of the present County Clerk, the time has come when there should be a recognition of the men who have helped the city men in this fight. The Republicans of this county have had good, liberal help from the faithful men of the townships, when help was a Godsend. Now let them be fair and liberal in return.—Westfield Standard.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Lieutenant Thomas M. Brumby, flag officer of the Olympia under Admiral Dewey, will go directly to his old home in Georgia from the reception ceremonies in Washington, there to receive a sword of honor, the gift of his native State, and to visit his mother, who is now over eighty years old. She is a cousin of ex-vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson, and represents that type of gentlewoman of the old school, in the days when the daughters of Southern families were not considered educated until they had spent several years at a European school. Mrs. Brumby was presented to Queen Victoria only a few months after the Queen's coronation, when both were mere "slips of girls." It is quite probable that Mrs. Brumby's presentation occurred at an earlier date than that of any other American woman now living.

* * * * *

The medals which the State of New Jersey has given to its soldiers who enlisted in the Spanish-American war satisfied the recipients of them, inasmuch as they showed that those who only stood and waited for active field service had not served in vain. But the insignia of patriotism is, to the minds of the majority of the soldiers, altogether too heavy to wear pinned on the front of the blouse. From the bulk of the medal a soldier seems to think he would need a false chest or a valet to carry it for him. It is cast in brown bronze and the ingredients of copper and tin seem to be almost inconsiderable. The stamping of it—for it was stamped—seems to be good, and with both the National and State shield of arms upon it, it is a trophy which is to be highly prized.

DOES COFFEE AGREE WITH YOU?

If not, drink Grain-O—made from pure grains. A lady writes: "The first time I made Grain-O I did not like it but after using it for one week nothing would induce me to go back to coffee." It nourishes and feeds the system. The children can drink it freely with great benefit. It is the strengthening substance of pure grains. Get a package today from your grocer, follow the directions in making it and you will have a delicious and healthful table beverage for old and young. 15 and 25c.

Fall Opening
---OF---
Fine Millinery
-:- AT -:-
Woodhull & Martin's.

OPENING DAYS
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A rare display of exclusive millinery. The season's choicest production. All the newest novelties in Fancy Felts, Tam-o-shanter Golf Hats, Empire and Gainsboroughs. The newest shades in Millinery Materials, such as Chiffons, Malines, Velvet Ribbons, Feathers, Breasts, etc. Every lady in the city cordially invited to attend this grand opening.

MISS M. M. GASSNER.

Golf Suitings.

Fashion makes it imperative that Golf Suiting be worn. We are inclined to encourage their use, for no more durable and stylish suitings were ever introduced to the buying public. Double-faced, warm, serviceable, need no lining. Our line ranges in price from $1.25 to $3.98 per yard, and we believe our styles equal to the best shown by N. Y. houses. Our prices we believe to be lower, as we purchased early before the subsequent rise in price.

Underskirts. New fall styles are now on sale, and let us say to you—you may look many a day for a more attractive lot of styles. They are made of satines, Italian cloths, mercerized cottons, morreens, etc., in both black and colors.

New waists in flannel, brilliantine, satine, silk, etc. Styles are exclusive and prices are right.

Sundry Novelties.

New Embroidered Chiffons—Tucked Silks, Corded Silks, etc., for dress fronts. All over point-de-venise dress laces in black and cream, plain lace nets, new veilings, new neck novelties, velvet ribbons in satin back and linen back, butter colored lace ties with embroidered ends, black jetted lace nets, etc.

Kid Gloves. We sell no cheap kid gloves. No lady is well-dressed with either cheap gloves or cheap shoes. Better wear a cheap dress. $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 are our prices for good gloves. The last two numbers are entirely new and very desirable. Must be seen, however, to be appreciated.

New Table Damasks.

Our sales in this line are certainly phenomenal. We have surprised ourselves as well as our friends. It is not the result of accident, but rather the natural response to persistent effort to secure and offer to our customers special values. The latest attractions in this department are two special Bleached Damasks at 50c and 75c per yard. The 50c number is worth 75c and the 75c number is worth 89c, or we are guilty of prevarication.

DOWN STAIRS.

The old saying "forewarned forearmed" has proved true in our case in regard to White Iron Beds. Anticipating the rise in price of these goods we bought early and often all the iron beds we could find storage for. Prices have advanced since until we could sell the goods back to the people we bought them of at a handsome profit.

We prefer, however, to give our friends the benefit of our good fortune. Iron Beds, Brass trimmed, at 3.75, 4.98, 5.75, 6.48, 7.98, 8.49, 9.98, 10.75, 11.50, 12.50, 13.75, 14.98. Every bed quoted worth from 15 to 25 per cent more.

MATTRESSES.

Soft Top Mattresses, 1.98, 2.45. Husk, soft top, 2.98. Victor Combination, 1 part, 3.98. Victor Combination, 2 parts, 4.48. 45 lb Pure White Cotton, A. C. A. tick, 2 parts, 5.98. Genuine Felt Mattress, Fancy tick, 1 part or 2 parts, 8.50. Silk Floss Mattress, to order, 15.00. Springs, Pillows, Furniture, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Shades, Rugs, etc.

SALE TO LAST TEN DAYS ONLY.

NEED OF READY CASH causes a sacrifice of fine clothing by manufacturers, their stock offered at 35c on the dollar. Too many goods on hand is the reason for this wonderful sale. Manufacturers must have cash, this is an honest sacrifice of goods by first-class reliable manufacturers who have made up more clothing than they can sell and consequently close out their surplus at an enormous loss for ready money.

We guarantee that for one dollar you get three dollars worth of clothing.

Just Look at These Prices:

Men's woolen suits, worth $9. at $2.75. Men's extra durable trousers, worth $3. at 95c. Men's fall overcoats, worth $7.50, at $2 75. Men's and young men's striped worsted suits at $6 50, worth $16.50. Men's winter overcoats, worth 15.00, at 4.25, and hundreds of other bargains in suits and trousers. These prices don't represent the cost of making these goods, they are clean made garments and bear the labels of the best makers in the country. There will also be sold elegant business and dress suits for men at 3.50. 4.50, 5.50, 6.50, 8.00 and 9.00, actually and honestly worth from 15.00 to 25.00. No shop-worn truck, but clean, honest clothing, good enough for the best dressed man in Plainfield. Bring this ad with you and if we don't show you everything we will pay you car fare both ways.

Come this Saturday at 8 a. m. and get the first pick while the assortment is still large, don't hesitate, don't delay, first come, first choice, come and see for yourself.

Elegant silk lined fall overcoats worth from 15.00 to 20.00, at 4 50, 5 50 and 6.50. Elegant dress trousers, worth from 3.50 to 7.00, at 2 25 and 2.50. Every man and woman within 25 miles of Plainfield should visit this unprecedented sale.

Child's 3-piece middy suits at 75c, worth 2.00. Boy's school suits from 8 to 16, at 1.00, 1.25 and 1.50, worth from 2.50 to 5.00. Children's knee pants at 15c, this is a special and won't last long. Boy's knee pants, strictly all wool with double seat and double knees, extra heavy weight, worth 75c at 39c.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The dealers throughout the district have been taking stock by order of the newly formed bicycle company. Some of them have finished their work and are getting ready to take their guns and go to the woods and bays for a little shooting. This is the resting time of the dealers. Most of them have had a good year, and they will enjoy their outings in better humor than they did a year ago. One of the veteran dealers, in discussing the question of the new models yesterday, said: "I think that the free wheel will be the innovation for the season of 1900. This system can be applied to both the chain and chainless machines. One system that I know of will throw out the cogs in the rear hub,and another system mentioned throws the cogs out of mesh in the crank shaft. Most of the next year's models will be made of 1¼ inch tubing instead of 1½ inch tubing, as was the case this year. There will be a general raising of crank hangers. The American makers went to extremes in the drop this year. I do not think that an attempt will be made to make the tread any narrower."

TENNIS.

Members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club intending to play for the championship Tennis Cup should have their entry with Henry V. Ryder, 615 East Front street, not later than tomorrow morning. The tournament will be held on the tennis course belonging to Mr. Mellick, adjoining the golf club, on Saturday afternoon, and members of the club and their friends can view the tournament from the Bungalow and hillside adjourning same.

Test of Water Plant.

A test will be made tomorrow evening at Dunellen of the new water works. Fire Chief Doane, of this city, and other prominent people are expected to be present. After the test a collation will be given the visitors at Taylor's Hotel.

Must Have More School Room.

It was decided at the last meeting of the Westfield Board of Education that the lack of school facilities called for the immediate action on the part of the Board. A public meeting will be called at once.

Denies That Shops Will Be Moved.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Phillipsburg, Oct. 5—Supt. Spriggs, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, here yesterday, denied the report that the company's shops at Jersey City and Easton, Pa., would be consolidated at New Market.

Admiral Sampson and family are preparing to leave their home in Glen Ridge this week and go to Boston, where the Admiral will be commandant of the navy yard.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1 00. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

FROM ALMSHOUSE TO JAIL

MARY LUKE TRANSPORTED BECAUSE SHE IS ILL-BEHAVED.

She Was a General Disturber at the Industrial Home, and Judge Runyon Sends Her to the County Jail for Ten Days.

There has been a disturbing element at the Industrial Home. It has made trouble among the inmates and the superintendent, Israel T. Ten Eyck, made an attempt to restore peace and quietude to the place. Mary Luke, a well known character, is a resident of the Home at present. She is always careful to explain, however, that she's only there to take care of "the old man."

Of late Mary's temper has been making trouble for her and everybody else. She used language that no well-behaved resident of the Home should even think of. At last Superintendent TenEyck tired of it and a warrant was sworn out. This morning Mary was arraigned before the City Judge.

She admitted her wrong-doing and asked for mercy, but Judge Runyon didn't see it in that light. There has been trouble at the home before and so the Judge decided that the county instead of the city should board Mary for ten days. She was taken to the county jail at Elizabeth this morning.

HOW TO REACH OLD AGE.

An Interesting and Instructive Paper Read to Medical Association by Dr. E. W. Hedges.

The Plainfield Medical Association enjoyed their quarterly meeting and dinner last evening at the Hotel Kensington, where "Mine Host" Staats, served the members with one of the dinners. The menu was fine as was also the service. During the evening a papered prepared by Dr. E. W. Hedges was presented by him on the subject of "Old Age,and How We May Reach It." It was extremely interesting and very enthusiastically received by the members. An informal discussion followed which was very instructive.

Those present at the meeting were Drs. Buchanan, Long, Tomlinson, Murray, Boone, E. W. Hedges, B. VanD. Hedges, Ard, VanHorn, Currie, Jenkins, Allen, Clawson and Pittis.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

solid silver tea service.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Dryden left Plainfield for the south, where they will remain for some time enjoying their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield.

Guests were present at the wedding and reception from New York, Brooklyn, Baltimore, Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Philadelphia and Hutchison, Kan., in addition to a large nnmber from both this city and the borough.

The groom is the assistant treasurer of the Municipal Debenture Company, of 71 Broadway, New York. He is also a prominent member of the Park Club and the Park Golf Club. The bride is one of Plainfield's leading society women, and the many friends of both bride and groom wish them success and happiness through life.

ceived the congratulations of their many friends, a very elaborate dinner was served in the dining room, the tables being artistically decorated. Covers were laid for a hunderd and fifty. Then followed music and dancing until late at night, the departure of the bride and groom marking an exciting interruption.

The groom is a popular young man with a large circle of friends and holds a responsible position with the Swifts Beef Company. The couple left late last evening for the south where they travel visiting Old Point Comfort and other southern resorts. After a visit in Massachusetts to the groom's old home, they will return to Plainfield in about three weeks and take up their residence at the bride's home, 223 Somerset street.

It was expected that Rev. John P. Morris, of Avondale, N. J., who had married the bride's father and mother twenty-five years ago, would be present and assist at the ceremony. He was detained at home by illness, however.

There was a host of gifts from the numerous friends of the couple. They were shown in a room at the bride's home which they more than filled. They included many of beauty and value. The groom's gift to the bride was a turquoise and diamond ring. The groom of twenty-five years ago gave his bride a sunburst of diamonds. The ushers received engraved silver match boxes from the groom, and the bridemaids were given pearl and turquoise rings by the bride.

POLITICAL PICKINGS.

A Few Matters of Interest to Voters in Union County.

An important meeting of the Union county Republican committee will be held tomorrow afternoon.

The registration of voters in the different districts throughout Elizabeth was commenced by the election officers at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after the boards had been formally organized. The polling places were open until 9 o'clock. Voters register in person or by affidavit. The other two registration days in this city will be October 10th and 24th There was a very light registry throughout the city yesterday.

In the townships the election officers will make a canvass of their districts on October 10th. On October 17th and 31st they will set at the polling places to register voters. On the former day they will sit from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night, and on the latter day from 1 o'clock in the afternoon to 9 at night.

Horse Hurt by Dog Bite.

A valuable young horse belonging to Thomas Dowd, of the Union Water Company, was attacked and bitten on the shoulder by a large dog belonging to J. B. Wilson as Dowd was driving along Park street in Westfield, last week. The injury to the horse is so serious that the horse is yet unfit for use and is probably permanently injured. The same dog has attached and bitten several children.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

At Music Hall tonight William T. Keogh will present a purely western play by Scott Marble, entitled "The Great Train Robbery," which deals with scenes entirely new to the stage. The first act is laid in Kansas City, Mo., and the subsequent acts in the Indian Territory and Texas, showing a section of railroad, a ranch in Red River Valley, an Indian encampment and a grand view of Red River Canon. The scenic settings of the piece are said to surpass anything on the contemporary stage. The play deals with exciting incidents involving an express train robbery, where the car and safe is blown open with dynamite, a startling game of cards, an Indian massacre, Indian war, sun and ghost dances in an Indian village by genuine savage Indians from the wildest tribes of the far west and a terrific battle between Government scouts and desperadoes. The story is one of thrilling interest, abounding in sensational episodes and amusing comedy. Picturesque savagery and western bravery, wild lawlessnes and rude justice, sensation and humor are sharply contrasted. While "The Great Train Robbery" appeals strongly to those who like highly colored drama, its beautiful and finely set story and truthful character studies cause it to be received with favor by all classes of people.

* * * * *

Of all the successes written by De-Koven and Smith, of "Robin Hood" fame, the coming opera—"The Highwayman"—which will be at Music Hall next Wednesday night, has enjoyed the most lasting and greatest run of popularity. Its story is both comic and romantic, and is spiced with the most delicious melody that the famous composer DeKoven has ever written. The principal comedy element of the opera is furnished by Foxey Quiller, a character that has become famous as one of the quaintest, and funniest stage personages ever invented. He is a blustering, bungling, blatherskite type of detective, overflated with conceit and the imagination of his own wonderful power as a sleuth. He suspects everybody, and everything to him is a clue of deep import. He goes through the opera following false scents and complicating the situation by arresting innocent persons and obtruding himself on all occasions.

Prospective Bride Known in Plainfield.

Today's New York Tribune publishes the following: "Miss Matie Kathryn Krymer will be married to Paul Dudley Worcester Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 10th, in the Bloomingdale Reformed church, Broadway and Sixty-eighth street." Miss Krymer resides in Brooklyn and is a cousin of Miss Etta Krymer, of East Fifth street, this city. She has many friends in Plainfield who will congratulate her on the approaching happy event.

Afternoon Sessions for Grand Jury.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 5—The Grand Jury, for the first time in many years, will hold its sessions this term in the afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Heretofore the sessions have been from 9 to 12 a. m. A juryman who wanted the change made a quiet caucus among the members, and then called for a vote, which resulted 12 to 11 in favor of changing the meeting hours to the afternoon.

To Consider Lodge Consolidation.

The grand officers of the Knights of Honor will meet with Senate Lodge, of this city, tonight to consider the project of consolidating Montanigue Lodge, of Somerville, with the lodge of this city. As the business is very important it is requested that every member of the order attend the meeting.

Business in the Morning.

The Plainfield Relief Association will hold its annual meeting in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. All those interested in the work of the association are cordially invited to be present.

Preparing for the Campaign.

The executive committee of the Union county Democracy met at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon and transacted business relative to the fall campaign.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by L. W. Randolph, druggist. Guaranteed.

WOULD MAKE A MONOPOLY.

Because Old Gas Company Would Reduce Rates New Company Should Not Be Crushed Out.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—The application of the People's Gas Company for a franchise has brought forth the suggestion that if the old gas company should agree to reduce their gas to $1 a thousand cubic feet, that it would be useless to grant a franchise to the new company. I submit that this thought would be most absurd and unfair. There is scarce a business man in the city in whatever trade, that would not agree to sell his goods and wares at a margin of one per cent. or less—if they might be assured that every other store in like line would be closed, thus shutting off all competition.

Such action is too narrow, and such a policy would be granting special privilege to one or a few, which is detested by every true American. This last suggestion is but in line with what the People's Company expected, and what the public may hear of from time to time. It is any thing or plan to defeat competition.

TO FIX DATE FOR G O P. PRIMARIES

County Committee Meets Tonight in Elizabeth.

LOTS OF QUIET WORK DONE.

INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS MAY BE EXPECTED SOON.

It is Said That the Plainfield Delegates May Be Divided on County Clerkship Nomination—Difference of Opinion Regarding Coriell's Chances for the Shrievalty Nomination.

It's getting near the time for the G. O. P. primaries through Union county to elect delegates to the county convention. Consequently the contest for the various nominations begins to grow. Tonight the Republican county executive committee will act and set the date for the primaries and the convention. The allotment of the delegates will also be made

There hasn't been much shouting done in the political arena during the past week. But there has been a heap of quiet work that is expected to have much influence on the final results of the campaign. The cold weather has caused the politicians to bestir themselves in all parts of the county.

There has been a subdued but powerful movement on foot in Plainfield for the advancement of the rival candidacies of William Howard and George Squier. Then the friends of Sheriff William T. Kirk, of this city, have advanced his name. The result is that there is every apparent likelihood of the Plainfield delegation being divided regarding its choice for the County Clerk's nomination. Support has been promised by some of the local leaders for Howard and others are pledged for Squier. If the pledges are all kept, then Plainfield will distribute its vote for the nomination.

B. Frank Coriell, of this city, has been mentioned for the shrievalty nomination. Regarding his chances there is a most remarkable difference of opinion on the part of local G. O. P. men. One Third Ward man says Coriell will never get a vote at the convention while a Fourth Ward worker says there is little doubt but that he will have the united support of the Plainfield delegation. It is therefore easy to see that Coriell is not going to find it all smooth sailing. The opposition, some of it at least, can pretty closely be traced to the advocates of Bob Houston, of the 'Port, who has been promised the nomination three times without getting it. Some Plainfielders agreed to support him this year when Kirk was nominated three years ago. It may be that this faction will try to link the names of Houston and Kirk as the nominees for sheriff and county clerk.

The next week or two is bound to bring some interesting developments. So far, the booms have not openly been worked together. But the approach of the primaries promises action.

This evening the county committee will meet at Elizabeth and decide on the date for the primaries and also on the number of delegates for each place in the county. There is little prospect of any chance in Plainfield's apportionment. The primaries will probably be held in two or three weeks. The convention will follow about a week after the primaries.

TO MAKE NEW VOTERS.

G. O P to Chaperone Forty Foreigners to Elizabeth for Naturalization Purposes.

A batch of some forty Plainfielders, who came here from various other countries, are to be turned into good citizens of the United States tonight. Judge Vail will take the final affidavits and pass on the naturalization papers. The Plainfielders will leave the North Avenue station on the 7:37 train this evening under the chaperonage of the committee on naturalization of the Republican city executive committee, of which William Newcorn is chairman.

Violinist of Ability.

Prof. George Spencer, a violinist of fine ability, entertained a private party at the piano parlors of Vanderbeek & Sattel last night. Prof. Spencer is a master of the violin and rendered a programme that was charming to the musical circle that surrounded him last evening. At present he resides in New York, but it is probable that he will move his family and take up his residence in this city.

LODGES CONSOLIDATED.

Members of Knights of Honor in This City and Somerville Under One Head Now.

The consolidation of Senate Lodge, of this city, and Mantanique Lodge, of Somerville, Knights of Honor, was effected at a joint meeting of the members of both lodges held in this city last night.

The meeting was also attended by Past Grand Dictator Charles Mayhew, of Newark; Grand Reporter J. M. Mayhew, of Newark, and Grand Dictator J.W. Pearsall, of Ridgewood, and staff. The consolidation of the two lodges was sanctioned by the grand officers. Mantanique Lodge goes out of existence and the members become attached to Senate Lodge, this arrangement being highly satisfactory to all.

The consolidated membership now gives Senate Lodge 68 members and makes it one of the strongest lodges of the order in New Jersey.

At the meeting last night two propositions for membership were also received.

LAW MAY BE INVOKED.

BICYCLE RACERS AT SCOTCH PLAINS CAN BE PUT IN JAIL.

Activity of the Citizens' League Rewarded by Finding a Section of a State Law That Puts Them in the Advantage.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 6—The Rev. Gideon M. Shott, pastor of the Baptist church at this place and president of the Law and Order League, is nothing if not presistent. He is using his best endeavors to point out to the authorities of the borough how best the laws may be enforced.

Since the road races have been run in this place, as Mr. Shott claims clearly in violating of the borough ordinance against racing in the streets, efforts have been made by Mr. Shott and the league to prevent the alleged violations.

It has previously been given out that there was no law by which a fine could be collected in the event of one being imposed by a justice of the peace. Recent search of the statues by counsel for the League have resulted in throwing some light on this question, which will be a surprise to many people.

Counsel for the league has dug up the following. It is section 90, of chapter 237 of the laws of 1898. It says:

"When on any indictment, judgment shall be given in any of the courts of this state for fine or imprisonment and costs, or fine without costs or costs without fine or imprisonment, it shall be lawful to place the defendent against whom such a judgment shall be rendered at labor in any county jail or county penitentiary until such fine and costs, or fine or costs, are paid by the proceeds of such labor or otherwise."

With this back up for the league it is possible that efforts may be made tomorrow to stay the 16-mile road race, which is advertised to be pulled off by W. S. Emery.

Mr. Shott told a Daily Press reporter that personally he should not interfere with the race. If anything was done it would be done by some member of the league acting by authority of that organization.

The borough ordinance strictly prohibits riding a bicycle through the streets at a speed greater than 12 miles an hour.

MRS. BOURNE RE-ELECTED.

Newark Woman Again Chosen President of New Jersey W. C. T. U. at the Annual Convention.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Atlantic City, Oct. 6—The following officers were elected at yesterday's session of the New Jersey Woman's Christian Temperance Union:

President, Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. H. Demarest, of Closter; recording secretary, Miss E. H. Elfreth, of Haddonfield; treasurer, Mrs. H L. Caminade, of Trenton.

It was decided to hold the next convention at New Brunswick.

The subject that created the most interest during the sessions Wednesday was the amendment to the constitution offered last year regarding a change in the division of the per capita tax of thirty cents to defray the expenses of the State and National bodies. A present the State receives two-thirds of the total amount and the National one-third. The amendment was that the county division should also be included in the distribution of the money and that each receive a third The amendment was lost by a close vote.

SOMERSET GRAND JURY FINISHES ITS WORK.

Twelve Indictments, Besides Those for Murder, Found.

TRIAL DAY NEXT TUESDAY.

SEVERAL PRISONERS WERE AT ONCE ARRAIGNED IN COURT.

Chief Justice Announces a New Plan of Procedure, Commencing at the December Term, When No Jury Cases Will be Moved on the First Day of the Term—Lawyers May Argue, Though.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 6.—The Somerset Grand Jury for the October term of the Supreme court has finished considering all the cases brought before it by Prosecutor Dungan. The result is that twelve indictments, besides the ones for murder previously reported, have been found. The jurors were thanked by the court and then discharged from duty. The following cases were at once arraigned:

Daniel Burns, stealing clothing valued at $145 from the house of John Palen, at Bound Brook, where he boarded, pleaded guilty.

Frank Gibbon, charged with the same offense as above, pleaded not guilty.

John Kline, assault and battery on Etta Kline, not guilty.

Robert Gillespie, stealing $339 from Eliza McFarlane, at Basking Ridge, guilty of receiving. This money was taken from a trunk.

Fred Meyer, stealing chickens from John L. Suydam, in Hillsborough township, not guilty.

Trials were set down for Tuesday.

The Chief Justice said some courts had adopted the plan of not calling jury cases on the first day of the term. With the present plan everyone has to have witnesses, etc., on hand, which incurs more expense than if they are summoned on the day it is known the case will be tred. At the next term, in December, no jury cases will be moved. The list will be gone over and any arguments, etc., the lawyers will have to make will be heard. This will also give the lawyers an opportunity for a meeting, as it is only on the first day that they have a chance to get together.

A YOUTHFUL ROBBER.

Employed in a Westfield Store and Was Caught by a Fellow clerk in the Act.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, October 6—John MacIntire, fifteen years of age, was arrested Wednesday evening and taken before Justice of the Peace Toucey, charged with stealing goods from the store of F. B. Turrill, on Broad street. The boy has been working in the grocery store for several months, and for a long while money and groceries have disappeared from the place. Monday evening another clerk placed saw dust on the floor of the store, and the next morning there were tracks of a boy in dust. Wednesday night the clerk made it appear as though he was going to Elizabeth, but instead he remained in the store, and he had only been there for a short time when he heard someone coming down the stairs which lead to the housefurnishing department. Although it was dark in the store he could see that it was MacIntire, and the latter went all about the store and then started upstairs again with a bundle. The clerk stopped him and took him to Constable Chamberlain who locked him up. Justice Toucey held him under $250 bail, and as he could not furnish that sum he was taken to the county jail yesterday morning. The boy gained an entrance to the building by going into the stable and then through a window, which he had left open, into the store.

An Appreciated Improvement.

With every heavy rain the people in the business part of the city give thanks to the Council for one good act, that of installing the Park avenue storm sewer. This means of carrying off the surface water is one of the greatest blessings that ever befell Plainfield, and there should be be more improvements of such a character.

MISS ETHEL HOLMES BRIDE FOR A PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

The Nuptial Knot Celebrated at the Home of Dr. Frank Clawson Last Night—To Live in Fitchburg, Mass.

The handsome residence of Dr. and Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, at 672 West Seventh street, was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony last evening at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Ethel, daughter of Mrs. Augustus D. Holmes, of this city, and Frederick Carleton Nichols, of Fitchburg, Mass., were made husband and wife. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent avenue church, in the presence of about 100 of the relatives and friends.

The happy couple stood before an improvised altar in the music room, which had been beautifully decorated with laurel and cut flowers.

The bride's gown was one of white liberty satin, trimmed with point lace. She wore the customary veil and carried bride roses.

Miss Helen A. Hasbrouck, of Brooklyn, was the bridesmaid. She was dressed in a costume of pink satin crepon

The flower girl was Little Miss Elizabeth Faxon, of Fitchburg, Mass., a niece of the bride. She was dressed in white lace and carried a basket of flowers.

Albert G. Smith, of Dover, N. H., was best man. The ushers were Leonard Nichols, of Providence, R. I., a brother of the groom, and Alfred E. Holmes, of this city, a brother of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, the Hon. E. Wood Perry, of New Orleans, La.

Music was supplied by an orchestra concealed behind palms in the hallway.

After the ceremony and congratulations a wedding supper was enjoyed. Then Mr. and Mrs. Nichols left on a short Southern tour and will be absent about two weeks. Upon their return they will reside at 46 Arlington street, Fitchburg, Mass. They will be "at home" at the above number after Nov. 15th.

Many beautiful and costly presents were received by the newly wedded couple as tokens of the esteem in which they are held.

Mr. Nichols is a valuable employe of the Fitchburg Savings bank and is a popular and well-known resident of that city.

The bride is one of Plainfield's accomplished young women and has hosts of friends who will extend their hearty congratulations.

BIG TRUST IS COMING.

ORGAN TRUST FACTORY LIKELY TO LOCATE AT GARWOOD.

Will Employ 700 People When Plant is in Full Operation—Consolidated Factories to Be Moved There Soon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 6—Although negotiations have not yet been formally completed, it is rumored, and with every appearance of truth, that the Organ Trust, known as the Aeolian Company, will establish its factories at Garwood. The trust, which is composed of the Aeolian Company, with a factory at Meriden, Conn., the Vocalion Company, with a factory at Worcester, Mass., and the Votey Company, with a factory at Detroit, Mich., has decided to transfer all these factories to one place and establish a single plant. The officials of the company have been considering a number of sites but gave them up and are looking only at Garwood.

The factories would be moved one at a time so as not to seriously interfere with the output, and would be all consolidated within a year. The Meriden factory would first be transferred. It would employ 150 skilled workmen. When the three factories are established they will give employment to 450 skilled workmen and 200 laborers.

With such an industry started at Garwood there would be a boom that would be felt here and in all the surrounding towns. It would take many new dwellings to care for all the new families that would follow the advent of the organ factories.

HOSTLER MISSING WITH A $700 RIG.

A Valuable Horse Stolen From David C. Smalley.

TAKEN DURING THE NIGHT.

ARTHUR RANDALL, AN EMPLOYE THE SUSPECTED ONE.

Judge Coddington Saw the Horse and Rig on East Second Street at Midnight and Driver Tried to Shield His Face—The Outfit Worth $700—Police Asked to Look for the Thief.

David G. Smalley, the North avenue butcher, who lives on East Front street, is minus his valuable trotter, "Ned Davis," a new pneumatic road wagon and an expensive harness. Between 10:30 o'clock last night and this morning the rig was stolen from Mr. Smalley's barn. He has every reason to suppose and believe that it was taken by a man employed by him. This man is known as Arthur Randall, and is missing.

What substantiates Mr. Smalley's belief in this direction is the word of William A. Coddington, of East Second street, who informed Mr. Smalley this morning that he saw the rig soon after 12 o'clock last night passing along East Second street in front of W. A. Woodruff's house. Mr. Coddington recognized the rig and thought that Mayor Newton B. Smalley was driving. He hailed the driver, but there was no response, and the rig passed on. The man in the wagon, Mr. Coddington says, wore a brown coat similar to a mackintosh, and he seemed to be trying to hide his face.

Leonard Smith, of the borough, claims he saw the rig a little later going through Duer street toward the mountain at a high rate of speed.

The rig is valued at $700. The horse is a bright bay, about fifteen hands high. He has no markings on the body, but on his face there are a few gray hairs. Anyone who has ever seen the horse would immediately recognize him anywhere. The wagon is painted a bright red and was made by J. P. Homan, of Somerset street. There is also missing horse, blankets, boots for the horse and a few other things.

The man who is supposed to have taken the rig came to Plainfield about two months ago and wanted work. In some way he became acquainted with Mr. Smalley. He has on several occasions acted stubborn about matters, and Mr. Smalley's friends learned to regard the man with suspicion. He is about 35 years of age and of medium height.

Mr Smalley telephoned this morning to all the principal places about New Jersey and to the Pinkerton agency New York, and he feels sure that he will recover his rig in a short time. He does not believe the man can go very far with it without being detected and arrested.

Included among the things taken was a jockey suit complete, the color of which is blue. It is barely possible that the man may put this suit on and claim that he is returning from some fair. Mayor Smalley met two men from Allentown, recently, and they informed him that David Smalley's man, who gave the name of Randall, had traveled under another name when at Allentown. The men claimed to know the man quite well.

CHRISTIAN WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. T. R. Crosley Passed Into the Sleep This Morning Which Knows no Awakening.

In the death of Mrs. Crosley, wife of Justice Thomas R. Crosley, of Duer street, which occurred this morning about 6 o'clock, the borough has lost a respected resident, and the First M. E. church, of which she was a member, has lost an exemplary Christian woman. She was an earnest worker in all departments of church work. She had been ill about a year, and during the past summer her condition was very critical. Her trouble was a stomach affection and during the past few weeks she suffered excruciating pain. This morning she passed into a sleep from which she did not awake.

She leaves a husband, Thomas R. Crosley, and daughter, Mrs. Scudder, wife of Rev. Charles E. Scudder, who has a charge at Newark.

To Adopt Pale Faces.

A meeting of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will be held this evening. Three candidates will be adopted. The report of the anniversary committee will be heard.

An Interesting Topic.

The subject of the meeting in the Seventh-day Baptist church tonight, "Some account of Sabbath keeping Baptists who are not Seventh-day Baptists."

REPLEVIN CASES HEARD.

Tried Before Judge Atwater in Elizabeth District Court—Constable Mattox a Defendant.

The replevin cases which were brought in the Elizabeth District Court, last summer, by Katie Tietz, of Dog Corners, against Ernest C. Kieb and Constable Mattox, were tried before Judge Atwater, at Elizabeth, yesterday

Mr. Kieb had secured a judgment against Mr. Tietz, in Judge Jones' court, and the constable had levied on the property at Dog Corners to satisfy the judgment. Mrs. Tietz claimed the property and brought the replevin suits as a consequence of the constable's attempts to get possession. The trial of the cases occupied the attention of the Court the entire day.

McClure & Meehan represented Mrs. Tietz. Counsellor W. S. Angleman appeared for Mr. Kieb and the constable, and succeeded in non-suiting the plaintiff in Mr. Kieb's case. In the case against the constable Judge Atwater reserved his decision and asked the counsel to submit briefs on the legal points involved.

MIDDLESEX CANDIDATES

REPUBLICANS PLACE THEIR COUNTY TICKET IN THE FIELD.

Convention Appeared to be Harmonious, But Some Persons Predict a Factional Fight—The Make-up of the Ticket.

Contrary to all expectations the Middlesex County Republican Convention, which met at New Brunswick yesterday and named the county ticket, was, so far as appearances go, a harmonious affair, but while there was nothing to disturb the placidity of the proceedings, some persons profess to believe that the knives of the various factions in the Republican party were only sheathed temporarily and ere long the factional bickerings which have disturbed the party to such an extent as to attract the attention of the State leaders, will again break out with more virulence than ever.

These were the nominations: For Sheriff, Isaiah D. Barclay, of Cranbury; for County Clerk, John H. Conger, of New Brunswick; for Assembly, Adrain Lyons, of Perth Amboy; H. Raymond Groves, of New Brunswick; Peter H. Stults, of South Amboy; for Coroners, Dr. A. L. Smith, of New Brunswick, and Dr. J. L. Suydam, of Jamesburg.

Now that Mr. Conger has been named there is some fears that he may be defeated by his own party. Theodore Strong, son of Judge Woodbridge Strong, the presiding Republican Judge in Middlesex county is the leader of a faction in New Brunswick. He has a grievance of several years' standing with Conger, and all along has been opposed to his being renominated.

J. B Cleaver, of Bound Brook, during the recess to examine the credentials, delivered one of his characteristic speeches, lauding the Republican party, the present administration, and dwelling upon the necessity for organization if the Republicans hoped to win in Middlesex county. He was greeted with much applause

WENT CRAZY IN GERMANY.

Former Resident of Westfield Has Left His Family at Home Destitute.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 6—Word has been received at this place by letter to George Peek, secretary of Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, to the effect that August Stamm, a former resident of Westfield and a member of Fireside Council, is now in a lunatic asylum in Cassel, Germany. He has been in restraint since May last, at which time his mind became unbalanced.

August Stamm was well-known at this place, where he resided for several years. He has a wife and five children, who are without the necessary means to live. The letter to Mr. Peek is written as an appeal for assistance. Stamm was an active member of the lodge, and it is likely a special meeting will be called in aid of his family.

The Social Problem.

Prof. Walter Wyckoff, of Princeton University, will deliver the next of the lectures to the Monday Afternoon Club in All Souls church, Monday afternoon, October 16th. His subject will be "The Social Problem." Prof. Wyckoff has made a special study of the social problem in the United States and spent several months working and living among the laboring class to be able to see the situation from their point of view.

—Mrs. L. J. Denton, the West Front street florist, had charge of the decorations last evening at the Holmes-Nichols wedding and they were the admiration of all.

TRIED TO CAPTURE COUNTY CONVENTION.

Senator Reed Balked His Rival From Somerville.

MR. THOMPSON'S SCHEME.

HE WANTED TO CHANGE BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

Attempted to Pass Measure Through County Committee—It Would Give Thompson a Majority in Covention—Senator Reed Objected—Committee Adjourned Before it Could be Passed.

First blood was drawn in the bitter contest for the Republican leadership of Somerset county when the county executive committee of the G. O. P. met at Somerville Wednesday afternoon. Chancery Clerk Lewis A. Thompson and his following from Bridgewater township made an attempt to capture the coming county convention by changing the basis of representation so as to give Bridgewater and the Thompson townships a majority of the delegates. They failed through the opposition of Senator Charles A. Reed and his friends.

The county committee was called to fix the date for the primaries and the county convention, and to issue the regular call. It was expected, however, that the Thompson and Reed factions would test their strength. It was the first opportunity to do so this season. Chancery Clerk Thompson and three other Bridgewater men were present. North Plainfield's representation consisted of Senaror Reed, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Charles P. Sebring. There were also present three committeemen from Franklin township, one from Warren and one from Hillsboro.

The choice of the day for the primaries will be held the evening of Friday, October 13th. In the rest of the county they will be held the next Saturday, October 14th, at three o'clock p. m. The convention will be held at Somervile, Wednesday morning, October 18th, at 10 o'clock.

Then Mr. Thompson proposed that the county committee should change the basis of representation at the convention, and instead of having five delegates from each township, have two delegates from each polling district. Senator Reed immediately objected on the ground that the convention and not the county committee was the supreme governing body in Somerset, and should therefore have the say regarding any change in the method of representation. Mr. Thompson disagreed, and said that the county committee had the power and was the proper body to act. He was supported by the Bridgewater delegation.

Mr. Thompson's proposition, while it sounded simple enough, was intended so as to rearrange the distribution of delegates as to give the Thompson faction an easy majority in the convention. There are nine townships in Somerset county, and, according to the present method, each township is allowed five delegates in the convention. That makes a total of forty five delegates at the convention. Bridgewater, which is Thompson's stronghold, has now the same number of delegates as North Plainfield, where Reed is the strongest. Thompson's proposition was that each polling district should have two delegates at the convention. There are seven polling places in Bridgewater and only three in North Plainfield. In the entire county there are twenty-two. That would give Bridgewater fourteen out of forty-four delegates which, with the other townships where Thompson is strong, would give him control of the convention.

On several previous occasions attempts have been made by the Thompson faction to secure adoption of that plan at the county conventions. The fact, however, that five out of nine townships would have the number of their delegates decreased while Bridgewater was the only one that would gain anything by the change, has always sufficed to defeat the measure when placed before the conventions.

This time the Thompsonites tried to get the measure through the county committee. The discussion of the subject was quite lively, both Senator Reed and Chancery Clerk Thompson taking part. The question was never put to vote, however. In the midst of the discussion, the committeeman from Warren jumped up and moved to adjourn. The motion was carried by a small majority and the basis of representation remained unchanged.

There have been all sorts of rumors afloat about the contest for the leadership of Somerset. It has been said that Senator Reed had received orders

THE BOERS INVADE NATAL.

They Occupy Laing's Nek and Hold Mountains Southwest of Volksrust.

FORT TO BE ABANDONED

Remaining Inhabitants of Newcastle Decide Not to Attempt to Defend the Place.

Boers Follow the Same Course Pursued By Transvaal Troops in Last War—Orange Free State Calls Out Her Reserve Volunteers For Immediate Service.

London, Oct. 6.—The Telegraph in a second edition prints a despatch from Newcastle, Natal, to the effect that the Boer advance on Natal has begun, and that Majuba Hill, at the entrance of Laing's Nek Pass, will be occupied today. The despatch also says that the British have abandoned Charlestown, the first Natal town at Laing's Nek, and have prepared to evacuate Newcastle, fifty miles to the south. All of Natal as far south as Glencoe will be abandoned by the British.

This withdrawal of British troops from the apex of Natal is doubtless to prevent their being cut off from the rear by incursions of Free State and Transvaal troops from the west and east.

Commander-in-Chief Joubert has a force of 15,000 effective men at Volksrust, together with a force of Kaffirs. The nearest British troops to the border are at Ladysmith.

Pretoria, Oct. 6.—F. W. Reitz, the Transvaal Secretary of State, in the course of an interview, given to a newspaper representative, said:

"The Transvaal Government is now awaiting the next imperial dispatch, which ought to contain the final proposals of Great Britain. The British agent, Conygham Greene, has informed me that the dispatch is in course of preparation, but that some days will elapse before it will be ready.

"In the meantime the Transvaal forces are mobilizing and going to the frontier. The Government, however, has issued strict instruction to commandants and all other military officers on no account to violate British territory."

Several boxes of bar gold, which were lodged at the National Bank of the South African Republic, have been commandeered by the Transvaal Government, who gave the companies full receipts. The German Group offered no objection provided sufficient funds were left to pay working expenses.

The storekeepers are barricading their stores.

London, Oct. 6.—The remaining inhabitants of Newcastle have decided not to attempt to defend the place. The military authorities have ordered the abandonment of the fort, and Gen. Symons, is prepared to evacuate the town in twenty-four hours.

A despatch to the Times from Pietermaritzburg says: "There is no mention of the statement that the Boers have crossed the border. It is believed to be without foundation."

The Orange Free State has called out the volunteer reserves for immediate service. They have commanded English residents to defend the Basutoland border. A number of murders and robberies are reported from the Raad.

Pretoria, Oct. 6.—The bullion seized by the Transvaal Government amounts to £80,000.

State's Secretary Reitz denies any knowledge of the visit to Pretoria of Mr. Hofmyer, the Afrikander leader, and Prime Minister Schreiner of Cape Colony.

Laing's Nek is the principal pass through the chain of Mountains which at that point marks the boundary between Transvaal territory and the British colony of Natal. Like Majuba Hill, Laing's Nek is in British territory.

Cape Town, Oct. 6.—The Boers who are occupying Laing's Nek followed the exact course the Transvaal troops took in the last war. This move gives them practical control of the whole of that side of Natal. If the British troops cannot force Laing's Nek they must make a wider detour to Wakkerstroom and attack the Boers in the rear.

Says Carter is Guilty.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The decision of the Attorney-General in the case of Captain Oberlin M. Carter, just made public, says that while Carter's pay as Captain amounted to $252 a month, his living expenses increased in a few years from $6,000 to $29,000 a year. It is related that he made heavy cash deposits in New York banks and bought heavily of stocks, bonds, etc. The Attorney-General holds that there is not the slightest doubt that Carter is guilty.

Son Succeeds His Father.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 6.—An important meeting of the stockholders of the Central Iron and Steel Company was held here to fill vacancies caused by the deaths, in September, of President Charles L. Bailey and General Superintendent John N. Binnix. The late president's son, Edward Bailey, president of the First National Bank, was chosen president; George Bentley general superintendent, and James B. Bailey purchasing agent.

Robbers Blow Up an Iowa Bank.

Rippey, Ia., Oct. 6.—The local bank here was wrecked with dynamite and robbed of $5,000. The robbers stood off the crowd that had gathered around the bank on hearing the explosion, threw their booty into a bag, jumped into a wagon and escaped. A big crowd is in pursuit.

To Quash Dreyfus Verdict.

London, Oct. 6.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "I learn that Germany is about to hand over documents which will lead to the quashing of the Dreyfus verdict."

STEAMSHIP IN FLAMES.

The Leona of the Mallory Line is Again in Hard Luck.

New York, Oct. 6.—The steamer Leona, one of the most unlucky ships of the Mallory Line, with a record of thirteen killed by fire on one of her voyages, was found afire at her pier, foot of Fulton street, East River. Her cargo of cotton had become ignited, and all the efforts of her crew to retard the flames proved unavailing.

When it was seen that the fire was gaining on the crew two alarms were turned in from a box near the pier, and the city's engines summoned to save the ship.

How long the cotton had been afire was not known. It was said that in all probability the fire had smouldered for several hours before detection.

All of the passengers were got off the Leona before the alarms were turned in, and few of them knew that there was fire aboard until the ship's hatches were loosened and lifted. Then a great cloud of smoke broke from the Leona's forward hold, where the cotton had been stored. The fire had made great headway and nearly all of the bales there were ablaze.

There was an immense amount of water poured into the hold of the burning ship by the engines and the fire tug which caused her to list to port and commence to settle. All efforts to keep the Leona afloat were unavailing and the vessel went down with several members of the crew working between decks trying to smother the flames. They floated out of the hatches and swam to the surface outside the fireboat New Yorker. It is believed that all saved their lives.

The steamship now lies with a list of fifty degrees to port, with her hull submerged. The vessel is damaged to the extent of many thousands of dollars and her cargo is practically ruined.

Throngs Going to Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Judging from the crowds already pouring into the city from points outside a radius of two hundred miles, it seems that railway officials will get a much heavier fall festival traffic than they expected. It is estimated that 200,000 persons will arrive by Sunday.

The decorations and arrangements for the celebration are about completed, and while not on so extensive a scale as last year's were, the decorations are more finished and artistic. Almost everything has been concentrated in the "The Court of Honor." Other handsome didsplays are made in various parts of the city by well-known firms. The Tribune has a unique arrangement in the front part of a battleship projecting over the corner of its building at Dearborn and Madison streets. The weather is perfect and the city in gala attire.

What Anti-Trust Law Does.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—Chairman Knapp, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in testifying before the special commission which is investigating the conditions of commerce, expressed the opinion that the Anti-Pooling Law and the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, which were aimed against trusts and pooling arrangements which might be injurious to small business concerns, instead of having the effect desired produced exactly opposite results. He is of the opinion that harm instead of good has resulted from these laws, and their repeal will probably be recommended.

Christian Endeavorers Wrecked.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Oct. 6.—A special Delaware & Hudson excursion train, containing Christian Endeavor State Convention delegates, en route from the session in Saratoga to Au Sable Chasm for a day's pleasure trip, ran into an extra freight train in front of the station in Putnam. Both engines left the track. Many of the excursionists were thrown from their seats and injured. It is reported that several are seriously hurt. The excursionists abandoned the trip.

Death of D. E. Converse.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—Word has been received here of the death in Spartanburg, S. C., of D. E. Converse, founder of the Converse College at this place and one of the wealthiest men in the state. Mr. Converse, who came from New York about twenty-five years ago, was the president of five cotton mills at the time of his death. He was seventy-two years old and a man of great charity, his donations to Converse College alone amounting to over $750,000.

Burglars Make Good Haul.

Lambertville, N. J., Oct. 6.—The home of Capt. R. B. Reading was entered by robbers, who secured $400 in money, a gold watch, a gold headed cane and a diamond pin from Mr. Reading; $100 in gold from his daughter and a diamond pin from his wife. Entrance was made through a rear window. There is no clew to the robbers. Reading is one of the widest known politicians in the state.

Incendiaries at Work in Delaware.

Laurel, Del., Oct. 6.—While this town is all excitement and State Detective McVey is running down clues that will probably land four behind prison bars for burning Moore Village, Brooklyn, another suburb of Laurel, was fired. Before the flames could be subdued ten buildings, including the residence and furniture of Horace Moore and T. A. Olliphant and large barns and outbuildings of Senator Moore, were consumed.

Child Scalded to Death.

Stroudsburg, Pa. Oct. 6.—Falling into a boiler of scalding water, 5-year-old Daisy Mosteller, was scalded to death. Mrs. Mosteller, the mother of the child, had been doing the family washing and had placed a wash boiler filled with boiling water in the rear doorway. Daisy in passing out into the yard slipped as she passed the boiler and fell in.

Copper Wire Thieves at Work.

Mt. Holly, N. J., Oct. 6.—Thieves stole 1,200 feet of heavy copper wire from the trolley line between here and Burlington. It is thought the thieves came from the Pennsylvania side of the river, as a heavily laden rowboat was seen pulling away from Burlington just before daylight and headed for the opposite shore.

COULDN'T FINISH IN TIME

Second Event Between the Columbia and Shamrock Declared "No Race."

SHAMROCK IN THE LEAD.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Green Flyer Ahead of Columbia When Race Was Called Off.

American Yacht Lead Shortly After the Start But Failed to Hold Her Advantage—The Result Another Sad Disappointment to the Multitude of Spectators.

New York, Oct. 6.—Again the Columbia and Shamrock have sailed over the thirty-mile course and again the spectators and all others who take an interest in yachting have been disappointed by the inability of the racers to cross the finish line within the time limit. In the second, the same as in the first contest the yachts have proven that they are very nearly on an equal footing so far as sailing capacity is concerned and that the picking of a winner in advance will be a decidedly hard task to accomplish.

For full five hours the two yachts dawdled between the Sandy Hook Lightship and the fifteen-mile stakeboat, unable to even go over half the course in the time alloted for the full thirty miles.

They started in a fairly good breeze, blowing perhaps eight miles an hour, with shamrock in the lead by 32 seconds. The course was south southeast, straight out to sea. Both yachts had mainsails, club topsails, jibs, staysails and balloon jib topsails set, and it was a pretty contest for half an hour.

In that time Columbia had overcome the lead which Shamrock had and had forged ahead.

Then the wind hauled to the westward, the spinnakers were taken in and the yachts began to drift. For awhile the Columbia was the better at this game and obtained a lead that would have given her the race had a breeze sprung up. But the Shamrock then took her turn at the drifting game, and at one time both yachts drifted idly side by side.

Spinnakers were set again, later on, because a slight breeze from north-northwest came down the course and gave all the hope that a race would be had.

But it was in vain. The sails were flapping idly by the masts within ten minutes and the drift began again. The yachts were at one time actually headed in opposite directions, so little wind was there.

As 4 o'clock approached it became a certainty that if a gale sprung up from the eastward the yachts could not finish in time, so the excursion boats regretfully turned their prows homeward and the race became another in the series that began with a fluke.

When both yachts were within one mile of the outer stakeboat, the Shamrock having the weather berth, and, therefore, being in the lead, the judges' boat, the Corsair, hoisted the international code signal letter "R," meaning "race is off," and the contest had ended for the day. On many of the excursion boats it was thought that the Columbia was ahead, but this was a mistake.

When the signal was hoisted the yachts lowered their sails, passed lines to their tenders, and were at once towed to their moorings inside the Hook. The next attempt at a race will be on Saturday, when the yachts will again try to race on a windward and leeward course, 15 miles out and return.

Shipyards Are Busy.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Michigan shipyards are likely to have the busiest winter season in their history. Owing to the heavy demand for vessels, the intention of the American Shipbuilding Company to close the Bay City yards has been abandoned until after recent contracts for two vessels are filled. A part of the machinery and tools of the yards had been distributed to the Detroit yards of the trust before the present prospects of unwonted activity in ship building appeared. The new contracts were given by Eddie Brothers of Bay City, who in placing them stipulated that the vessels should be built in the Bay City yards. Each of the vessels is to be 435 feet long and to have a 50-foot beam. The contract price for the two vessels is $640,000.

Danning Finds His Valise.

Honolulu, Sept. 27, via Victoria, B. C., Oct. 6.—R. B. Danning, who left here August 30 on the steamship Australia, lost a valise containing nearly $50,000 in bank notes, bonds and sugar stock just after he arrived at the Occidental Hotel, in San Francisco. The valise was shipped by mistake to the Nippin Maru as part of the personal effects of Purser Piver. Mr. Piver discovered the mistake before arriving here, and left the valise on the Pacific Mail wharf. It was found there among the uncalled for packages.

The Waikato is Safe.

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 6.—The disabled British steamship Vaikato, which sailed from London on May 4 for Lyttleton, New Zealand, and for a long time unheard of till spoken on Aug. 2, in latitude 39 south, longitude 39 east, with a broken shaft, is reported by the British steamship Ujina, which has arrived here from Calcutta, to be in tow of the British steamship Asloun, Capt. Barnet, from London Aug. 4, for Fremantle, and is expected to reach Fremantle by Oct. 7.

City Officials Threatened.

Burlington, N. J., Oct. 6.—A sensational feature in the case of Charles J. Mathis, lieutenant of police, who is on trial on charge of neglect of duty, is the receipt of threatening letters by the Police Committee and all the city officials who have any connection with the case. Most of the letters are in a masculine hand and they are filled with vile accusations and threats. Efforts are being made to trace their author.

THE SADIE WISEMAN CASE.

Gov. Voohrhees Refuses to Talk in Reference to Mrs. Eyler.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 6.—The announcement of the death of Sadie Wiseman in Paterson, after an operation for the removal of a kidney, was received with keen interest in the State Industrial School for Girls here, against the management of which she had in an ante-mortem statement made charges of extreme cruelty. Her statement was more severe than that made by any of the other inmates of the school. It was on these charges, when she first made them, that the State Charities Association endeavored to obtain the arrest of Mrs. Myrtle B. Eyler, the matron of the school, but the charges could not be used because they were outlawed.

Governor Voorhees, at the State House, said that he could not make any public statement in the absence of positive information. He said he was not familiar with the ante-mortem statement, and that he would not even discuss it unless he saw the document and had an interview with Dr. Rogers, who attended the girl. He was subsequently handed the ante-mortem statement, which was published in the papers. When he read it he said that no statement of Sadie Wiseman's was ever given to him among the affidavits that were submitted, so that he has really no official knowledge of her treatment in the school. The Governor pointed out that there were certain aspects of the Wiseman case that could not be discussed except by a physician. Mrs. Eyler is still in control of the State Industrial School, and an attempt to talk with her was frustrated by her husband, the Rev. Clarence E. Eyler, a former Lutheran minister. He would not say that she was ill, nor would he admit that he or his wife had knowledge of the death of Sadie Wiseman.

ABANDONED THEIR VESSEL

Schooner's Crew Rescued by Steamship Rhodesia.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 6.—The British steamship Rhodesia has arrived here from New Orleans. Aboard her are the crew of the schooner Carrie A. Lane, which has been missing for some time, and as is now learned, was lost at sea while bound up the coast from Apalachicola, Fla. Her crew were taken off by a lifeboat of the Rhodesia and all were saved. The men are on their way to Baltimore, where all have their homes.

Aboard the Lane were Capt. Frank Schofield, his wife and eight men. She was bound from Apalachicola to Noank, Conn., and sailed from the Florida port on Sept. 19, with a deck load of lumber. On Sunday, Sept. 30, she sprung a leak and settled rapidly from Sunday night until Tuesday, when the Rhodesia hove in sight. Those aboard the schooner stood on her after deckhouse without either food or water. Great difficulty was experienced by the boat of the Rhodesia, which for some time could not closely approach the Lane because of the high sea running. The schooner, when abandoned on Tuesday in latitude 32 degrees 48 minutes north, longitude 73 degrees west, was a helpless derelict.

Yellow Fever Under Control.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Capt. Merry, United States Minister to Costa Rica, in a letter just received at the State department from San Jose says that the yellow fever which prevailed at Alaguela is under control and no new cases are developing. There have been sixty cases and two deaths, nearly all among the poorer classes living without regard to sanitary conditions. The ports of Limon and Puntavenas are also at this time free from the disease. The medical experts assert that the yellow fever cannot become epidemic at over 3,000 feet above sea level when sanitary precautions are taken.

Another Wreck on Oxbow Curve.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., Oct. 6.—Oxbow Curve, on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, a few miles north of this city, is again the scene of a fatal wreck. An axle on a coal train broke and W. S. Miller, of Ashley, the middle brakeman, was ground to death. Thousands of dollars worth of rolling stock was destroyed. The unknown man taken from Tuesday's wreck has been identified as John Dineam, a Lehigh Valley Railroad brakeman, of Weatherly. He was on his way here to go out on his regular trip when killed.

Gum Chewing is Dangerous.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 6.—Miss Lettie, daughter of Daniel Stutsman, of Goshen, is suffering from a peculiar affection due to chewing gum. The young woman, who is a bright student in the high school, was an inveterate chewer of gum. A few days ago she noticed that the left side of her mouth was drawing up toward the ear. The trouble grew worse and a physician who was summoned pronounced it a case of paralysis of the muscles of the mouth due to continual mastication. Whether the affection will yield to treatment is still doubtful.

Western Corn Crop Moving East.

Omaha, Oct. 6.—The new corn crop has begun to move East. Daily now cars in large numbers pass through Omaha. Never in the history of the West has the corn crop begun to move so early. The farmers have been gathering corn for two weeks in the state. The crop matured earlier than usual because of the drought. They are getting 24 and 27 cents for the new corn, a big advance over previous seasons.

Aeronaut Dashed to Death.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 6.—Marza Townsend, an aeronaut, was instantly killed during a parachute jump. The balloon began to descend and, when 200 feet from the ground, Townsend's assistant fired a pistol, the signal for him to cut loose. He did so, but the distance to the ground was not sufficient to inflate the parachute.

Run Down By a Locomotive.

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 6.—Mrs. George Caffey, a well-known resident of Green Tree, was instantly killed by a locomotive in front of the station of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Paoli She was a well-known member of the Daughters of Liberty of that section.

PROGRESSIVE CURE.

Mrs. Williams: "How is it, Doctor, that you who always object so strongly to patent medicines, make an exception of Ripans Tabules? Aren't you rather inconsistent?"

Doctor Brown: "Not in the least, Mrs. Williams. Every disease manifests itself in several different stages, one after another. When any one is suffering from digestive disorder he usually imagines it is a very simple matter instead of a very complicated one, and makes the mistake of relying upon some single drug which only affects one stage of the complaint, leaving the others to take care of themselves or develop into something worse than the original trouble.

"An intelligent physician aims at a progresssive course of treatment to meet the different phases of a case, step by step, each with its appropriate remedy, and beats the disease at each successive point of attack, so that when the final symptoms are overcome, the disease is thoroughly routed. Physicians recommend Ripans Tabules because they are compounded upon this very principle of overcoming disease progressively.

"In nervous indigestion or costiveness the Tabules act successively upon the different organs involved and overcome each symptom in turn. Headache, sour stomach and nervous depression are relieved almost immediately. The bowels are affected more gradually but surely and thoroughly; and what is of more account, the relief and benefit to the entire system is permanent. That is what physicians call scientific cure. That is why I recommend Ripans Tabules."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores for FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

PARACHUTE FELL IN A TREE

Woman Balloonist Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 6.—One of the features at the Danbury Fair was a balloon ascension by Miss Laura Hasbrook, a young woman from Newark, Del. She made the ascension clinging to a trapeze, which swung from a parachute attached to the balloon.

She expected to cut the parachute from the balloon at the height of a thousand feet, but was unable to use her knife. She was carried to the height of a mile, and then the balloon drifted toward Danbury, two miles away, with the helpless woman appearing a mere speck to the observers.

As it passed over the city the balloon dropped a considerable distance, and half the population rushed into the streets, expecting to see the young woman fall. Men in wagons and on bicycles followed the balloon across the city. At Prospect street it collapsed at a height of five hundred feet, and fell rapidly, carrying the woman with it. Suddenly a gust of wind swept the balloon toward a tree. The parachute ropes caught in the branches, holding it fast. The woman clung to the ropes until she was rescued by means of ladders. Then she lost consciousness.

HOT CHASE AFTER WHALER

Revenue Cutter Bear Trying to Stop Illicit Liquor Traffic.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 6.—The revenue cutter Bear is having a lively time trying to stop the illicit liquor traffic between the whalers and the Alaskan natives. A letter received from Port Clarence tells of the exciting chase two of the whalers led the cutter.

The Bear arrived at Port Clarence about twelve hours after the suspected whalers, the Jeanette and the Grampus, left. The whalers separated as soon as they reached open water and the Bear decided to follow the Jeanette. The latter steamed straight out to sea ten or fifteen miles; and then, heading southward, circled back toward Port Clarence, hoping to elude the cutter. Just at dawn as the whaler was steaming toward the harbor, the Bear rounded a point and sighted the Jeanette. Lieutenant Jarvis had delayed his departure until daylight. Then began a long chase. The Jeanette made good time and the Bear did not overhaul her as rapidly as was expected. When the letter was posted neither the Bear nor the Jeanette had returned, and the result of the chase was not known.

Molineux Much Moved.

New York, Oct. 6.—Following a visit of his mother and wife, Roland Burnham Molineux is in a state of agitation almost bordering on frenzy. The mother and wife came heavily veiled. They held a long whispered conference with Molineux. Some deep excitement seemed to disturb each. In eager whispers, with vehement gestures, they discussed something. All three were deeply affected. What this subject was is a mystery. But it is supposed to be the cause of Molineux's present mental distress. After they left he paced up and down in his cell. His face was the picture of one in some dilemma of life and death. District Attorney Gardiner said that he hadd not yet decided whether Molineux will be tried in the Supreme Court or in the Court of General Sessions.

One Killed, Two Hurt.

New York, Oct. 6.—A big derrick at 100th street and Riverside Drive has fallen, instantly killing Pasquale Edoude, a laborer, and badly wounding two other men. It was the hour for reporting for work, and the three men were adjusting the gear of the big pile of timber, when, without warning, it collapsed. Edoude ran with the others as the cry of other laborers, who saw the structure tumbling, was heard. The heavy beams struck him on the head and body. He was lifeless when picked up. The other men are severely injured, and several fellow workmen had narrow escapes.

President's Western Trip.

Defiance, Ohio, Oct. 6.—As the Presidential train went farther westward through the State of Ohio the crowds at the stations grew larger. At Chicago junction a great number of school children were collected at the depot, waving flags and cheering for the President. At every station the crowd clamored loudly for a speech, but the President skillfully evaded these requests by bringing forward and introducing successively the members of the Cabinet, each of whom invariably was greeted with much applause.

Son-in-Law Charged With Murder.

Orange, N. J., Oct. 6.—Marcus L. Hennion, a young farmer of West Caldwell, has been arrested in this city charged with the murder of Nicholas W. Dobbins, who disappeared from home on the night of March 1, 1898, and whose skeleton was found under a heap of stones in a pasture lot near his former home on Monday. Hennion is a son-in-law of Dobbins's widow, and with his wife lived in the house with the murdered man.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 6.—The stock market opened weak, but rallied later, and closed dull but firm.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Closing prices for spot; Wheat 73⅝, corn 32, oats 23, pork 8.10, lard 5.37.

FILIPINOS FIRE A TOWN.

They Attack Paranique But Are Repulsed By Major Daggett's Forces.

THE FIRE EXTINGUISHED.

Several Buildings Destroyed Before Americans Succeed in Checking the Flames.

No Casualties Suffered Among the American Troops—More Transports Arrive at Manila—Admiral Dewey Said to Have Criticised General Otis' Management.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The first known result of the conference between Admiral Dewey and the President, is the order for the Brooklyn, the Machias and the Marietta to proceed to Manila to strengthen the American naval forces in Philippine waters.

It has been known in naval circles for some time that Admiral Dewey was not pleased with the comparatively insignificant part which has been assigned the navy since the troubles in the Philippines began and that he has been disposed to criticise Gen. Otis for neglecting to take advantage of the presence of sea forces. Words spoken by the admiral to other naval officers have been brought home and there has been a good deal of comment about the opportunities which naval men believe that Gen. Otis has let go by. Owing to the accessibility to the islands from the sea and to the peculiar formation of the coast of the island of Luzon, the navy has been in a position for effective service, but Gen. Otis has called upon it but few times.

Naval men have suspected for some time that Gen. Otis was inclined to resent the co-operation of the navy with the army, and it seems that Admiral Dewey has confirmed that opinion and impressed it on the administration. It may be expected that in the future despatches from Manila more can be said about the work of the navy in patrolling the island, in driving the enemy inland, and in performing services which will inspire fear among the natives and strengthen American prestige.

Admiral Dewey will not talk of his conversation with the President, nor will he intimate what advice he gave, but it is not at all likely that he advised the recall of Gen. Otis. It is believed he suggested that the general be relieved from some of the duties he is now performing, but President McKinley had that action under consideration.

It is understood that mutual confidence and approval has never obtained between Admiral Dewey and Gen. Otis. The admiral has been free to criticise the general at times when his expressions would not be given undue publicity, but no ill feeling has existed between the two officers beyond the rivalry of service which nearly always appears when the army and navy co-operate.

It is reported that as Admiral Dewey can now be consulted in matters relating to the Philippines, Gen. Otis's advice is not to be accepted so implicitly as heretofore.

Tried to Burn the Town.

Manila, Oct. 6.—The town of Paranaque was attacked by a force of Filipinos, and set on fire. Two companies of the 14th Infantry, under command of Major Daggett, repulsed the enemy. The Americans suffered no casualties. The fire was not extinguished until several buildings had been destroyed. At the time this despatch is sent everything is quiet.

Another Transport Arrives.

Manila, Oct. 6.—The transport Warren has arrived here with the recruits for the three skeleton regiments raised in the Philippines—Col. Bell's 36th Infantry, Col. Wallace's 37th Infantry and the 11th Cavalry commanded by Col. Lockett. Col. Moore of the 22d Regiment was in command of the recruits.

Dewey is Left Alone.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The absence of the President from Washington and the conclusion of the official festivities has left Admiral Dewey practically to himself. He started out and took quite a walk through the northwest section of the city, resting for a short time at the Metropolitan Club and later returning to the McLean residence.

Furniture Trust in Canada.

Montreal, Oct. 6.—At a meeting of the Canadian Export Lumber Company, held here recently, it was decided to form a combination of the principal furniture manufacturers in Canada. A factory, which is expected to turn out $5,000,000 worth of furniture annually, is to be built in this city. Most of the furniture is to be shipped to Great Britain.

Maxwell Land Grant Settled.

Trinidad, Col., Oct. 6.—The Maxwell land grant trouble has been settled through the efforts of State Senator Casimir. The settlers concede the title of land to the Maxwell Company, and the latter allows them to keep their homes on a liberal rental system and agrees to begin at once extensive public improvements.

Steamship Fernessia Disabled.

London, Oct. 6.—The Anchor Line steamship Furnessia, Capt. Baxter, from New York Sept. 23, for Glasgow, has passed Rathlin Island, having in tow the British steamship Hestia, Capt. Ferguson, from Glasgow Sept. 24, for Baltimore. The Hestia had lost her propeller and had a broken windlass.

Fire Destroys Furniture Factory.

South Ashburnham, Mass., Oct. 6. The large furniture factory of the Allen-Thompson-Whitney Company here was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at from $50,000 to $85,000 About 130 men are thrown out of employment.

A Rebate on Taxes.

The plaint of a correspondent in another column of today's Press in reference to the practice of other cities allowing a six per cent. rebate on tax bills that are promptly made, and the failure of the Common Council of this city to make any such provision, is very apt and pointed at this time of the year.

For years it has been the custom of the city government to borrow monies from the local banks, paying liberal interest, towards the close of the fiscal year, in order to carry the municipal expenses over in anticipation of the collection of taxes. Now, instead of borrowing the money from the banks it has been the practice of many cities—and even our little Canada-like friend across the brook, North Plainfield—to offer to taxpayers who would pay their bills in advance of the regular collection date, a rebate of six per cent. on the amount of tax bill. In this way the collection of the taxes is facilitated, the local government funds furnished ready for use in advance of the regular legal date, and the taxpayers' interest put paramount to those of private financial institutions.

We trust that some member of the Common Council will take up this matter and push it to an established fact in Plainfield, thus winning the plaudits of the taxpayers.

There is contemporaneous interest in Plainfield in the case of a Toronto restaurant keeper who was fined $1 for selling ice cream Sundays, notwithstanding the claim of the defense that the frozen mixture, being a food, might legally be sold on the Sabbath. It will be remembered that this same point was contested in the courts of New Jersey by the action of a local dealer who insisted that ice cream comes under the head of food, the sale of which cannot be prohibited for secular purposes. In the Canadian case, however, the magistrate informed the representative of the Lord's Day Alliance, which organization brought the charge, that a weak case had been made out, but that he would not like to dismiss it, as it would be important to have the question settled by the higher Courts.

The New York Journal of Commerce calls attention to the fact that so much of the increase of national bank note circulation has been based upon the deposit of lawful money to secure redemption does not increase the volume of the currency. Of the $7,933,178 of increased circulation during the past year $5,675,068 was based upon deposits of legal tenders. This leaves $2,258,110 as the actual increase for the year of national bank notes based upon the deposit of bonds in the Treasury—a rather insignificant contribution in answer to the sharp existing demand for currency.—Philadelphia Record.

The Chicago Times-Herald, discussing the abuses of the postal system, enumerates the franing privilege as one, and says further: "The Government has been cheated out of millions of dollars of revenue by the abuses of the second-class mail privileges, which have grown to enormous proportions through the dereliction of postmasters who hesitate to offend local influential interests by insisting upon a just and legal classification."

Gov. Voorhees declined to express an opinion about the State Girls' Industrial School since the death of Sadie Weisman, the girl whom it is alleged received injuries at the hands of Mrs. Eyler and her assistants that resulted in the fatal illness. Doubtless the Governor is a firm believer in the saying that if you can't say anything good about a person—or, in this case, an institution—don't say anything.

Register George B. Fielder, of Hudson county, will not contest the nomination of James Clarke, ordered by "Bob" Davis at the open primaries, to be held next Wednesday night. It would have been a fruitless fight. He is ill and confined to his home, and has decided to retire.

Nearly all the politicians of every persuasion attend the international yacht races, and yet there is not wind enough in the air to fill the sails of the crafts and send them over the course within the time limit. What an incongruity that is.

What has become of the State Sewerage Commission that was coming to Plainfield to inspect the sewage beds?

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The repeated stories of the discovery of gold mines in Hunterdon county must be received with ever-increasing suspicion. If they were silver mines now there might be some reason to put faith in the reports, but no genuine Hunterdon County Democrat would stultify himself by locating a gold mine.—Newark News.

A number of prominent citizens of Plainfield, with others of Trenton, have been incorporated as the People's Gas Co., who propose to furnish the citizens of Plainfield with gas at $1 per 1,000 feet. We suggest that our citizens ascertain if it is not possible to secure its extension to our borough, as we believe a number of our business men in addition to residences could be induced to use it. Nothing like trying, anyway.—Dunellen Call.

A gas company in Plainfield had a monopoly for many years, and held the price of gas up to high figures, ranging from $3 to $2 per thousand cubic feet. Now an opposition company has been incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and all it needs is a franchise from the City Council to lay its pipes. One of the conditions on which it asks its franchise is that it will retail gas at $1 per thousand cubic feet. There is an instructive lesson in this for New Brunswick. It shows how to dispose of a monopoly, and also the results to be achieved by establishing a competitive company. New Brunswick should go further, however. If there is a profit in gas at $1 per thousand cubic feet, let the city make it. The competition company would be the municipal gas company, and the price of gas should be even less than $1 per thousand. If a company established as an investment, with a responsibility of paying a dividend on its capital stock, can afford to make and sell gas for $1, the city, whose chief object will be to pay the interest on the bonds issued to pay for the plant, and keep up a sinking fund to redeem the bonds when they fall due, can make a nice thing out of the plant and still sell the gas at much less than $1 per thousand cubic feet.—New Brunswick Times.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The people who have traveled on trolley cars for the past few days have complained because the railway companies were running open cars. Over in Brooklyn the sanitary superintendent gave the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company orders to put closed cars on its lines within 48 hours, and there is some great hustling to comply with the law. The defense the trolley companies make everywhere is that the unexpected cold snap caught them unprepared. According to the weather reports for the same period last year the prevailing temperature was on an average about 70 degrees. This year it has been much lower, and Monday morning was as low as 46 degrees.

It is really difficult to tell just what is happening out on the ocean during the international yacht races. All sorts of methods are used by the various newspapers and news associations to get correct accounts of the progress of the race but often the different accounts vary greatly. Yesterday, the Associated Press sent out a bulletin stating that at a certain time the yachts were half a mile apart. At the same time another news agency sent out the statement that there was only six lengths separating the two yachts. The seeming contradictions were the result of different points of view.

Whether January 1, 1900, is the beginning of the new century or begins the last year of the old century is a question which will doubtless be revived for debate after we have gotten over the excitement of the Dewey receptions and disposed of the international races. Webster defines the term century as follows: "Century, in the reckoning of time, although often used in a general way," etc., "usually signifies a division of the Christian era, consisting of a period of 100 years ending with the hundredth year, from which it is named; as, the first century (A. D. 1—100 inclusive,) the seventh century (A. D. 601—700;) the eighteenth century (A. D. 1701—1800.")" This definition includes the year 1900 in the nineteenth century, but there is very plausible reasoning to show that the century ends on December 31 next. The disputants have the floor.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Resick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. FOUGHT FOR CORPSE.

THREE CLAIMANTS FOR REMAINS OF ENGINEER M'GLYNN.

Divorced Wife, Affianced Bride and Father All Claimed It—Coroner Turned It Over to First Named Person.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Perth Amboy, Oct. 6.—There are many claimants of the body of Engineer McGlynn, who was killed Monday in the Lehigh Valley wreck at New Market and brought to this city by Coroner Burke. One is the wife of the deceased man, whose home is at Easton, Pa. One claims to be his affianced bride and says they were to have been married at Christmas at her home in Jersey City. A third is Peter McGlynn, of Philadelphia, the dead engineer's father. The three appeared separately before the bewildered coroner and directed him to ship the body to their three separate homes.

The name of the fiancee has not been learned. She stated in explanation of her position that McGlynn had not lived with his wife for years and that divorce proceedings were pending at the time of his death. The elder McGlynn was somewhat the worse for liquor, a circumstance which marred a scene otherwise remarkable and touching.

The remains will be sent to Mrs. McGlynn at Easton.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 6.—Theodore and George Apgar are raising the timbers for a new house on Lincoln avenue near Church street for Thomas Costello.

The auditorium of the Methodist church was comfortably filled with a cultured audience last evening, which gathered to listen to an evening of music, song and recitation. The programme was of sufficient length not to tire and those who had the pleasure of listening to the various numbers were highly pleased. It was a rare musical treat such as the citizens of this borough have not listened to in some years. The execution of Miss May Vincent Whitney, of Plainfield, who rendered in a masterly manner several piano solos, was an agreeable surprise to the audience, which showed its appreciation by generous applause. Perhaps the recitations of Miss Bertha Hurst Whitney proved the more entertaining, however. Miss Whitney's renditions were very clever, and in her recital of "The Faithful Lovers," she was at her best. In response to an encore Miss Whtney gave "Old Pickett's Nell" in a thoroughly up-to-date manner, her characterizations fairly captivating the audience, which applauded vigorously. The soprano solos of Miss Mabel Eloise Jamison, daughter of Rev Dr. Jamison, pastor of the Methodist church, were features of the entertainment that were as highly enjoyed as the recitations of Miss Whitney. Miss Jamison has a sweet voice with sufficient compass to reach the higher notes and with a volume not too strong to mar its sweetness. Others who deserve mention are Mrs. Nellie Udell Smith, of Plainfield, who rendered beautifully violin solos with piano accompaniment, and William Holmes, of Plainfield, who sang two baritone solos with good effect.

At the last meeting of the Board of Education it was voted to extend to Prof. Morris a vote of thanks for his efficiency and painstaking efforts while superintendent of the public schools.

This evening there will be a test made of the new waterworks. After the test there will be a collation at Taylor's Hotel.

Some of the coal cars which were in the wreck of Monday morning are still to be seen east of the roundhouse.

Dr. and Mrs. Brakeley have returned from Philadelphia, where they have been enjoying the Export Exposition.

Prof. Morris is having his household goods moved to New Brunswick. Sam Merrill is doing the job.

Prof. Morris and family will not leave for New Brunswick until some time next week.

Mrs. George VanNest and son have returned from a visit with relatives at Red Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Snyder have been visiting friends in New Brunswick.

Two new houses are being built by Eugene Runyon on Lincoln avenue.

Henry Dunham, of Prospect avenue, has been visiting in New York.

John Herbert took a business trip to New York yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, October 6.—The Literary Club connected with the Epworth League of the Methodist church resumed their interesting weekly readings in the class room of the church last evening. These meetings have proved to be so successful that Rev. Mr. Woodruff has opened the membership to all who are interested in literary work.

Ran Off Side of the Bridge.

A few days ago while Harry Connett, employed by William Hand & Son, expressmen, was bringing a load of furniture from Finderne to Elizabeth, he fell asleep on the truck, and when passing through the outskirts of Bound Brook and crossing an old bridge, the wheels of the truck rolled off the bridge allowing the truck to tip on one side. This jolt awoke the driver, who jumped from the truck in time to prevent injury. He was obliged to send for assistance, and the furniture had to be unloaded in order to get the truck on the road again. The accident caused an hour's delay.

A Good Entertainer

Next Thursday evening there will be an entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. hall under the auspices of the Trinity Reformed church Christian Endeavor Society. Royal S. Goldsbury, humorist and impersonator, will appear and there will be an exhibition of the "Angelus," piano player, by Messrs. Vanderbeek & Sattels. Of Mr. Goldsbury the Chicago Tribune says: "His elocutionary productions received high praise, while his facial expressions kept the house in a constant roar of laughter."

AN IMPORTANT SALE OF
Manufacturer's SAMPLES.
Commencing Saturday Morning, October 7th.
We have just purchased from one of the largest and best manufacturers of Women's Cloaks their entire line of sample jackets. The lot consists in all of about two hundred garments. The price is just 50c on the dollar, and we propose to sell them on the same basis for a quick sale. Some of these garments were made up early in the season and are two or three inches longer than the prevailing style, but otherwise the shape and style is the latest and best. The garments are perfectly tailored and the fit and finish cannot be surpassed. Many of the styles are represented by only one garment of a kind.
$3.50 for $7.00 Jackets. $3.98 for $8.00 Jackets.
4.50 for 9.00 Jackets. 5.00 for 10.00 Jackets.
5.98 for 12.00 Jackets. 7.50 for 15.00 Jackets.
$10.00 for $20.00 Jackets.
MANUFACTURER'S SAMPLE UNDERSHIRTS.
50c the Garment.
We will place on sale Saturday morning a lot of about five hundred and fifty men's heavy-weight merino and natural wool undershirts representing a manufacturer's sample line.
The actual values range from 75c to $2.00 the garment. Most of the styles are represented by only two or three garments of a kind with no drawers to match.
CRAYON PORTRAITS FREE OF CHARGE
with every purchase of $1.00 or more. You are not compelled to purchase a frame in order to procure one of our celebrated life-size portraits. Bring the photograph you wish enlarged with you.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Kaiserslautern. Hier verstarb Kommerzienrath Karl Karcher, ehemaliger Theilhaber des bedeutenden, nunmehr in ein Aktienunternehmen umgewandelten Bankhauses Böcking, Karcher u. Co. und Mitbegründer zahlreicher industrieller Unternehmungen, deren Aufsichtsrath er angehörte. Er war ein überzeugungstreues Mitglied der nationalliberalen Partei und ein großer Wohlthäter der Armen.

Speyer. Der nationalliberale Verein läßt jetzt hier unter dem Titel „Speyerer Tagblatt" eine Zeitung von ausgesprochener Parteirichtung erscheinen.

Neustadt. Bei einer Feuersbrunst in Elmstein ertheilte der Feuerwehrkommandant den Löschmannschaften den Befehl, ein brennendes Häuschen nicht mehr zu betreten, weil es dem Einsturz nahe war. Ein Gendarm befahl jedoch zwei Feuerwehrleuten, in das Häuschen zu gehen. Da sie sich, gestützt auf die ihnen allein maßgebend scheinende Weisung ihres Abtheilungskommandanten weigerten, dem Befehl zu folgen, brachte er sie zur Anzeige und es wurde Anklage erhoben. Das Schöffengericht sprach sie jedoch frei.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Die hiesigen Sozialisten haben angeregt, auf dem nächsten Parteitag in Hannover über die Schädlichkeit des Alkoholgenusses zu diskutiren.—Oberstabsarzt Dr. Bückling, Regimentsarzt im Dragoner-Regiment Nr. 26, eine in weiten Kreisen bekannte und beliebte Persönlichkeit, ist auf einer Urlaubsreise in Großkreuz bei Berlin jäh gestorben. Er stand im 55. Lebensjahre.

Dettenhausen. Unsere Gemeinde steht wieder vor der Wahl eines Ortsvorstands, da Verwaltungskandidat Spahr wegen zu jugendlichen Alters nicht als Ortsvorsteher bestätigt werden konnte.

Freudenstadt. Aus Anlaß des 300jährigen Jubiläums unserer Stadt fanden vom 25. bis 27. September große Festlichkeiten hier statt.

Horb. Lieutenant Dorn, Adjutant beim hiesigen Bezirkskommando, hat sich in seiner Wohnung erschossen. Dorn legte zeitweilig ein auffallendes exzentrisches Wesen an den Tag; er dürfte den Selbstmord in einem Zustande heftiger Gemüthsverstimmung begangen haben.

Tübingen. Wie seiner Zeit berichtet, wurde der Redakteur des „Metzinger Volksblattes" in erster Instanz zu 30 Mark Geldstrafe verurtheilt, weil das Blatt hinter dem Namen des Garnisonsverwaltungs-Oberinspektors a. D. Haller ein (!) gesetzt hatte. Der Ausrufungszeichen-Prozeß kam nun vor der hiesigen Strafkammer als zweiter Instanz zur Verhandlung, wo das Blatt freigesprochen wurde.

Ulm. Nach dem jetzt ausgearbeiteten neuen Stadtbauplan sollen die Wallgräben durch Zuschüttung in eine Ringstraße umgewandelt, die Bahnhofgeleise durch weitere Fahrbrücken überführt und dadurch eine genügende Verbindung der Altstadt mit dem Westen der Stadt hergestellt werden. Der Rangirbahnhof käme auf die Nordseite des Blauthals und längs davon ein Industriequartier. Wohnhäuser und Villen sollen bei Söflingen und beim Galgenberg erstellt werden. Das Terrain soll nicht zu dicht bebaut werden und wird besonders auf Erhaltung der Glacisanlagen Rücksicht genommen.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Die Leitung der „Badischen Landeszeitung" hat jetzt Felix von Eckhardt, bisheriger politischer Redakteur der „Leipziger Neuesten Nachrichten," übernommen.—Hier zeigte der Arbeiter Bieringer aus Waldangelloch seinem zweijährigen Mädchen einen Revolver, den er sich gekauft hatte, um die Kirchweihe in seiner Heimath zu besuchen. Der Revolver ging los und tödtete das Kind, worauf sich der Vater selbst erschoß.

Bruchsal. Auf dem Bahnhof wurde der 44 Jahre alte, verheirathete Bremser Josef Rückert, als er das Geleise überschreiten wollte, von einer Lokomotive erfaßt und derart zugerichtet, daß er bald darauf seinen Verletzungen erlag.

Mannheim. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den 16 Jahre alten Kaufmannslehrling Karl Trapp von hier, der Wechselfälschungen in Höhe von 6000 Mark verübt hatte, um sich Mittel zu einem neuen Fahrrad zu verschaffen, zu fünf Monaten Gefängniß.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Bei den jüngsten Gewerbegerichtswahlen siegten in der Klasse der Arbeitnehmer die Sozialisten, deren Kandidaten durchschnittlich 2400 Stimmen auf sich vereinigten. Die Kandidaten der vereinigten Liberalen und Klerikalen erhielten 1100 Stimmen.

Pfirt. Hier sind das „Hotel New York" sowie mehrere andere Gebäude ein Raub der Flammen geworden. „Hotel New York" wurde besonders von den zahlreichen amerikanischen Touristen, welche das Elsaß bereisen, patronisirt.

Saarburg. Dieser Tage wurde hier die fahrende Habe eines Lieutenants, der schuldenhalber sich entfernt hatte, auf dem Marktplatze öffentlich versteigert. Unter den Versteigerungsgegenständen, bestehend aus Möbeln, Bildern, Lampen, Jagdtrophäen u. s. w. befanden sich auch Schärpen und die Kaiser Wilhelm-Gedächtnißmedaille. Ein zufällig vorübergehender Fremder erstand die beiden letztgenannten Gegenstände um 1 Mark 10 Pfennige.

Urville. Der Kaiser hat der in der Nähe von hier gelegenen Gemeinde Sillers ein Geschenk von 1000 Mark überwiesen, weil sie durch Reinlichkeit und schmuckes Aussehen sich so rühmlich hervorthut. Es heißt, daß auch andere Gemeinden, die dem nachahmungswerthen Beispiel von Sillers folgen, mit Geldspenden bedacht werden sollen.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Die Wittwe des berühmten Chirurgen Professors Dr. Billroth ist in St. Gilgen (am Wolfgangsee), wo sie zum Sommeraufenthalt weilte, einem Gehirnschlage erlegen. Die Leiche wurde hierher überführt.—Traurig lauten die Berichte über die Verheerungen des jüngsten Hochwassers von überall her. Bei Gmunden stürzte eine eiserne Brücke über die Traun zusammen, als 20 Arbeiter damit beschäftigt waren, sie zu steifen. Alle stürzten in's Wasser und 19 ertranken. In Gmunden wurden bei einem Hauseinsturz ein Mann und ein Kind getödtet. In Steyr, an der Mündung des Steyr in die Ems, stürzten fünf Arbeiterhäuser ein, in der Ortschaft Timelkamm 45 und in Unter-Langbath, nicht weit von Gmunden, 22 Häuser. Aus Linz wird gemeldet, daß daselbst mehrere Personen in den Fluthen der Donau ertrunken sind. Die Stadt Schärding stand fast gänzlich unter Wasser.

Budapest. Der berühmte ungarische Dichter und Novellist Maurus Jokai, der jetzt 74 Jahre alt ist, hat sich in zweiter Ehe mit der 18jährigen ungarischen Schauspielerin Arabella Großnagy vermählt.

Bekes-Csaba. Die Stadtgemeinde hat mit Genehmigung der Komitatsbehörde die gräflich Trauttmannsdorff'sche Domäne, insgesammt 11,000 Joch, für 3,000,000 Gulden behufs Parzellirung an kleinere und mittlere Landwirthe angekauft.

Komorn. Unterhalb Komorns wurden in Folge Dammbruchs der Donau 40 Quadratmeilen Land überschwemmt.

Krakau. Adolf Amort, der frühere Kassirer der Przemysler Sparkasse, wurde wegen Veruntreuung von 59,000 Gulden zu drei Jahren Kerker verurtheilt.

Prag. Hier haben 100 tschechische und deutsche Großindustrielle an die Abgeordneten Böhmens ein gemeinsames offenes Schreiben gerichtet, in welchem sie dieselben auffordern, endlich dem Nationalitätenkampfe ein Ende zu machen.

Troppau. Der hiesige Gemeinderath hat kürzlich einstimmig beschlossen, den Namen „Olmützerstraße" in Bismarckstraße umzuändern.

Zirl. Hier ist ein taubstummer Knabe von etwa 15 Jahren aufgetaucht, dessen Herkunft bis jetzt nicht festgestellt werden konnte, da der Bursche weder schreiben noch lesen kann. Er fällt durch einen Athmungsfehler auf, der sein Athmen auf 200 bis 300 Meter Entfernung hören läßt. Dem Anschein nach ist der Knabe bisher eingesperrt gewesen, vielleicht ein neuer Kaspar Hauser.

Schweiz.

Bern. Der Fremdenandrang dürfte in diesem Jahre eine Höhe erreicht haben, wie noch zu keiner Zeit. Vornehmlich sind es Deutsche, welche die Schweiz besuchen. Bern und das Berner Oberland profitirt in erster Linie durch diesen großen Verkehr.—Der Gemeinderath der Stadt Bern hat mit dem Konsortium, dem das „Schänzli" mit dem Sommertheater gehört, einen Kaufvertrag abgeschlossen, wonach die ganze prächtige Liegenschaft um den Preis von 750,000 Francs in den Besitz der Gemeinde Bern übergeht.

Luzern. Am Seequai in Luzern verlor eine fremde Dame beim Spaziergang ein Kollier, bestehend aus 48 Perlen und einem Diamantschloß im Werthe von 14,000 Mark. Es sind 2000 Francs Prämie für die Entdeckung des Schmuckes ausgesetzt.

Schwyz. Im Walde bei Steinen hat der geistesbeschränkte Josef Inglin an einer 50jährigen Frau und einem 82jährigen Mann einen Doppelmord verübt, indem er sie beim Beerensuchen überfiel und mit einem Messer ihnen den Hals abschnitt. Eine dritte Person, welche helfend beispringen wollte, wurde von dem Thäter schwer verletzt. Der Mörder wurde gefänglich eingezogen.

Basel. Neulich früh brannte in Binningen ein Wohnhaus nieder; fünf Personen sind in den Flammen umgekommen, nämlich ein 16jähriger Knabe und ein vierjähriges Mädchen des Hausbesitzers Rubin, ein vierjähriges Mädchen Namens Erni und der Schneidergeselle Christian Senn; ein anderer Schneidergeselle, Karl Weber, starb an seinen Brandwunden unterwegs nach dem Spital. Es wird Brandstiftung vermuthet.

Tessin. Oberhalb des Dorfes Campo im Maggiathal sind jetzt staatliche Arbeiten zur Sicherung des Geländes im Gang. Man sammelt und leitet das Wasser weg, das jetzt bei seinem Eindringen in den Boden diesen erweicht und zum Rutschen bringt. Der Entwässerung wird die Anlage von Kanälen in Dämmen, sowie die Anpflanzung des Rutschgebietes folgen.

AILEEN'S JOURNEY.

A STORY FOR THE YOUNG.

Aileen always thought Sunday was the longest day in the week. Besides, it was raining.

"O dear," she sighed, "how I wish I had lived in olden times, when wonderful things happened every day, and fairies would grant you three wishes at a time!" And just then a wonderful thing did happen, so wonderful, indeed, that Aileen stopped right in the middle of a big yawn, and stood there with mouth and eyes wide open.

Right in front of her, on the window sill, there stood the queerest little figure! Aileen had to rub her eyes and pinch herself to make sure that she was really awake and not dreaming. But, no! it was true, there stood a real fairy godmother, exactly like the picture in her "Grimm's Tales." The sharp, little face, the quilted skirt, the tiny, buckled shoes, the slender wand with the twinkling star at the top, all looked as familiar as could be to the surprised little girl.

"You wished for me," said the fairy in a thin, sweet little voice, "and here I am. Once in every hundred years, at a certain hour on a certain day, we have the power to grant a mortal's wish." Now, while the fairy was speaking, a strange thing had happened to Aileen. All her half frightened surprise had passed away, and she felt as light and airy as a butterfly. Instead of towering above the tiny figure before her, she found her face was on a level with the fairy's head, and she was not one bit surprised to find that her Sunday frock of pink lawn had changed to a flower-like garment, that lay in silken folds about her like the petals of a rose.

"I know the dearest wish of your heart," continued the fairy, "it is to take a trip to Fairyland, is it not?" And as Aileen smiled and nodded her head, the fairy advanced and took her by the hand. "Come, it grows late," she murmured, and in a moment they found themselves outside the windows in the cool, flower-scented air. Aileen could never tell how it happened, but she found herself floating far above the earth, using with ease and delight the tiny gauze-like wings that carried her with the speed and grace of a bird. The rain was over and a beautiful rainbow stretched across the sky above them. Toward this the fairy led the way and without a question Aileen followed. It seemed to her that the rainbow was but a splendid curtain that divided the world she had known from the strange country whither the fairy was taking her. And, sure enough, as they drew near she could dimly see many tiny figures on the other side.

(There stood a little fairy.)

With the tip of her wand the fairy lifted one corner of the rainbow, and Aileen followed closely after into the enchanted land of which she had often dreamed, but which she had never hoped to visit. Aileen had never seen a picture of a fairy-horse, indeed she had never imagined the fairies had any need of one. But now the thought struck her that flying might, in time, grow as tedious as walking, and she watched with great interest the winged steeds and their riders.

At last one of them caught sight of Aileen and her fairy guide, and with a sudden movement, blew a shrill blast on a golden horn. Like an echo, a clear sweet strain rose on the air, and through the music the words ran like a silver thread of song:

"Welcome, welcome one and all
Where the rainbow-curtains fall,
Eager heart and ready hand
Greet the guests in Fairyland."

In a moment Aileen found herself in the center of the group on the border of the lake. One kindly fairy ushered her to a seat on a tiny toadstool covered with a cushion of swansdown. Another handed her a cup of fragrant lily-of-the-valley and filled with distilled dew, a drink the most delicious that she had ever tasted. They were so kind that Aileen felt not at all like a stranger, but was soon at her ease and at home among them. She was so busy looking about her that she never even missed her fairy guide, who had vanished at the first note of the golden horn that had greeted their entrance.

She noticed that not all of the fairies were idle. Many after one curious glance or gentle smile in her direction kept on at the work that her coming had stopped for the moment. One busy fairy was carefully directing the work of hundreds of spiders, who were spining yards upon yard of shining silken webs of mingled hues, like the glorious rainbow curtain through which Aileen had taken her first peep into Fairyland.

It was a great surprise to Aileen to find that fairies had their work to do, just like mortals in the world she had left behind. She had always supposed that they spent their time in dancing, and that all their simple wants were supplied without labor or care of any sort. And as if in answer to her thoughts, the fairy who had led her to her seat now approached and asked in a voice that sounded like the tinkle of a bell, so clear and sweet it was, if there were any questions she would like to ask.

"I know," said the fairy, "that everything is quite strange to you, who have always lived in the other world, but with us it is far different. We have the power to walk unseen where mortals dwell, and to share, unknown to them their joys and sorrows.

"Often," continued the fairy, "have I watched you at your work and play, and many a time I have peeped at you through a cloudmist, or from behind the wing of my butterfly steed. Perhaps you have not forgotten one summer day when you gathered daisies in the field and wove them into a chain——"

"Yes," interrupted Aileen, quite excited at the thought, "and as fast as I used them it seemed to me that others were ready in their places. That was the longest chain I ever made, and yet I was not tired a bit!"

The fairy laughed softly, and it seemed to Aileen that there was quite a sparkle of mischief in her bright blue eyes.

"No wonder you were not tired," she cried. "It was I who worked to gather the daisies as fast as you could weave them together."

And again the fairy laughed at the wonder and surprise that were so plainly written on Aileen's face.

And with heart beating fast with excitement and pleasure, Aileen rubbed her eyes, and, lo, she was back in her own home again.

A CHEAP CAMERA.

It Can be Made From a Cigar Box and Some Tin.

A camera can be made by any fairly deft amateur with the following materials: A cigar box, piece of tin an inch square, 12 small nails, some glue, and a narrow strip of tin an inch long. Make of one side of the cigar box a little box two and a half inches square, with one end left open. Blacken the inside with ink. Cut a hole one-fourth of an inch across in the end of the box opposite the open side. Bevel the outside edges of this hole. Drill a hole the size of a pin point in the centre of an inch square piece of tin and glue it inside the box over the hole in the wood the hole in the tin making a lens. Make a plate holder by gluing into the four corners of the box four thin pieces of wood, each two inches long, the end of each resting on the end of the box where the lens has been placed. Make the lid to the camera of two thicknesses of cigar box wood, blacken it on the inside, and on the centre of the inner side fasten a strip of tin an inch long, very narrow and bent in a semicircle, with the centre fastened to the lid. This tin strip, when the lid is put on, will hold the plate in place. The camera is made for dry plate measuring 2½x2½ inches.

A Lost King.

In olden times, when European kings were as plentiful as Kentucky Colonels are to-day, it was not an exceptional occurrence for a King to disappear and never be heard of again. In recent times, however, the people have been more careful of their Kings. So when King Sebastian of Portugal disappeared in battle July 29, 1578, while fighting Moors at Alcazar, there was a great commotion. The Moors surrendered to the Portuguese a body said to be that of the King, but it was rumored that the Moors had the live King in custody. The surrendered body was buried with royal honors at Belem, but the faithful Portuguese persisted in waiting for the return of their King. Long after he would have died in the course of nature his country men longingly awaited his coming. Even up to this day the legend of the return of King Sebastian is believed by many, and on stormy nights credulous Portuguese citizens will wrap their cloaks about them and go outside and watch the storm, thinking that the King may appear in a cloud of fire and again rule over the people.

The Game of Sentences.

The game of "Composing Sentences" is one which has the advantage of making people think quickly, and will quickly show which player has the most active mind. The idea is to deal out a dozen cards, each having some letters of the alphabet on it, to the players—such cards as are used in word games, or they may be made for the purpose.

All begin by turning over a letter at the same time. As soon as the letters are seen the sentence has to be devised, using them all as the initial letters. The first to make a grammatical sentence of them is given a point on the score card; then new letters are turned up and sentences are made until one of the players has won 10 points.

Of course, it is necessary to have a large quantity of cards, so that when dealt out there will be a variety of letters. The game becomes lively as personal sentences suggest themselves, and it affords good practice in the formation of grammatical sentences.

A Moving Mountain.

There is a mountain of dark brown basalt on the Columbia River nearly 2,000 feet in height and stretching along the stream for six or eight miles. When the white settlers first came into the country, the Indians told them that this mountain was traveling; that some day it would move across the Columbia and form a lake that would reach from the Cascades to the Dalles. What the Indian said has been found true in some respects. The mountain is in motion. Its movement is forward and downward. The railroad builders who construct their line along the base found the track continually forced out of place. In some places the movement has amounted to eight or ten feet in a few years. Geologists say this is because the mountain rests on soft sandstone, which is steadily being washed away by the current of the big river.

How Amber is Made.

Amber is the product of a gum from a cone-bearing tree. Thus it is closely allied to resin, but by one of nature's wonderful processes the soft gum formation has been transformed to a composition that is durable, capable of withstanding heat and brittle like glass. Much of the world's amber is mined in Prussia, near the Baltic Sea. There imbedded in blue clay are found the wrecks of ancient trees and a great deposit of amber. Much of it contains insects in a fine state of preservation. Over 2,000 varieties of these insects have been found preserved in amber. A large proportion of them are entirely unknown to-day. Part of the amber is found under the sea. And all of it suggests a mystery of prehistoric life and vegetation.

The Funny Bone.

That which is popularly known as the "funny bone," just at the point of the elbow, is in reality not a bone at all, but a nerve that lies near the surface, and which, on getting a blow or knock, causes the well-known tingling sensation in the arms and fingers.

Oysters are such nervous creatures that a sudden shock, such as a loud thunderclap, will kill a whole boatload.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 8, "Work Where Christ Tells You to Work"—Text, John xxi, 1-8.

"Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find."

By the lake of Galilee, in the mists and dim light of early morning, Jesus hails the fishermen who have worked all night without success and now, tired and hungry from toil, are breakfastless.

At his suggestion they make one more cast of the net and inclose a great school of fish. The point of value in this lesson is not the question of Jesus' knowledge or of His power, not the matter of miracle or natural course of events, but rather the spirit of readiness to receive suggestions and to work however and wherever there is prospect of results.

Dullness and apathy in personal experience and in the life of a church or chapter is not usually because of no field of work at hand nor the lack of workers, but most usually comes from indifference and obstinacy. Some fish may be caught by accident by a listless fisherman, but usually it needs one who is alert to know their haunts and habits to make much success.

It is no easier to catch men than fish. Many of them are wary creatures, easily scared at the mention of religious topics. They need to be sought as skillfully as brook trout are hunted by the true sportsman. Oftentimes when every device has been used and all resources of labor and ingenuity exhausted and fishing time seems over and the workers all worn out, then comes the great haul, and a multitude of great fishes is inclosed and safely landed and the net not torn.

It will ever be so. Strive with whatever skill we may, there will still be long nights of taking absolutely nothing. But there are fish still uncaught, and they will swarm somewhere. If we are alert instead of disheartened, the Master will be heard as He hails from the shore. One more cast, made as He directs, then fish in abundance and a morning feast in His presence.

A Leader Among Men.

Daniel H. Hastings, ex-governor of Pennsylvania, has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church since boyhood and for 20 years past a trustee of his home church at Bellefonte. He is an orator whose addresses are in great demand because of their eloquence and breadth of thought. He is 50 years of age. Born on a farm, educated in the public schools, he has made his mark as a teacher, as a lawyer and business man. At the time of the Johnstown flood he had charge of the relief operations.

It is gratifying to see the men prominent in business and military and governmental affairs increasingly known as religious men. The world moves upward in these years. The power of the gospel is being realized not alone in the salvation of the individual, but in the regeneration of society and the reformation of all life.

Breaking the Net.

One of the things which John speaks of with surprise is the fact of the untorn net when so many strong fish had been caught. One of the surprising things about church nets in the past has been the rents which have let out such a multitude of those once inclosed. How often has the cry been raised: "How can we hold our young people?" "What can we do for our young men?"

It is a fact, all too true, that in many places the half grown boys drift out of the Sunday school and never come back to the church. What is the cause? What is the cure? Much has been written and spoken about this evil, and wisdom is not yet exhausted, nor has the complete cure been yet found. Nets still break and boys get away into deep waters and are lost.

Some few items we have learned about this business. Old nets are apt to be rotten. New ones hold best. Don't rush or frighten the fish or try to do everything in a minute. Slow and sure is a good rule in working a seine. But don't be so slow that the fish all get away before you begin to "purse up the net." Keep all nets in repair. You can't tell which one will be needed next, nor how soon. Fish whenever you get a chance, and not just when you feel like it. You must study the fishes' feelings more than your own if you are to catch them.

The Beautiful.

Appreciation of the beautiful in nature and art and in human character and action is as desirable as integrity, honesty and purity. Harshness is no proof of holiness. One may be so absorbed in some line of work as to neglect many others very desirable. The great scientist Darwin made this mistake. Up to the age of 30 he delighted in poetry, and especially in Shakespeare. His later scientific studies were pursued so exclusively that he lost all pleasure in poetry, music and pictures, and his mind became a machine only for grinding several laws out of collected facts.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 8—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Work where Christ tells you to.—John xxi, 1-6.

The topic is illustrated in the topical reference by an incident in the life of Christ after His resurrection. It is the appearance of Christ to the seven disciples on the Galilean sea, where they had been fishing an entire night without success. Jesus appeared in the morning. He said to them, "Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find." They cast, therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes. Here is an illustration of working where Christ said to work, and the result.

Where shall we work as Christians? What shall we do for Christ? Shall we preach the gospel? Shall we become foreign missionaries, or shall we stay in the home church, and, if so, what shall we consider our special duty and mission there? These are questions that often confront Christian people, nor are they always answered. Our topic gives us a safe principle to follow—work where Christ tells you to.

For many reasons we should work where Christ tells us to.

1. Because it is our duty. It is for Christ to command and for us to obey. He is our leader, our Captain, and the most important duty of the soldier is to obey the commands of his superior officer.

2. Obedience to Christ is a test of our love for Christ. Christ Himself said, "If ye love Me, keep My commandments." "If we love Christ, we are to show it doing what He wants us to do.

3. Christ knows best where the work should be done and what we are capable of doing. The officer always has a wider vision than the private. His opportunities for superior knowledge are greater. Christ's vision is greater than ours. The disciples had failed. When they did what He told them to do, they succeeded beyond all expectations. Success, therefore, depends upon obedience to Christ.

But how may we know where Christ wants us to work? He cannot tell us, as He did His disciples of old, and yet He does give us leadings in the matter.

1. Ability should assist us to decide. If Christ has not given us ability to do a certain kind of work, we may rest assured that He does not want us to do it. 2. Opportunity should be looked upon as a command from Christ. Christian opportunity is Christian duty. The helplessness and need of the man who had fallen among thieves were a command of Christ to those who passed by Him. 3. The study of God's word will asist us in deciding when Christ wants us to work and what He wants us to do.

Let us do our best to discover where Christ wants us to work, and then let us do His work. "Where duty calls or danger, be never wanting there."

Bible Readings.—Eccl. ix, 10; Math. v, 16; xliii, 48; xii, 50; xxv, 31-46; xxviii, 18-20; John ii, 1-11; xiv, 15; xv, 1-14; Acts vi, 1 16; xiii, 1-3; Luke vi, 46; Rom. xii, 6-8; I Cor. x, 31; xii, 1-11; Gal. vi, 1-9; Col. iii, 17.

Literature and Religion.

In vain do we search for true and soul saving religion among the most brilliant writers of the day. In too many of them we encounter only bitter hostility and unbelief. Therefore when a prominent writer acknowledges the superintending care of God in honest, vigorous terms the Christian world is surprised into thinking that he is on the side of truth, and especially when he is at the same time one whose voice is for progress and the development of the race upon natural lines. Mr. Kipling has got beyond many literary men in publicly acknowledging the dependence of Great Britain upon a superintending Providence. May his recent experience be so blessed to him that he may attain to truths of which as yet his writings are silent.—Episcopal Recorder.

Keep In Touch With the World.

Men grow narrow because they do not live in sympathy with the times. They grow hard because they keep the world outside. They lose in spiritual force because they keep that force under in their daily life. Every day witnesses to the life lived the preceding day. This must be so, for life is cumulative either in good or evil. There is no blank. Consciously or unconsciously, this force is working for good or evil. Stagnation is death. When we realize this to the full, we strive to compel attainment. When we look upon each day as a period by itself, we become the playthings of time.—Christian Union.

Pleasing Others.

The best rule is to take people as you find them and make the most of your opportunity to please them in some sort of fashion. There are so many ways to accomplish this—by attentions, thoughtful suggestions, pious undertakings, all of which being saturated with the milk of human kindness cannot fail of bringing a result which will be satisfactory. When we learn to live to please others, we shall reap the largest harvest of pleasure for ourselves by imitating our Lord and Master, who went about doing good to the souls and bodies of men.—Philadelphia Methodist.

The Harm of Genius.

Genius as a model is liable to produce harm. One might as well attempt to discourse upon the sun to a convention of lantern makers. Work hard as they may, there will always be a painful contrast between their art and noonday. Perfection sermons do no good. They only deceive the susceptible and self righteous.—Presbyterian Journal.

Character and Color of Thought.

The quality and fineness of a man's nature is to be determined not so much by his occupation or by the dialect or the grammar of his conversation as by the character and color of the thought to which he gives expression.—Methodist Recorder.

THE TRAGEDY OF LABOR

A Pastor Abandons the Pulpit for Work in a Big Factory.

HIS STRONG FEELINGS.

But He Soon Got Enough and Went Back to His Pulpit Although a Wiser Man.

This Cultured Clergyman Says His Experience Thus Far Tells Him That Preachers Are Being Wrongly Educated — The Tragedy of Human Life.

The Rev. George C. McNutt is looked upon as one of the brightest Presbyterian clergymen Indiana has produced. He has been pastor of one of the largest congregations in Indianapolis. He established the Young Men's Christian Association there. He has been also a successful pastor in New York, California and Illinois.

He left his congregation at Urbana, Ill. He cast aside his clerical garb. He donned the clothes of a laborer. Penniless he set out on the highways—a respected minister of the gospel transformed into a workman out of a job. Why does not the church of to-day reach the masses? That was the problem he set out to solve. That was why the clergyman became a tramp.

"You can't reach the children through the Sunday schools," the principal of the schools in an Indiana city said to him, and that started him into making an investigation.

"I knew," said Mr. McNutt, "as every one knows, this is a time of theological unrest. I knew that preachers and others were uneasy over the present condition of the churches, especially in the larger cities. I knew that the decline of the Christian religion in the New England States was, or appeared to be, so great as to call for a fast-day proclamation by the Governor of New Hampshire, but I did not realize that right here in Indiana we Hoosiers had drifted so far that the churches no longer represented even the child life of the community.

"Refusing to take an invoice, for fear of the facts, would be criminal business policy. What would an invoice of the Indiana churches show?

"Realizing that we preachers are likely to be long on wind and short on facts, and remembering the maxim of Emerson, 'Hunt your facts,' I am on a still hunt for facts, especially for the exact attitude of the churches toward the laboring classes, and of the laboring classes toward the churches.

"To go after such facts in a clerical garb would be like trying to surprise an Indian camp with a torchlight procession and a brass band.

"Attired as a workingman out of a job, I applied for work at the tin-plate mills in Atlanta, Ind. I sat down outside the gate and awaited my turn, and having no particular trade was assigned to the labor gang. A fortunate assignment in helping the machinist and master mechanic set up a 'pickler' and big hoisting crane gave chance for occasional breathing spells, but after that was done I took my place with the rest unloading steel billets for ten hours, day after day.

"If there is anything monotonous, meaningless, stupefying, it is the steady lift, lift, lift of fifty pounds of steel to a man, averaging about seven or eight tons a day. Just when one's back is about to crack, along comes the boss. Bosses, like some other people, seem to have 'spells,' and it often happens that when the men are working the hardest the boss has a spell, and the floodgates of profanity are opened.

"I remembered, it occurred to me—and a man is not etymologically responsible for what occurs to him—that if by chance I should be sidetracked and land in hades, I should like to get the job of chief stoker and have charge of the bosses. Once, when a mason came to me to haul bricks and sand, I went for them with an alacrity with which a hungry dog goes for a bone. The bricks seemed like feathers and the sand like snowflakes.

"Am I an advocate of eight hours a day? An advocate! I am an anarchist on the subject.

"The blast from the great whistle after ten hours' handling of cold steel was as sweet music as will break on the ears of the redeemed. Curiously, that same whistle in the morning sounded like a wail from the depths.

"I listened and learned the meaning of many things never before understood. I can see more clearly, when I look at the dome of some great factory, the man behind the machine, and the little hoe, however humble, behind the man. Between the lines of the daily telegraphic despatch, 'Workman killed, leaving wife and children,' I can see the tragedy of human life and comprehend more clearly, I believe, the meaning of him in whose sight the laboring man stands as high as the organizer of a trust, who says, 'Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.'

"After fourteen days and a half I found it necessary to lay off from my first job for repairs and reflection.

"'Is it not possible,' was one of my reflections, 'that our schools are turning out ecclesiastical debutantes, theological rosebuds, who, having passed sixteen to twenty years through the hands of the polishers, are fitted only to shine in the drawing room of polite society rather than to be ministers also to and of the common people?'

"'Would it not be well to withhold the diploma for a year and give the senior a jumper, a pair of overalls, $5, and a ticket 1,000 miles away from home? After a year spent earning a living with toilers, making $1 a day, would he not be better fitted to present himself for holy orders? This, of course, is on the assumption that a minister is not above his Master, who was a son of toil and was tempted in all points like as we are.

"'Are churches often affected by similar microbes of monumental meanness? Is there as much joy over a sinner that repenteth—a farm hand, a brakeman, a member of the labor gang—as there is over one lawyer, one banker, or one professor who 'comes to the church?'"

A STARTLING STORY.

Public Traffic in Human Souls in Berlin.

The increase in the number of Berlin restaurants employing waitresses has occasioned the rise of an extensive business in supplying these "White Slaves." That these girls are practically slaves is beyond doubt. Merchants engaged in this trade are mostly from Poland and Siberia, and they are well acquainted with the eastern provinces of the German Empire. They are continually traveling through there among the villages and smaller towns on the lookout for suitable merchandise. The girls must be young, fairly good looking, healthy and with attractive figures.

The merchant, as soon as he hears of such a girl, puts himself in communication with her, and, by extravagant promises regarding her future in Berlin, persuades her, especially if she feels the pinch of poverty, to travel to Berlin. There she is met by the merchant's partner to be put in a way of earning a livelihood, the girl signing a paper pledging herself to pay a considerable sum to the merchant as a fee. The kind-hearted merchant is perfectly willing to wait for payment until the girl begins her service as waitress. The partner in Berlin takes the girl around to restaurants frequented by rich young fellows. After that her fall is only a matter of time. But the partner is bleeding her all the time while supplying her with fine clothes, a nice room, etc., and, notwithstanding the kindness of guests and liberal tips, she is gradually robbed of every penny she possesses, until she finds a refuge from her prosecutors on the streets.

The merchants have usually a large number of girls on hand. They are known in trade as "boxes." The partner in Berlin, for instance, will telegraph to an agent in the provinces: "Send me four cases, not too large or thick, with nice roping."

He means, "Send me four girls, medium height or figure and well dressed. He will telegraph for "Two white boxes and one brown," meaning "Two blonde girls and one brunette." "A double box" is a girl speaking two languages.

There are now over 1,100 girls employed in this way in Berlin. Although a vast majority of these are poor country girls, it is curious to note that many of them are from the better classes of society. Two of them are wives of officers, five are officers' daughters. 15 used to be school teachers, eight were actresses, one a pastor's daughter and one is a Polish Countess. The police have their eyes on these merchants, and if the traffic continues there will be a ventilation of their methods in the courts.

AN EASY MARK.

How Casey of Detroit Was Buncoed Out of $250.

Jeremiah Casey, farmer and Irishman, who lives in Detroit, Mich., but who returned on the Oceanic from a trip to Ireland, was recently buncoed out of $250 in Brooklyn by one of the easiest games that confidence men work on hayseeds or gullible persons generally.

The farmer left his hotel in Manhattan to take a walk across the bridge. In the centre of the promenade he stood for a few minutes, when a stranger tapped him on the back and said:

"Be me sowl, if it isn't Casey!" The farmer opened his eyes in astonishment at the stranger and said: "Faith, you're right, I'm Casey."

"Shure, I know it mon alive!" the stranger rattled on, imitating the brogue. "And how are ye, Casey, and did ye lolke your trip to the ould country, and how are the folks in Daytroit, Casey?"

"Daytroit" was the clincher. The men shook hands and walked toward Brooklyn, up Fulton street as far as Court street. At Remsen street another man came running up breathlessly, and to Casey's new-found friend said: "Say, old man, I've been running after you for a block or two. The deal is all richt, and I've chartered the cattle steamer."

"Ah, but you're the smart mon. Now we'll be able to ship our cattle," said Casey's companion.

"Oh, by the way," said the second confidence man, "I've got a check for $250 here, and as the banks are closed, old man, I'd like you to cash it for me."

"Me friend," said the other man, "I dayposited me cash before laving the office, and nary a thing have I here but checks. I'm divilish sorry I can't oblige ye."

"Too bad, too bad," said the other. "I wanted to send a draft to the West on account of that last consignment."

"But shure," said No. 1, "it's the lolkes of me dear friend, Casey, that is obliging. Shure, I know he wouldn't see ye stuck, would you, Casey?"

Poor innocent Casey dove down into his pocket and handed £50 pounds in notes on the Bank of Ireland, with the remark that he regretted he did not have any more ready cash with him. No. 2 thanked him and dashed off.

Scientists assert that early man used to be able to wag his ears as an indication of pleasure, or to brush away flies from under his back hair; but as the muscles were not brought into continual use they became rudimentary.

The bath can be made an exhilarating pleasure by the use of Ivory Soap. It cleanses the pores of all impurities, leaving the skin soft, smooth, ruddy and healthy. Ivory Soap is made of pure vegetable oils. The lather forms readily and abundantly.

from Gen. Sewell to withdraw from the race for renomination and that he had done so. But the fact that the Senator was on hand and met his opponents successfully does not point to the truthfulness of the rumor.

Then it has been said that the Thompson faction would make no attempt to prevent the renomination of Senator Reed but would try to "snow him under" at election. As the Thompsonites tried to get control of the convention, it does not look as if they were going to stand aside and allow Reed to have his own way.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1 00. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

MONEY IN SELLING WOOD

PROFITABLE ENTERPRISE OF THE RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

$278 Made for the Association by Giving Applicants for Aid Work at Cutting the Fuel—Meeting Held This Morning.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Relief Association was held this morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. Owing to the weather the attendance was not large. Mrs. J. K. Myers, president, presided over the session.

The treasurer's report showed the receipts for the past year to be $2,018.43 and the disbursements $1,985.30, leaving a balance of about $32. Last year the receipts were $2,298.46, and the report shows a slight falling off in contributions. There have been helped during the year 106 families, and of that number 85 have done work in return for assistance. The woodyard has especially been a success. The receipts from this department were $278, which is considerable when it is known that six barrels of wood are sold for $1, the same as the local dealers sell it for.

The following officers were chosen for the coming year: President, Mrs. J. K. Myers; vice-president, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph; treasuer, Mrs. Howard Lapsley; secretaries, Mrs. C. E. Brooke and Miss Marion Dumont; board of managers, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. J. E. Tracy, Mrs. H. P. Reynolds, Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Mrs. J. D. Titsworth, Mrs. Alex Gilbert, Mrs. S. S. Guion, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mrs. H. P. Talmadge, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. A. C. Nickerson, Mrs. M. E. Dwight, Mrs. E. H. Rowland and Mrs. J. E. Slevin.

Gregg College Notes.

Every young man purchasing a scholarship at the Gregg College for either the day or evening courses, between now and November 15th, will receive a ticket entitling him to all the privileges of the Y. M. C. A., excepting the educational department.

Over a dozen young men and young lady graduates of the Gregg College have been placed in positions in less than two months time.

The college now has attendance of over fifty, and new students are being enrolled each week.

In this college like other places, "There is always room for one more," and "It is never too late to learn." In view of these facts you are invited to call at the college office, Babcock building.

Taken Home in the Ambulance.

Arthur Pearson, a milkman living on West Ninth street, near Clinton avenue, was taken with an epileptic fit at 6 o'clock this morning while driving near the Clinton avenue station. Some passersby took him to the residence of Wallace Vail, corner of Clinton and Dunellen avenues. Drs Probasco and Hodges were summoned. Pearson was taken to his home in the ambulance later in the morning.

NO PAVEMENT THIS YEAR

COUNCIL WANTS CITIZENS TO QUIT DIGGING UP STREETS.

Permanent Pavement Work Will Therefore Have to Wait Until Next Year When Everything Will be Ready.

It is now almost definitely settled that no permanent pavement will be laid in Plainfield this year. The work of digging up the streets is still progressing with no signs of abatement, and the Council wants everyone to get through with this work before any money is expended for a permanent pavement.

Earlier in the year it was the intention of the Council to do something in this line this year, and a kind of pavement was being decided upon. A little later it was discovered that the digging up of the streets would take so much of the time this year that it would be unwise to undertake the work. There are many citizens who hope, however, that some style of permanent pavement will be decided upon and laid before another year rolls by.

PRESIDENT, D. M. RUNYON.

Park Avenue Christian Endeavorers Choose Their Officers for the Ensuing Year.

The annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held in the chapel last evening. The election of officers was held and resulted as follows: President, David M. Runyon; vice-president, Miss Elmira Runyon; recording secretary, Miss Annie Wyckoff; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; treasurer, Miss Henrietta Cuming; chairmen of committees, lookout, Miss Emma V. Fish; missionary, D. M. Runyon; good literature, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; social, Miss Henrietta Cuming; flower, Miss Jennie Giles; good citizenship and temperance, J. M. Hawkins; welcoming, Rev. J. W. Richardson.

The reports of the officers showed an active membership of thirty-six and an associate membership of three. Nearly $150 had been raised during the year for home and foreign missionary work.

At the close of the business meeting refreshments were served, and the members practiced the singing of the convention hymn by Dr. Spencer, which will be sung at the convention echo meeting this evening.

TO BUILD WAITING ROOM.

Enterprise of Woodhull & Martin That Will be Appreciated by Passengers on the Trolley.

Messrs. Woodhull & Martin, the enterprising merchants, are making arrangements to have constructed a waiting room at the terminus of the trolley lines at Dunellen. The structure will be enclosed on three sides and will have seats to accommodate about fifty people. The building will be built on the north side of the tracks on the Craig lot, nearly opposite where stood the pavilion which was destroyed by fire some months ago. There will be nothing sold at the place.

It it to be built for purely advertising purposes. This will be good news to the public. A waiting room has been needed at this point. It should have been built by the trolley lines. The enterprise displayed by Messrs. Woodhull & Martin will be appreciated by the many people who have occasion to use the trolley cars between this city and Dunellen.

To be Interred in Greenwood.

The body of Frank D. Heyniger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Heyniger, of this city, who died Friday at Albuquerque, New Mexico, arrived in this city this morning. It was taken in charge by Undertaker Runyon. The deceased, who was a former resident of this city, went west some months ago for his health which had been unsatisfactory for a long time. He was a young man of promise and his death although expected has been a great beeavement to his relatives. The body was taken to Brooklyn on the 2:12 train this afternoon. The interment will be in Greenwood. The Rev. Dr. Richards will officiate at the grave. No services were held in this city. Deceased was 33 years of age.

Music Held Sway.

An entertainment was given in Washington Hall last evening by Miss Pauline Saddler and company for the benefit of the Ridgedale Debating Society. There was vocal and instrumental music and dancing was one of the principal features. The committee in charge was Miss Pauline Saddler Miss Ella Jenkins, Miss Lulu Dempsey, Mrs. George Pickent and Thomas Bowser.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

DeKoven and Smith's most successful comic opera, "The Highwayman," will be presented at Music Hall Wednesday night of next week. The opera is written in an atmosphere of old English taverns, post roads and "ye olde time" country homes, at a time when the country was in its infancy and when the gentlemanly robber held up stage coaches, robbing the rich to bestow upon the poor. The company comes from the Broadway Theatre, New York, with a big chorus, a cast of stellar excellence, and the original costumes, scenery and accessories that made the product such a success all over the country. The opera had a run of seventeen weeks at the Broadway Theatre, New York, and ranks in point of excellence with those great successes, "The Geisha" and "The Runaway Girl."

"The Rising Generation," a play made famous by those celebrated comedians, Barry and Fay, will be seen at Music Hall Thursday night of next week with William Barry in the principal role, supported by a splendid company of artists, including Miss Lydia Barry, the well known comedienne.

A great dramatic success by Hal. Reid, entitled "Knobs of Tennessee," will shortly be seen at Music Hall. It is a play on the order of "At Piney Ridge," and will be presented by a great cast of characters.

REBATE ON TAXES.

That's What Prompt Taxpayes Should Enjoy in Plainfield.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Where is that rebate on taxes in Plainfield that other cities are privileged to enjoy? New York people gather in line for two blocks or more to pay their taxes. Why? Because they get their rebate of 6 per cent. They don't have to go and borrow money in lieu of taxes. Plainfield's law makers would rather go to the banks and get their notes discounted and charge the taxpayer with it. Of course, the banks must be supported or else they could not make large semi-annual dividends. The assessors come along and put up the valuation of your property, and then puts up your tax ten points higher and then says you must pay your taxes one month sooner than usual or we will put the screws on you. This is hard on the masses, yet it is nevertheless true. Well, I suppose we can't expect to enjoy all the privileges of a first-class city without the luxuries, so let us do as the photographer says, "look pleasant."

FIGHT IN SOMERSET FOR THE LEADERSHIP

Reed And Thompson Factions Will Meet Again.

NEXT AT COUNTY PRIMARIES

UNDER PRESENT APPORTIONMENT SENATOR REED WINS.

Probable That He Will Be Renominated If He So Wishes — Next Fight At County Primaries And Then Comes Convention — Methods of Apportioning Delegates Used.

There has been any amount of conjecture as to the probable outcome of the troubles in the Republican ranks over in Somerset county. The meeting of the factions at the session of the county executive committee Wednesday showed that the G. O. P. is not in complete accord in Somerset county anyway. It is still an unsettled question as to which is to be leader, Senator Charles A. Reed or Chancery Clerk Lewis A. Thompson. It will remain unsettled until one or the other is completely defeated. Meanwhile there is promise of a very interesting campaign.

The two factions will next meet in the county primaries, which are to be held Friday and Saturday of next week. In some of the townships there isn't any doubt as to which side will have the support of the delegates chosen. In others, however, it is a question as to which faction will be victorious. In these there will be an exciting time.

The friends of Senator Reed say that he will get a majority of the delegates under the present apportionment and can have the renomination if he wants it. Even many of his political opponents, who favor Mr. Thompson, admit that Senator Reed has a good chance of coming out ahead at the approaching convention. According to the present basis of representation at the convention, each township is entitled to five delegates regardless of its size or the number of ballots cast. The Senator, it is believed, has the support in a majority of the townships.

The method of apportioning the delegates, which Clerk Thompson and his followers tried unsuccessfully to have the county committee adopt, gives two delegates to each polling place. This was manifestly designed to give the Thompson faction control of the convention. As Bridgewater township, which includes Somerville and Bound Brook, has seven polling districts out of the twenty-three in the county, the scheme would have changed the balance of the convention.

The method used by the Republicans in Union county to arrange the representation at the county convention is that each ward, borough or township is entitled to one delegate for every fifty votes or fraction thereof over twenty five cast for the Republican ticket at the last county election. This is deemed a much fairer method than the old.

The Democrats of Somerset county are now using the plan of representation as proposed by Clerk Thompson with one important change. With the Democrats there are two delegates sent from each polling district but it is provided that no township shall have less than six. Now as Bridgewater is the only township in Somerset county with more than three polling districts, it only effects that township. Bridgewater has fourteen while North Plainfield, next in size, has only six, the same number given to Warren with the smallest number of voters to represent.

The polling districts in Somerset county are divided among the different townships as follows:—Bridgewater, 7; North Plainfield, 3; Franklin, 3; Hillsboro, 3; Bernards, 2; Montgomery, 2; Warren, 1; Bedminister, 1; Branchburg, 1

Sale of Property for Taxes.

Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, held the sale yesterday afternoon to dispose of the properties affected by the opening of Watchung avenue, upon which the assessments had not been paid. There was less than fifty interested people present. The borough bought in twenty-eight properties, and assessments on the balance, three properties, was settled by the owners. Just what the borough will do with these properties has not yet been decided upon.

Missionary Societies to Meet.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Synod of New Jersey, which comprises the whole State, will be held in the parlors of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, next Thursday.

MANNING FREEMAN DEAD

PROMINENT IN POLITICS AND BUSINESS IN MIDDLESEX.

Born and Always Lived in Metuchen —Served as Lay Judge of Middlesex County for a Number of Years.

Manning Freeman, one of the prominent men in business and political affairs in Middlesex county for half a century, died yesterday morning of heart trouble, induced by anemia, from which he had been a sufferer for several years. Mr. Freeman was born in Metuchen Aug. 13th, 1827. He was trained as a farmer and conducted a large hay and feed business in Jersey City for a number of years. In 1849 he engaged in the lumber and coal business in Metuchen. He had been at Spring Lake for the summer, but was brought home a few days ago.

Mr. Freeman was active in securing the erection of Raritan township and was a member of the Township Committee from 1870 to 1875. In 1875 he was elected township collector and he held that office until 1897, when failing health compelled him to decline a re election. Nevertheless, his friends renominated him, and in spite of the fact that his family worked energetically against him, he was defeated by only 20 votes. He served in the Assembly from 1881 to 1883. He was a member of the State Democratic Committee in 1884. In 1898 he was appointed lay judge for Middlesex by Gov. Green, and was reappointed in 1893 by Gov. Werts, holding the office until it was abolished in 1897.

He leaves a widow and five children, one son and four daughters. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. James E. Martine, of this city, will be one of the pall bearers.

MIDDLESEX MURDER TRIAL.

Day and Strickland Arraigned, Counsel Assigned, and October 25th Fixed to Begin.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Oct. 7.—George Day and Reuben Strickland were arraigned before Justice Collins and Judge Strong in the Oyer and Terminer Court, charged with the murder of Patrick Cronin.

Prosecutor Voorhees read the indictment charging them jointly with murdering Patrick Cronin, near Jamesburg, March 27th, 1899. They seemed self composed and each calmly answered, Not guilty." Day is a tall negro, strongly built, defiant in appearance. Strickland, who is white, is shorter and stoutly built, with square firm features and penetrating eyes.

The court asked the men if they had counsel or could afford to engage counsel. Both replied that they could not. Strickland asked that George Berdine be assigned to defend him. Day asked that "Mr. Rain" defend him

"You mean Mr. Adrain," corrected the court.

The court said that it would observe the requests of the prisoners and assigned George Berdine and ex-Senator Robert Adrain as counsels.

The day of the trial was fixed for October 25th, at 10:30. The trial promises to be one of the most sensational ever held here. The accused were taken back to Trenton Tuesday night and will be kept there until the day of trial.

FORTY-FOUR G. O. P. VOTES.

Republican Leaders Escort a Big Delegation of Political Protoges to Be Naturalized.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 7—Fifty-six new citizens for Union county were turned by Judge Vail last evening as the result of his final interview with them. Of that number 44 hailed from Plainfield. The preliminary examinations had been passed and all that was done last night was the administering of the final affidavits.

Wm. Newcorn led the Plainfield delegation, with Daniel Galbraith and John Keeley as lieutenants. They were all passed, the Judge remarking that the Plainfielders seemed to be doing a regular land office business.

Pushed Off a Trolley Car.

Charles Bock is confined to his home as the result of an accident in New York last week when the Dewey celebration was held. Mr. Bock was riding on a trolley car, and was accidentally pushed off. As a result several tendons in the left leg were injured to such an extent that he is unable to put his foot on the floor. He will probably be kept at home for several weeks.

Sunday-School Teachers to Meet.

The Union County Sunday-school Association will hold its nineteenth annual convention at Roselle next Thursday.

—The Union Bible class, taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Monday evening.

MUNICIPAL BUSINESS OF THE LOCAL CANADA

Borough Council Disposes of Many Important Matters.

NEW ORDINANCES PASSED.

EXCELLENT REPORT PRESENTED FOR THE STREET COMMITTEE.

Borough Must Pay Its Share of Assessment Against Presbyterian Cemetery, for It Owns a Lot There—Proposition to Spend $150 for an Expert Accountant Was Defeated.

Mayor Smalley and nearly all the members of the Borough Council were present at the regular October meeting last evening, the absent members being Messrs. Coddington and Swackhamer. Borough Counsel Reed was also present and assisted in several matters.

Collector George F. Brown's report was as follows: Taxes and interest, $559 20; special school, $134 32; Board of Health, $4.64; Watchung avenue assessment, $1,937.06; bills payable by note, $1,600; total receipts, $4,363.03; balance, September 1st, $3,288.32; disbursements, $5,047.52; cash on hand, October 1st, $2,603.83; Borough fund, $1,054.43; Watchung avenue fund, $1,5e9.40.

Clerk Rowley presented the following report of money received, the several amounts being included in the above report: Licenses, $12.50; fines, $47 50; stone and labor, $83.25; extra police service, $12; total, $155.25. Mr. Rowley also reported that he had examined the borough tax duplicates for 1897-8, and had found them correct.

William M. Stillman informed the Council that he had recently purchased part of a piece of property on Grove street and he asked them to apportion the taxes on the same. Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church, petitioned for an electric light on Watchung avenue, between Manning and Jackson avenues. W. H. Shotwell, trustee for the Presbyterian Cemetery Association, presented the Council with a bill for $5, the assessment levied on the borough for the lot owned by them in the cemetery. The Mayor said it was the first time he knew the borough owned a lot there, but he thought the borough might need it.

Communications were received from the officers of Warren Engine Company to the effect that W. VanWinkle had served seven years and is entitled to exemption, also that Charles Stahl and Albert V. DeCamp had been elected members of the company. Confirmation of the above action was adopted by the Council.

Raymond Schenck, janitor of Warren Engine Company, resigned Mayor Smalley appointed George B. Stewart in his place.

Councilman Clark, chairman of the street committee, presented the following report: Cleaning streets, $56 35; stone, 23 tons, $19 75; services of Borough Engineer J. F. Hubbard, $31.75; culvert, Brook avenue, $97.87; receipts, macadamizing, scraping, etc., $170 44. Expended during the past six month: April, $601 58; May, $1,255.26; June, $95 64; July, 167 91; August, $406.15; September, $207 55, total, $2,825 19; appropriation for roads, $3,500; receipts, $170 44; expending during past six months, $2,825 19; balance, $844.25.

At this time three ordinances were introduced by Mr. Valiant, all of which were adopted on second reading. The first ordinance is similiar to one now in force and provides for the morals, peace and good order of the borough. The ordinance differs from the old one in several particulars, and is drafted to conform to the present State laws. It will have the effect of doing away with jury trials in a number of cases, provides a fine of $20 or seven days in the county jail or borough lockup. The ordinance covers everything one can conceive under the heading. The second ordinance refers to riotous people, vagrancy, begging and prostitution, and provides a fine of $100 or 90 days in the county jail or borough lockup. The third ordinance provides for the repeal of the first ordinance introduced. All three ordinances go into effect December 1st next.

Mr. Valiant offered a resolution providing for the drawing of $2,000 to pay Watchung avenue certificates with interest. Another resolution by the same member provided for the borrowing of $500 for four months, and still a third resolution by Mr. Valiant remitted the interest on the assessment levied against the Presbyterian Cemetery Association on account of the opening of Watchung avenue, for the reason that the assessment is paid. Regarding the latter

Beating Back to Finish Before Brisk Wind.

NIP AND TUCK CONTEST.

START WAS MADE AT 11:19 THIS MORNING.

Columbia Had Twenty-five Seconds Lead, But the Shamrock Turned the Stake Boat Five Seconds Ahead—The Breeze Decreased After Start.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, October 7.—After two unsuccessful attempts this week to hold the first of the international yacht races, the Columbia and Shamrock started this morning before a piping breeze from the north over the thirty mile course.

All night the gale from the north continued and there was a heavy sea this morning when the big fleet of excursion boats and Captain Evans' torpedo fleet started for the starting point off Sandy Hook light ship.

There was a high sea running when the yachts were towed into position and the wind was so strong the yachts could not carry full sail. The course was fifteen miles out to sea before the wind and then the beat home to the lightship.

Owing to the roughness of the sea the yachts had some difficulty in getting round into position for the start at 11 o'clock. The Columbia was the first to cross the line at 11:19 after the signal gun was fired. The English yacht was 25 seconds behind.

At 11:23 the Columbia was skimming along before the wind with a slight lead. At 11:30 the wind showed signs of shifting around to the northwest and slowly lessening. At the the start it was blowing twenty-three miles an hour.

In the run bfore the wind the Columbia managed to keep up its lead which, at 12 o'clock, amounted to a minute and five seconds.

Then the Shamrock began to pull up rapidly and at 12:10 the two yachts were racing side by side. The wind continued to drop and was blowing from out of the northwest.

At 12:12 the English craft began to slip by the American and gained the lead. As they scudded along, the Shamrock began to slowly increase the distance between them. At 12:53, the Shamrock was getting a breeze that did not reach the Columbia and the English boat had a lead of three minutes.

The puff of wind finally caught the Columbia and brought her up into position not far behind the English yacht. At 1:29 they reached the turn with the Shamrock but slightly in the lead. Seven minutes later, they made the turn, the Shamrock's lead having been reduced to five seconds, and started on the return.

At 1:25 the Columbia was slightly in the lead and was outpointing the Shamrock.

At 2:03 the Columbia had the weather position and led by 15 seconds.

As this edition goes to press, the yachts are beating back to the finish. The wind is much lighter than when the race started and is inclined to shift, but there is every probability that the race will be finished inside the time limit.

Ran Into a Horse.

A narrow escape from a serious accident occurred near the North Avenue station this afternoon, when Arthur Loizeaux ran into the horse driven by Mrs. H. M. Stockton. A part of the harness was broken and the horse started to run away, when Michael Higgins, a hackman, came to the rescue and prevented the horse from getting away.

TESTING THE WATER SUPPLY AT DUNELLEN.

Fire Chief Doane of This City Was in Charge.

SATISFACTORY RESULTS.

WERE ACCOMPLISHED WITH A LARGE SIZED NOZZLE.

Powerful Stream of Water Is Shown Capable of Doing Excellent Service in Putting Out Fires—Exhibition Witnessed by Many Prominent Citizens of This City, Bound Brook and Other Places.

The Watchung Water Company had an official test made of their new water supply for Dunellen in that borough last evening. The test was made at the direction of Charles P. Sebring, president of the company, and under the supervision of Fire Chief Doane, of this city, in the presence of prominent citizens of Dunellen, Plainfield, Bound Brook and Piscataway township.

The test was made in front of Taylor's hotel. A 50 foot line of hose was attached to a hydrant at this point with an inch and ¼ nozzle. A stream of water was thrown horizontally and perpendicularly a distance of fully 100 feet. It was a heavy stream, and the water was apparently clear, though this could not be fully determined owing to the darkness. There was shown to be sufficient force to use in the event of a fire, the pressure being about 70 pounds to the square inch. The test was quite satisfactory to the citizens of the borough, many of whom expressed to Mr. Sebring their congratulations. It is expected that at the next meeting of the Common Council the service will be turned over to the Council and by them accepted.

After the test the guests of President Sebring were invited to a course dinner served at Taylor's hotel where the hospitality of the Watchung Water Company was enjoyed.

At this dinner after the tables had been cleared brief congratulations and complimentary impromptu speeches were made with reference to the introduction of the water works into Dunellen. Among those who made remarks were: Mayor Rockfellow, Fire Chief Doane, W. B. Codington, Councilman Corieli, James Martin, Plainfield; R. H. Brokaw, Mayor of Bound Brook; S. D. Drake, of Lincoln; Councilman W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook and others.

Among those present from this city were: Mayors Rockfellow and Smalley, Fire Chief Doane, Councilmen Corieli and Buckle, of the fire committee; Former Judge W. B. Codington, John H. Addlemann, Superintendent of the Plainfield Street Railroad; William Sebring, Collector James Martin. From Bound Brook were Mayor Brokaw, W. W. Smalley, president of Council; R. H. Bache, treasurer electric light works; Nat. Wilson, editor The Centre, Freeholder Augustus Mobus, S. D. Drake, Lincoln.

The Borough of Dunellen was represented by Mayor Swackhamer, Former Mayor P. Brakeley, Postmaster Dealaman, Wilson Fredericks, president of the fire board; Fire Chief Whyhuski, Chas. A. Corieli, secretary of Fire department; W. J. Winger, Aiyah Gray, Eugene Runyon, A. N. Randolph, Councilman F. K. Wynkoop, J. W. Apgar and Arthur S. Gaston, Geo. W. Day, president of fire department, O. A. Douglass, editor of Call

WANTS MRS. EYLER REMOVED.

President Maddock's Opinion Regarding Charges Against Industrial Matron.

Dr. George C. Maddock, president of the Board of Managers of the State Industrial School for Girls at Trenton, stated at New Brunswick Thursday that Mrs. Eyler, matron of the institution, should be removed on the charges of cruelty against her.

There will be no inquest in the case of Sadie Wiseman, whose death at Paterson is alleged to have been due to the cruel treatment she received at the school. County Physician McBride decided that the girl died from natural causes.

SENATOR KEAN'S CHECK

ALL BOULEVARD EXPENDITURES ARE NOW PAID.

Board of Freeholders Submitted a Bill Showing That County Had Become Responsible for $4,346.05—Senator Paid It.

United States Senator John Kean's check for $4,346.05 was acknowledged at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders Thursday as having been received by County Collector Wood. This amount is the aggregate of expenditures by the county for engineering, maps, survey and costs in the proceedings for condemning land for the county boulevard project.

Senator Kean agreed, in his offer of $250,000 for the right to construct a trolley road on the boulevard, to make such payments as were required during the progress of the scheme.

Those who have been opposed have been asserting that the county was expending money without chance of being remunerated, and intimated that Senator Kean's offer was not made in good faith. The estimate of the costs were submitted to Mr. Kean, and the payment came promptly. Mr. Kean further assured the county that any payments required were in readiness on demand.

MUSIC AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Given Under the Auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society Last Night—Those Who Took Part.

A musical entertainment was given in Hope chapel last evening before a large audience. It was under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the chapel. The programme consisted of an overture and other selections by the orchestra, well rendered recitations by Miss Newman, singing of ballads by Miss Blackwell and vocal solos by Miss Smith.

The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. Radford, chairman; Mrs. W. Grey, Mrs. Hendry, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Weber, Mrs. Gow and Mrs. Smith. The committee in charge of serving the ice cream consisted of Mrs. Hendry, chairman; Mrs. W. G. Grey, Mrs. Bowden and Mrs. Higgins. The committee on cake consisted of Mrs. Randolph, chairman; Mrs. Corlis and Mrs. Magee. Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Shephard collected the tickets at the door.

FUGITIVE NOW IN JAIL.

John D. Rheinekop Skipped His Bail Bonds—Apprehended by Constable Pangborn in Morristown.

John D. Rheinkop, formerly a resident of Warrenville, was apprehended and arrested at Morristown yesterday morning early by Constable Wm. N. Pangborn, of the borough.

Sometime ago Rheinekop assaulted a German named Hesinger, aged 80 years, who resides at Watrenville. Soon afterward the man was missing, and in the meantime Hesinger made a complaint against him.

The case found its way to the Somerset County Grand Jury, and Rheinekop was indicted for assault. Rev. George Bowers furnished bonds for the man's appearance at court, but the culprit jumped the bail.

Constable Pangborn has been working on the case for sometime and finally succeeded in locating the offender of the law at Morristown, where he found him yesterday morning. The man was locked up at Somerville to await trial.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

Miss Alice Davie Received a Visitation She Did Not Expect.

A pleasant surprise party was given last evening to Miss Alice Davie, of Jackson avenue. The affair was arranged by Miss Stella Vermeule, of the borough. During the evening there were banjo and mandolin solos by George and Charles Davie, and at midnight supper was served. Games also furnished a pleasing form of amusement. Those present included the Misses Eva Doeringer, Stella and Anna Vermeule, Edith Finney, Lottie Cumings, Jennie DeCamp, George Conover, Fred Koller, John VanHorn, Frank Cumings, Charles, Will and George Davie, Albert Utzinger Edward Baker, of this city; Fred and Miss Lizzie Fulton, of Elizabeth; George Cox, of South Plainfield.

Road Race This Afternoon.

The fourth event in the series of 16-mile road races, run under the direction of W. S. Emery, will be run this afternoon at Scotch Plains. Race will start at 4 o'clock. There may be an attempt to arrest some of the racers for violating the borough ordinance against fast riding on the streets.

Democrats Getting Ready.

Major Dennis F. Collins, chairman of the Democratic central committee, of Elizabeth, will call a meeting of the committee for next week. The meeting will be an important one, and it is expected that every member of the committee will be present.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION DATE.

Fixed at Meeting of County Committee Last Night.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26TH.

THE PRIMARIES WILL BE HELD MONDAY, OCTOBER 23D.

The Delegates Will be Apportioned One to Every Fifty Republican Voters or Fraction Thereof Over Twenty-five—New Basis for Representation on the County Committee Is Proposed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 7.—The Republican county convention will be held at Elizabeth, Thursday, October 26th. So it was decided at the meeting of the G. O. P. county executive committee held here last evening. The meeting was well attended, Plainfield's members present being George Patton and William N. Runyon, of the Second ward; Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, of the Third ward, and William Newcorn, of the Fourth ward. The First ward was not represented.

It was decided to hold the primaries Monday evening, October 23d. The delegates will be apportioned among the different wards, boroughs and townships at the rate of one for every fifty Republican votes or fraction thereof over twenty-five cast for the coroner at the State election last year. The county convention will be held three days later.

An amendment to the constitution was introduced providing for a new basis of representation on the county committee. Heretofore it has been the rule that each ward and township shall have two members on the county committee. The amendment provides that there shall be one from each election district. It will be acted upon at a meeting of the committee called for next Friday evening. The effect of the proposed change will be to give Plainfield one more member on the committee, Elizabeth two more and Rahway five less.

GAS RATES TO DROP.

Old Company Announces a Reduction Which Goes Into Effect the First of November.

The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company announced this morning that a new schedule of rates for the use of gas manufactured by them will go into effect November 1st. After that date gas used for illumination will be sold for $1.50 per thousand feet subject to a discount of ten cents a thousand feet for prompt payment, making a net rate of $1.40. When the commodity is used for fuel purposes it will be charged at the same gross rate, subject to a discount of 25 cents a thousand feet for prompt payment, making the net rate $1.25. The company announces that the reduction is in pursuance of the established policy of reducing the rates the first of November every year.

STOLEN RIG HEARD FROM

D. C. Smalley Receives Word That His Missing Rig Was Seen in Newark.

David C. Smalley heard of his stolen rig last evening through Expressman George Conover, of the borough, who was in Newark yesterday. He met Mr. Smalley's man and rig at Newark, and the man told Mr. Conover that he was on his way to Brooklyn to take part in some races. The latter not having heard of the disappearance of man and rig, was not especially interested in the matter. As soon as Mr. Smalley heard this he went to Brooklyn, hoping to catch the man and rig there. This morning he telephoned to this city that as yet he had not seen or heard of the missing property.

STRUCK ON THE HEAD.

Club Used for Chestnutting Fell With Disastrous Result.

James Gunning and Fred Kleiner, boys about twelve years of age, went after hickory nuts last Thursday afternoon over on the Green brook road. The boys took along with them some wagon spokes to use in clubbing trees. Master Gunning, of Wilson avenue, who appeared to be the most expert at throwing at the tree, met with quite a severe accident. One of the heavy spokes in falling from the tree struck him on the back of the head rendering him unconscious. He was taken to his home and lay in a comatose state for several hours. Dr. Adams was called to attend him. He is out of danger at present.

Bartow's Band to Play.

William M. Bartow's celebrated military band has been engaged by the Exempt Firemen's Association for the firemen's parade in North Plainfield next Thursday.

SAYS WAR IS INEVITABLE.

President Kruger Makes This Declaration on Closing the Volksraad.

BOERS REMAIN ARMED.

But Transvaal Will Not Assume the Aggressive Unless Forced to by Great Britain.

Kruger Denies That the Transvaal Troops Have Invaded British Territory—Englishman Likely to Be Shot for Enrolling Troops for the Light Horse Brigade.

Pretoria, Oct. 7.—President Kruger in an interview denies that Transvaal troops have invaded British territory. He said the South African Republic had no intention of acting on the aggressive unless forced to by Great Britain's militant attitude in massing troops in the direction of the borders or sending heavy reinforcements from over the sea.

The Volkstein, the official organ of the South African Republic, accuses Mr. Hofmyer, the Afrikander leader, and Prime Minister Schreiner of Cape Colony, who were reported to be on their way to Pretoria to prevent war, of backsliding. It expresses the hope that they will see the character of the British policy. The Boers, the Volkstein adds, will not lay down their arms except on the express understanding that the present crisis shall be brought to a close; that the British soldiers shall be removed from the borders; that no further mention be made by Great Britain of suzerainty over the Transvaal and that there shall be no further British demands.

Mr. Conyngham Greene, the British agent to the Transvaal, is ill.

President Kruger, in closing the Volksraad, declared that war was inevitable. Private advices from the Transvaal report that an Englishman of the name of Robertson has been arrested for enrolling recruits to a light horse brigade. It is likely that he will be shot.

Sees No Reason for War.

London, Oct. 7.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, speaking at Maidstone on the Transvaal situation, said he did not believe the last word had been said. "War," said he, "is indeed stated to be inevitable, but it is a remarkable thing that when the question was asked: "What is it we are going to war for?" no answer could be given." Could it really be that war was inevitable? he asked. Had this country ever gone into a great war in this state of uncertainty?

The Boers, he said, were sensitive on the question of suzerainty, because they regarded it as a symbol of ultimate designs on their independence. He found fault with the British newspapers for viewing the situation lightly. The British soldiers, he said, would be victorious, and both the Transvaal and Orange republics would be conquered. But such a war would leave behind it racial hatred and anger that it would take generations to overcome. Sir Henry appealed to the country to save South Africa from a war, the grounds for which were wholly insufficient.

Wife Fatally Shoots Her Husband.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Patrick O'Shay, a carpenter, living at 6,215 Peoria street was shot and probably fatally wounded by his wife Mary, after a terrific struggle, in which, it is said, he had sought to take her life with a knife. The shooting is said by the police to have been in self-defence. The woman is now locked up at the Englewood station. Long-continued abuse, she explains, drove here to commit the crime.

Jockey Sloan Injured.

London, Oct. 7.—Just as Sloan mounted Latheronwheel, in the paddock, prior to going to the post, the horse reared, throwing the jockey and rolling over him. Sloan was carried to the weighing-room, where it was found that his injuries, though painful, were not serious. Previous to the accident Sloan rode Democrat in the race for the Imperial Plate and finished second.

Erricson Monument Unveiled.

Gothenberg, Sweden, Oct. 7.—An immense number of people participated in the ceremony of unveiling a statue of John Erricson, engineer and designer of the Monitor type of war ship, which he produced for the United States Navy in 1862. One of the features of the occasion was the singing of forty thousand school children. All Sweden was represented.

Massachusetts' Republican Ticket.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The Massachusetts Republican State Convention nominated Lieutenant Governor Crane, for Governor. Hosea M. Knowlton, of New Bedford, for Attorney General and William N. Olin, of Boston, for Secretary of State. J. W. Kimball, of Fitchburg received the nomination for State Auditor on the first ballot.

The Ramapos Will Report.

Albany, Oct. 7.—State Controller Morgan has been notified by Charles A. Lamont, secretary of the Ramapo Water Company, that he will "within a few days" file a report of the companys' affairs. This notification is in response to the Controller's demand for a statement as the State law directs.

Armored Transport Lost.

Neuvitas, Cuba, Oct. 7.—The Haytian Government steamer Defense, used as an armed transport, has gone ashore near Fortune Island, in the Bahamas, and will prove a total wreck All on board were saved.

Two Nominations for Assembly.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Warren County Republican Convention has renominated Charles H. Hitchcock for member of Assembly. The Saratoga county Democrats have nominated A. P. Knapp for member of Assembly.

MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

No Further Arrests Made In Dobbins Murder Case.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 7.—Marcus Hennion, who was arrested on suspicion of being the murderer of his father-in-law, Nicholas W. Dobbins, whose body was found buried under a pile of stones in West Caldwell on last Monday, still is in the County jail here. The prisoner's wife with her brother, Judson Van Ness, called at the jail to see her husband, but Warden Underhill referred her to Prosecutor Riker. Later Hennion's father called at the jail expecting to see his son, but he, too, was sent to the prosecutor's office.

When the Prosecutor reached his office, and Mrs. Hennion at once was ushered into his presence. Former Judge John L. Johnson, who has been retained as counsel by Hennion, and her brother accompanied her. The latter two came out shortly afterward, and Mrs. Hennion and the Prosecutor were alone for some time.

Mrs. Hennion succeeded in obtaining permission from the Prosecutor to have a ten-minute talk with her husband in the presence of an official, so she went at once to the jail. Prosecutor Riker said:

"There is absolutely nothing new in the case. I do not expect that any other arrests will be made, and no warrants have been asked for. The Grand Jury is in session, and the case may be called to its attention at any time. Everything possible is being done to unravel the mystery, and I shall expect the press to communicate to me anything tangible that it may gather."

When shown a story published, to the effect that four warrants were to be issued for persons named in the story, Prosecutor Riker said he knew nothing about it, and that such action was not expected by his office. He added that he would know if any such action was about to be taken. Prosecutor Riker further said he had never heard of the minister named in the article.

Hennion vehemently denies that he is guilty of the charge against him.

Prominent Guests at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The arrival of Chicago's Fall Festival guests began with the coming of Don Manuel de Aspiroz, Mexican Ambassador to Washington, who reached the city and was met by a reception committee and escorted to the Auditorium annex by Troop A of the 1st Cavalry, the Mexican National band, and Phinney's Iowa State band. Last night the first train left to meet the special train carrying other distinguished visitors, when United States Marshal Ames started for Mattoon to join the party of Minister Mariscal of Mexico.

The arrival of visitors began in such numbers that all incoming trains have been crowded and the hotel rotundas are packed. The greater crush of people in the downtown streets at night give indication that festival visitors already are here in great crowds.

It is the general opinion that if the weather continues favorable Chicago will hold a crowd within its confines during the President's stay here that will severely tax the power of the city to care for guests. All the railroads are in receipt of the same information from all points within 150 miles of Chicago.

Don't Want Roberts Seated.

New York, Oct. 7.—At a meeting of women held here to protest against the seating of Congressman-elect Roberts of Utah, owing to the fact that he is living in polygamy, Miss Helen Gould made the following statement:

"I am glad to have an opportunity to protest against the seating in Congress of a man who advocates and practices polygamy.

"Our country has been noted in the past for the beauty of its home life and the chivalry and respect shown by men to women. It would be sad, indeed, to see a man who stands for the Oriental harem seated among our lawmakers. I earnestly hope that men will feel willing to write to their Congressmen, urging them to rise in protest against Mr. Roberts when Congress opens."

Murdered for Insurance Money.

London, Oct. 7.—According to the Montevideo correspondent of the Times, the discovery has been made there that a syndicate exists which has been insuring the lives of poor persons and murdering them in order to collect the insurance money. Three cases of the sort are known to have occurred from which the promoters of the scheme netted $50,000. The syndicate has other policies amounting to $150,000. The ringleaders have been arrested. The Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York is said to be affected.

Crowds Witnessing Yacht Race.

New York, Oct. 7.—Interest in the yacht races between the Columbia and Shamrock is at fever heat here and enthusiasm among the lovers of this class of sport runs high. The two events which have resulted in "no race" have served to draw out an immense throng of spectators to witness the race to-day between Mr. Iselin's pride and Sir Thomas Lipton's green flyer, over the thirty-mile course off Sandy Hook. It is estimated that there are at least 300,000 people witnessing the event this afternoon.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 7.—The stock market was deadly dull, with prices showing gains over the closing figures of last evening. There were very heavy withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England to-day, supposedly for Egypt and Cape requirements. American houses made fresh inquiries for gold, notwithstanding all the markets were strong. Americans particularly so.

A Specific for Cancer.

"THE MISSISQUOI SPRING WATER has in some cases seemed to be of great benefit in arresting the progress of the disease. In a few instances, one of cancer of the breast and four of uterine cancer, the apparent effect has been more striking than any results I have seen from any other agent."
Fordyce Barker, M. D.

"I can fully endorse all that my friend Dr. Barker has said about the MISSISQUOI SPRING WATER. I have prescribed it with benefit in a few cases of cancer. I also consider it a great remedy in all scrofulous diseases, and in syphilitic affections. In these diseases its true value has not yet been fully recognized by the profession. It is also an admirable remedy in affections of the digestive organs, and in some diseases of the kidneys."

LOST HER CARGO OF MULES

The Transport Siam Arrives at Manila in a Badly Battered Condition.

SWEPT BY HEAVY SEAS.

A Series of Typhoons Kills and Cripples All But Nineteen of 330 Valuable Animals.

The Mules Hurled From Side to Side of the Vessel and Frightfully Mangled — Deckload and Everything Movable Washed Overboard. Tagal Trouble About Ended.

Manila, Oct. 7.—The United States transport Siam, which left San Francisco August 19, with upward of 330 valuable mules, the coming of which had been anxiously awaited, as mules are in great demand for continuing the campaign, arrived and reported that all but nineteen animals had been lost in two severe typhoons.

The Siam, which left Honolulu a month ago, encountered the storms early this week. One lasted forty hours. Most of the forage, which was on deck, was swept overboard, all the boats were smashed and the steamer rolled tremendously in the trough of the sea, although the officers made every effort to bring her about.

The mules were hurled from side to side and frightfully mangled and disemboweled. Their legs and necks were broken, and the wretched animals fell in such a confused mass that the attendants were unable to relieve them.

In the meantime the deckload was washed off, the ship lightened and the rolling increased. When the storm abated the injured animals were killed and their carcasses thrown overboard.

When the Siam arrived her propeller was high out of the water and the wrecks of her boats were hanging from the davits.

Drawing to a Close.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Admiral Dewey has expressed the opinion that the Tagal insurrection is on its last legs. At the conference between the Admiral and the members of the Dewey Home Fund committee, reference was made to a press despatch from Manila, which said that Aguinaldo was sending Filipino soldiers to their homes to resume the raising of crops. The reason assigned for this action of Aguinaldo was that he wanted to keep the country as productive as possible.

Admiral Dewey told the members of the committee that he had no reason to doubt the truth of the statement, and that there was every reason to believe that it was true. He did not agree with the supposition that Aguinaldo wanted to keep the country productive in order to obtain supplies for his army. In the Admiral's opinion the meaning of the movement back to the farms, granting that the report is true, is that Aguinaldo sees that his cause is hopeless and is merely preparing for the re-establishment of normal conditions in Luzon. The soldiers who are farmers will not return to the army, he thinks, and Aguinaldo does not intend that they shall.

The impression made by the Admiral's words on his hearers was that he is convinced that the disintegration of the Tagal army has begun, and looks for an ending of the rebellion within a short time. He said to the members of the Committee that the Tagals were intelligent people, who had undoubtedly seen that they had no chance of success against the United States and were resuming peaceful occupations in preparing for the establishment of normal conditions.

Grant Rou s Filipinos.

Manila, Oct. 7.—General Grant, with three companies of the Fourth infantry, two companies of the Fourteenth infantry and a band of scouts attached to the former regiment, advanced from Imus, driving the rebels from the entire west bank of Imus River. Three Americans were wounded. It is estimated that ten of the Filipinos were killed.

Companies C and H, with the scouts, crossed the river at Big Bend and advanced westward in the direction of the Binacayan road, the natives firing volleys, but retiring. Twenty Filipinos were found intrenched in the Binacayan church, about midway between Bacoor and Cavite Viejo. These were routed, six being killed.

Naval Officers for Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The Navy Department has made several changes in the makeup of the force of officers who will be sent to the Philippines with the war ships which have been ordered to reinforce Rear Admiral Watson's squadron. Many of the officers now on the Brooklyn and other vessels ordered to Manila will leave those vessels at once and will be replaced by men from ships that are to remain in the North Atlantic station.

Picked up Shipwracked Sailors.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—The British ship Gifford, which has arrived here, had on board five sailors of the steamship Tekoa, which ran on an unchartrock at the south of the Straits of Lemaire on Aug. 7. When the Tekoa struck, Second Officer Barnes and four seamen, Yeates, Warner, Finelly and Parkiss, believing that she would founder, got into a boat and rowed away. The Tekoa was subsequently saved and put into Montevideo for repairs. It was believed that the men who took to the boat had been lost, as nothing was seen of them until the Gifford brought them to this port.

Kid Lavigne Knocked Out.

New York, Oct. 7.—Kid Lavigne was knocked out in the nineteenth round by George McFadden, of New York at the Broadway Athletic Club. The fight was to have been a twenty-five round bout. Lavigne was badly punished.

WANTS A MODEST HOME.

Admiral Dewey Expresses His Wishes to Home Fund Comittee.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Admiral Dewey met by appointment at the Navy Department the members of the committee in charge of the Dewey home fund and expressed to them his wishes in regard to the residence to be presented to him.

After the Admiral had made known his desire to have a residence already completed, he explained that he wanted it modest enough to have the price of the house and all its furnishings included within the limit of the fund, which now amounts to more than $50,000. He astonished the committee by his familiarity with the situation of houses in the northwest section of the city. He appeared to know every fine dwelling house in that part of town, and told how he liked certain of them and why. The Admiral said he wanted his house to be situated west of Sixteenth street, generally in the northwest section, and was particular that it should have a southern exposure.

During the conference the Admiral said he was particularly gratified over the large number of subscriptions to the fund, more than 43,000 persons having contributed. He said that he would not have accepted the gift if it had come from a few rich men, but he considered it as much a gift of the people as the sword which he received at the Capitol.

The Admiral will leave here on Monday for Vermont. He will return to Washington some time in the following week, and in the interim the committee will secure proposals from persons who have suitable houses to sell.

Were Chased by Savages.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 7.—Dr. W. Vaughn, an American who has worked up a large trade among the people of New Guinea, narrowly escaped being captured by the natives a few weeks ago. The news of his experience has been brought here by the steamship Aorangi. Early in September the doctor, with several men, went on a trading and scientific trip up the Musa River and inadvertently came into an unfriendly territory and was compelled to retreat hastily to his launch. In the middle of the river the machinery broke down, and the boat drifted helplessly with the current. The natives ran along the shore hurling spears at those in the craft, while others followed the party in war canoes. Several of the men were wounded. A sail was rigged up and the launch got out of reach of the savages.

Country Bank Clearings.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The new country clearing features of the Boston Clearing House has proved a success. It was begun June 8, and the total daily business now amounts to more than $1,000,000. Four hundred and ninety-one country banks now clear through the Boston house. Maine banks were admitted Sept. 21, and within a few weeks banks in Rhode Island and Connecticut are to be included.

Pacific Coast Wants Representation.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—The San Francisco Board of Trade sent the following telegram to President McKinley. "The Board of Trade of San Francisco earnestly asks your consideration of the large and important interest west of the Rocky Mountains, by appointing a representative from California or the Pacific coast to fill vacancy now existing in the Interstate Commerce Commission."

No Final Agreement Reached.

Washington, Oct. 7.—No progress has been made toward a final agreement upon a modus vivendi, fixing the Alaska boundary, even temporarily, since the tentative scheme framed by Secretary Hay and Mr. Tower, the British charge, was sent to London for ratification. So far as is known here, the London authorities are waiting upon the action of the Canadians.

Packers Have a Grievance.

Brisbane, Queensland, Oct. 7.—Astonishment and dissatisfaction are expressed in commercial and political circles here at the news that the British war office has placed large orders for canned meats in the United States. As a matter of fact, Queensland canners, anticipating a large demand, had prepared increased stocks, which will now possibly be a drug on their hands.

Labor Leaders Disagree.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Dissensions are reported among the leaders of the strike at La Creusot on account of the decision to accept the arbitration of the government. The Echo de Paris says that in anticipation of the march of the strikers on Paris ten battalions of infantry are ready to proceed to bar the roads to the strikers.

Boers Eject Kaffirs.

Johannesburg, Oct. 7.—The government is ejecting thousands of Kaffir miners from the Rand and sending them into the northern districts of the Transvaal, in order to avoid the danger of a collision with the whites in the event of war. The Irish corps supporting the Boers has started for the frontier.

Want War Tax Removed.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The convention of the Mississippi Medical Association spent considerable time in discussing a resolution, introduced by Dr. H. M. Meyer, president-elect, asking for the repeal of the internal revenue tax on drugs and medicial and surgical appliances. The motion was tabled.

Will Bar Spanish Flags.

Havana, Oct. 7.—The mayor of Havana, Senor Perfecto Lacasto, has issued an order directing that no Spanish flag shall be displayed in the city of Havana, except at the Spanish consulate. It is believed that the action is to give rise to considerable hostile criticism.

Miners Riot in Australia.

Perth, South Australia, Oct. 7.—There has been serious rioting at Kalgoolie. Hundreds of miners have rushed various claims and removed the ore in defiance of a strong force of police, whom they beat off with picks and shovels. Reinforcements have been despatched to the scene of disturbance.

QUINCY HONORS M'KINLEY.

Holiday Declared for the Entertainment of the President.

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 7.—President McKinley and the members of the Cabinet arrived in Quincy and left the train for the first time since their departure for the West. The citizens had taken advantage of the fact that the Presidential party would pass through the place on its way to Galesburg and Chicago, and made plans for a "McKinley Day." It was a holiday in the city, all factories and business places were closed and such crowds as would be expected to turn out in a town of 45,000 inhabitants and from outlying districts, were on the streets. There was a parade of military and civic organizations the President's party being first escorted to the soldier's home. There Major McKinley visited the hospital and spoke a kind word to each of the sick. Coming from the hospital he addressed the 1,600 veterans and others from a stand on the lawn. Then the procession moved on toward the town, a mile away, and the President made a longer speech form a stand, erected almost on the very spot where Lincoln and Douglas spoke forty-one years ago, when they held one of their joint debates.

Arranged for a Plebiscite.

City of Mexico, Oct. 7.—The National Liberal party committee announces that it has arranged to take a plebiscite of citizens in order to ascertain their preference for a candidate for president in the elections next year, and the committeemen say that the National Liberal nominating committee is to ratify the popular choice thus ascertained. The committee is composed of non-office holders. The new political movement attracts much attention, as it is a complete novelty in the politics of Mexico, although when Gen. Diaz was nominated for president for the present term, a little over four years ago, it was by a convention of Liberals representing all the states and territories of the Republic. The plebiscite is a new idea and is designed to secure a free and complete expression of the popular will.

The X-ray Restores Sight.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Harriet Heilbuth, five years old and for two years blind and a paralytic, has had her sight and the use of her limbs restored through the agency of the X-rays. Two years ago the child fell from a porch to the sidewalk, a distance of sixteen feet, striking on her head. The fall left her totally blind and with her right side paralyzed. A few days ago the X-rays were applied and revealed a tumor the size of an egg pressing on the brain. The skull was trephined directly over the cyst as shown in the skiagraph and the tumor was removed. The child was able to move her limbs on recovering consciousness and is now gradually recovering her sight.

To Build a Railroad in Hawaii.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Through the efforts of Herbert B. Gehr, a Chicagoan, a company has been formed which proposes to build the first railroad on the island of Hawaii. The charter for the Kohala and Hilo Railway Company, the new corporation, was obtained from President Dole by Mr. Gehr on June 26. The capital stock of $3,000,000 has been subscribed, mostly by persons of New York and Boston. On Oct. 24 Mr. Gehr will return to Hawaii with an engineer to have a final consultation with the engineer who is now surveying the route.

Rumors of Filibustering.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 7.—The famous filibustering tugs Three Friends and Dauntless, after having received extra big loads of coal and some mysterious-looking packages, slipped off to sea at midnight. Both vessels had double crews, extra firemen and engineers, and Capt. John Myers is in command of both. Capt. James Floyd, of filibustering fame, is on the Dauntless, and Capt. Charles White, the oldest Bahama pilot, is also on board.

Brazil Likes America.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Col. Charles Page Bryan, United States Minister to Brazil, is in Chicago on a month's leave of absence, having arrived here from Washington. Col. Bryan says he believes that there are excellent prospects for continued increase in this country's commercial intercourse with Brazil. He says the Brazilians are friendly to the people of this country and universally desired the success of the Americans in the Spanish war.

Hanna Will Speak in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 7.—In addition to Gov. Roosevelt coming to Nebraska to run over Bryan's territory and deliver five-minute speeches from the rear of a special train, Senator Hanna will entertain a large share of Nebraska people with his speeches. The National Committee reports that Senator Hanna will deliver a number of speeches in Nebraska at an early date.

Chancellor to Be Removed.

Cologne, Oct. 7.—The leading Ultramontane organ, the Volks Zeitung, declares that the Conservatives have succeeded in the systematic efforts they have made for the removal of Prince Hohenlohe as the head of the cabinet. The Emperor has returned to Berlin from his visit to Sweden, and decided to remove the present Imperial Chancellor.

AN INCREASE IN EXPORTS

Those of Present Year Likely to Be the Largest in the Country's History.

HELPS MANUFACTURERS.

Some of the Facts Shown By Government Treasury Statistics From Month to Month.

The Increase in Exports of Iron, Steel and Cotton, of a Very Gratifying Nature—Material for Manufacture and Tropical Food Stuffs Form the Principal Imports.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Manufacturers' material and manufacturers' products form an important share in the increased imports and exports which the Treasury Bureau of Statistics is now recording from month to month. The imports of the eight months ending with August are $88,000,000 larger than the very low imports of the corresponding months of last year, and the exports for the eight months exceed by about $12,000,000 the phenomenally high figures of the same months last year. Indeed, it seems probable that the exports of the calendar year 1899 will be the largest of any calendar year in the country's history, while the imports, though much above last year, are more than thirty millions below those of the corresponding months of 1897.

In the growth of both imports and exports, the manufacturers of the country have had an important part indeed, the increase in exports is almost solely due to the growth in exportation of manufactures, but for which the exports of the year would fall below those of last year. As to the increase in imports, it is divided between materials for manufacturers and tropical food-stuffs, which we are unable to supply from home production.

The exportation of manufactures in the eight months ending with August is $45,000,000 greater than in the corresponding months of last year, an increase of 22 per cent. During the eight months of 1899, the export of manufactures has averaged more than $1,000,000 per day, including Sundays and holidays, the total for the 243 days being $246,228,916, while in the same months of last year the total export of manufactures was $201,444,606. Of this increase in exports of manufactures, iron and steel forms the largest export item, the total value of iron and steel and their manufactures exported in the eight months ending with August being $68,008,071, against $52,925,082 in the corresponding months of last year. Cotton manufactures also show a gratifying increase, the exports of the eight months of 1899 being $16,861,023, against $12,877,088 in the corresponding months of last year, while the exports of refined or manufactured mineral oil amount to $35,744,586 against $31,353,657 in the corresponding months of last year.

In importation, the increase is largely in articles used in manufacturing and the classes of food-stuffs not produced in the United States in sufficient quantities to meet local requirements. Most of these, whether material for the manufacturers of food-stuffs, are the product of tropical or sub-tropical regions. Crude rubber shows an increase from $17,418,404 in the eight months of last year, to $22,860,318 in the same period of 1899; unmanufactured vegetable fibres, including hemp, sisal and jute, increased from $11,989,146 to $14,377,758; raw silk from $16,639,211 to $23,452,903; hides and skins from $27,748,084, to $32,606,820, while raw cotton, unmanufactured tobacco, lumber and chemicals used in manufacturing also showed an increase. In food-stuffs, cacao increased from $2,545,410 to $3,874,522; coffee from $38,748,448 to $41,632,301; fruits and nuts from $8,814,233 to $12,353,612, and sugar from $53,974,078 to $76,385,240.

The Government Accused.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Notice has been served on Postmaster George Smith by the International Postal Supply Company of New York, with headquarters at Syracuse, that stamp cancelling machines in use by the Department are infringements upon patents held by them. The notice cites the one in use in the Syracuse post-office and states further that proceedings will at once be instituted in the United States Court asking for an injunction to restrain their use. The matter was referred to the Attorney General for the Department. Mr. Barrett, for an opinion. To what extent this alleged infringement affects the machines used by the Department it is not known. If any action is taken by the International Supply Company it must be made against the individual post-masters as the United States cannot be sued, unless by the consent of Congress.

Another Aeronaut Crippled.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Aeronaut Allen, who has been making daily ascensions at Dansville in connection with the street fair being held there, met with an accident that will end his career as a baloonist even if he survives. Although the wind was blowing dangerously hard he attempted the ascension as advertised. His balloon was hurled violently to one side, precipitating the aeronaut into the telegraph wires, breaking his hold on the trapeze and throwing him headlong to the ground, twenty-five feet below. Allen sustained serious internal injuries, from which he will never recover.

The Detroit Turns About.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The Navy Department has received a telegram from Captain Hemphill of the cruiser Detroit, announcing the arrival of that vessel at Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, and her immediate departure thence for La Guayra, where she had been prior to going to Puerto Cabello. No explanation of this movement was contained in the despatch and Captain Hemphill did not give any information about political conditions in the country.

Reed and Thompson.

By the use of an old argument and sharp practices Chancery Clerk Thompson hoped to outwit Senator Reed and secure control of the coming Somerset county Republican convention before the delegates met together. But in the first crossing of political swords between these two eminent G. O. P. men the Tall Sycamore succeeded in forestalling the purpose of his political adversary, and when the convention meets it will undoubtedly possess as many Reed adherents as it does Thompson followers.

There the tug-of-war between the two men will have to be fought out, and it promises to be an interesting fight, too. Though for years Chancery Clerk Thompson was the undisputed leader among Somerset Republicans, he has for the past two years been compelled to acknowledge that his erstwhile protege, the Honorable Senator from North Plainfield borough, has a following in the bailiwick which must be regarded with not a little importance when counting upon the various influences in party councils.

The day seems to have passed when it could be said that Mr. Thompson carried the Somerset county Republican vote around in his vest pocket.

Intelligent Voters!

There is urgent need in this country of some sort of a strict and thorough examination into the intelligence of applicants for naturalization as citizens of this great and glorious Republic. There are thousands of men made voters by naturalization laws every year who are no more fitted for holding the voting power than the densest subject of the Sultan of Sulu. Their knowledge and appreciation of the Government which they claim to swear allegiance to is as uncertain as the breezes that the Shamrock and Columbia have faced in their two trials of speed, and yet as fickle and fallacious as it is they are clothed with the same power to express a voice in the management of the government as the man who may have made political economy a life-long study.

As an evidence of what kind of intelligence is accepted as sufficient to make a foreigner a citizen of these United States, the Jersey City News reports the following as having occurred in the Hudson County Court:

"What is the Constitution of the United States?" asked Judge Blair through Interpreter Filaramo of a swarthy native of sunny Italy, who was anxious to become a citizen of this great and glorious Republic.

"A book," replied the intelligent applicant.

"Who is the Mayor of Jersey City," the Court asked another intending citizen.

"I don't know," was the reply.

"Who is Vice-President of the United States?"

"Washington."

"How many members of the Assembly are there from this county?"

"Two," very confidently.

"How many Senators from this county?"

"Two."

"What does the Legislature do?"

"Everything."

"That answer is pretty nearly right," soliloquized the Court, as he ordered Sergeant-at-Arms Mitchell to administer the oath that made a citizen of this intelligent applicant.

Think of it! Such twaddle as this being accepted as sufficient reason for making a citizen and voter.

The Democrats of Mercer county met at Hopewell yesterday afternoon and nominated their ticket. James E. Burke, secretary and treasurer of the Princeton Savings Bank, was nominated for sheriff. For surrogate the convention nominated Francis B. Lee, son of ex-Supreme Court Clerk Benjamin F. Lee. For Assembly, Rockhill Hart, Wm. J. Walsh and Lewis A. Marshall were nominated.

The Trenton District Court has decided that it is worth $144 to train a dog in proper manner. The chroniclers fail to say whether or not the man who was called upon to pay this amount expressed his thoughts, and if he did, what the tariff was.

Senator Reed is developing considerable skill as a golf player. He now holds forth a position in the McCutchen cup tournament at the Plainfield Park Angle. The Senator is developing his muscles preparatory to the political fight he expects to engage in shortly.—Somerset Democrat.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Millburn Township is in the enviable condition of not having a single pauper to look after. The last charge of the township was removed from the Poor Farm at White Oak Ridge last Tuesday. This was a woman, seventy-five years old, who had been at the farm for eight years. At one time her late husband was a prosperous resident of Millburn. The woman was taken away to end her days at the home of a daughter in Jersey City.

The danger that threatens the traveler at night at the Park avenue crossing of the Lehigh Valley road, owing to the absence of a watchman at that point, is still the subject of much comment among the citizens of Plainfield. It would appear as though there was as much need of a watchman at this crossing at night as in the day time. To be sure, there may not be as many trains passing at night as in the daytime, but the danger from these which do pass is just as great. The Common Council would serve the public if it would take steps to compel the Lehigh Valley road to station a flagman at this crossing, which is decidedly dangerous in the unprotected condition which at present exists.

It is interesting to note the large number of young men that are taking advantage of the benefits to be had by membership in the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, an institution which offers inducements for body building superior to anything else one can name. It would surprise some readers of The Daily Press to be told that of the number of young men who are members of this branch of the Y. M. C. A., there are a great many men of middle age who are much interested in this healthy exercise. Besides developing one's muscles the "gym" serves to divert the mind for the time being from the cares of business. While vigorous exercise in building up the body it is also unconsciously building up the mind, and by so doing prolongs life.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The theatre-going public has grown accustomed to expect a good entertainment from any of the operas of de-Koven & Smith, and the visit of "The Highwayman" at Music Hall, next Wednesday night, is looked forward to with interest. In the story, there is much more love episode than is to be found in the current run of light operas, but it does not lack comedy of the kind that one can laugh at without afterwards regretting. The company presenting the opera is noted for the excellence of its singers, and the finished and artistic quality of its performance. The chorus is large, attractive to look at, and of reasonant power. The music is known to have been written in deKoven's happiest mood, and it includes the jingle and easily followed rythm that place the composer's melodies among the most popular of the times.

"Knobs O' Tennessee," a new play by Hal Reid, will be presented at Music Hall a week from tonight. The scene, as the name would imply, is laid in the foothills of Tennessee, and tells a very pretty story of the life among the green-covered hills. The main theme is the love of a pretty girl for a mountain chieftain, "Joe Preston," who, although an outlaw and ragged mountaineer, has a warm heart beneath his gray woolen shirt. Comedy has not been overlooked by the author, and plenty of laughable incidents occur throughout the play. The scenery is an especial feature. The "Whispering Pines in the Moonlight" is one of the most beautiful scenes ever placed upon any stage.

The New York World said: "Indisdisputably one of the rarest treats of the season was the appearance of William Barry in his great play of 'The Rising Generation,'" which is to be seen at Music Hall Thursday night of next week. The play is one of rare merit and abounds in genuine wit and humor, produced in superb manner by a strong cast of ladies and gentlemen, with special new scenery representing famous localities in New York city. A special feature of the performance will be the introduction between acts of George Felix and Lydia Barry in their laughable sketch, eatitled "The Vaudeville Craze," which is said to be the most popular sketch ever written.

At the Broadway Theatre, New York, Manager Jacob Litt's magnificent production of the great European success "The Ghetto" is attracting unusual attention from the play-going public. Probably no new play this season has received more favorable newspaper criticisms, and the opinion of the critics has been sustained by the general public who are quick to recognize a dramatic success. At the present time there are few plays of a serious trend on the boards of a metropolitan theatre, which makes "The Getto" all the more welcome to that large contingent of play-goers who prefer a strong dramatic play to a lighter sort of entertainment. The heroine of the drama is a Christian maiden and the hero a Jewish youth of liberal mind and musical genius and there is developed an extremly romatic love story. The scene is laid in the city of Amsterdam early in the present century. The story is simply told but it makes its appeal direct to the heart and stirs the emotions by its sincerity, truth and unconventionality. The types of character shown are new and novel, the scenes stirring and the climaxes very effective. The company give a most artistic performance throughout and nothing is laking to make "The Ghetto" a most praiseworthy production. The company includes Joseph Haworth, Grace Filkins, Mrs. McKee Rankin, Emmett Corrigan, Sidney Herbert, Samuel Edwards, Bijou Fernandez and other popular metropolitan players.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 7.—Rev. John W. Richardson of the Park Avenue Baptist church of Plainfield occupied the pulpit at the Seventh-day Baptist church this morning. Mr. Richardson will also preach the next two Sabbaths.

The board of registry will sit at the borough hall on the 10th inst. Some of the citizens are complaining because the street commissioner does not keep the gutters better cleaned. It appears to be a question whether it is the duty of the borough authorities or the property owners.

The children to be confirmed at St. John's church will receive their first communion tomorrow. Confirmation will be administered by Bishop McFaul at Somerville next Sunday evening. The class will number about fifteen.

The wedding of Miss Caroline Fisher and Charles B. Mattis will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fisher, next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. It will be a private affair.

Rev. Charles E. Phelps, of New Brunswick, will officiate at Holy Innocents church tomorrow morning. There will no services in the afternoon. The Sunday-school will meet at the usual hour.

Lewis T. Titsworth was presented with a Past High Chief Ranger's jewel at the recent annual meeting of the High Court, I. O. F.

Peter Friday, of Warrenville, exhibited a box of strawberries a few days ago which he presented to Postmaster Dealaman.

The friends of William Polhemus will gather at his home this evening and give him an old-fashioned housewarming.

Mrs. J. W. Grigge, of New Brunswick, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Staats.

Robert Smith, who has been living with the family of A. F. Warden, has returned to Brooklyn.

Rev. J. A. Harper, of New York, will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church tomorrow.

Rev. Wesley Martin, of Flemington, will exchange pulpits with Rev. Dr. Jamison tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor and Mrs. C. D. Taylor have been visiting in Montreal.

Mrs. Catharine Maier is visiting with Mrs. William Conley, at Port Reading.

Thomas Collins, who has been living in the Todd flat, has moved to New York.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, October 7.—The Fanwood Borough ordinance relating to the hack service at the depot is causing a great deal of disatisfaction among the several hacks stationed there. A yearly license fee of $1 for a driver and $1 for each cab is charged. In addition to this ordinance fixes the charges for cab service. Each hack must deliver passengers anywhere in the borough for 25 cents per head. Some of the residents live all of a mile from the station and the hackmen claim the rate of fare has been placed at such a small figure that there can be nothing made.

No effort has been made by the trolley company to improve the Park avenue crossing, which they tore up when the trolley extension was begun. The crossing during wet weather is no better than a mud hole, some of the spots varying in depth from three to six inches. The Township Committee should take some action to compel the company to put the crossing in a passable condition.

August Kiemser, who was unfortunate enough to have some molten metal fly into his eye while at work at the Pond Tool Works, Plainfield, several weeks ago, has been taken to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment. It is feared Mr. Kiemser will lose the sight of the injured optic.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed at the Baptist church Sunday morning. Mr. Shott will take for his text "Communion Wine and the Temperance Question," in the evening "What manner of Man is this."

Mrs. James Carter and family, of Washington Valley, will shortly give up their home for a number of years and remove to the Westcott cottage in Fanwood.

John Marsh is making extensive alterations to his Union avenue property. John Schmidt has the contract for the carpenter work.

Twilight Council held their regular weekly meeting in their rooms last night. Business of importance was transacted.

Westfield avenue has received a dressing of crushed stone under the direction of Town Committeeman Bruckman.

Mrs. Hezikiah Hand, of Plainfield, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Jacob V. Coles.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 7—The first arrest to take place in Westfield under the bicycle ordinance took place Thursday evening, when Charles Donaldson, who was riding John Slater's bicycle, was arrested by Justice of the Peace Toucey. Donalson left the wheel for security, and now Slater is wondering how he can get the wheel.

At the annual meeting of the congregation of the Baptist church W. A. Dempsey was elected clerk in place of L. G. Venn, and Messrs. C. F. Conant, W. L. Day, F. B. Jones and C. L. Domnick were elected trustees.

The Protestant Episcopal Convocation will be held for this section at Roselle Tuesday, Oct. 17th. Rev. Floyd Appleton, of Plainfield, will be the preacher, and Rev. H. B. Wright, of Somerville, will be essayist.

To Accommodate

those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

A Wandering Bovine.

Roaming about the city somewhere, there is a Jersey cow with a black head. Yesterday morning that cow had a home at 120 Elmwood place and its wants were provided for by its owner, E. E. Vail. Yesterday morning the spirit of adventure took possession of the bovine mind and forthwith the cow wandered forth without leaving information behind regarding her destination. It is supposed that the cow is safe but the owner is rather anxious at present to know where the animal is.

Returns From Abroad.

Rev. Herman C. Eyme and wife arrived at their Duer street home last evening after an absence of three months at Lichtenberg, Germany, Mr. Eyme's former home. They were passengers on the Columbia, of the Hamburg Line, and spent a most delightful summer abroad.

MUNICIPAL BUSINESS OF THE LOCAL CANADA.

resolution Mr. Valiant explained that the borough counsel gave as his opinion that the Council has the right to remit the interest.

Mr. Clark stated that a survey had been made of the property along Brook avenue from Franklin place past the property owned by J. B. Mills, and it had been found that there were encroachments on property owned by the borough.

Mr. Rogers offered a resolution that several firemen be relieved of the penalty for non-performance of fifty per cent. fire duty, which action the Council has a right to take.

Mr. Burtis stated that the weather was now becoming cool, and as the marshals are wearing summer uniforms he thought it time the Council provided something warmer for them. He offered a resolution that the sum of $150 be expended for new suits, hats and overcoats for the regular marshals.

Mayor Smalley brought up the question of the borough paying off the Watchung avenue indebtedness, as he understood that provisions for such action had to be taken this year. He was informed by Mr. Reed that the Council has two years yet to arrange that matter, and during that time the bonds will have to be paid or a law must be enacted by the Legislature giving an extension of time. It was decided to let the matter rest for a time.

Mr. Rogers offered a resolution accepting the invitation from Warren Engine Company to participate in the firemen's parade next week Thursday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and he hoped that all members of the Council would be present.

Mr. Valiant at this time offered a resolution that the sum of $150 be expended by the Mayor and Council to have the books of the clerk and collector examined by an expert. Mayor Smalley took exception to the resolution and thought that inasmuch as there is a limited amount of money on hand it would be unwise to make such an expenditure. He agreed with Mr. Valiant that it is a great deal to ask the auditing committee to spend so much time in examining the books, but thought that the Council should try and avoid such an expenditure at present.

Mr. Valiant dwelt upon the necessity of having such a person audit the books, but finally agreed to let the matter rest for the present. Mr. Rogers then moved that the resolution lie on the table until the next meeting. This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—VanArsdale makes mention in his ad today of four of his leading shoes for men. You'll find at this store a large stock of shoes in medium and fine grades for everybody, at his well known popular prices.

Will Not Get Their Money Today.

The men working in the street department of the borough will not get their money today, owing to the fact that their bills were not sent to Mr. Rogers, a member of the auditing committee on Wednesday evening last according to custom. It has always been the rule to send the bills to the committee before hand, but through an oversight the street bills did not accompany the other ones.

To Build Roselle Sewers.

Patrick Christmas, of this city, was awarded the contract last night to build the sewers on Second avenue in Roselle.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by L. W. Randolph, druggist. Guaranteed.

AN IMPORTANT SALE OF

Manufacturer's SAMPLES.

Commenging Saturday Morning, October 7th.

We have just purchased from one of the largest and best manufacturers of Women's Cloaks their entire line of sample jackets. The lot consists in all of about two hundred garments. The price is just 50c on the dollar, and we propose to sell them on the same basis for a quick sale. Some of these garments were made up early in the season and are two or three inches longer than the prevailing style, but otherwise the shape and style is the latest and best. The garments are perfectly tailored and the fit and finish cannot be surpassed. Many of the styles are represented by only one garment of a kind.

$3.50 for $7.00 Jackets. $3.98 for $8.00 Jackets.
4.50 for 9.00 Jackets. 5.00 for 10.00 Jackets.
5.98 for 12.00 Jackets. 7.50 for 15.00 Jackets.
$10.00 for $20.00 Jackets.

MANUFACTURER'S SAMPLE UNDERSHIRTS.

50c the Garment.

We will place on sale Saturday morning a lot of about five hundred and fifty men's heavy-weight merino and natural wool undershirts representing a manufacturer's sample line.

The actual values range from 75c to $2.00 the garment. Most of the styles are represented by only two or three garments of a kind with no drawers to match.

The Millinery Store — Bonn's, 140 West Front St. — Waists Skirts Petticoats

WORTH REPEATING—

our statement that the BLACK TAFFETA WAISTS we are selling at $3 79 are not equalled elsewhere for less than $5. They are made of soft lustrous taffeta, pure silk, the latest cut, have 24 fine tucks down the front, 4 tucks around collar. Perfect fitting, dressy and serviceable.

THESE DAYS

and evenings a FLANNEL WAIST is a handy garment to have around, several for that matter, so easy to be comfortable, and dressed up, too, for many of them are fit for any occasion. All-wool Flannel Waists, all colors, at $1.39. Other pretty styles at $1.79 and $1.98. Mercerized Satine and Brilliantine Waists $1.98 and $2.69.

QUALITY, STYLE AND ECONOMY

characterizes the Millinery we sell, and variety makes easy choosing. Here are 200 Trimmed Hats, some pretty velvet ones marked as low as $2.98; others up to $15.

Berlin. Rumänien hat kürzlich einen Vertrag behufs Importirung rumänischen Fleisches nach Berlin abgeschlossen.—Hier konstituirte sich eine Kolonialgesellschaft Nordwest-Kamerun mit einem eingezahlten Kapital von 4,000,000 Mark.—Der bei dem Hauptpostamt angestellte Geldbriefträger Gustav Schwartz ist nach Unterschlagung von mindestens 12,000 Mark, die ihm zur Auszahlung von Postanweisungen übergeben wurden, flüchtig geworden.—Als kürzlich Nachmittags der noch rüstige Oberst a. D. Karl Kreffner auf seinem Rade den Augustaplatz zu Groß-Lichterfelde passirte, wurde er von einem Herzschlag getroffen und stürzte entseelt zu Boden.—Aus Unvorsichtigkeit warf der Maurer Bruno Schmaeger bei einem Umbau in der Schönhauser Allee aus dem dritten Stockwerk ein Stück Asphalt heraus, welches dem Arbeiter Wilhelm Petzold auf den Kopf fiel und ihn erschlug.—Dem Fuhrherrn Emil Thien ist die widerrufliche Genehmigung zur versuchsweisen Inbetriebnahme einer Motordroschke ertheilt worden. Regierungsrath v. Glasenapp sowohl wie Polizeihauptmann Vogel waren erst mit dem betreffenden Wagen Probe gefahren.

Letschin. Hier erstach der Besitzer Thieme aus Platkow den Bauernguisbesitzer Gräsling jun. aus Kienwerder. Thieme fuhr auf dem Rade und wurde angeblich von dem Fuhrwerk des Gräsling beim Fahren behindert, was ihn derartig in Wuth brachte, daß er den Gräfling niederstach.

Potsdam. Durch einen Revolverschuß in's Herz getödtet hat sich der 31jährige Reisende Bruno Reiband. Die That ist die Folge von fortgesetzten Unterschlagungen, welche Reiband bei der Großdestillationsfirma C. J. Kalla bis begangen hat. Reiband genoß das Vertrauen seines Chefs in sehr hohem Grade, er war vier Jahre im Geschäft thätig, bewies sich als tüchtiger Kaufmann und sollte am 1. Oktober die Stelle als Geschäftsführer der Firma erhalten.

NEW MATE FOR EDDIE BALD

Downing, the San Jose Ranchman, Will Travel With Him Through 1899.

Eddie Bald has chosen Hardy Downing the San Jose ranchman as his team mate for the season of 1899. Bald in speaking of the new man said:

"Downing first came to my notice upon the occasion of the recent match race with Stevens, at San Jose, and although he was defeated in that event he gave Stevens such a close rub that I made up my mind that with proper coaching Hardy could give all those circuit cracks a hard tussle. He has a spendid burst of speed, and when his sprint is properly developed he will be as fast as any of them. He has a good cool head for competition and a lightning sprint that does my heart good.

"A man has to be a fighter to get through those big bunches on the National Circuit. As near as I can make out, Downing possesses all of these requisites, and with the coaching and assistance I will be able to give him he should be a wonder before the season is over.

The Spinroller Gear.

The plan of this gear consists of two sets of intermeshing, rotary roller teeth, each tooth curving inward to its axis. The rollers are supported at their outer ends by a plate with finger-like projections, which holds the rollers rigidly and prevents them from springing when pressure is placed upon them. In order to obviate pulsing sensations in the feet, such as may be caused by spring or crank hanger if gears intermeshing with line contact are employed, the Spinroller is so constructed that when one roller rolls against another, the working surfaces are in point contact, and for this reason will stand any required degree of deflection. With its simple mechanism the line of contact is always vertical, upward at one end of the shaft and downward at the other. This gear is very responsive to the slightest pressure applied to the pedals, the backlash is extremely small, and no adjustment to take up wear is ever needed.

Big Boat Race at New London.

Yale's athletic programme for this spring is now entirely settled. Manager Preston, of the Navy, has announced that all doubts about the Yale-Harvard race on the Thames have been settled by the last offer of the New London Board of Trade, which was as generous as that of last year. The early Yale-Harvard crew races have been declared off by the action of Harvard's faculty in not allowing the Weld or Newell crew to come to New Haven.

Manager Coleman, of the Weld crew, has visited Manager Preston in the hope of having the Dunham eight participate in the Charles River regatta. The Yale faculty has not forbidden the proposed race, but it is not expected that permission will be granted after the action of the Harvard faculty.

The launch Yale is again in commission, and all the coaching is now done from her deck. There will be no change in the oars or shells used this spring. Capt. Allen has ordered two cedar boats for the 'varsity and college eights. The freshmen will also have a new shell. It has not been announced who will make these boats, but they will be along the same lines as those of last year.

Hints on Golf Shoes.

To the golfer his shoes are almost as important as his clubs. The American golfer is following closely in the footsteps of his British cousins and adopting their thick waterproof leather, with heavy nail studded soles. The preference in Great Britain is for shoes, rather than boots, or, as we would say, for low cut rather than laced up shoes.

Almost any sort of coarse grained tough leather is used now, and tan is the orthodox color. Just now the fashion in this country is for shoes of horsehide, which makes a very durable and pliable leather.

The beginner should be especially careful to play in heavy shoes. Should he assay the game in ordinary walking shoes, by the time the first round is over he will, to borrow a phrase from the classic Boxiana, be "groggy on his pins." Sharp and strange pains will dart through his feet, and the instep will crack at each step, as though all the small bones are snapping. One such experience will probably plant the seeds of the crop of corns that will bother the beginner throughout his entire golfing career.

Hare Hunting.

Hare hunting is undoubtedly a more antique sport than the chase of the fox. Xenophon pursued it with delight in ancient Greece, and in Britain the hare was for centuries looked upon as a far more worthy quarry than the fox, which, until the time of Queen Elizabeth, and even later, was regarded as mere vermin. Nicholas Cox, author of the "Gentleman's Recreation," a work on sport, published in 1677, writes thus enthusiastically: "As of all classes the hare makes the greatest pastime, so it is a great delight and satisfaction to see the craft of this poor little beast in her own self-preservation." And it is to be admitted that in those shifts and expedients which afford to lovers of hounds the true delight of hunting the timid hare is at least as fertile as any known beast of chase in any part of the world.

THE LATEST STYLES

GOWNS ESSENTIALLY UNCHANGED. NEW IDEAS SHOWN.

The Day of Artistic Combinations. Black Broadcloth Still the Mode. Small Accessories—The Irrepressible Blouse—Lace Boas.

A tour through the shops and dressmaking establishments is reassuring. We shall have no radical changes at present. If she chooses, the conservative woman may still have her rich, black gown, perfectly plain but for the fashionable stitching. For the woman who wants furbelows there are tunic and peplum skirts, with accordeon plaited ruffles, fringe, passementerie, braid, etc. So long as the skirt is sweeping and clinging, the sleeves tight with a flaring cuff falling over the hand, and the shoulder seam a trifle longer than it has been, the individual wearer may suit herself in the matter of details.

Yokes, bolero effects, and fichus with long, graceful ends are all worn. Never was a better time to ransack closets and trunks for odds and ends of finery, for a bit of rich lace, a small piece of velvet and a remnant of fur are often all that is necessary to make a stylish combination for a new frock.

Black continues to be the most fashmade at home by a woman who is onable for tailor gowns as well as for those for more ceremonious occasions. A soft shade of brown and gray are the next in favor.

The illustration shows a lady's redingote, something that will be popular for the coldest weather; yet garments of this style are expensive and somewhat clumsy.

Broadcloth deservedly takes the lead in the list of stylish materials. If a woman can have but one handsome gown, a black broadcloth made plainly will serve for many occasions if brightened up with accessories for special functions.

If the habit skirt is not adapted to your figure, add a little fullness in the back, for word comes from Paris that the present style of skin-tight skirts is to be soon changed in the direction of more graceful lines.

As to the silk and flannel blouses there is little real novelty in their shape, and the enterprise of their wearers seems all centred in the four-in-hand necktie with floating handkerchief ends.

The fancy waists are of lace for the evening and heavily adorned with lace for use by day. Lace yokes and sleeves and broad collars of fine needlework are what the most modern bodice needs, and very many of them are made of antique velvet offset with ecru or string colored Bruges or Cluny lace. More than ever are waists hooked up in the back worn by the owners of young and slender figures, and a pretty girlish design in bottle-green velveteen has all the upper part of sleeves and waist puckered in close-set, cord-like perpendicular tucks. Over the shoulders fall a collar yoke of heavy string grey Russian lace through the beading of which, at the neck and about the shoulders, a threading of black velvet baby ribbon runs with cuffs of lace at the wrist.

A word about hats. Few shapes in felt are seen, and these will be used for morning and outing wear. The huge roud "flats" are shown in all colors and are twisted into all sorts of pretty shapes by the deft fingers of an artistic milliner.

A pretty purple flat was manipulated into a toque, with a small round crown, while "rabbits' ears" were cut from the remainder. These were faced with a satin of a darker shade, with three rows of stitching of the same color, while two wings of the same tint, a knot of velvet and a buckle made a dainty consummation.

Breasts are much used and many stylish round hats are made of velvet with a single breast for trimming. Other hats are composed entirely of breasts, needing only a knot of velvet or a bow of ribbon for garniture.

While many of the hats seem topheavy for the ordinary woman, they show a greater simplicity in the arrangement and the number of materials employed than for some seasons past, when every conceivable color and texture was heaped on one hat.

An exquisite carriage hat of bluegray miroir velvet had no other trimming than a huge dove-gray bird, placed flat on the side, the wings giving height to the hat.

The light but effective lace boas are a very becoming substitute for the heavier sort of fur to be worn later on. Next to a Marabout-feather boa, one of lace, is the prettiest, as those sold in the shops, when of handsome lace, are expensive, they can be copied at home by a deft needlewoman. Purchase two yards and a half, or more if you wish one of the dangling sort, of round silk cord, slightly more than triple this amount of lace, and then sew it round and round the cord, beginning always from the centre of the back so as to reverse the fall of the lace, causing it to droop in a bell-like fashion on either side of the neck. The round boa takes more lace than the flat stole shape.

AGNES OLCOTT.

AFTER SEA SPIDERS

FISHING FOR UNCANNY CREATURES IN ALASKA WATERS.

Good Sport for Those Who Desire a Dash of Excitement—Great Sea Animals That Spread Nearly Twenty-five Feet From Tip to Tip.

"If anyone desires a dash of excitement I can recommend the fishing of Alaska," said a returned Klondiker to a Chicago Inter Ocean reporter. "I had been fishing above Sitka when one day I found myself near a camp of Indians. As I had some game, I divided with them, and forthwith was invited to a feast of their own providing. We sat around a big wooden dish, in which was something that looked like frogs' legs, but frogs so gigantic that I knew it was something else. It required some courage to eat this dish, but hunger gives a man stamina of a certain kind, so I shut my eyes and began the feast. The article was not so bad as it appeared. It tasted like crab, and some of it had the consistence of the rubber rings which babies chew on. Altogether it was not to be despised, combining food with exercise.

"It was sea spider, so the natives told me, a member of the cuttlefish family. As they were going out on the following morning to fish for more I persuaded them to take me with them. We dropped anchor in the lee of a little point of rocks, where we began fishing. It is a famous country for fish, and it was nothing but pull in for the natives, while I did not have a bite.

"My time was coming, however, I had on a heavy sinker, so that every time the boat lifted I felt a sharp jerk, which deceived me. But once, when the boat rose on a big wave, my line did not give, and I shouted to the Indian next to me that I was foul. He took the line, gave a tremendous jerk, and received one in return; then, bracing himself back, he began to pull and scream; then all hands screamed, and I understood that a sea spider had the line and also the bottom. I expected every minute to see the canoe go over, as the men went from side to side, now forcing the rail down so that the water poured in, now lifting with a mighty yell, then slacking off so suddenly that they fell in a heap.

"One man armed himself with a knife, while a companion held a short-handled caseknife between his teeth—movements suggestive of the coming of an enemy. Suddenly one of the crew seized a sharp boathook, which, after another look, he jabbed into the unknown and invisible. In response a long, slender tentacle shot into the air and formed a weird interrogation point, then it grasped the pike; then three more appeared, creeping insidiously over the edge of the canoe, at which the natives struck wildly, some shouting to slack the line, others to haul in.

"In the midst of the confusion the sea spider concluded to come aboard. Torn from the bottom, it had come up easily; then, seeing the canoe, and possibly thinking it a vantage ground, it grasped it and slid over the side, a mass of living, slimy, reddish brown snakes. When they were raised I could see rows of suckers, each of which was a veritable airpump, and as there were seemingly thousands of them, the sucking power of this spider of the sea was apparent. Blows were aimed at it whenever opportunity offered, but the weird animal fairly slid over the rail, winding one of its arms around an oar. Its head or body hung on the rail—a brown mass the size of a man's head—from which gleamed two greenish-yellow eyes. The strange animal changed color like a chameleon; flushes of red, brown and gray followed one another over it, while from its lower portion oozed a stream of ink which splashed our faces as the tentacles flew about. It was 15 minutes before they had the life hammered out of the frightful creature, and then it was a question who had won.

"The canoe was now half full of water, as a hole had been knocked in the side, which was finally stopped with a piece of skin. It was five miles to camp, but I preferred walking, and had the men put me ashore. I got to the camp in time to meet them and see the sea spider taken out. It had a spread of nearly 25 feet, measuring from the tip of the outspread tentacles."

"Hip, Hip, Hurrah!"

"Hip, hip, hurrah," has always been regarded as a thoroughly British cry, typical of the exuberant temperament of the race. Compared with it the "Vive" of the Frenchman, the "Hoch" of the German, and the "Slava" of the Russian are tame and expressionless.

It is a cruel blow to find that the words are not English at all. The one consolation left us is that they were not "made in Germany."

A gentleman named Adams has been investigating the mysteries of the pyramids and monuments of Egypt, and has found the phrase, "Hip, hip, hurrah," among the early hieroglyphics of that country.

The only consolation derivable from this remarkable discovery is the argument which may reasonably be deduced that the presence of these British words among the etymological treasures of Pharaohland give us an a priori right to the whole of the Nile valley, says the London Telegraph.

And this theory is strengthened by the fact that, according to Mr. Adams, the hieroglyphic "Hip, hip, hurrah," means, when translated, "On, on to plunder."

An Irish Egyptologist writes to assert that the phrase came from Pharaohland via Dublin. In the works of Sir James Ware (1595-1666), the famous Hibernian historian and antiquarian of Ireland, there is a passage which says:

"Some writers think that Ireland was called Scotia, from Scota, the wife of Gaethelus and daughter of a King Pharaoh, but of which name I know not; and that the Irish language was invented from the same Gaethelus, from whom it was called Gaelic. Others say that another Scota, also a daughter of a king of Egypt, married Milesius and gave the name of Scotia to Ireland."

Thus, says our Hibernico-Egyptian correspondent, "Hip, hip, hurrah" can well be Egypto-Irish, only the translation would have been happier, as "On, on to conquer," for conquer means to take by force of arms, while plunder is to take by force of hands—grab, in the parlance of the day.—London Telegraph.

TO RESTORE THE DEAD.

Astonishing Results of a New York Physician's Extensive Experiments.

MAY BE APPLIED TO MAN.

Infusion of Defebrinated Blood Restores the Silent Heart's Action in Many Instances.

This Physician's Assertions Would Show That Electricity Does Not Kill Instantly—But Fresh Blood Must be at Hand in Case of an Emergency.

Dr. Richard H. Cunningham, of Columbia University, New York, asserts that he can bring the dead to life when death has been caused by an electric shock.

Dr. Cunningham has for a long time been engaged in making experiments on dogs, turtles and frogs. He states that it has been demonstrated beyond contradiction that an animal apparently killed by contact with an electric current, and in whose body respiration and circulation have ceased, may be brought back to life.

It is also asserted by Dr. Cunningham that an ordinary industrial electric current, such as is used in performing legal executions in New York State, does not produce instant death, and that if it were possible to have in instant readiness suitable apparatus, the suspended vital functions and consciousness would be restored.

Experiments which he has made according to the proposition establish the fact that in cases where death follows an electric shock, it is not caused by paralysis of the heart or by any other causes to which death has heretofore been attributed, but to fibrilear contraction of the heart, which results in collapse of the nervous system. In all cases of this kind, it is claimed, death is preceded by a period of consciousness, during which the recipient of the shock feels, but at the same time it is improbable that there is accompanying sensation of pain.

Dr. Cunningham says that it is only in the case of an electric shock wherein the current is so strong that all the tissues are cooked, and the nervous system thus destroyed, that death is instantaneous.

Particular interest is attached to Dr. Cunningham's experiments because of the constantly increasing number of accidental deaths due to the greater use of electricity, and also because of the electrocution of criminals, doubt having arisen in certain quarters as to the desirability of this means of legal killing.

Dr. Cunningham, as a result of his experiments, believes that, while a criminal might not die immediately from the effects of the application of an electric current, it is not probable that the subject is alive by the time he has passed to the operating table, it being unlikely that the nervous system has continued to exist for so long a time. The heart in some instances is not dead. It is the nervous system that has received the shock and exhausted its vitality.

Because a man's respiration and circulation have been suspended he has not positively passed the point where it would be possible to restore animation. Dr. Cunningham would not, in such cases, attempt to induce artificial respiration, a system to which recourse is often had, but which Dr. Cunningham believes to be useless. In his laboratory he has an apparatus which he has used in experiments upon dogs. He has found it absolutely necessary to have some fresh blood on hand. He found it preferable to have blood from animals of the same species.

To restore life in a human being under the same conditions, Dr. Cunningham believes human blood would be necessary.

In describing the experiments which he has made with dogs, frogs, turtles, etc., as subjects, Dr. Cunningham says:

"The quivering is the state known as fibrillar contraction. In this condition the heart can be restored to its functions by the profusion of its blood vessels with warmed defibrinated dog's blood, diluted with an eight per cent. saline solution. By means of it I have repeatedly caused the fibrillating hearts after having been taken from the body of dogs apparently killed by electricity to beat co-ordinately for an hour. This clearly disproves the fact that muscular substance has been paralyzed or killed by the current.

"I have endeavored repeatedly to electrocute frogs and small turtles with the 135 volt continuous dynamo current, but none could be killed, and all the frogs fully recovered within a few minutes. According to the concensus of opinion, writers on the subject of death by electric shock agree that such a death is instantaneous.

"From my tracings recording the muscular and nervous contractions, from the experiences of three of my patients who have received severe shocks, and from the published accounts of sixteen cases of recovery after electric shocks, there seems to be ample time before loss of consciousness occurs for the recipient of the shock to become fully aware that he is, or has been, in contact with an electric current. Thus, every one of the nineteen mentioned felt some very distinct form of sensation before consciousness was lost. Generally speaking, the sensation was not exactly painful, and was described by them as similar in character to the sensation produced by catching hold of the electrodes of a small but strong medical induction coil.

"After an apparently fatal shock has been received from a current the proper measures are to restore quickly the circulation not only of the nervous system, to keep it from dying, but also of the heart, so that it may quickly recover its co-ordinate contractions.

"As far as I know there is but one way in which this may possibly be accomplished—namely, by creating artificially a temporary circulation of a fluid capable of sustaining the heart and the nervous system until the heart has recovered sufficiently to maintain the circulation in the normal manner."

SPORTING.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The football season will open in Plainfield this afternoon with a match between the Alis football team of this city and the Westfield eleven. The game will be played on Martine Common, Park avenue, and will begin at 4 o'clock. There has long been a strong rivalry between the two teams and this year each is particularly anxious to win. As it isn't possible for both sides to score a victory, somebody is bound to be disappointed. Plainfielders are hoping to see the Alis boys come out on top.

Fingerhuth Seriously Ill.

Theodore Fingerhuth, who is charged with being an accessory to the crime of murder in connection with the shooting of Paul Roehricht some weeks ago, is reported to be seriously ill. He is still in the jail at Somerville.

Free Delivery Delayed.

Free postal delivery at Cranford is being delayed for the reason that the letter carriers have not yet received their appointments from Washington.

Rally Day.

Tomorrow will be rally day at the session of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, and all members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Zeisz, of Chatham street, who has been at the hospital for treatment, was discharged today, and she returned home cured.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5 00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1 00. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

There will be an important meeting of the boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A. this evening.

The class for business men opened Wednesday afternoon last. It was well attended. Many of the former members were present.

Twenty-seven members of the class in calisthenics of the Y. M. C. A. met Thursday evening. It was the first meeting of the season and the excellent attendance is gratifying to Physical Instructor Heywood.

Some repairs are being made to the basement at the Y. M. C. A. and also in the gymnasium. In the former a flooring is being laid to prevent the grit from the cellar getting in the bowling alley, and in the "gym" a screen is being placed about the electric lights.

Anxious for a License.

Wm. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, is counsel for Sebastian Petrus, of Linden, who is endeavoring to make the authorities of that borough show cause before Judge Vail why he should not be granted a hotel license to sell liquor. The case is being heard today. Former Judge Gilhooley, of Elizabeth, is the opposing counsel.

Suspended Sentence.

John Dorgan was entirely unable to look after his own welfare yesterday afternoon. So Patrolman Tom McCue locked him up. He came out this morning to be arraigned before the City Judge in a very woe-begone condition. Judge Runyon said that he had been punished enough and suspended further sentence.

PRESENTATION TO SCHEMS.

Rewarded for Securing the Greatest Number of New Members for Miantonomo Tribe.

There were two presentations at the meeting of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men last evening. A gold watch charm, with the proper insignia of the order on it, was given to Past Sachem Charles L. Holstein. A gold ring, with similiar markings, was given to Past Sachem D. C. Allen. Both were for securing the the largest number of new members. Another one was to have been presented to William Newcorn, but he waived the honor.

Two pale faces were adopted into the tribe, and two more were elected. The anniversary committee reported that all was ready for the celebration next Friday.

ANOTHER BIG FREE EXCURSION.

Under the Auspices of the Dry Goods Merchants of Newark.

Hundreds and hundreds of people will remember the last great free Newark dry goods excursion of several months back. How well everybody was taken care of; how good the train service was; and best of all, how reliably and conscientiously every promise of absolutely free railroad fare was kept. Well, there's to be another of those delightful times! Just the same free-ride conditions. Five of the large Newark dry goods houses mentioned below, pay all the railroad fares both ways. What a chance to take in all the big autumn and winter store fashion displays and pick up some of the rare bargains Newark is noted for.

The Newark excursion takes place Wednesday, October 11th, via the New Jersey Central Railroad, and remember that it is entirely free; positively no store purchases are required of any one—simply present the rebate coupon and get the whole amount of fare back. Persons desiring to participate in the excursion will buy their tickets at the regular ticket offices on the day of excursion, and the whole amount paid will be refunded on presentation of rebate coupon attached to each ticket, at any of the following stores in Newark, Wednesday, October 11th, 1899: Hahne & Co., Broad and New street; L. S. Platt & Co., 707 to 721 Broad street; The Goerke Co., 159 to 165 Market street; Straus's, Nos. 685-687 Broad street; L. Bamberger & Co., Market and Halsey streets.

The Newark free excursion trains will leave as follows: Somerville, 8:30 a. m.; Finderne, 8:34 a. m.; Bound Brook, 8:39 a. m.; Lincoln, 8:42 a. m.; Dunellen, 8:48 a. m.; Plainfield, 8:55 a. m.; Netherwood, 8:58 a. m.; Fanwood, 9:03 a. m.; Westfield, 9:08 a.m.; Cranford, 9:13 a. m. Returning leave Broad street, Newark, at 4:50 p. m.

Will Hold Their Thirteenth Annual Reunion at New Brunswick.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Oct. 7—The New Jersey Association Union Ex-Prisoners of War, will hold its thirteenth annual reunion in Odd Fellows' Hall in Nelson street, New Brunswick, next Thursday, October 12. The business meeting will be called at 10:30 a. m., and 2:30 p. m. there will be a campfire. A feature of the affair will be a greeting of old comrades. The lady friends of the members are cordially invited to attend. The officers of the association are: Commander, H. G. Myers, Hoboken; vice-commander, P. H. O'Neil, Jersey City; adjutant, Joseph A. Peloubet, Bloomfield; assistant adjutant, David A. Snell, Montclair; quartermaster, S. M. Long, East Orange.

Pastor Schenck to be in His Pulpit.

At Trinity Reformed church tomorrow the pastor, Rev. Dr. Schenck, will adminster the sacrament of the Lord's Supper and receive new members. In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will be a grand rally of the Sunday-school, a special programme having been prepared. In the evening Dr. Schenck will preach, his subject being "David's Prayer for the Divine Inspection."

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a meeting of the special committee of the Home Board of officers of the Children's Home held last Thursday resolutions were adopted regarding the death of Lemuel Wright Serrell. The resolutions spoke of the exemplary Christian life of the departed and extend to his daughter, treasurer of the association, the hearty sympathy of all.

ALIS VICTORIOUS ON THE GRIDIRON.

Auspicious Opening of Football Season in Plainfield.

DEFEATED WESTFIELD A. C.

LOCAL ELEVEN WON FROM WESTFIELD'S BEST 10 TO 0.

Game Was Played on Martine Common Saturday Afternoon—Witnessed by Big Crowd—Same Old Story of Alis' Fine Play Overcoming Brilliant Individual Work of Visitors—The Touchdowns.

Same old story. The Westfield colors were again trailed in the dust of the gridiron by a Plainfield eleven. The Alis football team defeated the eleven from the Westfield Athletic club on Martine Common Saturday afternoon by a score of 10 to 0. It was the old trouble. While the Westfield boys were just as brilliant in individual play they lacked the system and team work that has always won for the Alis boys and gained another victory for them Saturday. It was a hard fought game, however, and was witnessed by several hundred enthusiasts.

The game marked the opening of the football season in Plainfield. The Plainfield A. A. is now a thing of the past and the Alis team can be considered the representative team of this city. Westfield and the Alis boys are old rivals so many journeyed out Park avenue to witness the first meeting of two elevens this season.

The teams lined up as follows:—

WESTFIELD A. C.		ALIS.
Wells	right end	Woolston
Windsor	right tackle	Wering
Voight B	right guard	Kline
Curtis	centre	G. F. Smith
Miller	left guard	Long
Voight, E	left end	H. Smith
Richardson	quarterback	Dumont
Jones (captain)	right halfback	Finch
Harrison	left halfback	Cuming
Lynde	fullback	Phillips (capt)

Referee—Thomas A. Cuming. Umpire—Thomas U. Smith. Timekeeper—A. Willis West. Linesmen—William Hobby, of Plainfield, and A. Smith, of Westfield. Twenty minute halves.

Plainfield had the kick-off and Finch sent the ball well down the field. From the first it was evident that Westfield lacked successful team work. Her players were slow in start and the Alis rushers were through the line time after time. Alis soon had the ball and carried it by steady work to within eight yards of Westfield's goal when Cuming circled the end and scored the first touchdown. Dumont failed to kick the goal. Score, Alis, 5; Westfield, 0

There were no long runs but Cuming and Dumont were particularly effective in ground gaining. After the ball had changed hands several times, time was called with the ball in Westfield's possession on the Alis forty-yard line.

Dumont caught Richardson's kick-off in the second half and was downed without gain. Then Woolston slipped round the left end for the longest run of the game, thirty yards. He passed all the Westfield backs except Lynde who tackled him hard. Fair gains carried the ball into Westfield's territory only to lose it.

Westfield's gains were small but presistent and there was a present of five yards for off-side play. At last, the Alis line stood solid for four downs and Plainfield had the ball. Then the ball went up the field in good shape toward the Westfield goal line. Fifteen yards away Dumont made a clever run around left end and crossed the line for the second and last touchdown of the game. Finch failed to kick the goal. Score, Alis. 10; Westfield, 0.

For twelve minutes more the fight continued, the Alis boys fighting hard to get the ball into Westfield territory but there were several fumbles that proved costly. Westfield's right end was weak and most of the Plainfield gains were made around it. Time was called with the ball on Alis' forty-five yard line with the home team. At no time was the Alis goal seriously threatened. Westfield's offensive work was too slow to be dangerous.

Chamber Music Concert.

Those who attended the chamber music subscription concert given in the Casino last May, under the direction of Ward Stephens, will be delighted to learn that Mr. Stephens will offer to Plainfield music-lovers a second chamber music concert to be given early in November. Mr. Stephens will have the assistance of the Kaltenborn String Quartette, Miss Adele Rafter, soprano, and Bayer Hane, 'cellist; and the programme will be as interesting as the one rendered at the last concert.

A Service of Song.

The Sunday evening services at Grace M. E. church have been made a sevice of song, and in addition to the regular music, Dyckman Winckler assists with violin music. An increase in attendance is a result of the change of service.

A WARM WELCOME FOR PASTOR SCHENCK.

A Pleasant Feature of Rally Day at Trinity Church.

LOVING WORDS HEARD.

THE MINISTER HAS BEEN ABSENT TO RECUPERATE HIS HEALTH.

On His Return to His Pastoral Duties the Members of the Sunday-school Gave Him a "Welcome Home" That Evidenced Their Love and Admiration for Him—Touching Response From Minister.

The warm and noticeably spontaneous welcome accorded to Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, at the Rally Day exercises of the Sunday-school yesterday afternoon, must have been as gratifying to the beloved minister as it was heartfelt on the part of the members of the church and the teachers and pupils of the school.

The Sunday-school room had been prettily decorated in honor of the home coming of the pastor. Upon a large flag over the desk were the words "Welcome Home" and upon the primary class blackboard "Welcome to the One We Love," was artistically inscribed.

At yesterday's Rally Day exercises, which were held in the Sunday-school room just previous to the recital of the regular lessons, this welcome was extended.

The first came from little Miss Bessie Randall, who, on behalf of the primary department, cordially extended the heartfelt expression of the juvenile department. Miss Cora Laire, representing the main school, was next. Others were Edgar Shepard, of the Bible class, and Fred E. Smith, assistant superintendent of the school, who represented the teachers' class. He was followed by Superintendent Anthony, who spoke a brief and loving welcome.

In reply, Dr Schenck said in part:

"These words from the primary department as well as from all parts of the school are words so tender and yet so cheering—'Welcome Home.'

"There is, indeed, no place like home and no place as dear as Trinity. There is nothing can take its place in my heart. I am glad to be hear again to look into your faces. I thank you all for the kind words and can assure you that my heart is too full to express exactly how I feel. I heartily appreciate this welcome from you."

In conclusion Dr. Schenck said that he wished the Sunday-school to be a place where character was to be taught, the right spirit cultivated and where souls could be saved. These, he said, were the advantages to be derived from attendance at the Sunday-school, which was opened to all.

The remarks of Pastor Schenck were very affecting and many of the teachers and some of the pupils were noticed to have frequent use for their handkerchiefs. The school then sang beautifully "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

Owing to the illness of one of the members, the church choir was not present as had been expected. By request Miss Etta Krymer, the soprano soloist of the choir, rendered very sweetly "'Tis Not Night if Thou be Near." The interesting exercises were then brought to a close by the primary department singing a well-known hymn. The recital of the regular lesson was then taken up.

At the close of the Sunday-school many of the teachers and not a few of the scholars remained to shake hands with their pastor and personally welcome him home.

Judge Freeman's Funeral.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Metuchen, October 9.—The funeral of the late Manning Freeman, of this place, was held yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Mason, of this place. The pallbearers included James E Martine, of Plainfield; Millard Ross, of New Brunswick; E. C. F. Young, of Jersey City; Oliver Kelly, of Oak Tree; Robert Letson, of Piscataway, and Mr. Woodford, of this place. Many places in town flew flags at half mast yesterday in respect of the deceased.

No Report Yet.

The committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders that has under consideration the advisability of recommending to the Board a plan for erecting a county asylum, has not yet presented a report. The report will probably go before the Board at the November meeting.

Increase in Local Mail.

The local letter-carriers claim that there is a great increase in the amount of mail they are now handling and that it is increasing daily.

GYPSY HARRISON TO SETTLE ON A FARM.

He is Reported to be Worth Close to $100,000.

WELL KNOWN IN PLAINFIELD

HERE IT WAS THAT HE STRUCK A BONANZA LAST SUMMER.

His Famous Story of the Crowning of the Successor of "Snake Mary" as Queen of the Gypsies Was a Very Profitable Stroke of Enterprise—Has Bought a Farm Near Madison and Will Live There.

After being at the head of the gypsy bands that wander through the eastern and New England states for over a quarter of a century, Nailor Harrison has decided to abandon his roving life and settle down on a farm which he recently purchased near Madison. Harrison has a wife and fourteen children, ten of whom will move with him on the farm, the other four declining to abandon the gypsy life that they have always known. Harrison is reputed to be worth close to $100,000, all of which he has made by horse trading and from the revenues of fortune telling which the women members of his followers are regarded to be very expert in.

Harrison camped in a grove near George Thatcher's roadhouse, just outside of the Plainfield city limits, most of last summer and cleared a big sum of money as a result of a unique stroke of enterprise which he indulged in. The story was given out that on a certain day the Gypsy tribes throughout the territory were to gather at his camp for the purpose of choosing a Gypsy queen to succeed "Snake Mary," the present occupant of the Gypsy "throne," who is said to be ninety-six years of age.

The story was taken up and embellished with many romantic and fantastic features by the newspapers, with the result that thousands of people visited the camp to get a sight of the Gypsy queen and her prospective successor.

Nearly every visitor was inveigled into having their fortune told, and the coin that was passed across the palms of the seeresses soon swelled into a big bank account for the leader. With a keen realization of the financial returns, the ceremony of crowning the "queen" was postponed from time to time till everyone within a radius of twenty-five miles, who wanted their fortune told, had undergone the experience at the Harrison camp. The abdication of "Snake Mary" and the crowning of her successor never occurred, however

OLD FACES RECOGNIZED.

Rally Day Brought Out Many Who Had Not Been to Sunday-School in a Long Time.

The rally-day exercises at the First Baptist church Sunday-school yesterday afternoon were largely attended by not only members of the school but by many others who have not attended in a long time. Many familiar faces were seen for the first time since the last rally-day and there was a general handshaking and a cordial welcome extended to them by the officers and teachers.

A pleasing programme was arranged for the occasion and included recitations, vocal and instrumental solos, etc. After the opening exercises conducted by Superintendent G.H. Batchelor, a recitation was given by Violet VanWinkle, entitled "Corn-field." The members of the primary department gave a pleasing motion exercise, and sang a selection entitled "God's Love."

A feature of the programme was a soprano solo by Miss Luella Harris, of the church choir, accompanied by Howard Case, organist. This was followed by an address by the superintendent, who gave all a hearty welcome. He spoke of the benefit derived from such events and he spoke of the schools success during the past year.

Another feature was the teaching of the lesson by Miss Cairns, one of the teachers. After a recitation by Beulah VanWinkle, the exercises closed in the usual manner.

Cosgrove Still in the Hospital.

There are at present nineteen patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, and the only serious one is Wm. Cosgrove, of California, who has been there for several months with a broken back. His condition is practically the same, although at times it seems that he fails slightly.

A WIFE'S AFFECTIONS THE ISSUE IN COURT.

Wesley R. Brocaw Being Sued For Alienating Them.

F. W. HARGRAVES PLAINTIFF

SUIT NOW BEING TRIED IN COURC AT ELIZABETH.

Plaintiff's Side Heard This Morning—Wife's Sister's Testimony Was the Most Interesting Heard This Morning—Motion For Non-Suit Denied—The Defense Being Heard Now.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 9.—The action of Frederick W. Hargraves, of Westfield, against Wesley R. Brokaw, of Plainfield, for $10,000 damages for the alleged alienations of his wife's affections, was called in Supreme court this morning. Considerable interest was manifested in the case, as it was expected there would be some racy testimony given, but in this the court habitues were disappointed, as there was nothing startling.

The plaintiff was represented by G. W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, and the defendant by Irving L. Brady, of Plainfield.

The aim of the plaintiff was to show that while acting ostensibly as an instructor on the piano to Mrs. Hargraves, while she resided on East Front street in Plainfield, Brokaw made love to her and succeeded in alienating the affections of the woman from her lawful husband. The most interesting witnesses were Mrs. Hargraves herself and her sister, Mrs. Kelly, of Newark. The latter proved to be a very sharp fencer of the questions put to her by the plaintiff's counsel, and succeeded in making a favorable impression for the defendant.

One of the witnesses testified that Brokaw had once said that he "wished Mrs. Hargraves was his wife."

The plaintiff's side was closed at noon and Lawyer Braday then moved for a non-suit, but it was denied. The defense was started at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the case will probably go to the jury before the court adjourns.

Those who heard the testimony do not regard the plaintiff's case as a very strong one.

MANY COMPETED FOR M'CUTCHEN CUP.

Anderson and Taylor Met and Played Even.

J. H. HOWELL WON FIRST.

G. W. COOLEY GETS INTO GOOD FORM ONCE MORE.

W. J. R. Thiers and Cooley Took Second and Third Honors—Question of Superiority Between Anderson and Taylor Still Unsettled—Both Scored 108—Tied Another Round of Match Play.

The largest field of competitors of the season for the McCutchen Cup, marked the play at the Park Golf Club links Saturday afternoon. While no low scores were made, the scores were very evenly bunched. Then W. de la R. Anderson and Fred P. Taylor met and broke even on the eighteen holes, leaving the question of superiority as unsettled as ever. First honors went to a new candidate for points for the cup.

There were sixteen club members who entered for the trophy during the afternoon, besides many who took no part in the weekly competition. The most exciting match was between Taylor and Anderson. Neither one was able to gain and advantage. Throughout the eighteen holes it was nip and tuck. When they added up their scores at the end it was found that they had made the same number of strokes, 108, which was low gross score for the afternoon. Later in the afternoon, after the tournament play, they made a round of match play, which was also tied.

Senator Reed was on hand again. The greens committeeman had visited his handicap and reduced it from 30 to 24. He played with J. H. Howell, who won first honors for the afternoon. Gifford W. Cooley began to show something of his old form agan. He made the course in 112. As there were no very low scores, he managed to gain a point by it.

The scores handed in for the McCutchen Cup were as follows:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
J. H. Howell	115	18	97
W. J. R. Thiers	114	12	102
Gifford W. Cooley	112	9	103
F. O. Jennings	134	30	104
Charles B. Morse	136	30	106
Charles A. Reed	132	24	108
W. de la R. Anderson	108	0	108
Fred P. Taylor	108	0	108
George T. Rogers	129	21	108
Charles E. Faber	132	24	108
W. R. Faber	136	26	110
Dr. G. W. Endicott	140	30	110

Dr. Howell scored his first points for the McCutchen Cup. The three he scored place him tie for fourteenth place. W. J. R. Thiers, who was tied for fourteenth place, has now moved up to eighth with five points. Cooley took third honor, which was all that was needed to pass him into second place. Anderson still leads.

The official standing of the candidates for the cup follows:

W. de la R. Anderson	13
Gifford W. Cooley	11
Meredith Dryden	10½
Charles E. Faber	7
Charles A. Reed	7
George C. Worth	6½
G. W. Faber	6
Geo. T. Rogers	6
W. J. R. Thiers	5
Samuel Townsend	4½
Morgan T. Townsend	4
Wm. A. Townsend	3½
E. T. Douglass	3½
H. D. Hibbard	3½
J. H. Howell	3
Arthur Peck	3
W. R. Faber	3
Fred P. Taylor	2½
S. S. Squires	2½
A. B. Laing	2
Volney F. Green	2
Fred B. Overton	1½
Clarence S. Boome	1½
Augustus VanDeventer	1
C. W. McCutchen	1

There were three contestants for the Buttfield Cup who took part in that competition. Miss Ball won first honors by a narrow margin and Miss Howell was second by one stroke. There is no doubt now as to who is to be winner of the Buttfield Cup. Miss Elsberg has scored thirty points and her nearest rival is Miss Howell with eighteen. There are only three more Saturdays to play in October, when the cup contest closes, and as Miss Howell can't possibly score more than three points each Saturday, it will be impossible for her to make the necessary twelve points to tie Miss Elsberg.

The scores handed in for the Buttfield Cup were as follows:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
Miss Adelaide G. Ball	83	13	70
Miss Saidee Howell	78	4	74
Miss Daisy Elsberg	93	18	75

There has been no official announcement of the number of points yet scored for the Buttfield Cup, but an inspection of the past scores shows the following competitors and the points scored by them:

Miss Daisy Elsberg	30
Miss Saidee Mae Howell	18
Miss Adelaide G. Ball	6

EXCITING ROAD RACE CLOSED THE SEASON.

Embleton and Marsh Were Lapped at the Finish.

WESTFIELD MAN WINNER.

MARSH, OF THE 'PLAINS, GETS SECOND PLACE.

It Was the Last Race of the Season Under W. S. Emery's Direction—But Five Men Faced the Starter—No One Has Yet Won the Cup, Which Will be Offered Next Season—No Arrests Were Made.

The fourth and last one of the series of 16 mile road races, run under the direction of W. S. Emery, at Scotch Plains, was pulled off Saturday afternoon in the presence of several hundred men and women.

There were but six men to face the starter when the race was called. No reason can be assigned for the absence of some of the local riders unless it was owing to the report that the riders were liable to arrest for violation of the borough ordinance against riding fast in the streets. However, the race was interesting and hotly contested, the honors being carried away by the Westfield man, who had a struggle to wrest the place from Marsh of Scotch Plains.

When time was called, the following men faced the starters:

Ernest Marsh, Scotch Plains.
Wm. Embleton, Westfield.
Jeppe Sorensen, Plainfield.
Arthur Chapin, Plainfield.
Chas. Embleton, Westfield.
John Townsend, Cranford.

The first two men were given a three minute start while the Plainfield men had but two minutes. Charles Embleton and Townsend were the scratch men.

Marsh and William Embleton got off well together, but the former at once forged ahead and held that position on the first half of the course, Embleton dropping out of the race before making the turn around the flag pole.

In making the second half of the course Sorenson, Chapin and Charles Embleton kept well together and when they entered the home stretch the struggle for first place was a magnificent one. Before crossing the tape Embleton, who was two lengths behind Marsh, made a desperate spirt and came in a winner by half a length, with Chapin close up and Townsend five lengths behind. Unfortunately for Sorenson from this city he sustained a fall and did not finish, though pressing the Westfield man closely. The finish between Charles Embleton and Marsh was very exciting. The time was 46:25. The gold medal was awarded to Charles Embleton, the silver medal to Ernest Marsh and the bronze medal to Arthur Chapin. Owing to the small number of entries there was no time prize offered at this race.

Harry Lister was starter and timer; Frank Schuck, Jr., clerk of the course, and Matt. Sweeney and William Nash scorers.

There was no attempt made by the authorities or any member of the Law and Order League to interfere with the race or the contestants, Rev. Mr. Shott was absent from the 'Plains.

Previous races have been won by LeMathey of Westfield, and Hummer and Sorenson of Plainfield. As the first prize has not been won by any of the above men three times the silver cup will not be awarded this season. Next season, however, the races will be continued and an opportunity given any of the winners of this season to add to their list of victories thereby making them eligible to compete for the cup.

AN OLD-TIME GAME.

Quoits an Attraction Among A. O. U. W. Members.

At Friday evening's meeting of the A. O. U. W. two applications were received and acted upon. After the business meeting some exciting games of quoits were played. The match between teams of six on a side, with Messrs. Ryno and Moon as captains, was the feature of the evening. The match was won by the Ryno team, which secured 64 points to their opponents 57. Other contests were by Messrs. Lloyd and Woodruff against Nischwitz and Leland. Won by the former team. Then Woodruff and Lloyd defeated Stryker and Kinney, while Nash and Dunham had no difficulty in beating Coddington and Leland.

Not to Meet for Two Months.

At an executive meeting of the Woman's Parliamentery club, held Thursday, it was decided to omit the meetings during October and November. The first regular meeting occurring on the second Thursday in December.

COURSE OF THIS LOVE LED TO POLICE COURT.

Unusual Experience of Paul Tabbert Trying to Get a Wife.

OUTCOME OF RECEPTION.

POLICE APPEARED AND CARTED OFF GUESTS TO JAIL.

The Affair Given by Tabbert in Honor of His Prospective Bride, Miss Anna Rheinhardt, of New York, Who Visited His Household Yesterday—City Judge Runyon Was Lenient With Them.

Paul Tabbert's attempt to make a second entry into the holy state of matrimony has been beset with difficulties. In trying to properly entertain his prospective bride, yesterday afternoon, Tabbert and his choice, with several other guests, wound up in the city jail. An interview with City Judge Runyon resulted in the restoration of their liberty and they departed, Tabbert still enthusiastic in the prospect of obtaining a wife and Miss Annie Reinhart rather in doubt as to the advisability of the step.

Tabbert lives on West Eighth street, beyond Grant avenue. He has lived there for twelve years. His wife died several years ago, leaving him to care for seven children. One is now in the Reform School, three in the Children's Home and three live with their father.

The troubles he encountered in his solitary state decided Tabbert that it was time to find another sharer of his domestic happiness. Then came the finding of a proper housekeeper. Driven to desperation, Tabbert decided to advertise. So an advertisement was inserted in the New York Journal.

"How did you word it?" asked Judge Runyon this morning when Tabbert was relating his experiences in hunting for a wife.

"Wanted, middle-aged woman, to take charge of three children and run regular house," explained Tabbert.

"Running a regular house. That's what you were doing yesterday?" suggested the Judge.

"Dat vas one littl' bit to muchness," and the prisoner smiled.

There were very few answers to his advertisement Tabbert says. One candidate for matrimonial honors apprared, but she was sick, and he didn't want any sick woman for his housekeeper.

Miss Annie Reinhardt had been a domestic in a New York household. She had to work so hard, she said, that she felt she ought to get marri.d.

"Didn't get no chance to get a man, except on the street," and here her nose rose several degrees in the air, "so I answered his advertisement."

A week ago Annie came out to look over the ground. She came out again yesterday. This time her friend, Miss Mary Stooker, came with her. They were received at Tabbert's home, and then James Duffy and George Green dropped in to see the host.

The strain of Tabbert's matrimonial intentions has had a derogatory effect on his daily duties and Green and Duffy came to warn him that future indiscretions could not be overlooked by their joint employer, George O. Stevens.

Tabbert heard them and then honored the occasion with some wine o his own manufacture. After drinking awhile Duffy went out on the lawn and laid down. Tabbert liked his own production and the police found him waiving a revolver in the air and talking incoherently.

Chief Grant and Roundsman Frederickson visited Tabbert's establishment yesterday afternoon and arrested the whole crowd. Tabbert was afterwards capturned by Patrolman Flannagan.

This morning Judge Runyon heard the story and dismissed the complaint against the two women. There had been no disorder on their part. Annie was undecided whether or not to venture into the matrimonial field, bu her companion strongly advised her not to. Sentence was suspended on the three men after Tabbert had solemnly promised to give up liquor, home-made or otherwise, for a month. Tabbert declared that he was quite in love with Annie, despite the fact that the long feather in her golf hat drooped in most sorrowful fashion. He was for being married immediately.

"Come," he remarked after cour was over as he pulled at the sleeve of his promised bride, "Vat is de use of vaiting? Let us married now immediately." And he smiled a real, loving smile.

AGAIN FAILED TO FINISH.

Once More the Columbia and Shamrock Sail Without a Decisive Victory.

WAS ANOTHER "NO RACE"

No One Willing to Venture an Opinion as to Which Will Prove to Be the Fastest Yacht.

A Neck-and-Neck Race For the First Fifteen Miles, With the Shamrock Ahead at the Stake Boat—A Large Crowd Again Disappointed at the Unsatisfactory Result.

New York, Oct. 9.—For the third time the Columbia and Shamrock went out to sea to race for the America's Cup, and for the third time, through their failure to finish within the time limit, the contest was fruitless. Unlike the two preceding attempts, however, it was not until the greater part of the course had been covered that the race was abandoned, so that for the greater part of the day the spectators enjoyed all the excitement of a perfect race.

The Shamrock crossed the starting line seventeen seconds after the Columbia. She covered half the thirty-mile course and turned the outer mark nine seconds ahead of the Columbia. And when, about midway between the outer mark and the starting point, the race was abandoned, not a soul of all those thousands of spectators was absolutely sure whether the Shamrock was ahead of the Columbia or the Columbia ahead of the Shamrock. And from these few facts can be deduced as much accurate information as to the respective merits of the two boats as any human being possesses.

From all the flotilla of pleasure craft that went out to see the tussle there arose choruses of delight over the magnificent weather for yacht racing.

The revenue cutters and torpedo boats marshalled the fleet into two columns, just as on the previous days, and—even as they had done on Tuesday and Thursday—Shamrock and Columbia began to sail hither and thither, waiting for the signal gun and striving to be in the best position for crossing the line when that signal came.

A steady breeze was blowing, and with a magnificent spread of canvas the two boats moved evenly down the Jersey coast, neither gaining any perceptible advantage over the other. At times some unaccountable puff would draw one a trifle ahead of the other, but there was nothing noticeable in the sailing qualities of either boat to establish conclusively its superiority.

Some details of handling, of tacking and sail raising there were that aroused criticism among the nautical critics. The simple fact that after a fifteen-mile struggle the boats were only 9 seconds apart will probably deter the majority from expressing an opinion as to which is the better boat.

It was nip and tuck, and the only thing to rival the tenacity with which the Columbia clung to the Shamrock was the tenacity with which the Shamrock stuck to the Columbia.

The yachts sailed down the fifteen miles, and their attendant flotilla kept pace along the sides of the course in two parallel columns. To the landsman's eye there is very little incident at a yacht race. The scene upon the ocean at the start was pretty much like the scene all along the course until the turn. There was not even enough excitement to allow a man to forget his seasickness.

When the turn came, however, there was a scene that will linger in the memory of every man who saw it. Side by side the two boats approached the buoy, the Shamrock slightly in the lead and due to turn first. Turn first she did, but, unexpectedly, the Columbia crept in between her and the buoy, describing a much shorter circle, gaining some time that she had lost and giving all those spectators a specimen of a good old Yankee trick in seamanship.

The homeward race was pretty to watch but unsatisfactory in so far as it threw light upon the capabilities of the yachts. They sailed against the wind, in different tacks, crossing and recrossing their course until it was absolutely impossible to tell—until the last tack that would have taken them across the finish line—which was really ahead.

And the last tack was never sailed, for the wind died out and it became apparent that the last five miles could never be covered within the time limit. The report of the signal gun brought the contest to a close and with sails flapping idly the yachts were towed to their anchorage.

And the fleet of boats that had danced attendance upon the yachts, moved as rapidly as it could toward the city, with all the thousands of human beings it carried wondering whether the Columbia and Shamrock would ever race to a finish or whether there is some never-to-be-lifted hoodoo on the Cup.

The next race between the Columbia and the Shamrock will take place on Tuesday and beginning Thursday there will be a race each day excepting Sunday until the series is finished.

Movements of Naval Vessels.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The training ship Adams has arrived at Seattle. The Badger went down to Mare Island from San Francisco to receive an overhauling preparatory to her departure for Manila. The gunboat Princeton has arrived at Hong Kong. The lighthouse tender Uncas sailed from Beaufort, S. C., for San Juan, Porto Rico. The Dolphin has left Tompkinsville, Staten Island for Alexandria, Va.

Boston Crippled by War Scare.

Boston, Oct. 9.—Four more ocean steamers which ply between this and British ports have been taken by the British Admiralty for use as transports to carry troops to Africa. They are the Winifredian of the Leyland line, the Columbian and the Chicago of the Wilson and Furness-Leyland line, and the Oakmore of the Johnston line. The withdrawal of four Cunarders has been announced.

AMERICANS ROUT FILIPINOS

The Enemy Badly Beaten in Two Hot Engagements.

Novelta, Island of Luzon, Oct. 9.—General Theodore Schwan's column, consisting of the Thirteenth infantry, a battalion of the Fourteenth, two troops of the Fourth cavalry, Captain H. J. Reilly's battery of the Fifth artillery and Lieutenant P. G. Lowe's scouts, advanced from Bacoor and occupied Cavite Viejo and Noveleta.

The American loss was three officers and nine privates wounded, one of the officers being hurt mortally. The loss of the enemy is unknown, but the bodies of three Filipinos were seen.

There were two sharp fights near Noveleta. Lowe's scouts first encountered the enemy near Cavite Viejo and soon put them to flight, continuing their advance.

Captain M. B. Saffold's battalion of the Thirteenth regiment, with two companies of the Fourteenth, a number of Tagalo scouts, Captain H. J. McGrath commanding, the troops from the Fourth cavalry, and Capt. Reilly's battery came upon the enemy in a strongly intrenched position on the road between Cavite Viejo and Noveleta. A fight lasting half an hour followed, resulting in the enemy being driven back. The American forces sustained considerable losses in this engagement, the men being shot from trenches and shacks along the road.

The column then pressed on to Noveleta, which was found deserted.

The marines and naval forces cooperatedr with the troops.

Police Searching for a Clue.

New York, Oct. 9.—After an examination of the portions of the body of the woman found on Saturday and Sunday morning, the police seem to think that they have another Guldensuppe case to unravel. On Saturday the police were inclined to the belief that they had to do with the prank of some medical student when the left thigh of a woman was found wrapped in manila paper and newspapers in West Seventeenth street. When, on Sunday morning, there was brought to light the second portion of the body floating in the North River, they began to realize that they were face to face with a crime. At present there are at least 200 police officers and detectives working on the cas. A woman by the name of Billings is missing but whether the remains found are those of the missing woman remains yet to be ferrited out.

Millionaires in Gaming Room.

Boston, Oct. 9.—The Oxford Club, formerly the Suffolk Club, a well known social organization of leading Boston business men, was raided by a large force of police and thirty men were arrested on the charge of gambling and being present where gaming was going on. A carload of paraphernalia and $4,000 in poker chips were taken to the station, with two patrol wagon loads of prisoners. These included twenty-seven of the most prominent and wealthy citizens of Boston and three employes of the club. The men all gave fictitious names. Cash bail promptly was furnished and they were released.

Grief Caused His Death.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 9.—Grief over the desertion of his wife, who left him three months ago, less than a month after their marriage, resulted in the death of Nicholas W. Schrumm. He was 28 years old and married Miss Sabina Keoning last June. They were unable to agree and separated. He brooded over his troubles, and his relatives feared for his reason. A week ago brain fever developed, and Drs. Alsop and Shanlon were called in. The efforts of the physicians were futile. Mrs. Schrumm was unaware of her husbands illness and was greatly shocked by the news of his death.

The Bear Mad- Them Scatter.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9.—A big Malay bear escaped from a State street dime museum and created a panic among thousands of citizens and visitors to the fall festival. A man, a woman, two horses and a dog were bitten by the animal, which ran down the thronged street toward the Court of Honor. Women screamed and men and boys climbed lamp posts and dashed into alleyways. Many women fainted and children cried in terror. The keeper of the bear, Albert Hermann, aided by some of the men, pursued the bear and finally caught it.

Aid for Catholi Hospital.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 9.—St. Vincent's Hospital, a Catholic institution, conducted by the Sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, burned here recently and the loss of seven lives resulted. Money aid in rebuilding the institution is being raised by popular subscription. The fund has just received two accessions. Cardinal Gibbons promised $100 and the Ladies' Hebrew Benevolent Association of Norfolk sent their check for a like amount.

Ohioans Will Hear Senator Frye.

Lewiston, Me., Oct. 9.—Senator William P. Frye has [illegible] for Ohio, where he will take part [illegible] the campaign in that State. He goes by request of friends of President McKinley. The Senator will talk on the commercial interests of the United States and the Philippine question will also receive his attention.

Dewey Paraders in Trouble.

Atlanta, Oct. 9.—Without formality of a court martial, Governor Candler has determined to discharge dishonorably from the service of the State those members of the National Guard who made a raid on the store and barber shop at Hamlet, N. C., on the return of the Atlanta battalion from the Dewey celebration in New York.

May Contest Plant's Will.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9.—According to rumor, the will of the late Henry B. Plant, a wealthy transportation manager, which was offered for probate in June, is to be contested by the widow.

A Popular Journalist Recognized.

Albany, Oct. 9.—The State Tax Commissioners have elected Commissioner George E. Priest of Ithaca as president of the commission. Mr. Priest is the editor and publisher of the Ithaca Journal.

CHEERED THE PRESIDENT.

An Enthusiastic Throng Welcomes the Chief Executive to Chicago.

THE STREETS CROWDED.

Accompanied to the Auditorium By Mayor Harrison and a Reception Committee.

Light Artillery Fires Salute When President's Train Arrives—Mr. McKinley and Secretary Root Among the Speakers at the Marquette Club Banquet.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9.—After delivering a short address in Galesburg President McKinley made a few remarks to the waiting and enthuastic thousands in Ottawa and Joliet, and arrived in Chicago twenty-five minutes behind schedule time.

Fully three hours before the time set for the arrival of his train, streets leading from the Van Buren street railway station to the Auditorium annex were jammed with persons waiting to greet the President and his Cabinet, and when, at last, the Chief Executive appeared a roar went up such as Chicago never heard before. The party was accompanied by the Reception Committee of the Fall Festival, Mayor Harrison and representatives of the Marquette Club, the escort from the station to the hotel being composed of five companies of police, three troops of the First Illinois cavalry and the Chicago Hussars. The Mexican National Band headed the line.

On the arrival of the President a salute was fired on the lake front by the Lake View Light Artillery. The line of march was along Sherman street to Jackson Boulevard, to Michigan avenue, south to the Auditorium Annex. There the President retired to his room to prepare for the banquet of the Marquette Club. He did not leave his apartments before departing for the banquet.

One thousand men sat down to the feast in the large apartment and the scene was a brilliant one. The decorations had been arranged on an elaborate scale. Floral pieces surmounted the speakers' table, where the President sat, which was placed on a raised platform beside the east wall. The space back of it was banked with flowers. The large oil painting of the Chief Executive, which hangs in the library of the Marquette Club house, occupied a space back of the speakers' table, and a marble bust of the President was given a conspicuous position.

Archbishop Ireland was the speaker immediately preceding the President, and when the Archbishop had concluded every eye was turned toward the Chief Executive, and the applause became deafening. As soon as silence was restored Toastmaster Winkersham introduced the President, who said:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Marquette Club:—I will not interrupt the orderly progress of the program which has been laid before you and to which I must insist that your chairman shall adhere.

"I rise only at this moment to express my warm appreciation of the affectionate salutation of the Marquette Club and to say that I reciprocate it with all my heart.

"We are not strangers. This scene is not altogether unfamiliar to me. I stood before you once before, now more than three years off, your honored guest, and I have for you all only most grateful recollection and unstinted gratitude.

"You have not only been my friends, faithful and unfaltering, at all times, but—what is of more moment, and what is much nobler—you have been at all times faithful to your country, faithful to the inviolability of public faith, standing always for honest government and honest money, and ever standing for the honor and integrity of the flag wherever it floats, carried by our soldiers or our sailors, on land or on sea."

Secretary of War Root delivered a speech in which he paid a high tribute of praise to the American soldiers who fought in the Spanish-American war; to those now in the Philippines and also to the veterans of the civil war. He declared that the war against the Filipinos would be pushed with vigor and that there would be no let up until the enemy either surrendered or laid down their arms. Speaking of the difficulty in the island of Luzon the Secretary said:

"The title we have to the island of Luzon is better than our title to Louisiana or Texas, and it rests upon a higher duty to humanity.

"No American executive has the right to take one rod of land from under the sovereignty of the American people, and he will maintain that sovereignty in the island of Luzon come who may against it."

Secretary Root's remarks were received with much enthusiasm.

Sunday hardly was the day of rest for President McKinley. The centre of a city's festivities and the one desired object of numerous committees and delegations, he was kept busy from the time of the last puff from his after-breakfast cigar till the last benediction of the religious services of the day had been given. In the afternoon and evening he attended three religious services, to in the Auditorium and one in Quinn Chapel. At the last named he spoke a few words of greeting to the enthusiastic colored congregation there assembled.

Laying the Corner Stone.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—The ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new government building were the most impressive of any that have taken place at the Fall Festival thus far, and were witnessed by thousands of visitors as well as the townspeople. President McKinley handled the trowel like a veteran at the stone laying business and was greeted with three rousing cheers at the close of his portion of the days program. A military escort headed the procession which escorted President McKinley from the Auditorium to the new postoffice.

FOREIGN WHEAT MARKET.

French Crop Sufficient for Current Requirements.

London, Oct. 9.—Farmers have made good headway in their preparations for the autumn sowing, the land in most districts being in good condition from the heavy rains experienced.

The appearance of buyers in the market has been by no means large. What little demand was current was practically confined to pressing needs, with holders still exercising reserve.

Actual business has been on very narrow lines, and farmers on some provincial exchanges have been very reluctant in their offerings, owing to the strained political situation in the Transvaal. This, however, is more or less of a purely sentimental nature, as beyond affecting freights it is scarcely probable that such a war could influence values to any permanent extent.

According to the Mark Lane Express foreign reports there has been an active demand for disposable wheat. Antwerp prices have taken a turn in favor of sellers.

The rain, which has fallen in French disrticts has been favorable to the autumn sowing, which was delayed by the drought. As the French wheat crop this year is sufficiently heavy to provide nearly for the current requirements of French consumers the upward movement observable upon the foreign markets has not exerted much influence on French quotations.

The very abundance of the French crop, coupled with the importance of the stocks of old wheat still on hand, has had the effect of increasing the wheat supplies upon the French markets to an extent exceeding the demands of the milling trade.

The wet weather has somewhat interfered with the deliveries of wheat in some parts of Russia and prices have hardened. The weather has been mild in the districts around Odessa, with frequent rains, and the autumn sowings are proceeding under favorable conditions.

Cruisers at Fort Monroe.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 9.—Through the rollicking waves kicked up by a stiff blow the five ships of the North Atlantic Squadron moved from their anchorages off Cape Henry up to Fort Monroe. The orders for the Brooklyn and New Orleans to return to New York to prepare for their Manila voyage did not reach them at the Capes. The Brooklyn's bunkers are almost empty, and it will be necessary to coal. The impression is general among the officers of the fleet that Admiral Dewey's recommendations to the President will result in the sending of all the smaller gunboats and cruisers and many of the heavier ships of the navy to the Philippines in order to perfectly blockade the coast.

Will Be an Honor to Three Oaks.

Three Oaks, Mich., Oct. 9.—Miss Helen Gould of New York has accepted an invitation to be the guest of Three Oaks on Dewey Day, which will be observed at such time as Admiral Dewey can visit the place on his way to Chicago. Miss Gould will pull the lanyard which will unveil the Spanish gun captured by Dewey and won by the Wolverine village. Very Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of President McKinley, who will spend a half-hour here on the afternoon of October 17.

Make Charges Against the Cramps.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The Executive Committee of the striking employes of Cramps' shipyards have decided to bring charges against the leading officials of the Cramp Company for violation of the Contract Labor law. The charges will be laid before District Attorney Reck at once. The basis of the accusations will be that the Cramps employed a number of Russian sailors, who also are skilled mechanics, on United States Government work, particularly the transport Thomas.

Crawford to Be Dewey's Secretary.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Admiral Dewey has selected J. W. Crawford of the Navy Department as his secretary. Mr. Crawford is from New Jersey. For several years he has been one of the principal assistants to the Judge Advocate-General of the navy. As Admiral Dewey's Secretary he will receive a salary of $2,500 a year and will be entitled to the rank and allowances of a Lieutenant of the navy

Queen Kissed by Emperor.

Potsdam, Oct. 9.—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, accompanied by the queen mother, has arrived. Their Majesties were received at the station by Emperor William, who kissed their cheeks and gave to them bouquets of roses. The imperial and royal party, gayly decorated, drove to the palace amid the cheers of the populace, and were received in the palace courtyard by the Empress.

Will Test Torpedo Boat.

London, Oct. 9.—The coming experiments with turbine torpedo boats are looked forward to with great interest. The first test will be made next month, when the Viper will go a measured mile. The contractors expect her to reach a speed of thirty-five knots. She is fitted with four shafts, each carrying two propellers, and each driven by four steam turbines.

Adams Made Presiding Justice.

Albany, Oct. 9.—Gov. Roosevelt has announced the designation of the Hon. William H. Adams, who is a Justice of the Supreme Court for the Seventh Judicial District, as Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division for the Fourth Department, from Jan. 1 next, to succeed Presiding Justice Hardin, whose term of office will have expired by limitation.

Carnegie Donates Another Library.

Jefferson, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Andrew Carnegie has made public his plans to give a fine library building to the citizens of Conneaut and the wharf laborers he employs at the harbor. The drawings have been approved by him.

New Morgan Liner Launched.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 9.—Miss Jessie Adele Braham of Brooklyn christened the new Morgan Line steamship El Cid as it dashed down the ways at the shipyard. The launching was witnessed by several thousand people.

"For a number of years past I suffered untold agony from dyspepsia, and how to get rid of it I did not know. I tried every remedy friends could suggest, still I got no relief, and my business being sedentary, that of a bookkeeper, it was getting almost unbearable. I often had to lay off for a day or two. I consulted our family physician, but the medicine he prescribed for me only gave temporary relief. Finally I was induced to try Ripans Tabules. It was not long before I felt greatly relieved, and now, thank God, I have not lost a day in the last year. I can fully recommend to all who are afflicted as I was, and in my case it is always a fact that One Gives Relief."

HE PLAYED THE RACES.

Another Trusted Employe Brings Himself Into Disgrace.

New York, Oct. 9.—Poolrooms are responsible for the downfall of Max E. Sturm, 24 years old, employed by J. W. Coulsten & Co. of No. 133 Front street. He was arrested and locked up in the Old Slip police station.

The discovery of Sturm's misdeeds was due to his being ill for a few days and the members of the firm having the bank book balanced while he was absent.

Sturm is a German by birth, and his family on the other side are said to belong to the nobility. He has been with the firm he robbed for some time and was trusted implicitly.

When he was taken ill the deposit book of the firm in the City Trust Company was sent around to be balanced. He had attended to this work at all times, and nothing was farther from the minds of the firm than believing anything wrong. When the checks that had been drawn against the account were returned canceled, three of them were seen to be forgeries. One was for $75, another for $200 and a third for $150.

The discovery was made several days ago, and the firm waited for Sturm to return to work. He came to the office, but was too ill to go to work, and had come in to see another clerk, and to say he would be well enough to be back in a few days. He was told that his thefts had been discovered and then he broke down.

Sturm made a confession and said he had lost the money playing the races and had stolen after he lost the amount of the first check with the hope to make good his defalcation. The bank knew him to be a trusted man. He made deposits of money for the firm, and when he presented a check signed by them it was not questioned by the tellers.

Walter Wellman's Return.

New York, Oct. 9.—The Cunard liner Umbria, with the intrepid Arctic explorer, Walter Wellman, aboard, has arrived in port. Mrs. Wellman, with her five daughters, was impatiently waiting at the West Twenty-first street pier to greet her husband after a separation of nearly eighteen months, during which the explorer encountered much peril. Mr. Wellman still walks with the aid of crutches, his right leg being nearly useless as a result of his falling down a crevasse in Franz Josef Land. The leg was severely strained and bruised, and because proper attention could not be given to it for five months afterward two operations were necessary to avert amputation. They were successful, and Mr. Wellman expects to soon regain entire control of the limb. Several large unchartered islands were discovered by Mr. Wellman on the trip. The explorer is certain that the pole can be reached by way of Franz Josef Land.

Says Hinckley Can't Escape.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 9.—United States Consul Dudley says that he will have the West Side Bank defaulter, C. C. Hinckley, detained in this Province, although he has been released. Hinckley was accused of absconding with $97,000 of the New York bank's funds and was released by Judge Forin, who held that when the crime was committed the power to extradite was not in force.

Esquimaux for Exposition.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 9.—The steamer Ingraham has arrived after a month's cruise along the northern coast of Labrador under the charter of Messrs. Taber and Adams to obtain a contingent of Esquimaux for the Paris Exposition. The steamer Eric is at Nain Labrador. Thirty-three Esquimaux, including women and children, embarked for London.

Watson's Action Disapproved.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Acting Secretary Allen has disapproved the action of Rear Admiral Watson in the court martial case of Naval Cadet George E. Van Orden, attached to the Helena, who was tried and sentenced at Cavite on August 25 to dismissal from the service for leaving his station without being regularly relieved.

Deers Killed by Wolves.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Reports from different points in the Adirondacks are that wolves have again appeared there, and are attacking their old prey, the deer. Several findings have been made by guides of evidences of struggles between deer and wolves, the carcasses of the deer remaining to tell the tale.

Havana Floating Dock Sold.

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 9.—The Spanish government has sold the Havana floating dock for $600,000 to a syndicate of Vera Cruz merchants. Several New York firms have been asked for terms for conveying the dock to Vera Cruz. The purchasers wish to take it away about the beginning of next month.

No More Executions at Newgate.

London, Oct. 9.—The last of the numerous executions that have made Newgate Prison historical took place last week. Hereafter all hangings will take place in Wandsworth Jail, London, and Newgate will be displaced by a new criminal court building.

Admiral Sampson Moves.

Glen Ridge, N. J., Oct. 9.—The family of Rear Admiral Sampson have left their home for Boston, where they will reside. The Admiral has been assigned on duty at the Boston Navy Yard.

PRESENTED NO DEMANDS

Believed That Great Britain is Toying With President Kruger's Patience.

MOBILIZATION ORDERED.

The Present Situation Thought to Be Thoroughly Comprehended by the Boer Leaders.

British Waiting For the Development of Events That Will Warrant Them in Making a Hostile Movement—The Boer Government Trying to Restrain Burghers.

London, Oct. 9.—Whatever may be the result of Great Britain's controversy with the South African Republic, every department of the government is as busy as though actual hostilities had begun. The electric flash that announced the mobilization of the army reserves and the summoning of Parliament set every wheel of the Government machinery in motion. An hour after the Gazette appeared Executive orders were being despatched from the War Office to every section of the Kingdom, and the 10,000 bulletins which apeared posted throughout the country are said to have been identified with the proclamation prepared for use had the Fashoda incident required such a step.

London, Oct. 9.—The British Government summoned Parliament in special session and ordered the mobilization of an army corps without even presenting the demands on the Transvaal, which will constitute the British "casus belli." There is no longer any doubt that the Government hopes circumstances will arise which will precipitate war without the necessity of delivering the threatened ultimatum to the Boer republic. The development of events which would best suit the British purpose is as follows: Maintenance of the present situation for perhaps a fortnight, during which British preparations would be advanced as rapidly as possible. Then some aggression on the part of the Boers on the Natal frontier which Great Britain would be able to stigmatize as an act of war and which would afford an excuse for breaking off negotiations. Next, the maintenance of a defensive policy by the British forces for two or three weeks, enabling the Boers to win minor successes, such as the capture of Newcastle. Public opinion being then inflamed into a unanimous demand for the crushing of the two republics and British forces being by that time ready to undertake an overwhelming campaign, the real war would begin.

It is hardly necessary to say that this situation is perfectly comprehended by the Boer leaders. The Boer Government will use its utmost efforts to restrain the burghers from furnishing an excuse for war, which England is anxiously hoping they will be betrayed or exasperated into supplying. The orders from Pretoria to all the frontiers on this subject are of the strictest description.

Not only the Boers, but Englishmen themselves, are in a quandary what demands the British Government can make, the refusal of which will constitute an adequate justification for a declaration of war. This quandary is all the greater in the light of the affirmation of two Cabinet members this week that Great Britain has no designs on the independence of the Transvaal. If, therefore, President Kruger is able to restrain his angry followers, who are threatened on all sides by British bayonets, he will succeed in forcing the British Government to commit itself to a policy which it will be unable to justify before the world's conscience.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's address greatly exasperates the war party. This is easy to understand because a majority of the anti-Boer side now openly confess, except in the press and on the public platform, that the professed reasons for their aggression are not the real ones. They regard Bannerman's criticism of their pretended "casus belli" as beside the mark and resent it accordingly.

Summonses have been issued calling out such members of the reserves as are necessary to bring up battalions wanted for service in South Africa to a strength of about 1,000 each. The men are to present themselves for service on or before Oct. 17.

Boers Not to Invade Natal.

London, Oct. 9.—Most important news comes from the Transvaal. If true, it indicates that the Boers have abandoned all idea of invading Natal.

A cablegram from Newcastle, Natal, says that farmers who arrived there from the Buffalo River state that the Boers are returning to their homes, leaving patrols along the river. The commandoes still remain on the Free State border. The despatch also says that the feeling at Newcastle now is that the Boers do not intend to attack that place, and that the evacuation of the town was premature.

A despatch from Durban also says that the excitement there has abated, owing to the Boers holding back from the frontier.

This retirement of the Boers is what the British authorities have expected, as their defective commissariat would prevent them from long remaining massed along the border. Telegrams received here recently have made frequent reference to the scarcity of forage and supplies in the Boer laagers, and have stated that many of those in the camps were inclined to strike out for their homes unless active operations were immediately undertaken. The despatch from Newcastle looks as though they had done as they threatened.

Meanwhile, further transports from India, with two field hospitals and Hussars, have arrived at Durban, and the men and material were at once forwarded to Ladysmith.

Funston Arrives at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—The hospital ship Solace with Brig.-Gen. Funston and a number of sick and wounded soldiers aboard has arrived here.

A Hint From Wyoming.

Governor Richards, of Wyoming, expressed great admiration for New Jersey while being entertained last week by Governor Voorhees.

"Jersey is a wonderfully prosperous State, but," said he, "she's a little behind Wyoming in the matter of women's suffrage. Why don't you give to the women a chance at the ballot box; we do out in Wyoming, and the results are more than satisfactory. It is not an uncommon thing for our society women to drive forty or fifty miles on election day to bring some lagging man to the polls."

Governor Voorhees did not express an opinion as to the advisability of extending the innovation into New Jersey. Being a bachelor the Governor is averse to committing himself.

There is talk in Washington that Rear-Admiral Schley is to be placed on the Democratic national ticket as running mate for Bryan or whoever heads the ticket. Some Democrats now there and fairly representative in character have been much impressed by the last week's popular demonstrations in New York and Washington, and if Maryland either goes Democratic this fall or shows a Republican falling off Schley, in the opinion of these gentlemen, is essential to the Democratic campaign.

The natives of Korea have developed a strong prejudice against the operation of electric cars in their country, owing to the fact that the company allows women to ride in the vehicles. This is regarded by the Koreans as a dangerous step toward women's rights.

An exchange tells of a woman who wrote the Congressman to get her husband appointed as a letter-carrier. She said he was a natural born carrier, as he had carried her letters over two weeks at a time.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

One of the noblest old men who stood on Politicians' Hill at Waverly Fair last Thursday was Former Governor Newell, who was a power in Jersey politics a half century ago. He was one of the most popular men on the Hill, and bubbled over with good-natured reminiscences. He is a remarkable man for his years, straight as an arrow, red cheeked, bright-eyed and agile. When asked for an explanation of seemingly perpetual youth, the former Governor said: "Life in the open air, no tobacco, no alcoholic stimulants, little water and a great deal of milk."—New York Press.

The glory of the agricultural exhibition has departed, apparently for all time. Waverly Park, for a score of years the home of the State Fair, closes its career today; and the property will henceforth be used as a public pleasure ground by the people of Essex county. The expenses of the fair just concluded, according to one of the directors, exceeded the receipts by over $25,000. This statement will surprise no one who saw the slim attendance and lean array of entries in all departments. Nor is this an isolated case. The Inter-state Fair at Trenton was a failure this year, and a few years ago the Plainfield fair grounds were permanently abandoned. The people have lost interest in big pumpkins and big politicians. 'Tis true, 'tis pity; and pity 'tis, 'tis true.—Cranford Chronicle.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Too much praise cannot be given to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for the superior service rendered last week in connection with the international yacht races. There was no comparison between that service and that furnished by the telegraph companies. The telephone was clearly ahead of everything else and their reports were correct. Through this service The Daily Press was able to furnish its readers with quick and accurate accounts of the races every few minutes, and judging by the very large crowd of people in front of The Press office, it was clearly shown that the service was appreciated. Praise should also be given to the employes of the local telephone office for their very efficient work and assistance in giving the reports to this paper.

In the course of time Plainfield develops some odd phases of life, and one incident that will stand in a class by itself will soon be enacted in this city. It will be a voter appearing at the ballot box for the first time dressed in knickerbockers. This sight will be witnessed in the Third ward next election day when "Freddie" Sebring, clerk at Rogers' bicycle store, will cast his first vote. It must be a pretty young bicycle novice that doesn't know "Freddie," but even his closest friends will probably be surprised to hear that he has reached the voting age. Though having reached the period of what we are pleased to describe as manhood, "Freddie" is a youthful looking fellow and does not betray the fact that he is out of his teens. "Freddie" is somewhat of a philosopher in his own way, a dealer in emphatic epigrams at times, and it is presumed that he will exercise a careful appreciation of the issues that will be concerned in the campaign leading up to his first vote.

SAME COUPLE TWICE WED.

Romance in the Marriage That Rev. George Gardiner Was Called Upon to Perform.

When Rev. George Gardiner, of Grace M. E. church, was called upon last Wednesday night by a young couple announcing themselves as Edward A. Hudson and Miss Margaret VanAman, of New Brunswick, asking to be joined in wedlock, the minister little thought there was a romantic story in their courtship. But it appears there was.

Saturday the parents of the young woman made public a statement to the effect that the young man and woman were secretly married in 1894, but, on making the fact known, the parents of both thought it best, in view of their extreme youth, to separate. If at the end of a few years they were still in love with each other, the parents said it would be time enough to think of married life.

Their love did not cool during five years' waiting, and finally all parental objections were overruled. It was thought best, however, to have a second marriage ceremony.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

The Broadway Theatre Opera Co. will present deKoven & Smith's tuneful opera, "The Highwayman," at Music Hall, in this city, Wednesday night. Since its organization at the Broadway Theatre, New York, in the autumn of 1897, the company has had a most prosperous career. It has presented "The Highwayman" nearly 700 times. The tour has extended into twenty-six different States and Canada, traversing over 16,000 miles of railroad, and has included every city of importance in the two countries. The company has been selected for some of the most auspicious openings that have taken place during its career, notably those of Whitney's Detroit Opera House and the Baker Theatre in Rochester. Arthur Deagon, who has become famous through his associations with this organization, will again appear as "Captain Scarlet," and others in the cast are Miss Florence Wolcott, as "Lady Constance," W. H. Treesnick, as "Foxey Quiller," Miss Florence Huntley, Miss Harriett Mae, Miss Alice Thorne and Miss Catherine Howland; William Brockmyer, Charles Byers, Edward Everett and Karl James, Jr. There is a large and effective chorus, augmented orchestra, and the opera will be presented with all the original scenery, costumes and effects.

* * * * *

When the curtain rings up on "The Rising Generation," at Music Hall, Thursday night, the audience will be sure to enjoy a three hours treat. The company now playing the comedy has been selected with an idea of the fitness of things, and all the bubbling humor, gentle pathos and catchy epigrams which have endeared the play to the theatre going public in other years, have not only been preserved but even added to, so that from the beginning to the end there is not one dull moment felt. The younger Barry plays the part of his father with all the sang froid of his sire, while the other characters are depicted by that picked band of comedians whose acting has been highly commended from one end of the country to the other.

* * * * *

"Knobs O' Tennessee" by Hal Reid, to be presented at Music Hall Saturday night, is a play that sprang into popularity the first night of its production. It is a story of everyday life of the Mountain folks of Tennessee, told in their peculiar style and charm of manner and is "Nature to Nature's self." Their is a love story running through the play, pure in thought and action, and pathos, tears and drolleries have ample sway. The production is said to be complete in every detail and will be enacted by a first-class company of artists, headed by Frank Kamington, an actor of great ability.

"A Stranger in a Strange Land" begins the third week of its successful run at the Manhattan. Three incontrovertible facts loom up conspicuously about this wildly extravagant farce. It is playing to the capacity of the theatre; it keeps the people convulsed with laughter; it is admirably acted by players of distinction. Cyril Scott's debonnaire dude cowboy and George Osbourke's thievish, vagabond reservation Indian are notably fine performances. One does not care for probability of incident in an uproarious farce, provided the fun is honest and wholesome and clean. "A Stranger in a Strange Land" has no dull moments and it never offends.

Cape May City Council on Tuesday evening sold $17,000 worth of refunding bonds at 105 1-2 and 107.

A strike of apprentices at the Fairton Glass Works for higher wages compelled a shut down of the entire plant.

The striking boys and even tenders at the Salem Glass Works have been granted an increase in wages and will resume work.

Admiral Dewey has been invited to attend the Princeton University anniversary exercises the 21st instant. He is likely to attend as he is an L. L. D. of the university.

Laborers excavating at the county jail in Hackensack have unearthed the skeleton of a man of giant build. He is believed to have been a murderer, hanged many years ago.

D. Stewart Craven, son of Thomas J Craven, of the Salem Glass Works, has been appointed an aid with the rank of major, on the staff of General Sewell, division commander of the National Guard.

Samuel Scott, residing near Turnerville, raised a cabbage head that weighed twenty-one pounds and measured four feet in circumference. Daniel Gaskill, of Cross Keys, has a sweet potato that weighs nine pounds.

Wm. Nichols, of Williamstown, has been missing since Sept. 23d, and his family and friends are greatly alarmed over his continued absence. Nichols left his home to take a walk, and has not been seen since and no trace of his whereabouts can be obtained.

Ezra F. Scattergood, instructor of mathematics, electricity and physics at Rutgers College, has accepted the chair of physics in the Atlanta School of Technology. He has just returned from a year's study in Europe, where he went on a fellowship from Yale.

Dr. W. A. Drysdale, of Philadelphia, has instituted suit against Atlantic City for a bill of $3,000. The debt was contracted through the city employing him to furnish drawings as an expert for the running of conduits in which to place electrical wires beneath the walk. The plans were never used, and the city turned the bill down as excessive.

STOLEN RIG STILL MISSING.

David Smalley Has Secured No Trace of the Outfit—Suspicious Actions of Missing Hostler.

Up to this afternoon David C. Smalley had secured no trace of the horse and road wagon stolen from his barn on East Front street last Thursday night. Every effort has been made to find the outfit, but to no avail. Mr. Smalley is confident, however, that the rig will be found in time. He has offered a reward of $50 for the return of the horse and buggy.

Randall, who is charged with stealing David C. Smalley's trotting hoase, tried to hire out to Adam Fritz a few days before he secured employment at Mr. Smalley's. The fellow said that he was flat broke and was willing to work for his board. Mr. Fritz told him that he did not need a man. Then Randall asked permission to sleep in the barn until he could get something to do. This request was also refused him. Before leaving Mr. Fritz gave the fellow 25 cents to buy a night's lodging. A few days afterwards Randall told Mr. Fritz that he expected a friend on to buy "Ned Davis," and that if he was not suited with that trotter, would Mr. Fritz sell one of his horses? Mr. Fritz did not like the appearance of Randall and he declined to have anything to do with him.

Fine Weather the Essential.

All that is now needed to make the borough firemen's parade a success is fine weather. Every arrangement has been completed for the affair and a good time is promised. The members of Warren Engine Company received their new hats last Friday, and their uniform is now complete.

—Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting tomorrow evening.

HIS ANNUAL STORY.

Illustrating the Pleasure of a Well-Trained Mind.

President Hadley of Yale and his predecessor, Dr. Timothy Dwight, differ largely in personality. The new executive is a highly nervous man—active, restless and tirelessly energetic. The former president is calmer and far less excitable. Dr. Dwight has great personal dignity, and to many Yale students he appeared to be unapproachable, but such was not the case. It is not the habit in large colleges for the undergraduates to come closely in contact with the president, but those few who did call on Dr. Dwight found him to be the soul of courtesy, sympathy and kindness.

Every year it was the custom of the doctor to deliver a course of "talks" before the freshman class. As the class changed each year the doctor repeated the same advice in practically the same language each season. There was one story which he invariably told. It was concerning William M. Evarts, and illustrated the pleasure that a well-trained mind derives from itself.

"Mr. Evarts once said," the doctor used to say, "that he always liked to talk to himself for two reasons. First, because he liked to hear a clever man talk, and second, because he enjoyed having a bright man for a listener."

Of course Mr. Evarts heard from this frequently. "I can always tell," Mr. Evarts is reported to have said once, "to what class a Yale man belongs when I meet him. If he repeats that anecdote in an awe-inspired manner I know he has just finished his freshman year, but if he repeats it patronizingly, as if he could have said something very much better along the same line himself, then I know that he has just finished his senior year."

Another story current at Yale for many years illustrates the nervousness of President Hadley.

Professor Hadley was riding to college one day in a horse car when old Professor Seymour, Greek department, got on and warmly greeted him. At the same moment the conductor came up for his fare. Mr. Hadley for an instant was in a dilemma; he rose, and cordially shaking hands with the conductor gave Professor Seymour his care fare.—Philadelphia Post.

Let Him Go Back.

"I don't see why Ezry's so all-fired rampageous about gittin' robbed by bunco men up t' Noo York. They treated him purty well."

"I don't see they did. They robbed him, sure!"

"But they let him keep his return ticket t' Squashtown!"

It Makes No Difference.

Bramble—I am trying to get a job as Chinese interpreter for the Criminal Court.

Thorne—But you don't understand a word of Chinese.

Bramble—That's all right. Neither does the judge.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongued coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store

RELIGIOUS

THIS IS RELIGION.

What is religion? I will tell thee what
I think it is—not blindly to disown
Thy reason, or couch and lay thee flat
Before a somethin : terrible unknown.
Not bound with bristling fence of man-made creeds
To thunder banns from thy presumptuous throne,
Nor with the mumbled charms of counted beads
To bring God down and make His will thine own,
But in His face with reverent love to look
Here, where it shines in sky and land and sea,
And where a prophet speaks in holy book.
To hear His word and take the truth to thee,
And hold it fast and tread earthly's lonely sod
With soul sincere as one who walks with God."

WHAT IS TRUE RELIGION?

When Brought to You It Sheds a Lurid Light Across Your Path.

It is not a time to lose faith in the verities of religion. It is not a time to doubt that God is in the world, ruling the nations, and preparing them for the acceptance of a religion whose foundations were laid once and for all time. Religion never had greater results to show; religion never had more beautiful characters to illustrate the saving and purifying power of the Gospel; religion never produced a broader and more philanthropic spirit; it never commanded the loving assent and the anxious endeavors of so many people.

"That which has done so much in the long centuries of the past, is doing so much in the enlightened present, and has so large and prosperous an outlook, must rest on an enduring basis. It must be the word of the Lord endureth forever."

But as long as you are looking upon religion as a series of precepts which you feel you ought to obey, the more will you feel a reluctance to have anything to do with it; when it is brought to you you will feel that it sheds rather a lurid light across your path; you will fight against it. As long as that is the case, you have not entered into the spirit of Christ, you have not understood the power of an indissoluble life. When you look at what real religion is, you see it should be a living thing. I see it in Christ my Master. All that He does is simply the outcome of what His very nature is. The life is within Him and He lives according to it. It is His joy to do the Father's will. He applies Himself for the well-being of mankind. The very virture of the sacrifice of Christ lay in this, that it is by His will that He offers Himself unto God, it is the love in it, the willingness in it. And this is what religion ought to be—a joy; it ought to be our nature; it ought to be our freedom, a delight to us. If you say "Oh some day I will turn over a new leaf, I will bring my life in harmony with the Decalogue, and begin to act in the way in which the minister says I ought to act, according to the precepts of the Ten Commandments," as long as that sort of spirit exists, you look through a dim glass, you do not see the real significance of faith and religion.

Religion is a life, and ought to work out from you as a life, and therefore should be your very nature.

The religion of the Bible is a positive religion. It deals with certainties. It tells what is, and what shall be. It rests upon fixed and definite principles. It has to do with what is true. It has an undeviating standard of right. It prescribes rules of conduct as well as articles of faith. It has a promise for "the life that now is and that which is to come." It proclaims a God, and sets forth with clearness His character, His will, His requirements, His promises, His curses and His blessings. It presents the nature of sin and its consequences. It insists on a personal holiness, and pictures the resultant benefit. It provides a Saviour for sinners, and requires faith in Him in order to the enjoyment of His redemption.

It tells of His person, life, death and work. It reveals the Holy spirit and the offices which He performs: It discloses a Heaven to be won, and a hell to be shunned.

In it there is a divine will to be followed—a revelation to be received and heeded. He who accepts it in its entirety is assured and responsive. He has a faith which prompts Him to action.

He has a love which gathers about a living Lord and Redeemer. He has a cause to uphold, and a work to engage His sympathies and activities. He has a hope which rises above the present and revels in the future. He is ever on the move, and presses towards the realization of His expectations.

He has a sure guide in life, a firm support in death, and a guaranteed reward in eternity. The Christian religion, rightly and fully apprehended, never fails to develop positive character.

WOMEN ON THE FARM

HOW THEY PRACTICE AGRICULTURE WITHOUT THE AID OF MAN.

Those Who Are Successful in One State—Stories That Teach a Lesson of Pluck and Independence for Women.

In every one of the 105 counties of Kansas there are fine farms owned and operated by women without the aid of men. The owners are women of pluck and perseverance, who have overcome all the difficulties that confront the farmers of the West, and in most instances their labors are rewarded with complete success.

The story of Mrs. Anna Lembach, Neosho County's woman farmer, is full if interest. Mrs. Lembach lives four miles northwest of Erie. She has a comfortable home, a quarter section of excellent land and money at interest. All this rpresents the saving, scrimping thrift and foresight of twelve years as a woman farmer. Mr. Lembach died in 1887. When his widow came to take stock of his available assets she found that they were a stout heart and a quarter section of partially raw land. There was a mortgage of $1,700 on the farm and other obligations aggregating more than $500. In the house were six little children, the eldest a boy of 11 years. Then it was that Mrs. Lembach put her hand literally to the plow, and until her children grew into manhood and womanhood, she was her own hired man and her own maid-of-all-work. She plowed and planted, sowed and reaped, not by proxy, but with her own hands. She kept her children in school, comfortably clothed and fed, and did double stint every work day of her life. She attended strictly to the duties of her farm, and in seven years the mortgage was a grim recollection. The mountain of debt had disappeared from her perspective. She still manages the farm on which she accumulated $10,000, practically unaided, in twelve years. But she takes life easier now, the burden has grown light in the carrying.

It is doubtful if there is a more successful woman operating a large farm in Kansas than Mrs. Seretta Bucher, who owns and personally manages a farm of 450 acres near Douglass, in Butler County. Nine years ago, after a successful period of seven years in Kansas farming, Mr. Bucher died. His widow immediately took upon herself the great responsibility of the management of her part of the estate, and her superior executive ability became manifest. Things moved under her direction. Few farmers can operate hired help to better advantage. Everything runs like clockwork. She looks after all her business matters in person, watches the markets, directs the planting, the cultivation and the harvest. In fact, she is the absolute monarch of her large farm and all her business affairs.

One of the most remarkable young women of Kansas is Miss Leah A. Knisely, who farms 160 acres near Industry, Dickerson County. She performs the entire work of her farm without the assistance of a man. Miss Knisely is 28 years old and was brought up on the farm where she now resides. In recent years she has been the main support of a widowed mother. About five years ago Miss Knisely took active management of the farm. Her health was poor, but farm work proved of great benefit to her, and she says it would now be impossible for her to hold her good health if she did not remain outdoors constantly. This year she had eighty acres of fine corn. Then she had 1,250 bushels of wheat. She not only plowed the ground for this wheat, but she sowed the grain, cultivated it herself and shocked the corn. She can husk corn with any man in Dickinson County. In addition to raising a big wheat and corn crop this year, Miss Kisely raised several acres of oats, took care of about 25 head of cattle, attended to the little garden, looked after her fruit trees and did all the work connected with the farm. The whole county admires her pluck, and the neighbors admit that she can give any of the men pointers on how to run a Kansas farm profitably.

Mrs. Jane Peterson is another prosperous farmer. She owns a good farm near Pleasanton, Linn County. For five years before his death, in 1893, her husband was an invalid. During all this time and since Mrs. Peterson has managed the farm and made money every year. She is industrious and is an excellent financier. Her farm is well improved. Mrs. Peterson's principal source of income is from the sale of milk to the creamery and from hogs, which are raised and prepared for the market. Mrs. Peterson is healthy and strong, and drives the best teams in Linn County.

Eight years ago General W. R. Brown, who owned 200 acres of land in Independence, died, leaving his widow alone. She took up the thread of farm work and has successfully conducted the estate. Mrs. Brown has made wheat growing a specialty, the greater part of her land being rich bottom. The upland she has made very profitable for dairy farming and the grazing of stock of the adjacent town of Independence, but she grows corn, clover and millet, as the seasons dictate.

Mrs. J. O. Martin is Kearney County's most successful woman farmer. Her husband died in 1889, and Mrs. Martin was left with three children to support. She took hold of the farm and gave her whole time to the work. She raised cattle and grain and makes money right along. She has cleared the mortgage off her farm and lives well. Her farm is located in the Arkansas Valley. Mrs. Martin owns two windmills and an irrigating plant.

The leading woman stock raiser of Kansas is Miss Mary Best, of Barber County. She came from England to Medicine Lodge ten years ago and soon after engaged in farming ad stock-raising. With the possible exception of ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson, Miss Best owns the finest farm in Barber County. She owns and controls 3,000 acres of land, 700 acres of which is in cultivation. She is dealing exclusively in cattle, and now has on her ranch near Medicine Lodge about 2,000 head, of which 700 head are her own and the balance she is holding for other parties. Miss Best handles from 2,000 to 3,000 head annually, and has always made money. She also has a contract with the United States Government to grow 450 bushels of sorghum seed. The seed is furnished by the Agricultural Department and is, without doubt, the finest grade in the world. Miss Best is a young woman of more than ordinary intelligence, and is known all over Barber County for her good business sense and her ability to manage a large farm. Hr good sense can be attested by a number of young Barber County farmers who have sought her hand and heart in marriage, but who have dismally failed. The young lady says she can take care of herself.

(Miss Mary Best.)

Near the Missouri and Kansas line, in Linn County, Mrs. Mary J. Reese owns and successfully operates a large farm of 260 acres. She is a typical independent woman farmer. Her farm is worth $4,000, and she has $1,000 loaned out to the neighboring farmers.

The Misses Martha and Carrie James are two Osage County sisters who are running a farm entirely without the help of a man. Miss Martha James is 30 years old, and her sister Carrie is 20. Both are natives of Kansas.

Hundreds of women are operating farms in Kansas, and in every instance they have prospered.

How to Move a Bureau.

"How in the name of time are we going to move the big bureau without taking the drawers all out?" was the doleful inquiry. The family had been moving and cleaning house; and just as they seemed to see their way out of the muss, there stood that bureau in the way, with drawers stuffed so full that to remove them meant to spill half their contents. Neither the tug entire nor the dismemberment and tedious reassembling was very inviting, and we stood and looked in despair. That is, all but one of us did. "Where is that shelf?" was his inquiry. A thick, stout board about three feet long was brought, and he himself went for the broom. Tipping the bureau first forward and then backward he soon had the board under the legs at one end. "Now shove the bald-headed end of that broom under," said he, as he tipped up bureau and shelf together. The smooth broomstick was placed under the board, midway between the legs. The assistant, who was beginning to catch the idea, took hold of the broom by the brush end, the man of science held up the other end of the bureau and balanced it on the broomstick—much easier done than one would think—and we were "off in a bunch." In less time than it takes to write this the heavy piece of furniture had been taken through a long suite of rooms, through a side door and into a sleeping room, and by a few dexterous tilts shoved into its allotted corner. "It's all in knowing how," said this domestic engineer. "A colored man told me that scheme; he's dead now, poor fellow."

He deserves a monument.—Fredonia Up-to-Date.

Her Old Age.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton says: "I consider old age the hey-dey of life, the grandest season that time allots to mortals. We have learned to weigh things by the right standards and to judge more correctly. Our views are broader, our sympathies stronger, our knowledge of life's work deeper and truer. Clearer vision comes as the years go by. I say unhesitatingly that no woman reaches the fullest mental development until after she is fifty. The greatest blessing of old age is health. Without that life palls upon us at any stage. Then in the afternoon of life comes leisure. We have time to think, to read, to watch the fulfillment of our hopes and to rejoice in the stride of progress."

Teach Children to Read Aloud.

A careful mother will take great pains to teach her children to read aloud acceptably. Much time and money are ofter expended in cultivating the voice for singing, and yet quite as much pleasure may be given by the person who reads aloud in a pleasing manner. No attempt need be made at elocution as the word is ordinarily understood; district utterance and proper emphasis so as to convey easily to the hearer the meaning of the sentences read are all that is necessary.—October Ladies' Home Journal.

Quaint old Matthew Henry says: She was not made out of his head to top him, not out of his feet to be trampled on, but out of his side to be equal to him, under his arm to be protected, and near his heart to be beloved.

FISHING WITH SHOTGUN

Some Great Sport at a Fish Leap In Florida Told By a Councilman.

"I've got a good story, but it sounds so much like a fish story that I am afraid to tell it at random," ventured the slim ex-councilman to his stout friend.

"Oh, don't mind me, Ed!" echoed the rotund friend.

"Well," whispered the other, "I had such tremendous luck fishing in Florida that I grew morbid contemplating the monotony. I pulled out fish until my arms ached.

"Learning that there were two bloodhounds in the vicinity I unbuckled my shotgun early one morning and set out for a point where there is a dam. None of our party knew of this dam. When the tide comes in the fish get above it and jump it when they want to go down. By agreement the man who owned the dogs was on hand. I stood at one end of the dam and he threw a stick in the water about forty feet above the embankment. In dashed the dogs. Like a flash of light a four-pound trout flung himself out of the water and high into the air. I gave him the open bore and just had time to snap another.

"It was glorious. For three hours I shot fish. Sometimes it was twenty minutes between shots, but frequently the fish were flushed every five minutes. It was thrilling! It was intoxicating. I used up every shell I had, and out of forty shots I finished forty fish, missing once, but upon one occasion, however, killing two at one shot.

"By the way," added the slim ex-councilman, as his robust acquaintance gasped for breath, "when I missed a fish a turtle was crawling by and I bagged him."—Atlanta Constitution.

Gossip For Fishermen.

Two Pennsylvania anglers were recently fined $200 for catching a trout in a net. They have appealed the case, but it is pretty generally thought throughout the state that the decision will stand. A Californian was recently fined the same amount for catching a salmon on Sunday. The new law in that state says that salmon shall be protected from Saturday sunset to Sunday at the same hour.

In some of the western waters where crappie are plentiful there is need of missionary work by sportsmen. Big catches of crappie are by no means uncommon at times, for these gamy fish often seem to have a desire to be taken in schools, and at such times it is not difficult to catch a very large number of them. One thing which is disastrous to them is by no means uncommon; several anglers may fish patiently for hours without success, then suddenly the crappie will begin to take the lures as fast as they are offered them. In an hour one man, under such conditions, can easily take fifty to one hundred crappie and the temptation is often hard to resist after an angler has had bad luck in previous efforts. Indeed, the writer has seen men each carrying strings of fifty to one hundred and twenty-five or more of these toothsome fish, not one of which would wiegh a pound, while the average would be on the lower side of the half. Crappie are not known in some parts of the union, but in a few years, through distribution, they will be found in nearly every water suitable to them. Let the friends of fish propagation, therefore, exert their influence toward moderation in the taking of crappie.

AN OLD FISHERMAN.

The Greatest Welter-Weight.

Billy Madden says that Jack Dempsey was the greatest welterweight fighter that ever lived. Says he:

"Dempsey, by the way, had a hard time learning how to box. You know he started out as a wrestler. There were not enough wrestlers to keep him busy, so he turned his attention to fighting. Many a night he fought a hard battle in my place for $2.50. Sometimes he would have a chance to make $5 a night at making two fights. Dempsey got part of his style from Charley Mitchell. Just about the time that Dempsey was coming out I brought Mitchell to this country to fight John L. Sullivan. He used to go on for what he could get at my place. Dempsey was there every night and saw Mitchell box. He caught on to some of his leads and counters, and in a way copied his style. Corbett's cleverness was, in a measure, due to boxing with Dempsey. Jim told me that he studied Dempsey's fighting and tried to copy it. McCoy has a touch of the style, copied from Dempsey and Corbett. He also utilizes points gained from Tommy Ryan. McCoy watched all of them work and picked up a good style that is very puzzling. He has some of the movement of Dempsey, Corbett and Ryan, with a few points of his own. With more weight he would be a hard man for any one to beat. If he picks up the weight he will again become a factor in the championship class."

A GATEMAN'S TRIALS.

MANY REQUESTS TO REFUSE AND QUESTIONS TO ANSWER.

The Kinds of People That Miss Trains at Railway Stations in Great Cities—Means of Evading Regulations.

"I'd like to go out to the train with this lady."

"Can't go unless you have a ticket."

"But I'm only going to the"—

"Please step aside and let the people pass."

The woman made way for the crowd behind her, and mixed "mean thing" and "hateful bear" so liberally with her goodbys to her companion that the short, jerky sentences were highly amusing to those who witnessed the scene. Admission to the train shed had been refused to her by the doorman at the Grand Central Station.

The crowd about the door gradually melted away, the doorkeeper shouted the warning: "Five o'clock limit train—all aboard!" A gong struck sharply somewhere near the platform outside. The doorman shouted again, less deliberately: "Allaboard!" banged the door, turned the key and the last chance for the 5 o'clock train for that day was gone. Gone for the ordinary traveller, for the man or woman who does not know that there is still a chance for the fleet footed train catcher. The late man comes through the door sprinting like a professional on a cinder path, but less comfortable, with grip and cane and umbrella. One glance at the door shows him that the last signal has been sounded, and without a word he rushes past the people who are already forming in line for the next train, past the groups of idlers, sightseers, porters and passengers, to the north door of the station, into the baggage room to a slat gate which is for the use of station employes only. He knows how the catch works, the gate opens, he reaches the platform and swings himself at the risk of life and limb on to the rear platform of the last car—but he gets there. "That's the way I always catch a train," he is apt to say when some one who saw his performance wonders at his method.

Life would be less burdensome to the man at the gate if more people would disobey the rules and catch the moving trains. He would have fewer questions to answer to the people who come just a minute too late. The left behind men are, as a rule, less philosophical than the women. "It's too bad," the women say, and they put their bags and bundles down on a seat and sit down next to them and then they think what the men usually say. After a few minutes they sneak up and ask when the next train leaves, and then either settle down and wait or check their belongings and leave the station. Some worry a bit, and some put on a don't care face, open a box of candy which was intended for company on the trip, and take it out in that.

"Men fuss and fume and fret, and often tell us our clocks are fast and that the timetables are wrong and make themselves a nuisance generally," said the gateman. "There is hardly a day that some one does not come to the door just a few minutes late, and when the first steam has been blown off, he will tell us how he has taken trains at all hours of the day and night, in all parts of the country, and never missed a train before. That story is so old that we know it by heart. Then we have men who want company while they wait for their trains, and knowing that the man at the door has nothing to do but change the indicator so that people may know at what stations the next train will stop; stand at the door and examine every ticket and see that no passenger goes out whose ticket is not good on that train; punch all the tickets; keep a record of how many passengers go through the door and where they are going; keep people back who have no tickets and answer all sorts of questions from those pertaining to the weather to timetable conundrums—knowing that the man at the door has only these little things to attend to, they make him their confidant and tell him where they are going, why they are going and when they expect to return, and the poor gateman must listen and look pleasant.

"One of the most disagreeable persons who come here is the man who has an hour or more to wait for his train, and employs the time in visiting places in the neighborhood to 'see what time it is,' and to keep himself awake. He often does too much visiting, and comes back in an unsteady condition and too late for his train. Sometimes he loses his ticket, and more often he thinks that he has lost it, and the man at the gate usually finds it for him in an inside pocket, and then gets 'jumped on' by the passenger for being 'so particular and not letting the man out without showing his ticket.'"

An amusing incident took place at the station a few weeks ago. A portly man with clothes of foreign cut, outlandish baggage and a decided German brogue, bought a ticket for a Western point, and then bought a sleeping berth and waited for his train to be announced. As soon as it was called he got into line, occupied much space with all his bags and bundles and made people in front and behind him uncomfortable. He had no sooner reached the platform than he dropped his baggage and freight and pushed his way back into the waiting room, ran up to the police officer and said breathlessly:

"Say—I lost my birthmark."

"Your birthmark? Where was it?"

"Here in my pocket in."

"In your pocket? That's a nice place to have one," said the officer, wishing to humor a crazy man. "How did it look?"

"Red—fool—like all birthmarks; I can without it not in the sleep-wagon go," and he rushed to the ticket window, where they knew that the German meant berth check when he said birthmark, and the matter was settled to his satisfaction. The crowds had gone through the door and it was nearly train time when he came bounding back and up to the ticket window, where, with profuse apologies he told the clerk that he had "found his birthmark."—New York Tribune.

THE CITY OF CIENFUEGOS.

A Gateway Through Which Passes a Great Percentage of Cuban Export.

THE BACK DOOR OF CUBA

Some of the Largest and Best Estates Are in Its Immediate Vicinity.

Soldiers and Patriots Who Refuse to Go to Work Though There Is Plenty of It—They Prefer to Pose As Heroes and Live on Charity—Reforms Which Are Greatly Needed.

To the American observer, Cienfuegos should properly be one of the most satisfactory cities of the tropics. Its streets are of good width, and it actually has footways which are entitled to the name of sidewalks. It is almost possible to walk three abreast. There is a large and beautiful park, iron-fenced with gardens and palm trees. The park is fronted by an imposing church edifice, a notable theatre building, fine club house and various other creditable structures, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. There are a number of buildings, both commercial and residential, which are far above the Cuban average. There is an unusual number of stores which are spacious and which offer that attractiveness which results from spaciousness. Yet, somehow, I do not like the place. It may be that its approximation of American standards for cities of 30,000 people is the cause of my little dislike for it, because it suggests and yet so fails to realize the American standard.

Giving Havana the credit of being Cuba's portal, the city of Cienfuegos is Cuba's back door. It is an important gateway, and through it there passes every year a considerable percentage of Cuban export. The chief industry is sugar-raising, and some of the largest and best estates on the island are to be found in the immediate vicinity of the city. Their business was very seriously interrupted during the war, and some proprietors were badly crippled. There was not, however, the wide spread destruction which occurred in some other districts.

There is a strong Spanish interest in the vicinity, and a considerable Spanish garrison occupied the territory. A story which is quite characteristic of Cuban methods of warfare is told in all seriousness by an ex-officer of the Cuban army. "During the war," he says, "the Spanish sent an army of 40,000 men into Santa Clara province. After marching through the country for a time they returned and reported the pacification of the district. When we heard that we came down from the hills and burned many cane fields, to show them that we were as much enraged as ever." Enough of the destruction occurred to seriously impair the industry, and good authorities estimate the crop at from a quarter to a third of the normal.

The labor question of the district is presenting serious phases. Hands are wanted on many estates to prepare the ground for the crops. At least 2,000 laborers are wanted. The laborers are here, but they will not go to work. They are soldiers and patriots. They are certainly a disreputable looking lot of soldiers, from a military standpoint, and their patriotism semms to manifest itself chiefly in philandering around, carrying a gun and machete, and living on the charity of the impoverished peasantry. It is not easy to see why these peple could not be officially mustered out and returned to productive activity on the soil, pending the distribution of any moneys which may be coming to them, and any use which may hereafter be found for them as rural police, or in other suitable capacity.

BOAT LANDING ON DAMAGI RIVER.

The city of Cienfuegos is in need of sundry reforms, some which are of a local character and some of which depend upon the general system of island government. Most of them are of equally imperative consideration in other cities of Cuba. Cienfuegos needs a water supply. The present institution is only notable because of its inadequacy.

Another greatly needed reform is along municipal lines, and concerns the matter of taxation. Under orders from the department of the Governor-General, cities are not allowed to impose and collect any taxes save a few which, under the old regime, were known as municipal taxes. They are few in number, and utterly insignificant with one exception. That exception formed the bulk of the amount collected, and represents a tax which is a disgrace to civilization. It is vicious and pernicious, and yet it is the only one of any moment which the authorities now permit the municipalities to collect for municipal expenses. This is the meat tax. The right to kill cattle was sold at auction to the highest bidder. The successful bidder often farmed out his contract in sections at a handsome profit.

Every bee carries its market basket round its hind legs. Any one examining the body of a bee through a microscope will observe that on the hind legs of the creature there is a fringe of stiff hairs on the surface, the hairs approaching each other at the tips so as to form a sort of cage. This is the bee's basket, and into it, after a successful journey, it will cram enough pollen to last it for two or three days.

For the horse, as for his master,
Ivory finds abundant scope;
Galls and scratches heal much faster,
When well cleansed with Ivory Soap.
Where 'tis used, the work is lighter,
Sleek and smooth the horses' coats,
Harness softer, carriage brighter,
And—a final charm—it floats.

TENNIS.

There was a good attempt at a revival of interest in tennis at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds last Saturday afternoon, when a tournament was held on the courts in front of Councilman G. P. Mellick's bungalow. A fairly good-sized crowd assembled to watch the play between four contestants, Thomas Day, Lester Glenney, R. A. Beebe and Henry V. Ryder, the club champion. Fair scores were made by the players and those who witnessed the play were enthusiastic.

In the first round Lester Glenney defeated Thomas Day 4 6, 6 4, 6-1. R. A. Beebe drew a bye. In the final round Lester Glenney defeated R. A. Beebe 6-3. 6 2, The championship round was then played between Glenney and Henry V. Ryder, the present champion of the club, and the latter won 6-2, 6-1, and therefore holds the cup for another year. This makes the second time that Mr. Ryder has won the cup and will have to win a third time to own it.

There was some little disappointment owing to the small number of entries in Saturday's tournament, but the tennis enthusiasts feel a little encouraged and sincerely hope that there may be a strong revival in the popular game.

During the afternoon the tennis enthusiasts who watched the play were charmingly entertained at Councilman Mellick's bungalow. Mr. Mellick was not able to be present on account of a recent accident which has confined him to his home but Mrs. Mellick received the guests. Tea was served.

The rules of the club have been issued in pamphlet form, and the club is to be incorporated at once

There was no special event of interest at golf on the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday last, and the day was practically given up to individual contests. The course was well filled with players and some very good scores were made. The day was perfect for golf and there was much enthusiasm manifested on the part of those who played. There were social features at the clubhouse during the day and in the evening a large number remained for dinner. Next Saturday will be important one at the course, when an all-day programme will be presented. Extensive preparations have been made for the day and it is probable that the largest crowd of the season will be in attendance if the weather is favorable.

There are only four weeks more in which the competition for the McCutchen cup will be continued on the links of the Park Golf Club. W. de la R. Anderson is still in the lead for the cup, but it is a very small margin that he leads by, and there is a chance for anybody to win the cup yet. If Anderson braces up, however, he is a likely winner of the cup. For the last month the points have been pretty well distributed among entirely new candidates for honors. During that time Councilman George T. Rogers, George C. Worth and Senator Charles A. Reed have become quite important factors. All have suffered from a visitation to their handicap and so are not likely to make any remarkable net scores hereafter unless they show improvement in playing. There is still a good chance for any of them. Meredith Dryden is off on his wedding tour now and will lose an opportunity to get to the top. He will be on hand the last of the month. Gifford W. Cooley is one of the leading trio, and if he pulls back to his old form, may be able to score a point or two in the near future.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Charles Dupee, of Washington Park, has done his share at full back on the Yale 'varsity eleven since the season opened. He played again last week and made two touchdowns. He is spoken of by the New York papers as a prominent candidate for the place.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Inter-County Bowling League has met with an untimely end. Difficulty in arranging an agreeable schedule is ascribed as the cause.

LITTLE FELLOW BURNED.

HE WAS PLAYING WITH MATCHES WHEN THEY IGNITED.

Screams Attracted the Mother's Attention and She Found Him Enveloped in Flames—Though Badly Burned His Life is Saved

Last Saturday afternoon the 5-year old son of Mr and Mrs. Andrew Judge, of West Second street, opposite Pond's, was playing with some matches, and in so doing his clothes caught fire. He was alone in part of the house at the time, but his cries attracted the attention of his mother, who hastened to where her boy was. She found him enveloped in flames and his life in danger.

About the same time George Gray, who lives in the neighborhood, was near the house and he rendered assistance in extinguishing the flames and saving the boy's life. In removing the burned clothes from the lad's body pieces of flesh were taken also. He was burned severely about the body and suffered intense agony.

A physician was sent for and proper treatment was given. The little fellow is now confined to his bed and still suffers a great deal of pain. However, he will recover, but will be detained to the house for a long time.

NEW HYDRANTS TESTED.

Chief Doane Was Satisfied With Results Of Tests Of Hydrants on East Front Street.

The new hydrants which the Plainfield Water Supply Company has just placed on East Front street at Netherwood and Johnston avenues, were tested Saturday afternoon under the direction of Chief T. O. Doane, of the Plainfield fire department.

One line of hose, 100 feet long, was attached to the hydrant at Netherwood avenue and East Front street. With a 1¼ inch nozzle the stream was thrown 132 feet and 71 pounds pressure was obtained.

Two lines of hose, 100 feet each, were also attached to the Johnston avenue hydrant. With all three streams going, a distance of 109 feet was obtained. Chief Doane was very much satisfied with the efficiency of the water supply at that point.

FIREMAN INJURED.

Landed on His Knee While Sliding Down the Pole at Headquarters to Show Visitors How it's Done.

L. M. Dunavan, one of the regular fireman on duty at fire department headquarters, was injured Saturday night and is now confined to his home on East Second street. There were visitors at headquarters Saturday evening and Dunavan was showing them about the house. He explained how the firemen descended the sliding poles and gave a practical illustration. When he struck the floor, his ankle turned and he landed on his knee cap, injuring it.

He was carried up stairs and remained there until yesterday afternoon when he was transferred to his home. Dr. Clawson is in attendance and hopes to have him out in a week or so.

Fourteenth Anniversary.

The fourteenth anniversary of the Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will be held tonight. Besides the reports of secretary and treasurer, Rev. A. THE GOVERNOR INVITED.

Senator Reed Extended the Invitation in Behalf of the Borough Firemen.

The committees in charge of the firemen's parade to be held in the borough Thursday met yesterday and completed all arrangements for the affair. Every detail is now arranged for and all that remains to make the parade a success is fine weather. The committees sincerely hope that people along the line of march will be generous in their decorations and will give the visitors a royal welcome to the borough.

Gov. Voorhees has been invited to attend the inspection and parade. The invitation was sent by Senator Reed, who had been asked by a representative of the department to extend the invitation. It is not known whether the Governor will accept the invitation but it is hoped that he can see his way clear to do so. The presence of the chief executive of the State at the celebration would prove a drawing card. It is understood that other prominent individuals are also to be invited.

PRO AND CON TALK ABOUT CHEAPER GAS.

Hearing Given By Councilmanic Street Committee.

LIVELY REMARKS HEARD.

PEOPLE'S COMPANY SEEMED TO HAVE BEST OF ARGUMENT.

Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, Appeared as the Counsel for the Old Gas Company but the Points He Made Were Very Weak — Senator Reed Was Principal Spokesman for the New Company.

Messrs. Barrows, Tolles and Van Herwerden, the councilmanic street committee, met last evening in the council rooms and invited the officers of the People's Gas Company to be present and talk over matters regarding the franchise asked for from the city. Those at the meeting included Messrs. Charles A. Reed, Wm. A. Coddington, Vincent W. Nash, Edward White and James E. Martine, of the new gas company. Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, was present to represent the Plainfield Gas Light Company. Street Commissioner Gavett was also present. Mr. Barrows occupied the chair, and started the discussion.

Senator Reed acted as spokeman for the company and replied so far as possible to the questions. He was unable to respond definitely to a number of questions, but gave the committee to understand that the company was organized in good faith and intended to do business and be just as fair as possible. All of this was sort of a preliminary action, but matters became quite warm when Mr. Bergen made his little speech on behalf of the company he represents.

He believed the new company was organized in good faith, but did not seem to believe that the members of the company fully realized what they are doing. He wondered what knowledge they had of gas that they should hope to reap any great benefit. He cited with much woe the troubles of other cities, where competition was started and how the various companies had been snowed under and were forced to give up their plants only to have John Kean buy them up. This, he said, was true in Elizabeth, where the people thought they would whack Mr. Kean.

The result of all this strife, Mr. Bergen said, was that the new companies could get very little business and the old company crowded them out. There is so little profit in gas that new companies cannot make enough to pay running expenses. He asked Mr. Barrows if he knew any place where two gas companies were running successfully, but Mr. Barrows being unfamiliar with the subject could not respond.

Mr. Bergen contended that the old company in this city must protect its rights and interests, and they would put the price of gas down very low, thus entrenching the new company on the start. The new company might get along for a while, but would soon go under. He said that the old company could make gas for $1, but was informed by a man who knows that first-class gas cannot be made at $1 with a profit. He then cited instances where the old company had been reducing the price of gas since 1893, and also spoke of the present reduction to take effect Nov. 1st. He advised the members of the People's Gas Company not to invest their money in gas, but to leave well enough alone.

Mr. Martine took exception to Mr. Bergen's remarks and said that a resident of Elizabeth thoroughly posted in gas matters told him that good gas could be made for $1. He recognized that Mr. Bergen voiced the sentiments of the Plainfield Gas Company, a monopoly, but with modern appliances, etc., gas can be made better and cheaper. He spoke of the reputation Plainfield has of being a high town, and he thought gas, water and other things along that line should be cheaper.

Senator Reed said that all Mr. Bergen had stated was about what could be said of the old company, but he cited the fact that during the past ten years the price of gas had been reduced from $2 to $1.50, but according to Mr. Bergen's theory that company should be given a monopoly and no other company should be allowed to furnish gas any cheaper The truth of the matter, said Mr. Reed, is that the Plainfield Gas Light Company will not reduce the price any faster than is necessary, and if the company goes out of business the stockholders will not be obliged to work on the streets to make a living.

In reply to this Mr. Bergen stated that with the two companies there is bound to be a fight, and the weaker

SENATOR REED WILLING.

SAYS THAT HE WOULD ACCEPT A RENOMINATION.

However, He Declares That His Personal Choice for Senator is Joseph S. Frelinghuysen—Cooper for Assembly.

Senator Charles A. Reed in an interview yesterday said that the Somerset County Republican convention would be held at Somerville, Wednesday, October 18th. Mr. Reed said that while he was making no effort to obtain a renomination, he would accept if it should come his way and esteem it an honor. He was anxious for party harmony, and would do whatever he could to that end.

His personal choice for Senator was, he said, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, who he had hoped would get into the field and make an effort to secure the nomination, which Mr. Reed thought he might obtain if he would hustle for it. If Mr. Frelinghuysen should be nominated Mr. Reed said he would support him as earnestly as he would work for himself. He believed that whoever the Republicans nominated would be elected.

As for himself, personally, he was not eager for the Senate nomination, but his friends had urged him to permit the use of his name, and he could not do otherwise than consent.

He said Edward E. Cooper will be renominated for the Assembly without opposition.

SHORTEST ON RECORD.

Common Council In Session Just Long Enough to Pass Two Ordinances.

The Common Council held the shortest special meeting on record, last evening. The meeting was called for the purpose of adopting on final passage two ordinances. The first ordinance provided for the issuing of temporary notes for sewer expenses, and the other one was an ordinance amending an ordinance relating to the office of the street commissioner. Both ordinances have been published in the papers, but it was necessary to adopt them on final passage last evening so as to give ample time before their enforcement. They were, of course, adopted. No other business was considered by the members at the meeting and an adjournment followed.

WAR TAX ON PAWN TICKETS

Internal Revenue Decision as to When Stamps Are Necessary

George E Van Voorhis, of Elizabeth, deputy collector of United States internal revenue, has just finished sending out notices to pawnbrokers in his district concerning a recent decision of Internal Revenue Commissioner Wilson, in regard to stamping certain pawn tickets.

These notices were accompanied by instructions as to when it was necessary to place a 25-cent stamp upon a pawn ticket, for according to the commissioner's decision, when charges for storage of articles are made, the pawn ticket becomes a warehouse receipt, which is taxable.

To avoid paying the tax all the broker has to do is to prove that no storage is charged for keeping goods. The pawn tickets he issues must also show this. If his tickets have on them a clause setting forth charges for storage, they are subject to tax.

Funeral of Jacob Finger.

The funeral services of the late Jacob Finger, whose death occurred Saturday, were held yesterday at Warrenville. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr Shaffer, of the German Lutheran church, North Plainfield. He spoke both in English and German at the house and the church nearby. Mr. Finger was a Lutheran and lived in Warren township for fifty-four years. Peter Finger, whose death occurred not long ago, was a son. Mr Finger was buried in the cemetery adjoining the church yard where the services were held.

REBATE ON TAXES TO COME NEXT YEAR.

Necessary Law Passed by the Legislature.

TOO LATE FOR THIS YEAR.

ASSESSORS DID NOT START THEIR LABORS IN TIME.

All is Ready for Offering the Rebate Next Year if New Council Agrees, Which is Very Likely—Assessors Will Then Start Their Work Early in the Year and Have Advantage of Rebate.

There isn't a property owner in Plainfield but who is interested in the recent agitation to secure the rebate of six per cent. on taxes paid in advance of the date set for collection, which is given in many cities in this State. They will be still more interested to known that the rebate will be allowed to all tax payers in Plainfield in the course of another year.

Seeing the success that the allowing of the rebate for taxes met with in North Plainfield, the question of following a similar course in this city was discussed by the Councilmen early this year. There was a general feeling in favor of such action and Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh was consulted as to the rights of the city to offer such a rebate. It was found that the State law as it then read did not give second class cities like Plainfield the right to offer the rebate. North Plainfield was enabled to make make the offer under the borough law.

At the request of the Council, Corporation Council Marsh drew a bill which was given to Assemblyman Roger F. Murray of this city to introduce into the State Legislature. The bill was introduced but met with strong opposition and was not passed.

Later in the session Assemblyman Murray secured a promise from Governor Voorhees to sign the bill if it was made a general act. The opposition was finally overcome at the very end of the session and the "general act" providing for the allowing of the rebate was passed by both houses and signed by the Governor.

It was then so late in the season as to prevent an early start on the part of the Assessors so that they might make an early return. The Assessors' report was not received and approved until the latter part of August. So it was decided to let the matter go over this year without action and start early next year so that the report might be in and approved early in July.

All the Councilmen are in favor of it and the changes in its personel after the fall election will not possibly overcome the majority that will favor the proposed action. Everything is now ready to put it in operation another yeor.

AFTER THE LEHIGH.

If Railroad Does Not Remove the Obstructions at Aldene the Sheriff Will.

The Borough Council of Roselle is determined that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company shall remove its obstructing house, fences and well, which are situated in First avenue, in the Aldene section of the borough. The house is located fourteen feet and three inches outside the line in the roadway. A communication was sent to the railroad some time ago by Attorney Frank Bergen, requesting the company to remove the obstructions, but they failed to comply with the request.

At the meeting of the Borough Council the matter was referred to the borough engineer and the street committee to make exact measurements, and then to place the matter in the hands of the borough attorney for action. It is said that if the company does not take the obstructions out of the roadway after this is done the sheriff will do it. The railroad company acquired the property when the land was situated in Linden and Westfield townships. At the point where the obstructions are the land was originally in Linden township.

YOUNG CHRISTIANS' AUSPICIOUS EVENT.

Fourteenth Anniversary of Christian Endeavor Society.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH

ABLE ADDRESS DELIVERED BY REV. DEWITT MASON.

Who Spoke of the Advancement That Has Been Made in the Cause of Christianity Since the Dawn of the Christian Era—Some Interesting Statistics From the Secretary and Treasurer's Report.

The Young People's Society of the Christian Endeavor of the Trinity Reformed church celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of their formation last evening in the Sunday-school room of the church. The exercises were very interesting and showed that this organization is one of the prominent factors in church work that is highly creditable to the young folks who have identified themselves in the good cause.

Edgar Sheppard, the president of the society, presided. An interesting feature of the exercises was the report of Secretary H. F. Crawford. The report showed that during the year twelve new members had joined, while but four active members had dropped out. There have been 46 meetings held during the year with a total attendance of 2,727, an average of 59. The largest number present at any one time was 120. During the year the society has contributed for all purposes $121.34. The treasurer's report showed that from September 30th, 1898, to September 30th, 1899, there had been received the sum of $49.56 with disbursements of $36.52, leaving a balance in the hands of the treasurer of $13.04.

After the reading of the treasurer's report and Miss Etta Krymer had rendered a solo, President Sheppard introduced Rev. A. DeWitt Mason, of New York, who delivered an interesting and highly instructive address.

The speaker began by comparing these times with those of long ago. The speaker told how the world has improved through humanitarianism and that in a measure we are dependent upon each other for our physical as well as mental well being. Humanitarianism had been of great benefit in assisting the growth of the Christian era. With the close of the nineteenth century, he said, the sun does not set anywhere in this world where the word of God is not heard.

In closing his address Rev Mr. DeWitt referred to the great work that has been done in the foreign missions and the difficulties that had been encountered to develop Christianity in the dark lands. In 1810, when the first missionaries had been sent out, there had been contributed but $23,000, while last year there had been donated for the great work the enormous sum of $3,600,000. As a finale to his most interesting address the speaker impressed upon the members of the Christian Endeavor Society the importance of doing what they could to assist the work and to give as liberally as their means will permit.

Model Farmer Dead.

George Felch, of Athens, Morris county, a wealthy farmer, owning one of the best farms in the county, and occupying a magnificent dwelling of sixteen rooms, died last Saturday. His farm was located between Morristown and Whippany, and was the admiration of all who have seen it. He was an uncle to Mrs. Julia Force, of Central avenue, and Mrs. Mary L Force, of Manning avenue. Mrs. Julia Force was sent for over a week ago and was with Mr. Felch when he passed away.

Carving Knife Went Amuck.

Master Fred L. Clarke, the five year old son of Mrs. Anna B. Clarke, of 10 Craig place, with too much self-assurance attempted to manipulate a large carving knife yesterday afternoon, while endeavoring to cut an apple. The result was the precocious youngster cut a severe gash in his left hand between the thumb and fore-finger. Dr. Pittis dressed the wound, which was nearly an inch and a half long.

Missionary Women to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian Synod will be held in the Westminster church, Elizabeth, Thursday. The home society will meet at 9 o'clock in the morning and the foreign society at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

To Join in the Rally.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will hold a meeting this evening. The members will go to the Congregational church and take part in a rally under the auspices of the Endeavorers of that church.

IMPORTANT DAY FOR SOCIETY AND GOLF.

Hillside Club Will Entertain Park Club.

ALL DAY NEXT SATURDAY.

SEVERAL COMPETITIONS ARRANGED FOR THE DAY.

Will Be One of the Leading Events of the Fall Social Season—Tea and Reception at Clubhouse—Big Attendance Expected—Competitions for Ladies and Gentlemen—Several Cups Offered.

Society and golf will join hands Saturday afternoon in honor of the reception that is to be tendered to the members of the Park Golf Club by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club at the clubhouse of the latter organization. Society will attend the event in force and make the tea at the clubhouse one of the chief events of the fall social season. The gathering of all the local golfers to compete in the several competitions arranged for the day will make the meeting of special importance in golfing circles.

Invitations have been sent out in city and borough for the tea which lasts from 4 to 7 o'clock. Some of the charming ladies of the club will assist in receiving the throng of guests that are expected. There will also be music during the afternoon and evening for those who prefer to remain at the club house and enjoy the social features of the gathering.

For the golfers who prefer the active life on the links, an interesting programme has been provided. In the morning, beginning at 10:30 o'clock, there will be a ladies competition for a cup donated by Vincent Loeser, nine holes, medal play, handicap. As the best means of fairly arranging the handicaps of the two cups, each player entering will send in her last three scores.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a men's competition for a cup offered by the Hillside Club, will be started. It will be a handicap event, eighteen holes, medal play.

Entries for these two events must reach L. E. Waring, 900 Park avenue, by Thursday night. As in the first contest, those entering in the second must send their last three scores so that they may be properly handicapped.

At 4 o'clock an approaching and putting contest for mixed pairs will be started. The Hillside Club will give prizes to the lady and gentleman winning. Entries must be made in pairs but do not have to be handed in until Saturday afternoon.

KENSINGTON PROSPERITY.

Business Requires Improvements to be Made at This Popular Hotel.

The popularity of the Hotel Kensington is growing every day and Proprietor Staats is obliged to increase his accommodations to a large extent. He is going to provide a grill room, which he feels sure the people of the city will support. It will be conducted on the same lines that has made the dining room so popular, and every effort will be made to please. There will be a dining room 22x60 which will amply accommodate all. Another feature will be a new kitchen 20x39. This will strictly be up-to-date and will, as usual, be scrupulously clean. These additions will be built in the rear of the hotel and work has been started. W. C. Smith, of the borough, has the contract for the mason work, and Frank Hale will do the carpenter work, while Merritt Bros., of Newark, will furnish the metal ceilings.

Free Excursion to Newark.

The second free excursion to Newark, under the auspices of the dry goods merchants of that city, will be held tomorrow. Any person can go free. After you get to Newark you go to any of the stores owned by the merchants giving the excursion and your money will be refunded. This is the season of the year when people begin to make changes and everything necessary in life can be found in Newark. The train will leave Plainfield at 8:55 o'clock tomorrow morning, returning leave Newark, Broad street, at 4:50 p. m.

No Name at Present.

Ex Councilman John G. MacLoughlin was elected president of a newly-organized whist club in the borough one night last week. The club will meet Thursday evening, every other week, for social amusement at the homes of the members. As yet the organization is without a name. Leonard S. Smith was elected treasurer of the club and Miss Emma Gillem, secretary.

BOARD OF HEALTH ACTS.

REPORTS OF PROCEEDINGS STARTED AGAINST ORDINANCE VIOLATORS.

A Number of Technical Violations of Health Ordinance Brought to Attention of City Judge, Wm. Runyon.

The enforcement of the health ordinance occassionally brings the Plainfield Board of Health into the city court. At the meeting of the board last week, there were a number of cases reported as having been started or completed during the month.

George J. Tobin was found guilty of a technical violation of the plumbing ordinance. Owing to a misunderstanding between Mr. Tobin and one of his employes, work was started before the permit was secured. Sentence was suspended. Daley Brothers, grocers, were found guilty of maintaining a nuisance. They received a crate of eggs which proved to be bad. They were left in the yard and the garbage carter failed to take them away. Health Inspector Addis found the eggs there and made a complaint Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

William Ross, proprietor of the Delmonico Oyster and Chop House on Park avenue, was found guilty by Judge Runyon of a similiar offence and fined. He failed to pay the fine. His lawyers, McClure & Meehan, claim irregularities in the court records of the case. It has been placed in the hands of Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh. The law provides explicitly the means for collecting such fines or for necessary punishment by imprisonment.

It was also reported at the meeting that proceedings were to be begun against Patrick Casey for failing to obey the order of the Board to connect certain buildings owned by him with the city sewer. A warrant has been issued by Judge Runyon, but it has not yet been served.

RAILROADS MAKING CHANGES.

Competition in Improvements Between New Brunswick's Line.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Oct. 10.—Changes of an important nature are contemplated by the two railroads which afford an outlet for this city to the rest of the world. The Pennsylvania Railroad has purchased another plot of ground near its tracks, which indicates that ere long track elevation may be taken up through this city.

The Raritan River Railroad long has been hampered because its station has been so far from the centre of the town. This difficulty soon will be obviated. The work of extending the road from its present terminal to a point several blocks nearer the business part of the city has been begun. The new terminal will be on Sandford street, between Remsen and Throop avenues. A gang of 200 men is at work. A handsome station will be built in the near future. The road then will become a more formidable rival of the Pennsylvania both for freight and passenger traffic.

Hudson Gas Deal Completed.

The consolidation of all the Hudson county gas companies was formally effected Saturday into the Hudson County Gas Company, with $10,500,000 capital. The new united gas company is part of the United Gas Improvement Company Syndicate of Philadelphia. This syndicate already controls the gas companies of Essex county, and it has now added those of Hudson county. A large gas plant is to be built on the Hackensack meadows, and the price of gas, which is now $1.25 per thousand cubic feet in Hudson county, is to come down unless the promises of the new company are broken.

Gone South for His Health.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 10.—John W. Whelen, secretary and treasurer of the Elizabeth Water Company, who is also private secretary for Senator Kean, started yesterday afternoon with his wife for the Hot Springs where he will remain until fully restored to health. Mr. Whelan has just recovered from a serve attack of pneumonia. He is still weak from his illness and Senator Kean has ordered him to quit work for a while and go South.

Board of Registry Sworn In.

The Board of Registry of the first district of the Third ward, consisting of Nathan R. Titsworth, Frank McInnerney, Martin J. Galbraith and George H. Rockfellow, appeared before Councilman B. Frank Coriell last evening and were sworn in. Today the members begin their canvass for the city vote.

Rev J. B. Cleaver's Good Work.

There was a large attendance at the First Church of Christ Sunday evening when Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, preached. There are good prospects of the church increasing in membership as well as interest.

BROKAW MUST PAY HARGRAVES $25.

Nominal Damages For Alienating Wife's Affections.

JURY OUT FOR FIVE HOURS.

STORIES TOLD BY PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANT.

Mrs. Hargraves Caused a Shock in Court by Telling of Her Relations With Brokaw—Brokaw Said That His Sympathies Had Been Aroused Out of Compassion for the Woman's Lot.

After being out from 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock last night the jury in the suit for $10,000 damages brought by Frederick W. Hargraves, of Westfield, against Wesley R. Brokaw, of this city, for the alienation of his wife's affections, brought in a verdict for $25 damages in favor of the plaintiff.

In his story told to the court yesterday, Mr. Hargraves dated all his marital troubles from about December 20th, last, when he called upon Brokaw in order to see about the purchase of a piano. Brokaw offered to put a piano in the plaintiff's house on trial until April 1st at a rental of $5 per month.

The piano was put in and some time in the early part of January Brokaw began to call on Mrs. Hargraves at her home and she to visit Brokaw at his store.

The visits became so frequent that Hargraves finally objected.

On the night of April 25th he saw his wife at Brokaw's store after 10 o'clock at night, and he demanded her to return home. He saw her at the store on several occasions after that.

He finally ordered the piano out of the house, and on Sept. 28th his wife left his bed and board. On the day following a van backed up to the house and a large part of the household goods were removed and carried to Brokaw's store. On demanding of Brokaw what right he had to remove the goods, he was informed that Mrs. Hargraves had requested it, and that he had promised to store them for her, which he did.

Witness testified that seven weeks after his wife had left him he asked her to return to him, which she did about a week later.

The next witness called for the plaintiff was Mrs. Mary Hargraves, wife of the plaintiff, who evidently much against her inclination, substantiated much of the story told by her husband. Mrs. Hargraves, who is a rather comely looking woman, was neatly attired, and during the whole of her examination made no attempt whatever to vouchsafe any information other than that she was obliged to.

She testified that Brokaw called frequently at her home, but that in each instance the object was to see about the piano and its payments. At no time had Brokaw acted in any other but a gentlemanly way. She had visited Brokaw at his store, but on business only.

The reason for her leaving her husband was because he upbraided her in Brokaw's presence and attempted to strike her.

During her testimony Mrs. Hargraves caused the defense a shock of surprise by testifying that at one Brokaw, on suggesting to her divorce proceedings, said to her that he would like to have her for his wife, but that she gave him no hope, in fact, made no reply. Brokaw gave her $50 with which to procure a divorce, and afterward it was shown that Mrs. Hargraves gave Brokaw a receipt for $50 for a sewing machine.

Brokaw, on taking the stand, explained the part he took in the unfortunate affair which resulted in Mrs. Hargraves' separation from her husband.

At no time did he advise Mrs. Hargraves to sue for a divorce, although he had been informed by Mrs. Hargraves of her husband's alleged cruel treatment. Just before the piano was taken out of the house Mrs. Hargraves told him that if the piano was taken out she would go too.

He said that his sympathy had gone out to the woman because of the stories of abuse and cruelties which she alleged she had been subjected to at the hands of her husband. He said that he advised her only out of sympathy and compassion for the unfortunate lot which he thought was hers, and that he had only business relations with her. He violently attacked Hargraves' character.

Cops Convention.

The Superior Officers' Association will meet at Trenton this afternoon. Chief Grant and some of the officers of the Plainfield Police Department will attend.

REPULSED FILIPINO ATTACK

Natives Open Brisk Fire on the American Lines in the Outskirts of Manila.

NEGROES FOUGHT WELL.

The Loss Sustained by the Americans in the Battle Consisted of Only Two Wounded.

Twenty-Fifth Infantry and Battery E of the Fourth Artillery Drive the Enemy Back—Filipinos' Bullets Fall Among the Tents of Uncle Sam's Soldiers.

Manila, Oct. 10.—The Filipinos attacked the American line on the outskirts of Manila between Blockhouse No. 5 and La Loma. The American forces, consisting of the 25th Infantry (negro) and Battery E of the 4th Artillery, repulsed the attack. Three Americans were wounded.

The American camp is within sight of San Francisco de Malabon, the stronghold of the enemy in the Province of Cavite, where there are 5,000 Filipinos.

On the march from Noveleta to Rosario only a few shots were fired. This large coast town was filled with white flags. The Americans captured 200 or 300 men, many of the Filipinos changing their clothing for white costumes. The Bay of Rosario was filled with hundreds of boats, in which natives had spent an exciting night.

Bullets Fell Among the Tents.

Manila, Oct. 10.—A body of Filipinos was seen near Laloma church, four miles from the heart of Manila. They opened fire, the bullets falling among the tents of the Twenty-fifth Infantry.

The Americans manned the trenches and replied at a range of 1,200 yards. The Filipinos volleyed and the Americans used their artillery. The fight lasted an hour, after which the enemy retreated.

One American was wounded. The scouts of the Twentieth Infantry are out reconnoitering.

Capt. Marion B. Saffold, Thirteenth Infantry, who lost his life in the attack on Noveleta, was a graduate of the Military Academy in the class of 1879. He was born at Selma, Ala., on Sept. 1, 1856. He participated in the campaign against the Apache Indians in New Mexico and Arizona and took a creditable part in the campaign against Santiago. He went to the Philippines last April.

Woman Fatally Burned.

Celina, O., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Frederick Schroeder, of St. John, was making apple butter, and while stirring the large kettle in the yard her dress caught fire. She was soon enveloped in flames, and ran screaming toward the house. Her husband was coming home to dinner, and just as he reached the porch she ran around the corner of the house. She fell into his arms with te cry: "I am burning up!" He succeeded in putting out the flames and carried her into the house, where she expired about 30 minutes later. Mrs. Schroeder leaves five small children.

Long Branch Postoffice Scorched.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 10.—Fire broke out in the building on Brighton avenue, West End, near the West End Hotel, which is occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Company and the post office at that place. It was caused by the telegraph company's switchboard getting on fire. There was no serious loss to the building, but the mail matter in the post office suffered considerably from water, but none of it was burned.

Killed By an Electric Fan.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 10.—Mary M. Leiser, a domestic employed in a local hotel, was killed by an electric fan. She had washed her hair, which was of unusual length, and while holding it to dry before the fan, its meshes were caught in the rapidly revolving blades. These beat her life out before the fan could be stopped.

Refuses to Sit With a Negro.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 10.—Miss Anastasia Miller, of Versailles, will have to quit Wellesley College unless she consents to sit with a negro girl in one recitation daily. She has refused and her guardians have been asked to decide at once what they want done in the premises.

Cloth Mills Reopened.

Kingston, R. I., Oct. 10.—Operations have been resumed at the mills of the Rodman Manufacturing Company of North and South Kingston, after a shut-down of eighteen months. Doeskin jeans are manufactured at the plant, at which about 500 men are employed.

Dewey Starts for Vermont.

Washington, Oct. 10.—W. Seward Webb and Governor Smith of Vermont arrived here in Dr. Webb's private car, which carries Admiral Dewey to Vermont for his vacation on Dr. Webb's estate. The special car left for Vermont over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Republicans Choose Shotwell.

Cadiz, O., Oct. 10.—The Republican Convention of the Harrison, Jefferson and Tuscarawas Counties Judicial Subdivision was held here, and Walter G. Shotwell, of Cadiz, was chosen as candidate for Common Pleas Judge to succeed Judge Douthitt, deceased.

He Ate Pounded Glass.

Bellefontaine, O., Oct. 10.—Henry E. Aukman, the Logan County pioneer, aged 75, who tried to commit suicide by eating fragments of glass and stabbed himself in the abdomen with a pair of sheep sheers, died in great agony.

DANBURY OFFICERS CLASH.

"Purifying" the Fair Causes a Lot of Unpleasantness.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 10.—The efforts of Danbury's clergymen and certain prominent citizens to have the Connecticut Law and Order League remove certain objectionable features from the Danbury Fair resulted in a collision between the officers of the League and the local police. S. P. Thrasher, of New Haven, secretary of the League, was locked up on a charge of assault, while Special Policeman Michael Cunningham was held on a charge of using abusive language. Still further interesting developments are expected.

Cunningham made a remark about Thrasher as the latter passed along the street. Thrasher retorted by saying: "I know you and all your crowd."

Cunninghma took this as an insult and the result was that the two men got hold of each other's collars in a frantic attempt to arrest each other. At this juncture Deputy Sheriff Hartz appeared on the scene and arrested both men.

Bail was promptly secured for Mr. Thrasher, who now proposes to make a fight in the City Court and, if need be, to take it to the Supreme Court.

Say He Swindled the Government.

New York, Oct. 10.—Freeman Strait, arrested on a charge of swindling the government, has had a second arraignment before Commissioner Shields. He is under bonds of $2,500. Strait, hitherto a respected business man in Broadway, whose financial standing has never been questioned, found it more profitable, United States officials say, to make $2,000 a week by fraud against the government, and in arresting him they believe they took the first step toward capturing a band of clever men who, by selling war revenue stamps restored after cancellation, have taken from the Wall street district and its neighborhood more than $100,000. With him a prisoner, the United States revenue officers started to hunt for others renovating cancelled war revenue stamps, and they expect to arrest a business man whose reputation and standing among his fellows and socially is as good as was that of Strait.

Makes Cubans Angry.

Havana, Oct. 10.—To-day is a Cuban national holiday in celebration of the anniversary of the beginning of the Ten Years' War. As a protest against Mayor Lacosie's recent order that the Spanish flag could only be raised over the Consulate building the Spaniards have decided to display the American flag everywhere, over their houses, clubs, etc. This will surely make the uncompromising Cubans angry, which is said to be the object the Spaniards have in making the display.

Gamblers Held Up.

Phoenix, A. T., Oct. 10.—Gamblers of this city are jubilant over the fact that they were robbed in the good old style. Three men entered the faro gambling room at the Palace, and while two covered the crowd with their pistols the third shovelled up the heaps of coin. The proprietor, Gus Hirschfield, shot at the one, and others shot at the crowd, and all escaped with several hundred dollars. Nobody was badly hurt.

Historic Building Burned.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 10.—An ante-Revolutionary building in this place, known as "The Barracks," was partially destroyed by fire. It was occupied previous to the year 1775 by British soldiery, and until recently was used as the city poor-house. At the time of the fire it was filled with Italians, some of whom escaped with difficulty, losing most of their belongings.

Disastrous Fire at Huntsville.

Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 10.—A disastrous fire occurred here. The blaze was discovered in A. J. Bennett & Co.'s livery stable. It spread quickly in all directions. The flames were communicated to adjoining buildings and within forty minutes the whole block bounded by Washington, Clifton, Green and Randolph streets was in flames. The loss is estimated at $175,000.

Has an Independent Company.

Akron, O., Oct. 10.—It has been learned here that H. E. Loomis, who sold his salt plant to the trust had already organized another company with $300,000 capital. He will build a plant at Barberton, where salt has been found, with a capacity of 15 cars per day. Contracts have been secured for nearly the entire output. It will be independent.

Killed Three Robbers.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 10.—News of a triple killing has reached here. A ferryman named Ashby is reported to have killed three negroes who attempted to rob him on the Kentucky side, about five miles below the city. Particulars of the shooting cannot be learned. Officers left here for the scene of the murder.

Italian Floods Drown Forty.

London, Oct. 10.—Forty persons were drowned, according to a special despatch from Naples, by floods following severe rains in the province of Salerno. A number of small villages and factories have been destroyed. Troops have been sent to the relief of the inhabitants.

Hard Fight With Burglars.

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—A lively fight occurred at Alameda between three burglars surprised at work and the police, in which citizens armed with shot guns participated. One of the burglars was killed and another captured. City Marshal Conrad was wounded.

Cuba's Death Roll.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Gen. Brooke reports the following deaths at Santiago: George B. Tinany, Company A, Fifth Infantry; pernicious malaria; James Austia, Quartermaster's employe, suicide by carbolic acid.

Railroad Brakeman Killed.

Russellville, Ky., Oct. 10.—Tom Ridley, a brakeman on the Memphis branch of the L. and N., was instantly killed at Ferguson five miles east of here.

The good deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills
Are spreading o'er the city.
Lifting burdens from aching backs,
Curing the pains of kidney ills.
Read the proof in a Plainfield man's words:

Mr. Jepp Zensen, of 728 W. Front street, Pattern maker by trade, says: "For a year I had symtoms of kidney trouble. A sort of grinding pain across my back at times extended up to my shoulders and there was a lameness over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills I cannot do otherwise than endorse them."

"THE MISSISQUOI SPRING WATER has in some cases seemed to be of great benefit in arresting the progress of the disease. In a few instances, one of cancer of the breast and four of uterine cancer, the apparent effect has been more striking than any results I have seen from any other agent."
Fordyce Barker, M. D.
"I can fully endorse all that my friend Dr. Barker has said about the MISSISQUOI SPRING WATER. I have prescribed it with benefit in a few cases of cancer. I also consider it a great remedy in all scrofulous diseases, and in syphilitic affections. In these diseases its true value has not yet been fully recognized by the profession. It is also an admirable remedy in affections of the digestive organs, and in some diseases of the kidneys."

FAVORS RAILWAY POOLS.

President Callaway, of New York Central, Before Industrial Commission.

NO RATE WAR IN SIGHT.

Export Trade in Southern Cities Has Injured the Carrying Trade to New York City.

Testifies That Railroad Combines Properly Conducted Are a Benefit to Railroad and Patrons Alike. Refers to Old Railroad Pools as "Back Numbers."

Washington, Oct. 10.—President S. R. Callaway of the New York Central Railroad occupied almost a whole session of the Industrial Commission with testimony concerning present conditions in American railroads. He held that rate wars were not imminent while transportation rates were as they are at present; that the export trade at Newport News and other Southern ports had injured the carrying trade to New York City; that differential rates between freight commodities must shortly be abolished; that the pooling of railroad interests, properly conducted, would benefit both railroads and patrons, and that Government ownership of railroads would increase the difficulties under which the roads are now operated.

"Freight rates are now so low," said Mr. Callaway, "that our road could not conduct its business at a profit except for the enormously increased carrying capacity of engines and cars. One train to-day can transport as much as three trains twenty years ago."

Of differential rates he said: "Our company has sought for years past to have discriminations between commodities altogether done away with. This might be brought about by law, granting the Interstate Commission the right to adjust all controversies of the sort. Certainly the New York Central would approve such a course."

The witness spoke of the old railroad pools as "back numbers," and "inoperative."

"The old pools were no good," he put it. New ones might prove of mutual benefit, he thought, if the amount of shipping to be done by each road were limited as well as the freight charge imposed. The publicity involved in the execution of these laws, Mr. Callaway thought, would prove beneficial to the railroads.

"The difficulties under which roads are conducted," he explained, "are so great that we are always glad to have them brought before the public. As the situation now is, we offer persons interested access to every detail of our business."

New York had suffered through the growth of Newport News and other middle Atlantic ports chiefly because New York had formerly controlled the Atlantic export trade of the United States. As these other export centres grew, their custom was taken bodily from New York. This change had been furthered by special advantages in rates offered by roads connecting with the new ports. But New York did not feel the loss of that trade.

Receipts Are Satisfactory.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The War Department statements of custom receipts for the month of September 1899, make an excellent showing for a dull month. The receipts, notwithstanding the strike, reached the handsome sum of $960,646.23. The receipts at the port for the month of August were $1,029,303.74, a difference in favor of the month of August of only $69,157.51.

Divided as follows, the receipts for September are: Import duties, $857,547; export duties, $63,569.54; foreign tonnage, dues, $17,328.28; coastwise dues, $1,241.99; overtime work, consular fees, &c., $2,697.14; special harbor inspection, $12,346.76; cattle inspection fees, $3,779.64; storage and cartage charges, $1,034.88 and passenger taxes, $1,047. Total, $960,646.23.

Honors to Russian Catholic Prince.

Braddock, Pa., Oct. 10.—Monsignor Martinelli, Archbishop John Ireland and Bishop Phelan, of this diocese, publicly dedicated a $10,000 bronze statue to-day at Loretto, in memory of the Rev. Demetrius Gallitzin, a Prince of the Russian family who came to America a century ago and built the first Catholic church, between Lancaster, Pa., and St. Louis. The statue is a gift from Charles M. Schwab, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, a native of Loretto.

Soldier Shot Down by Farmer.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—Ernest L. Greist, a farmer living near Camp Meade, shot and killed a private of the Forty-first Regiment. Greist says soldiers had been stealing from him and he ordered away three of them whom he met on his farm. One of them attempted to strike Greist, whereupon the latter fired. Greist is in the Harrisburg jail.

Will Ordain No Women Preachers.

Westbrook, Me., Oct. 10.—After violent debate the Maine Adventist conference has voted to ordain no women as preachers and to condemn the expansion policy of the Government. The chief reason against women is that they are incapacitated for performing the baptismal services.

Nonunion Miner Shot.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 10.—Crip W. Burns, a colored employe of the First Avenue Coal Mine here, went to Henderson, Ky., to bring nonunion miners to this city to work in the mine. He was shot and killed by Charles Ossenberg, a union miner.

Little Girl Fatally Burned.

New Britain, Conn., Oct. 10.—Mary M. Mooney, the seven-year-old daughter of Thomas Mooney, is dead as the result of burns received while playing about a bonfire. She was badly burned about the body.

THE PRESIDENT IS BUSY.

May Stop at Milwaukee on His Return From the West.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The great popular enthusiasm to meet President McKinley and hear him speak is evidenced by the most persistent efforts of delegations in Chicago from various cities to induce the President to extend his Western trip to places not on the original itinerary. The President has been resolute in declining these invitations, expressing to each delegation of citizens his regret, but emphasizing the necessity of his returning to Washington not later than Oct. 19. None of the delegations, however, except the one from Buffalo, has really given up its effort to induce the President to change his mind. President McKinley promised the delegation from Buffalo, consisting of Mayor Diehl, Congressman Alexander and J. N. Adam, that he would visit their city on some date soon after the end of the present trip. The Buffalonians are trying to arrange a new date for the celebration of Foundation Day of the Pan-American Exposition which will suit the President's convenience.

The Omaha citizen's delegation, headed by Editor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee, is still in Chicago. After the President had regretfully declined their invitation, they had a conference with the delegation from Milwaukee. The latter city is on the regular itinerary. The Milwaukee men agreed to try to arrange a luncheon for the President on the 17th instead of the dinner proposed for the 16th, thus enabling the Presidential party to go to Omaha on the 16th from Council Bluffs, and thence to Milwaukee. The President has finally promised that if Omaha and Milwaukee can arrange this matter between themselves so that he may lose no time, he will go to Omaha for a few hours. The Omaha citizens have presented their case to Mr. McKinley in the most eloquent terms, justifying the urgency of their invitation to the unequalled enthusiasm among the people of Nebraska to have the President visit their state.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Chicago's great Auditorium never held a larger gathering than last night, when the Chicago Day banquet was held within its walls under the auspices of the Fall Festival Committee. The stage, upon which 1,000 persons can stand, had been enlarged and a floor built out over the seats of the parquet, quadrupling the floor space of the stage.

Back of the raised table at the west of the hall, at which President McKinley and the guests of honor were seated, was an elaborate peace arch, twenty feet in height, constructed of pastry. It was decorated with flags, from the folds of which twinkled hundreds of little electric lights. On both sides of the arch were large shields with paintings of the American eagle and groupings of American, British and Mexican flags. The balconies were resplendent with banners and the coats-of-arms of all States in the Union.

The speeches were all roundly applauded, especially the one delivered by Sir Wilfrid Lourier Premier of Canada.

Still Remains a Mystery.

New York, Oct. 10.—All attempts at identification of the portions of the murdered woman's body at the Morgue have failed and the case is still wrapped in deep mystery. It was stated that an arrest in connection with the case had been made in Brooklyn, but this is denied by the authorities. Mrs. Ida Eggeling, of No. 540 East 134th street, viewed the fragments of the body. She thought they might have been parts of Mrs. Haggerty, of Scranton, but after a careful examination Mrs. Eggeling decided that they were not. Mrs. Haggerty was Miss Annie Milton, and left her husband, who is a physician. She boarded here with Mrs. Eggeling, and vanished a few days ago.

Grocery Bill Causes Fatal Shooting.

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—Frank McAuliffe, a pugilist, and brother of Joe McAuliffe, also a pugilist, was shot and almost instantly killed by Frank Mitchell, a grocer. The altercation began over an unpaid bill and the striking of the grocer by the pugilist. As Mitchell ran to his store and armed himself, he was followed by the McAuliffes. When he emerged and saw the brothers, he warned them not to advance. They paid no attention to this, and Mitchell fired with the result stated.

Shamrock Has a Chance.

New York, Oct. 10.—The immense crowds that went down the bay to-day to see the Columbia and Shamrock try conclusions over the thirty-mile course are fully equal in size to those that witnessed the first three events, in neither of which a winner was declared. While all Americans hope that the Columbia will win, there is no denying the fact that the best judges of yachting believe the Cup is in danger and that the Shamrock has much more than a fighting chance to win.

Explosion on Steamboat.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 10.—Word was telephoned from Fort George Island, at the mouth of the river, that the Idlewild, a small thirty-five foot steamboat owned by the Messrs. Uedemann, wholesale merchants, blew up opposite Mayport. There were four boys and two men on board. One person is reported missing, and two others are badly burned or injured.

The Cartridges Exploded.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—By the explosion of a dynamite cartridge with which they were playing, two boys, Howard and Fred Farley, of 89 Meek avenue, were severely injured. Howard, aged 16, may die.

Conductor Fatally Crushed.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 10.—J. J. Collier, conductor on the C., H. and D., was caught between two strings of cars and fatally crushed. He died while his leg was being amputated at the Toledo Hospital.

Ground to Death in Clover Huller.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 10.—Henry Bischoff, aged 42, a wealthy farmer, was ground to pieces in a clover huller on his farm three miles west of this city.

A young saleswoman in one of Brooklyn's large stores recently apologized to a lady for having kept her waiting so long, saying: "I am not fit for work to-day, can scarcely see because I have such a sick headache." In answer to the remark that headaches were an unfortunate ailment, she replied: "Yes, indeed, and I am subject to them that just as sure as there is a special sale on, or any unusual combination I am in fun, and they are a great misfortune, for I am dependent on my earnestness, and press and the coming hour I lose a good position on account of them. They said I was too much of an absentee." In connection with the headaches this girl suffered much from what the doctor told her was acidity of the stomach. Some of her spells were more severe than others but nothing helped her for more than a short time. The conversation above related led to this young woman's hearing of the wonderful efficacy of Ripans Tabules for such troubles as she suffered from. She sent out and bought some of them the hour, and the good effect was found to be immediate. The relief from condition of her stomach was corrected, and before she realized it her headache was gone. This young woman now keeps Ripans Tabules with her at the store, and takes one every night. She says they dispel her all troubles, and cause them to vanish like the dew before the rising sun. Through her influence, other girls in the store who had suffered from headaches learned what the Tabules could do for them, and now there are four who resort to them just as soon as they feel the miserable and discouraging symptoms approaching.

A new style package containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some druggists' at FIVE CENTS. This low priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (TEN Tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

PROMINENT MEN ON TRIAL

Revenue Stamp Fraud Cases Are in Court at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Interest in the revenue stamp counterfeiting conspiracy unearthed about six months ago by the United States secret service and which resulted in the arrest of eight men, has been revived and the defendants placed on trial before Judge McPherson in the United States District Court.

The accused are ex-United States District Attorney Ellery P. Ingham; his law partner and former assistant, Harvey K. Newitt; Samuel M. Downey, deputy collector of internal revenue for the Lancaster district; William M. Jacobs and William L. Kendig, cigar manufacturers of Lancaster; Baldwin S. Bredell, machinist of Camden, N. J.; Arthur Taylor, engravor of this city, and James Burns, a foreman in Jacob's cigar factory.

Seven Youthful Convicts.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—An industrious prisoner at the penitentiary has just completed a search of the records in the chaplain's office, which reveals the information that since January 1, 1898, seven convicts have been received at the penitentiary who are but fifteen years of age. Between the ages of 15 and 21 years inclusive 348 prisoners have been committed to the institution. Eight persons aged 70 years and over have been received. The oldest was 75 years of age.

Young Vanderbilt's Steamer Overdue

San Francisco, Oct. 10—The steamship City of Pekin, from Yokahama, on which Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is a passenger, is two days overdue at this port. Some anxiety is expressed in regard to her, but no actual alarm is felt, as in a voyage so long as that from Yokohama it would be easy, even under ordinary conditions, for a vessel to get behind a day or two. It is believed that the delay is not due to any serious cause.

Guarding Against Smallpox.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Dr. C. O. Probst, Secretary of the State Board of Health, has sent out a circular of instructions and warning regarding smallpox to all of the local Boards of Health in the state. The circular recommends the purchase of a suitable house for quarantine hospital, vaccination and other measures in the line of preparation and precaution.

Finally Quelled the Riot.

Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The riot which broke out here Sunday in the Hudson Reformatory in which 300 women took part and tried to smash everything in sight was not entirely quelled until yesterday afternoon. Before the unruly women were gotten under control they had succeeded in smashing property to the amount of several hundred dollars.

Brig Ida Maude Abandoned.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The American liner Rhyniand, which has arrived here from Liverpool, had on board the captain and seven of the crew of the British Brig Ida Maud, from Chatham, N. B., September 22 for New York, which was abandoned in latitude 72.9, longitude 60.29.

Was Too Fast for the Officers.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 10.—Martin Selsor, of Carter County, a United States prisoner indicted for violation of the internal revenue laws, made a dash for liberty while being taken into Court here. He was chased to the river, but reached the ferry ahead of his pursuers and escaped to Jeffersonville.

Attorney Charged With Perjury.

Toledo, O., Oct. 10.—Charles Desautelle, a prominent real estate dealer, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, caused the arrest of F. V. H. Collins, a prominent young attorney here, on a charge of perjury in connection with the charges against Desautelle.

George of Greece Not to Wed Now.

London, Oct. 10.—In view of the persistent rumors circulated of the betrothal of Prince George of Greece and the Princess Victoria of Wales, it was announced to-day that there is not the slightest foundation for the report.

Blown From a Bridge.

Yokohama, Oct. 10.—While a typhoon was raging Saturday a train was blown from a bridge near Utaunomiyae. Six persons were killed and many injured. Great damage was done to property and crops.

Miners Strike for an Advance.

Bellaire, O., Oct. 10.—One hundred and fifty coal miners at the Glendale mines are out on a strike for the 66-cent rate. They have been receiving only 61 cents per ton.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 10.—The stock market was stronger to-day. Prices were generally higher and trading was of good volume.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Closing prices for spot: Wheat 72, corn 31, oats 22, pork 8.17, lard 5.36.

AMMUNITION FOR BOERS.

The British Steamship Guelph Lands Her Cargo at Durban, Natal.

BRITONS A LITTLE SLOW.

Failed to Intercept the Steamer Until After the War Supplies Had Been Discharged.

Lord Salisbury Hesitates to Enter Into War With Transvaal—Peaceful Settlement May Yet Be Figured Out—England Still Preparing For Trouble.

Lorenzo, Marques, Oct. 10.—The British steamer Guelph, from Southampton, September 2, via Teneriffe, September 8, has arrived here. As it was supposed she had ammunition on board consigned to the Transvaal authorities, the British third-class cruiser Philomel sailed to intercept her. The Guelph, on being signalled to stop and to state what ammunition she was carrying, replied that she had none. She was therefore allowed to proceed, the Philomel following her into harbor.

It appears that the ammunition was landed at Durban, Natal, as the owners learned that the cargo would be seized at Lorenzo Marques.

London, Oct. 10.—The Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council of Ministers, speaking in Sheffield said that the deductions made from his recent speech in Manchester regarding the Transvaal situation has warned him that a member of the Government could not be too careful.

"Affairs have not become more critical during the last few days," remarked the Duke, "and I trust this interval for reflection may conduce to a pacific settlement."

Hesitates to Begin War.

London, Oct. 10.—The Berlin correspondent of the Evening Standard says:

"Information has been received in diplomatic quarters here that Lord Salisbury, at the last moment, hesitates to enter on a war with the Transvaal. A peaceful solution is not, therefore, altogether impossible, although it is improbable."

The vastness of England's preparations for war—seemingly out of all proportion to the work in hand in South Africa—was not fully realized by the public until the war office announced that 25,000 reserves had already been summoned to rejoin the colors. As a matter of fact Gen. Sir Redvers Buller will have command of twice as many British soldiers as the Duke of Wellington, the conquerer of the first Napoleon, ever saw collected on one battlefield.

The reasons back of this lavish display are probably a fear of a native rising and possible a conviction of the advisability of showing Europe that Great Britain is prepared to resent any action resulting from the prevalent continental ill-will.

In that connection the action of the American department of state and the friendly statements of President McKinley and Secretary of State Hay, published here, are welcomed heartily as a happy return for Great Britain's refusal to sanction continental intervention in the war between the United States and Spain.

As the Boers failed to attack Natal when the colony was vulnerable, it is beginning to be felt that they are pursuing a deliberate policy of wating for the British proposals, remaining in the meantime on the defensive, in the hope of thus winning the sympathies of the world and, perhaps, the support of other nations, and leaving to Great Britain the ignominy of starting hostilities if war cannot be avolded.

If the burghers await the advance of Gen. Sir Redvere Buller, it is conceivable that peace will not be broken during the present year. Should that be the case and should the alleged falling off in the Boer commandoes continue, the force confronting the British commanding generdl will be neither as numerous nor as efficient as that now encamped along the Natal border.

Events thus far have tended to give time for consideration. All the proposals in the correspondence between President Steyn of the Orange Free State and Sir Alfred Milner, British high commissioner in South Africa, show that the negotiations were proceeding up to Oct. 6, and that neither side despaired of peace. Sir Alfred Milner said he was sure any reasonable proposal would be favorably considered by the British government.

President Steyn's virtual proposal of a neutral zone, to be created pending further attempts at conciliation, meets with considerable approval.

Girl Severely Burned.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 10.—Miss Jessie Stell bathed her feet in a solution of strong liniment, and was warming her toes at the open grate when the liniment caught fire, and in a moment her feet were blazing merrily. In her excitement she dropped the bottle, and the liniment which it contained was also ignited. Her shrieks for help summoned assistance, and the fire was put out, but not before she had been very severely burned. Her injury may be fatal.

Texas Street Car Men Strike.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 10.—The local branch of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railroad Employes have gone on strike on the fifty-three miles of lines of the San Antonio Street Railway Compay. The men demand nine hours' work, at the present rate of pay, which averages $1.50 a day, instead of twelve hours. Eighty-five motormen and conductors have stopped work, and not a street car save those of two small suburban lines are running.

Galore Brings $20,000.

New York, Oct. 10.—At the sale of thoroughbred horses in the sales paddocks in Morris Park the imported stallion Galore, from the string of R. W. Walden & Sons, was sold to W. H. Hopkins, of Baltimore, for $20,000.

Mr. Bergen's Poor Argument.

As the hired representative of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company to appear before the Councilmanic street committee and argue against the granting of a franchise to the People's Gas Company, Frank Bergen, the corporation lawyer of Elizabeth, was confronted with a dearth of material which might be moulded by subtle words into a forceful argument against the new company.

Mr. Bergen has a bright and astute legal mind, which frequently devises winning ways for accomplishing the purposes for which it is retained by well-to-do clients, but in the instance of appearing for the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company to prepetuate the monopoly which that corporation has enjoyed for years, by killing the new company that promises better things for the people, the eminent Elizabeth lawyer seems to be at a disadvantage with what would suggest to the Council is for the best interests of the city.

There was neither rhyme nor reason in what Mr. Bergen urged before the Councilmanic Committee last night. He assumed a patronizing air towards the promoters of the People's Company, cautioning them against a folly which he said was their fate if they persisted in the efforts to give Plainfield cheaper gas. And then he seemed to try to impress the Councilmen with the claim that it was their supreme duty to save the People's Gas Company from its own friends by never allowing it to get a foothold in the city—in fact, to let it die an undeveloped infant in the face of a promising career, but with the slyly approving smile of the corporation that has retained him with some of the enormous profits that a generation of monopoly has brought to its coffers. Convincing facts or figures for this sort of logic were not to be had by Mr. Bergen, and the gentleman consequently made a bad showing on a bad job.

The colored politicians of New Jersey profess to be dissatisfied with the course of the National Administration and allege that if nothing further is done for them by the Cranberry State Republicans in the way of appointments to office, some of them may be impelled by a profound sense of political duty to vote the Democratic National ticket in 1900. New Jersey was one of the six States of the country which rejected the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for negro suffrage. The other States which opposed it were Kentucky, Delaware, Maryland, California and Oregon.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease is credited with suggesting the trust in spiritualism which is to be formed in Chicago this week. The idea is not alone to fix the price of an invoked spirit and to prevent rate cutting, but also to regulate the output of the business and to discourage irresponsible mediums who are engaged in it. Whether a guarantee is to go with every ghost raised by members of the trust is still to be determined.

Miss McClellan, of New York, is proposing an endless chain—has already started it, in fact—to raise a fund with which to present a gold loving cup to Rear Admiral Schley. The sum asked for in each letter is 10 cents, and if the amount collected proves too big for the cup it will be used to purchase a house for the admiral.

The Union County Democrats are still hunting for a Senatorial candidate. Wm. M. Oliver, former county clerk, it is said, will accept a renomination, and Jacob Glaser, Wickliffe B. Sayre, or former Sheriff Wm. H. Hicks stand ready to run for sheriff.

Congress will be asked to appropriate at least $200,000,000 for the Army and Navy for the next fiscal year.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

What's this? Mulford M. Scudder suggested as the Democratic nominee for the Senate? Let it go at that. Scudder is a good man; and he stands well with the people, independent of party. This is at should be!—Westfield Standard.

The mere application for a franchise by a new gas company in Plainfield has been followed by a decided drop in the old company's rates, and now the people are wondering what the effect will be if the franchise be granted.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The street committee report presented last Friday evening at the Borough Council meeting by Councilman Clark, chairman of the committee, was one of the best ever presented. In addition to covering the work of the past month a supplementary report for six mouths past was presented, showing exactly how much money had been spent and where. It also showed the balance left to the credit of that department, so that the council can be governed in their expenditures. Mr. Clark has introduced into the street department many up-to-date methods, and while facts and figures are sometimes very dry, Mr. Clark has a faculty of making them so interesting that every taxpayer wants to read them. As an appreciation of what Mr. Clark has done, Mr. Burtis moved Friday evening that the thanks of the council be extended to Mr. Clark for his excellent report.

Nobody can accuse "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine of not being generous, but he has a decidedly strong objection to being robbed before his very face. His potato crop has been a good one, but there have been unbidden guests in the potato field who have helped themselves to several score bushels.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Martine was wandering over his acres to see how everything was getting on. He finally reached the potato field and saw, with considerable astonishment, two men busily engaged in digging the potatoes out of the soft earth and stowing them away in large sacks they carried.

"What the devil are you doing there?" demanded the Farmer Orator.

"Just picking up ze few potato," explained one of the visitors, an Italian, smiling and gesticulating at the indignant owner.

"Get out of here, both of you, or I'll have you both arrested," and Mr. Martine started toward them. With a swoop at their half-filled sacks the men fled across the field and through the corn without the loss of any time, while the "Farmer Orator" watched their retreat with blood in his eye. If the visitors return they are apt to find a warm reception awaiting them.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plain Holders Can Witness.

The manufacture of comic opera is an unprotected American industry that has flourished and developed, in spite of the fact that there is no tariff on the imported article. Ten years ago, when the late John A. MacCaull produced the first work of Reginald deKoven and Harry B. Smith, American comic opera was practically unknown, and managers produced nothing but English, German and French importations. Since the success of "Robin Hood," however, nearly all the popular operettas have been of native manufacture. American composers and librettists have the field to themselves, and they seem to be developing a school of American light opera which suits the tastes of the public. Such works as "The Little Corporal," "The Serenade," "Robin Hood," "Rob Roy," "The Fortune Teller," and "The Highwayman," are certainly superior to anything of the sort that has come to us from over the sea of late. The theatregoing public has grown accustomed to expect a good entertainment from any of the operas of deKoven and Smith, and the visit of "The Highwayman" at Music Hall, tomorrow night, will be looked forward to with interest. There is much more genuine love interest than is to be found in the current run of light operas, and more effort to sustain the unities of dramatic action and the atmosphere of its pretty scenes of English life. It does not lack comedy, yet it is the comedy that one can laugh at without afterwards regretting.

The names of the players in "The Rising Generation" are fit to conjure fun with. The side-splitting comedy is to be seen at Music Hall Thursday night. Wherever the comedy has been billed this season it has been greeted with large audiences, whose members lost no opportunity to bespeak their appreciation of the play. The comical antics of Mr. McShayne, the star of the piece, together with his finely drawn wit and humor; the exquisite singing of Miss Lydia Barry in a new repertoire of catchy songs; the comedy of George Felix, and the excellent acting of Manning and Weston, all unite in presenting a finished portrayal of high-class fun. The specialties introduced throughout the comedy are just what the public craves, as the continual encores always prove.

The McKinley scene in the "Knobs O'Tennessee" by Hal Reid, which will be at Music Hall, Saturday night, is one that introduces President McKinley. The part is taken by an actor who so strongly resembles the President naturally that at many hotels where the company stops he is often spoken to for the President. In this scene the President is depicted in a powerful scene of mercy wherein he pardons an old one-armed veteran from the crime of moonshining because he lost his arm at the battle of Gettysburg.

For this week at the Proctor continuous performance theatres, the Twenty-third Street Theatre and the Pleasure Palace, the programmes promise unlimited enjoyment. Marie Dressler will re-entree continuous vaudeville at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre. She recently resigned from the "Man in the Moon," and accepted Mr. Proctor's quick offer to appear on the Proctor circuit. Walter Jones and Norma Whalley, who also have recently left the "Man in the Moon" Co., will make their debut at this house at the same time. At the Pleasure Palace the star of the programme will be Perkins D. Fisher & Co., in the laughable comedietta, "The Half Way House;" Walton's Monkeys, George W. Day, Erna's Dogs, Bonnie Thornton and others.

Interesting Items.

A lady said to me the other day "We Plainfield people are very proud of your store and never fail to bring our friends to see it when visiting us." Such kindly expressions of interest are extremely gratifying to us as showing an appreciation of our efforts to make this a model shopping place. We believe our establishment possesses attractions for people of good judgment and refined taste far superior to that of the average store. The steady arrival of new goods and the continual rearrangement of stock creates a neverending mercantile panorama of peculiar interest. We have been opening winter goods in large quantities for weeks past contracted for in the main before the rise in prices, and feel confident of being able to offer good honest goods somewhat under price. For instance, within a week after placing our order for blankets the price advanced materially. That advance you save.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct 10.—Prof. Mereseroll, the new superintendent of the public schools, assumed charge of the schools yesterday, succeeding Prof. Richard Morris, who has accepted a responsible position in Rutger's College. Prof. Morris and family left yesterday for his new field of labors. Prof. Messeroll is at present stopping with the family of J. B. Lane on church street. His family is expected some time this week. He will occupy the same house that Prof. Morris vacated.

At last evening's meeting of the Common Council the question of accepting the water works from the Watchung Water Company, was thoroughly discussed. There was some dissatisfaction expressed because the company had not constructed a reservoir, but as it was understood that it was the intention of the company to do so as soon as practicable, the Council decided to accept the works.

A sample of the water sent to Prof. Meyers, of Rutgers college, for analysis has been returned and was on exhibition at last evening's meeting of the Common Council. The water has been found perfectly pure and is suitable for domestic purposes.

Mrs. Edward Taylor has returned from Paterson where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John H. Steele. Last Sunday Mrs. Taylor visited in Boonton.

Rev. Martin Sindall, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, with his wife, is visiting friends at New London, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. William Conley, who have been visiting at Taylor's Hotel, have gone to Port Reading.

Ellis Benwood and family are stopping at Asbury for a few days.

PLAINFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plainns, Oct. 10—A number of the boys in town have been finding some rather dangerous amusement for several evenings. The old banner at the corner of Paff's grocery store becomes charged with electricity each evening, which is taken from the electric light circuit. At the top of the pole is an old wire which crosses a live wire. The current is transmitted in this way to the pole. About three feet from the ground a ring and staple has been driven into the wood so as to use the pole for a hitching post. The boys have been taking turns taking hold of the ring to see who could stand the greatest amount of the electric fluid. The electric light company's attention has been called to the danger, and it will be remedied before something happens.

Arthur Chapin, while playing football Saturday morning, sprained his foot slightly. In the afternoon he entered the sixteen-mile road race, finishing third, but the strain of the race upon the injured member made the sprain so much worse that he is hardly able to use the foot without the aid of a cane.

Miss Jennie Johnston led the Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Rev. G. M. Shott spent Monday in New York attending the ministers' weekly conference meeting.

Charles W. Brown is enjoying a business trip through the Southern States.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 10—The members of the S. O. H. will tender a reception to their friends at the home of Ernest Alper on Kimball avenue, Thursday evening.

Edwin, S. Hall, of Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will go to Somerville next Monday evening to attend an important meeting of the different county orders.

The High school football team defeated a team from the Park A. C., of Orange, at the Broad street grounds, Saturday afternoon by a score of 10 to 0.

To Entertain the Bowlers.

The Young Men's Catholic Club will entertain the members of the New Brunswick Bowling Club at the clubhouse Thursday evening. All active and associate members are invited.

Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses and heals the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and cures Catarrh easily and pleasantly. Cold in the head vanishes quickly. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

company will eventually go under. He contended that the new company would not get much business, and the old company would slaughter the new one. He believed, however, that every city should own its plants and lease them to the highest bidder. He said that there should be one gas company, one electric light company, one water company, etc., and let the law adjust the prices.

Mr. Nash thought Mr. Bergen's plan a good one for Mr. Bergen and a monopoly, but not for the people, but if the People's Gas Company lose money Mr. Bergen would not be the sufferer.

Mr. Coddington made a good point. He said that Mr. Bergen dwelt at length upon the fact that the old company would surely gobble up the new one, but the old company would not agree to give $1 gas forever afterward, while the new company, which might gobble up the old one, had already agreed to give price at that maximum price.

More discussion followed before and after the meeting adjourned, but it remained for Senator Reed and Mr. Martine to spring the greatest surprise of all. They examined present advertisement of the Plainfield Gaslight Company which announces a reduction in price, and there they discovered that no reduction had been made in gas for fuel purposes. The company in reducing the price had also reduced the discount, thus making ing the prices the same, $1.25 per thousand feet. All hands enjoyed a good laugh over this. After a little further discussion the meeting adjourned, after Mr. Barrows assured all that the committee would consider the matter, but do nothing until all parties concerned have an opportunity to be heard.

Dr. Lewis on a Western Trip.

Dr. A. H. Lewis, the editor of The Sabbath Recorder, started on a western trip yesterday. He intends to visit certain churches in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois, which, lying away from the main lines of travel, are less easily reached. He expects to be at Marquette, Wis., October 13th, and thereafter as the missionary pastor on that field may suggest.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongued coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store

AN IMPORTANT SALE OF

Manufacturer's SAMPLES.

We have just purchased from one of the largest and best manufacturers of Women's Cloaks their entire line of sample jackets. The lot consists in all of about two hundred garments. The price is just 50c on the dollar, and we propose to sell them on the same basis for a quick sale. Some of these garments were made up early in the season and are two or three inches longer than the prevailing style, but otherwise the shape and style is the latest and best. The garments are perfectly tailored and the fit and finish cannot be surpassed. Many of the styles are represented by only one garment of a kind.

$3.50 for $7.00 Jackets. $3.98 for $8.00 Jackets.
4.50 for 9.00 Jackets. 5.00 for 10.00 Jackets.
5.98 for 12.00 Jackets. 7.50 for 15.00 Jackets.
$10.00 for $20.00 Jackets.

MANUFACTURER'S SAMPLE UNDERSHIRTS.

50c the Garment.

We have placed on sale a lot of about five hundred and fifty men's heavy-weight merino and natural wool undershirts representing a manufacturer's sample line.

The actual values range from 75c to $2.00 the garment. Most of the styles are represented by only two or three garments of a kind with no drawers to match.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Provinz Schleswig-Holstein.

Kiel. Dieser Tage ist im Trockendock der Staatswerft das Durchschneiden des Panzerschiffes „Hagen" glücklich ausgeführt worden. Beide Schiffshälften werden auseinandergezogen. Der Panzer „Hagen" soll durch Einbau um sieben Meter verlängert werden.

Stormarn. Die Petroleumhändlersfrau Billerbeck in Timmerhorn-Bargteheide wurde von ihrem Knecht mit einer Spitzhacke erschlagen. Der Mörder wurde in Ahrensburg verhaftet und ist geständig.

Provinz Westfalen.

Brilon. Hier wurde das Denkmal Papes auf dem Hauptplatz enthüllt. Der bekannte, 1816 hier geborene Jurist hat sich namentlich als Vorsitzender der mit der Ausarbeitung des Bürgerlichen Gesetzbuches beauftragten ersten Kommission hohe Verdienste erworben. Er starb 1888.

Dortmund. Durch Ausgrabungen an der Lippe sind eine Menge großartiger Alterthumsfunde zu Tage gefördert worden. Neben Waffen und Schmucksachen wurden römische Silberdenare, Konsularmünzen und Münzen aus der Zeit des Kaisers Augustus gefunden.

Oeynhausen. Im großen Thermalbadehaus entstand durch Ueberhitzung des zum Erwärmen des Badezeuges dienenden Ofens Feuer, das sich schnell über den Dachstuhl des Damenflügels verbreitete und denselben vollständig zerstörte. Die Badezellen selbst sind unversehrt geblieben, weil sie alle durch steinerne Gewölbe geschützt sind.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Das sächsische Finanzministerium hat angeordnet, daß auf dem fiskalischen Kohlenwerk im Plauen'schen Grunde, dessen Bergleute am Strike betheiligt sind, die Löhne um ein Mäßiges erhöht werden.—In Folge der Ueberschwemmungen wurden die diesjährigen Divisionsmanöver des 12. Armeekorps abgesagt.—Als dieser Tage König Albert vom Jagdschloß Moritzburg aus zu Wagen den Damm der Sekundärbahn Eisenberg-Moritzburg kreuzte, kam gerade ein Zug mit ungewöhnlicher Schnelligkeit angefahren. Wie durch ein Wunder wurde ein Zusammenstoß des Zuges mit der königlichen Kutsche verhindert.

Chemnitz. Stadtrath Winkler, ein angesehener Geschäftsmann, hat sich aus bislang unbekannter Ursache erhängt.

Döbeln. In den kleinen Orten Mulden und Ostrau ist eine Typhusepidemie ausgebrochen. In Ostrau sind 50 Personen erkrankt.

Lommatzsch. Die Unterschlagungen, wegen deren der hiesige Sparkassenkassirer Döhlitzsch verhaftet wurde, belaufen sich auf etwa 10,000 Mark.

Pirna. In dem Dörfchen Liebethal hat die wahnsinnige Heizersfrau Paul ihre beiden Kinder erdrosselt und sich dann ertränkt.

Plauen. In Bad Elster und Umgebung wurden neulich Morgens vier Erdstöße verspürt.

Zwickau. Beim Zurückgehen des Hochwassers der Mulde hat sich ergeben, daß mehrere Schächte größeren Wasserzufluß erhalten haben, jedoch kein Schacht völlig ersoffen ist.

Thüringische Staaten.

Koburg. Dieser Tage ist die im Jahre 1894 wegen Dienstmädchen-Schinderei zu zehn Jahren Zuchthaus verurtheilte Frau Oberförster Gerlach aus dem Weiberzuchthaus in Hassenberg entlassen, also nach Abbüßung der halben Strafe begnadigt worden.

Greiz. Ein herbes Geschick hat den 1878 geborenen Erbprinzen Heinrich den Vierundzwanzigsten von Reuß-Greiz betroffen. Der junge Mann, der seit einer Augenoperation taub ist, hat jetzt auch die Sprache verloren.

Jena. Ueber den Gasthof „Zur Grünen Tanne" in Wenigenjena ist seit einiger Zeit der Militärboykott verhängt. Kürzlich wurde er bezüglich der vorderen Räume für die Dauer der Einquartirung des Militärs aufgehoben, während das Verbot für den Saal, in dem öfters sozialdemokratische Versammlungen abgehalten werden, bestehen blieb. Man war zur zeitweiligen Aufhebung genöthigt, weil die „Tanne" umfangreiche Stallungen hat, die für die Einquartirung dringend benöthigt wurden.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Von Januar bis einschließlich August d. J. wanderten über Hamburg 46,246 Personen, darunter 6952 Deutsche, aus. Die entsprechenden Ziffern des Vorjahres sind 26,641 und 5509.—An der oldenburgischen Küste ist das Hamburger Barkschiff „Aeolus" gestrandet. Der Kapitän Krentzien und ein Matrose sind ertrunken, die übrigen acht Mann der Besatzung wurden gerettet.—Der Kaiser hat das Gnadengesuch des Hamburger Photographen Wilcke, der wegen unberechtigten Eindringens in das Friedrichsruher Herrenhaus und unbefugter Aufnahme eines Bildes von der Leiche des Fürsten Bismarck zu sechs Monaten Gefängniß verurtheilt wurde, abgelehnt, obgleich dasselbe von 673 hervorragenden Hamburger Bürgern unterzeichnet war.

Bremen. Der Ausstand der hiesigen Klempner ist nach 12tägiger Dauer beendet worden, nachdem die Meister 9½stündige Arbeitszeit (gefordert waren 9 Stunden) und 33⅓ Prozent Lohnaufschlag für Ueberstunden (gefordert waren 50 Prozent) bewilligt haben. Die übrigen Forderungen der Gehilfen sind vorläufig fallen gelassen worden.—Der frühere Direktor an der hiesigen Handelsschule, Professor Eduard Laubert, ist im 76. Lebensjahre in Hildesheim gestorben.

Lübeck. Beim Kanalbau hat man in der Wakenitz zwei eiserne Säulen gefunden, die ein hohes Alter aufweisen. Sie dienten früher als Wasserstandsmesser einer Schleuse. Der Rath von Lübeck hatte im Jahre 1291 mit dem Herzog Albrecht dem Zweiten von Lauenburg einen Kaufvertrag abgeschlossen, wonach das Wasser der Wakenitz nur bis zu einer bestimmten Höhe angestaut werden durfte. Die Höhe der Anstauung zeigten die beiden Säulen an. Die eine trägt die Inschrift: „De vrie Waterdrift Sal gan up dese scrift," die andere die gleiche Vorschrift in lateinischer Sprache.

Mecklenburg.

Rostock. Das deutsche Segelschiff „Louise" ist in der Ostsee leckgesprungen und gesunken. Die Mannschaft wurde gerettet.

Triebsees. Hier sind in Folge einer Scharlachepidemie viele Kinder gestorben. Die Schulen wurden geschlossen.

Braunschweig. Waldeck.

Braunschweig. Eine der Berliner Schauspielerin Frau Freund im Zuge Köln-Berlin abhanden gekommene Tasche mit Pretiosen ist hier wieder gefunden worden. Sie war durch Versehen eines Gepäckträgers in das Gepäck Braunschweiger Damen gerathen.

Arolsen. Prinzessin Elisabeth, eine Schwester des Fürsten zu Waldeck-Pyrmont, verlobte sich mit dem Erbgrafen Alexander zu Erbach-Schönburg.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Am Weißen Thurm hat Jemand seiner Entrüstung über das Urtheil gegen Dreyfus dadurch Luft gemacht, daß er dort in der Nacht eine lebensgroße Puppe mit der Aufschrift „General Mercier" aufhängte. Die Polizei ist der Gefahr internationaler Verwickelung ob dieser Kundgebung dadurch zuvorgekommen, daß sie mit Hilfe der Feuerwehr den Vater der Lüge in Sicherheit brachte.

Mainz. Dem Reichskanzler wurde eine von 14 Städten und Gemeinden unterschriebene Eingabe überreicht, mit dem Ersuchen, die von der Stadt Mainz beabsichtigte Einleitung der Fäkalien in den Rhein untersagen zu wollen.—Bei dem zweiten Termin zur Verpachtung des Rechts der Erhebung des Brückengeldes auf der Mainzer und Kostheimer Brücke und dem Trajekt zwischen Mainz und Kastel blieb Herr Bruckwilder-Köln mit 192,500 Mark Höchstbietender. Der Staat zog indeß die Verpachtung zurück und behält sie in eigener Regie, während die Trajektverbindung zwischen Mainz und Kastel an den seitherigen Pächter Disch um die Summe von 29,000 Mark jährlich vergeben wurde.

Weisenau. In der Portland-Cementfabrik wurde der 28jährige Arbeiter Adam Sickinger von Zahlbach vom Schaufelwerk des Mühlenbetriebes erfaßt und getödtet.

Bayern.

München. Das deutsche Kaiserpaar hat 30,000 Mark und der Papst 4000 Lire für die Ueberschwemmten in Oberbayern gespendet.—Ein kapitalkräftiges Konsortium hat sich die Erbauung eines großen modernen Theaters an der äußeren Prinzregentenstraße zum Ziel gesetzt. Intendant Possart soll angeblich geneigt sein, den Betrieb dieses Theaters zu übernehmen, um den weitesten Volkskreisen die großen dramatischen Meisterwerke bei billigen Preisen zugängig zu machen, dadurch würde ein Gedanke verwirklicht, der schon seit Langem ein Gegenstand der öffentlichen Diskussion bildet. Der Neubau soll „Prinzregententheater" genannt werden.

Augsburg. Die Obmannschaft Augsburg des Bayerischen Eisenbahnerverbandes beschloß, eine Baugenossenschaft für Augsburg zu gründen, deren Zweck die Erbauung von Wohnhäusern mit entsprechend billigen Wohnungen für die Mitglieder des Verbandes ist. Die einzelnen Gebäude sollen vier bis acht Familienwohnungen erhalten.

Deutenhofen. Das Aurer-Gütleranwesen wurde kürzlich vom Blitz getroffen und eingeäschert. Ueber diesem Anwesen waltet ein eigener Unstern. Vor längerer Zeit wurde es ebenfalls durch den Blitz in Trümmer gelegt, der damals auch die alte Mutter des Besitzers erschlug. Zwei Pferde, die vor dem Anwesen mit einem Gefährte standen, wurden scheu, rannten in die Amper und ertranken.

Höchberg. Ein mit Sprößlingen bereits reich gesegneter Mann, Namens Kempf, erschoß sich aus Alteration darüber, daß seine Frau wiederum eines Kindleins genas.

Nürnberg. Der Schöpfer der hiesigen Wärmestuben, Privatier Eugen Herz, ist gestorben. Er hatte nicht geruht und gerastet, bis er die Mittel zusammengebracht, um zwei Gebäude für Wärmestuben zu errichten. Von einer außergewöhnlichen Bedürfnißlosigkeit, sparte er an seiner eigenen Person, um seinen armen Mitmenschen zu helfen.

Public Notice.

County of Union, City of Plainfield, ss:

Public notice is hereby given that application by petition has been made to the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield for the consent of said Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield, that the Plainfield Street Railway Company construct, operate and maintain a street railway upon the following streets and avenues in the City of Plainfield:

On Arlington Avenue, from the present line of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in West Fourth Street to Randolph Road; in Randolph Road from Arlington Avenue to Park Avenue; in Park Avenue from Randolph Road to a point 1,432.19 feet Southerly from the center of Randolph Road; thence through a private right-of-way to a point near Woodland Avenue; thence parellel with Woodland Avenue, in a Southerly direction to the City and County line; as particularly indicated on a map dated and filed Oct. 2, 1899, in the City Clerk's office, entitled "Map Showing Location of Tracks, Turnouts and Poles for Proposed Extension of Plainfield Street Railway, No. 4;" that said petition has been presented by the Plainfield Street Railway Company, a corporation organized under the laws of this State; that said petition was filed with the Clerk of the City of Plainfield on the second day of October, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine; that the road intended to be constructed, operated and maintained is a single track street railway placed in the center of said streets or highways, excepting where otherwise indicated on said map, with turnouts located as shown on said map, and the motive power to be used thereon is electricity to be supplied from overhead wires, supported by poles, and the streets through which the same shall extend are as above mentioned, and particularly indicated on said map to which reference is hereby made; that the Common Council of the City of Plainfield has fixed Thursday, the nineteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, at eight o'clock in the evening as the time, and the Common Council Chamber, No. 109 Park Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, as the place, at which said Common Council will consider said application and will give a public hearing to all persons interested therein.

The Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

J. T. MacMURRAY,
Dated, October 2, 1899. City Clerk.

PERHAPS THE MEAT you are buying doesn't give you satisfaction. We hire this space yearly to tell you where you can make your money go the farthest and where you can get the best, the juiciest meat in Plainfield. We don't make this assertion in the hope of getting you into our store under false pretences. We are very anxious to please you and once you give us your confidence you can rest assured we will do nothing to abuse it.

FRED. ENDRESS,

A NEGLECTED FINE ART

Woodcarving Is a Handicraft Suitable for Women and Girls.

One of the subjects of great interest to the public now is that of occupations for women, and the question, "What shall our girls learn to do that will make them self-supporting and comfortably independent?" is asked on all sides. Among the callings suggested that have been tried or followed by women, little attention so far has been paid to the industry of woodcarving, which must be classed under the head of art.

In considering this general topic and the advantage offered by the various classes of artistic effort commonly pursued by our students, surprise has often been expressed that there has not been established in this country years ago and properly equipped school or master teaching woodcarving or wood sculpture as a fine art.

"In Europe," said one of the workers in this art, "this delicate handiwork has for centuries been one of the favored forms of artistic pastime among the women of the nobility, and to-day it counts as its devotees many of the most exclusive and most highly cultured women on that continent. Lessons are as generally taken there in this fascinating art by the young women of the upper classes as are music and painting by the daughters of families of like social rank in this country.

"It is indeed strange that this craft, adaptable in its application to so wide a range of use and ornament, has never heretofore been properly presented to the cultured classes here. The work is far more cleanly than painting, either in water colors or in oil, and the implements require less attention and care. The simple and most exact principles upon which true art is based are from their very nature susceptible of more ready comprehension and mastery than those underlying many other branches commonly taken up.

"The skilful handling of the few tools required is quickly attained, and in a few lessons the average scholar is able to execute exquisite work at once a surprise and a delight.

"In addition to the rare pleasure resulting from known ability to create beautiful things, there are greater benefits accruing to the sculptor, not to mention others. There is the fact that he has learned the better to appreciate and value proportion, form and delicacy of outline, and this knowledge, aside from the personal satisfaction it brings, enables him to judge with true accuracy the artistic merits of all things, natural or manufactured, having form as their basis. This essential sense can be secured in no other way so readily. Indeed, the artistic faculty, the aesthetic taste itself, can be perfected only by a fair knowledge of the truths which a course in wood sculpture supplies.

"This fact is being recognized in this country now, as it has long been recognized and observed in the centres of high art in Europe, and even in the Far East. Wise masters of the chisel now bring their dainty craft to the art lovers of our Nation, and the void that has been felt in the art education of this young country will not long continue. Art in every form is but the expression of a refined sense. Indeed, nothing more surely marks the spirit of true refinement than the degree in which an intelligent love of the beautiful is manifest. Hence it is that cultured persons are not only constant patrons of art, but seek themselves to become proficient in some one or more of its branches.

"Music, sculpture, painting, ceramics and various other familiar forms of like endeavor have furnished expression to men's increased and increasing culture, and given broad opportunity for the development of individual faculties and tastes. Great as have been the benefits to mankind from the achievements of masters in the several lines mentioned, it may be well asserted that the chiefest good has come from the attention given thereto by cultivated men and women, who sought only further self-improvement, and not the mere making of fortune or a name.

"This chaste love for the refined has become markedly dominant in recent times with the better classes, as is evidenced by a large number of such persons who, in every department of aesthetics, seek such scholarships under the great masters who have unselfishly relinquished the broadening advantages of public service for the restriction of studio or instruction-room. Under the guidance and in the companionship of such tutors our favored youth have grown in technical knowledge and proficiency along selected lines, until now it is by no means rare to find among our women and men those who work with brush, pencil or pen, or whose ability as vocal or instrumental musicians vies with the best professionals in the respective directions. And yet in every such case, the only end sought was, as before stated, the high culture of self and the increased means thus secured of contributing to the pleasure of others. The perpetuity and the perfecting of our civilization rest, and safely so, upon such a citizenship."—New York Tribune.

Hat Pins.

Now that hatpins are selling for $1,000 downward, the minds of inventive geniuses are turning toward a pin that will stay in the hat, past all danger of falling out. Recently there was a patented split that was provided with a little spring which worked by pressure.

A very nice hatpin, with a head of amber, had an amber fastening accompanying it and fastened by a gold chain. The fastener was stuck in the hat so that to lose the hatpin you must lose the hat also.

A very ultra little piece of jewelry is a band of pearls connected with the hatpin by a gold chain. The pearl band is used as a broach or as a pin upon the breast. The gold chain dangles from the hatpin and makes a pretty piece of finery for the woman who likes "fixings." The band may match the hatpin, and be of any jewels or plain gold.

Any device is good so long as it holds the pin; and when you reflect that every year there are hundreds of dollars lost in hatpins, the economy of a little fastener is easily computed.—Philadelphia Times.

When a man has married a charming woman, if he doesn't continue to make love to her some other man will!

GOD REIGNS.

God liveth ever!
Wherefore, Soul, despair thou never!
What though thou tread with bleeding feet
A thorny path of grief and gloom!
Thy God will choose the way most meet
To lead thee heavenward, lead thee home.
For this life's long night of sadness
He will give thee peace and gladness;
Soul, remember in thy pains
God o'er all forever reigns. —Zihn.

WHAT IS IN THY HAND?

Nothing So Insignificant But What It Can Be Used For the Lord.

What is in thy hand? A broom? Use it for God. The broom of the domestic servant may be as truly used for God as was the sceptre of David or Solomon. What is in thy hand? A trowel, a hammer, an ax, a chisel, a saw, or some other mechanical tool? Use it for God. Jesus Christ gave dignity to labor; the sweat-beads of honest toil stood on his brow.

What is in thy hand? A pen? A pen is mightier than the sword. The pen of Shakespeare, of Longfellow, of Tennyson, of Whittier! Oh, matchless instrument! A pen in the hand of Harriet Beecher Stowe stabbed slavery to the heart. A pen in the hand of George Kennan to tell the story of darkest Russia is mightier than the sword of the Czar of all the Russias. Have you a pen? Use it for God. Perhaps it is a typewriter. Touch the keys; make sweet music that shall echo around the globe. We are all familiar with George Herbert's admirable expressions of this thought.

What is in thy hand? Wealth? Consecrate it now to God. What is in thy mouth? A tongue of eloquence? Use it for God. What is in thy hand? A kindly grasp for all.—Our Young Folks.

The Rewarder.

"My reward is with me to give every man according to his work" is a promise that is not confined to this life, but reaches on and over into the next world; when we get there we may discover the results. Serve your Divine Paymaster faithfully, my brother, in your business, and whether you get rich or not you will have treasures in heaven. Do your duty lovingly, oh, praying mother, and you will not fail of your reward. One of the ecstasies of heaven will be the surprise of blessings long deferred, and the reaping of harvests that only come in return for unwearied fidelity. He that never faints is the one that never fails. It will be with compound interest that our Divine laymaster will reward many a faithful toiler in His vineyard. There is a mighty power in that word "shall"; "we shall reap if we faint not."—Dr. T. L. Cuyler, in The New York Evangelist.

Peace Given.

We get our word peace from the Latin, through the French, and it originally meant, a compact, a bargain, and the root word. "pact," is allied to a Greek word meaning, "I fasten." Put these meanings into the words of Jesus in John 14: 27, and what a wonderful declaration it is. Christ making a compact with us; Christ fastened to us. Christ fastened to us brings peace to the soul. The world cannot give this peace, for it has it not. Some military commanders boast that when they are through with a campaign the country is at peace. Often this peace is there because the cities are ruined, the homes destroyed, the people gone. It is the peace of desolation. Christ gives peace—peace that comes by conquest, but a conquest that gives a "life more abundant." "My peace I give unto you," he says. Fearing, doubting, temptest-tossed one, fasten to Christ, and his peace is yours.

Fever of Speculation.

When a man becomes a minister he voluntarily limits himself in many ways. He practically takes the vows of poverty; at least, he knows he will not become a rich man if he remains a true minister. He chooses the high calling, with its known limitations, because obedience to God and duty have surpassing compensations. If, now, at any point in his ministry he yields to the common temptation, greed for riches, he jeopardizes his soul and his calling. Once let the fever of speculation get into the veins even of a minister, and the temptation will be likely to prove too strong for him.—The Watchman.

City Mission Work.

Dr. Buchtel well says: "The struggle of the church for the salvation of the cities is the greatest battle of the centuries, for the reason that the drum, fife and gunpowder cannot contribute anything to its settlement. Rifles and ships are useless in this contest. We have small opportunity to appeal to the dramatic instinct in human nature. Our whole hope is in the saving institutions which God has put into the world—the home, school and church. All men of sense are quick to admit that the salvation of the cities and the nation is dependent wholly upon these constructive and saving institutions."

Perfect Happiness.

Perfect happiness is not to be won in life's exalted moments. It is in so ordering our daily lives that we are in perfect harmony with those with whom God has called us to live. To be heroic and noble in the eyes of the world will not bring us happiness if our daily associates know us to be mean and selfish in the little actions of every-day toil. "Charity begins at home," and it is "at home" we must look for happiness if we would have happiness in its highest and most durable sense.—Selected.

The Life of Piety.

Keep the altar of private prayer burning. This is the very life of piety. The sanctuary and family altars borrow their fires here, therefore, let this burn well. Sacred devotion is the very essence and barometer of vital and experimental religion.—Spurgeon.

ARTHUR AND BLAINE.

They Were Long on Greenbacks and Short on Change.

There is a good story of the presidential excursion down to the eastern shore of Maryland. The party embraced Secretaries Blaine and Windom and others. They were fortunate enough to hear an excellent sermon from the venerable Protestant Episcopal bishop of Maryland, who was there to administer the rite of confirmation. President Arthur and the two secretaries sat in quiet satisfaction. But their peace of mind was suddenly dispelled. The offertory was sung. At the familiar words: "Let your light so shine before men," etc., the President and the secretaries each quietly dropped a hand into a pocket.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures on earth."

Windom drew forth a crisp $1 note and held it between his thumb and forefinger, ready for the approaching plate. The President and Mr. Blaine went a little deeper into their pockets. One brought up a nickel and the other a dime. Their faces flushed. It would never do to make such a contribution.

"He that soweth little shall reap little, and he that soweth plenteously shall reap plenteously. * * * God loveth a cheerful giver."

The President went to his pocketbook, and the secretary of state explored his vest pocket with nervous fingers.

"Zaccheus stood forth and said unto the Lord: 'Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have done wrong to any man I restore fourfold.'"

The plate was only four pews away. What the President found in his pocketbook was one $50 note and a $10 greenback—nothing smaller. What Mr. Blaine found was two $10 notes—nothing smaller. To put in a nickel or a dime only was not to be thought of. To give $10 was more than either cared to do. Each looked at Windom sitting there calmly with his dollar note in hand. He shook his head.

"Charge them that are rich in this world that they be ready to give and glad to distribute."

There was no time for further pocket exploration or consideration. With a smile of commiseration at each other, and something like glee on Windom's placid countenance, the President and the secretary of state each planked down his $10 note for "the poor of this congregation." And the worst of it is, said one of the party afterward, that the Lord would probably give them credit only for the dollar or two which they intended to give.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Gen. Wheeler's Prayers.

Gen. Wheeler is a religious man. He was brought up in the Episcopal church with a great reverence for sacred things and faith in the efficacy of prayer. One of his former secretaries tells the story that while the general was engaged in a canvass for Congress some years ago he spent the night at the plantation of a constituent. His host accompanied him to his room at bed time and bade him good night, but being reminded that the General might want a glass of cool water before retiring, he carried a pitcher to the room and entered without knocking. He was surprised to find Gen. Wheeler on his knees before the bed engaged in his devotions. He waited reverently until the General arose and apologized for the interruption.

"Don't mention it," said Gen. Wheeler. "I think all of us ought to kneel before we retire, and thank our good Maker for His mercies and blessings."

The members of Gen. Wheeler's staff say that during the Santiago campaign he never lay down to sleep without offering a prayer and never arose in the morning without thanking God for His protection and preservation.—Chicago Record.

Amateur Actors.

"Actors are always making fun of amateurs," said a prominent dramatic teacher the other day, "and I don't deny that in many cases they have reason. But let me tell you as my opinion that there is more real regard for art in a good amateur theatrical school than in the best regular company in the United States."

I elevated my eyebrows a little at this.

"Oh, I mean it," he went on warmly. "An earnest amateur will study a whole play for the sake of getting a proper ception of his or her one part, though the part be but a small one.

"Imagine a professional actor or actress doing that!

"The amateur has a real reverence for Shakespeare, for Sheridan, for Bulwer Lytton, for Sardou.

"The professionals, as a rule, place them in the same line of work as they do Pettitt, Simms or Hoyt, and 'swallow' their lines, don their costumes and play their parts with but two ideas in their mind—to make all the points they can and get out of the theater in time to attend to something else!

"And when it comes to playing one part for a whole season or longer, then all the art that the paid Thespian bothers about can be lost to sight in a thimble."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Directory Glued to a Board.

Lying on the counter in a city business office where there are many visitors was a directory whose open covers were glued on the back to a piece of board that was not quite so long as the spread of the covers. It was thus possible to reach under the edges of the cover on either side, and so the book could be easily lifted. The book could be moved about freely on the board to which it was glued, and its leaves freely consulted, but it could not be closed. In this widespread form and with flapping leaves, it would be rather a bulky and inconvenient thing to carry off. It was, indeed, with a view to prevent it from being taken away by some absent-minded person that the book was glued to the board.

Vienna's Total Abstainers.

The Society of Total Abstainers just confored in Vienna is the first ever established in Austria. Everybody drinks in Austria. An Austrian baby begins to sip beer at the age of three months, and, as it grows up, learns to consume the liquor in ever-increasing quantity, until, when a full-grown man, he can drink it by the gallon.

ONE CAR VANISHES

LEAVES THE MIDDLE OF A TRAIN, AND THE CONDUCTOR IS BAFFLED.

Train Couples Again, and Completes Its Journey With-Out Leaving It's Loss Discovered—Charles Bragnell the Conductor Tells the Story.

The most remarkable of all railroad accidents occurred on the Chicago & Alton railroad near Atlanta, Ill., when a loaded car jumped out of a freight train and lodged in a ditch and the train coupled up and reached its destination without the crew either knowing that an accident had occurred or missing the car from the train.

Charles Bragnell, of Roodhouse, Ill., the conductor the train, tells the story. He says:

"When I delivered my train I was told I was a car short. I thought a mistake must have been made in checking me up. I was called up for an explanation. The clerical records showed plainly enough that I had taken out of East St. Louis a car of hard coal that I had never delivered. I had lost it some place between East St. Louis and Bloomington. I couldn't explain it. We had made up a heavy train, put two engines in front of it and a caboose behind it, and when I delivered it would have sworn that it stood just as we had made it up, and that every car left or added along the line was accounted for.

"The next morning one of the passenger crews reported a coal car wrecked in the ditch near Atlanta. When it was looked up it proved to be the car I had lost. The superintendent asked me why I had not reported the wreck. It was news to me and it was news to the whole crew. We knew nothing about it. It seemed impossible that it could have occurred and not have been seen, but it did. If I had read of such a thing happened upon another road I would not have believed it.

"The car that jumped out of my train was the eleventh behind the engine. It was loaded with hard coal and I suppose we were running something over twenty miles an hour when the car jumped out. The train ws coupled up with automatic couplers, and when the car left its place the twelfth car, just behind it, came up and coupled on at the rear of the tenth car."

The Chicago & Alton experts have agreed that this remarkable loss of a car out of the middle of a rapidly-running train of twenty-one loaded cars can be explained in but one way. The flange of a front truck wheel upon the car wrecked is broken, and just below where the car lodged the ties are marked as though by a car off the track. The couplers catch with what is commonly known as "the Indian grip," catching automatically. When the flange of the coal car broke, it is reasoned, the car left the track at that end and uncoupled itself from the car ahead by pulling one of the couplers, or hands, below the plane of the other. At the same time the coupler at the other end sank below the plane of its mate and uncoupled the car there, and, by some peculiar wrench, the uncoupled car was shot out of the train and fell fifty feet from the track, while the trainmen were all unconscious how near they had been to a bad wreck and death.

It is related among railroad men that an occurrence very like that at Atlanta happened years ago on the Lehigh Valley, where a car left its train and rolled down a long embankment and into a thick underbrush just leafing in early summer. The trainmen did not see the car go and it was not known that they had lost it until the train was checked up and a car proven missing. In a little while the greening vegetation entirely hid it and the disappearance of the car of valuable merchandise became the chief mystery of the road. When the leaves fell in the autumn the car was found and the freight which filled it was recovered with very little loss. The lost car of the Lehigh was not, though, as remarkably lost as the Chicago & Alton car, for the Lehigh car was the last upon the train and could easily escape, while the Chicago & Alton car left the middle of the train.

Aristocrats in Trade.

The Duke of Northumberland, the heir of all the Percys, with a direct descent from one of William I's favorites, has a reputation for excellent butter, says Tit-Bits, and the ducal brand is in great demand within a radius of many miles from Lyon House, Brentford.

The most noble the Marquis of Ripon has an ideal dairy at his seat, Studley Royal; and its products, yellow butter and delicious cream, are sold in two dairy shops, one in Leeds and the other in Ripon.

Another marquis still better known in the world of trade is Lord Londonderry, whose coal is as unimpeachable as his family escutcheon. Time was when the Earl of Hardwicke, as Viscount Royston, was a cigar merchant. He has now transferred his energies to Capel Court, and is half stock broker and half newspaper owner.

The Earl of Harrington supplements his income from 13,000 acres by the profits of a green grocery shop at Charing Cross, to which the fruits and vegetables grown at his Derby seat, Elvaston Castle, find their way.

The Earl of Ran furly has for many years been an active and successful fruit grower at Moldura, Victoria. His farm there is the envy and pride of the fruit colony, and its condition is due very largely to the Earl's own personal work on it.

The seventeenth Earl of Caithness has been literally nursed as a farmer, and is prouder of his American ranch, covering over twenty square miles, the fruit of his years of hard work, than of his Earl's coronet.

The last Earl of Seafield was a bailif and small farmer in New Zealand, and his successor, the young Earl of to-day, is also engaged in industrial pursuits at Oamaru.

The late Viscount Hampden, when he was released from the exacting post of Speaker of the House of Commons, turned his attention to milk and butter, and his Glynde dairy was noted for its excellence.

"George," she hissed, "do you know anything that reflects on the lifelong integrity of my father?"

"Do you think," he grimly answered, "that I would [illegible] for your hand if I did?"

The Morosini Cup will be played for on the links in VanCortlandt Park, New York, Saturday afternoon. It is a scratch event, held semi-annually, the cup to go to anyone winning it twice. Last spring, W. de la R. Anderson, of the Park Golf Club, won the cup with a score of 91. He will not take part in the contest this fall as the competition for the cup falls on the same day as the reception tendered by the Hillside Club to the Park Club and Anderson will take part in the tournament open to both clubs.

COLD-WATER CONVENTION.

Only Eight Voters Attended, and It Is Decided to Try Again.

Although 140 voters were cast for the Prohibition candidates in Middlesex county at the last election, when an effort was made to hold a county convention at New Brunswick Friday, to place a ticket in nomination for the fall election, there were only eight persons in attendance. Two were Methodist ministers and one was a stranger from Camden, the State Organizer.

The eight enthusastic cold-water disciples agreed that to nominate a county ticket there should be representatives present from all sections of the county. It was decided to make another attempt to hold a county convention on Oct. 18.

MUST VACATE THE HOUSE

A TENANT WHO HAS NOT PAID RENT IN 22 MONTHS.

Landlord is Frank S. Runyon and Tenant Frank P. Haffner — Latter Defied Orders to Move, but Must Go Now.

Justice Mattison's Court was occupied this morning with a case wherein landlord and tenant were contesting for the possession of property. About twenty-two months ago Frank P. Haffner, a former resident of Dunellen, rented a house on Maple avanue, owned by Frank S. Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank. He moved in with his family and has been living there since.

Now it appears that Haffner has not been paying any rent, and Mr. Runyon thought it about time he received some money for the use of the house, or else Haffner and his family get out. In consequence Attorney Nelson Runyon was engaged to bring suit for $180 which the landlord claimed was due him for rent.

Mr. Haffner engaged Lawyer Isaac P. Runyon to defend his interests and the case was called this morning. It was sworn to that Constable Rockafellow went to the house with papers for the purpose of attaching goods alleged to belong to Haffner to satisfy the amount due for rent, and Mrs. Haffner informed him that all the goods belonged to her and not her husband. He was then unable to serve the papers. Then the suit was brought to recover the premises.

Haffner had no claims to make, but seemed to think that he should be allowed to remain in the house. Because Haffner refused to go the owner of the house lost a tenant, Albert Foster and family. They remained a short time, but refused to stay while Haffner was there.

After hearing the evidence on both sides Justice Mattison rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiff, and accordingly in three days papers will be issued to get Haffner and his family from the premises. The defendant's lawyer showed some disposition to carry the case higher, but this has not been decided as yet.

EMBRACED LAMP POST.

Then Mrs. Mary Jones Got Into Trouble With Police and Was Fined.

Mary Jones was vigorously embracing the lamp-post at the corner of Liberty and South Second streets last evening when Patrolman Vanderweg passed by. He suggested that she would do well to go home. When he came by fifteen minutes later, she was still paying the same attentions to the lamp-post. Vanderweg inquired as to her home. Mrs. Jones then turned her attention to the officer. She told him to attend to his business but she added such verbal flourishes that the original statement was hardly recognizable.

Then Vanderweg offered to assist her but her language grew so vulgar that he insisted upon it and took her to the city jail instead of her home.

She was haled before City Judge Runyon this morning on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. She was found guilty and the Judge fined her $5 as a warning to be more careful in her treatment of the police hereafter.

Edward Lindsey, of East Orange, is visiting friends in town.

YACHT RACE OFF TODAY

Heavy Fog Prevailed at Time of Start.

WIND WAS VERY LIGHT.

FORMALLY DECLARED OFF AT 11:39 o'Clock.

Conditions Were so Unfavorable That the Race Was Impossible —Weather Sharps Predicted Good Weather for Afternoon But it Did Not Come in Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 10.—The fourth trial for the first of the international yacht races was postponed this morning on account of light winds and the heavy fog that enveloped everything in the vicinity of New York. It was not until forty minutes after the time set for the start that the race was finally given up.

The morning dawned with very light wind and heavy fog but the weather sharps promised that in the course of the morning the breeze would freshen and blow away the fog leaving a good day for the race. The fog hung on, however, and the yachts waited at their anchorage for it to shift.

At 10:30 there was no sign of clearing at the scene of the start and the yacht owners were dubious about a start. At 11:20 oclock there was a 6 knot breeze blowing but the fog was still in possession. Fifteeen minutes later, the wind died down and the fog was heavier than ever. At 11:39 the yacht club officials gave up any attempt to hold the race today and declared the trial off.

THE "PROF" IS OBDURATE

DUNELLEN PEDAGOGUE BOUND TO MAINTAIN DISCIPLINE.

Student Charged With Unruly Conduct —Threw a Ball Through a Window —Must Apologize or Get Out of School.

Prof. Messeroll, the new superintendent of the Dunellen public schools, who assumed charge yesterday, at once demonstrated that he proposes maintaining discipline. Yesterday morning at recess a ball was thrown through one of the windows. Prof. Messeroll charged a boy named Larrabee with committing the act, and he called him in. Larrrbee refused to obey, and is reported to have used bad language.

It is said that the Superintendent then took hold of Larrabee's arm with the evident intention of compelling the boy to obey. Larrabee, however, resisted and there was a struggle. Then Ernest Peters, a large boy, came to the assistance of the Professor. Young Larrabee took offense at the interference of Peters and attempted to strike him. Peters sailed in and threw Larrabee to the ground.

It is understood that Prof. Messeroll gave Larrabee the alternative of apologizing or of being expelled from the school. Larrabee maintains that he did not throw the ball. The Superintendent, however, is said to have seen him do so. The affair caused considerable talk about the borough last night. Those who are familiar with the facts in the case sustain the Superintendent. Insubordination will be put down at whatever cost.

New Metal Company Incorporated.

Certificate of incorporation was filed today in the office of the county clerk by the John King Metal Company, the incorporators of which are Walter C. Childs and W. G. Woolfolk, of New York, and Thomas Miles Day, of Plainfield. The total authorized capital stock of the company is $125,000. The amount with which the company begins business is $5,000. The principal office of the company is located at Garwood.

ODD FELLOWS' HOME CRITICISED

Jersey Lodge Members Start a Shake-up in the Institution.

For some time past there has been more or less fault found by the local members of the Order of Odd Fellows with the management at the home located near Trenton. It is charged that the institution has been made a sort of summer residence for the city friends of certain officers. Other allegations are to the effect that favoritism is shown in the treatment of the old men, and that some of them are allowed certain privileges that are not accorded others.

The present Odd Fellows' Home Association includes some of the subordinate lodges and not others, but only those lodges belonging to the Association have a right to send indigent members to the home. It is said that the trouble has led to a friction among the representativee of the different subordinate lodges in the Home Association. Some of these representatives are not pleased with the regime and will no doubt act with those who propose to seek a change in management. This move, it is thought, will have the effect of installing a new governing power over the institution.

Resigned as Train Dispatcher.

Joseph Olhausen, train dispatcher of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at Jersey City, resigned this morning. He is a son of Supt. J. H. Olhausen.

PROBABLE CHOICE OF G. O. P. CONVENTION

The Present Situation in Union County Summed Up.

POLITICAL AIR IS CLEARING.

PLAINFIELD WILL PROBABLY GET ONE ASSEMBLYMAN.

It Will Be Cross for Senator, Howard for Clerk and Houston for Sheriff—Wm. Newcorn Prominently Mentioned for Assembly—A Rumor of Another Change on the Ticket for Plainfield.

The atmosphere in the G. O. P. camp of Union county is growing clearer and it is possible to see with a fair amount of certainty what the rival booms are doing. The past week has done much to clear up the doubtful questions regarding the probable nominees at the coming county convention. The "dark horse" is always a possibility to upset well-laid plans, but if there is any in this race he has not given any indication of his appearance as yet.

While the chances of some of the would-be candidates have greatly diminished, they are still out for the nominations. Elizabeth is the seat of war at present. There are too many candidates from the county seat to ensure unity there. It is predicted by some that the Elizabeth delegation will be divided against itself at the county convention. Such a thing is possible, but the Union county Republicans have a habit of settling the controversy before the convention is called to order.

A forecast of the probable ticket, as suggested by one "on the inside" was published in The Press over a week ago. It was Cross for Senator, Houston for Sheriff and Howard for Clerk. Today that combination is stronger than ever, and has every indication of being the winning one at the county convention. Those who were at the meeting of the county committee last week found that Elizabeth considered these the probable nominees.

George Squier is not going to be County Clerk this fall. He will not even get the nomination of the Republican party. So say those who have watched the situation carefully. The fact is that Squier will be lucky if he gets nominated to the Assembly. Not that there is any great likelihood of his losing the Assembly nomination, but then George Squier is not as popular in the party as he was once. Although Squier is still after the county clerkship, there is no doubt but that he realizes now that it is not for him. Elizabethans say that he would be lucky if he carried his own ward.

Halsey has more strength in Elizabeth than Squier at the present day, and may make a good fight against Howard if he isn't squelched in the meantime. Howard, however, will get support from outside the county seat that will undoubtedly nominate him.

The principal objection to Howard is that he has held the office for two terms of five years each already, and many believe that there are other men in the party who should have some share of this very good thing that Howard wants for five years more.

At one time it looked as if "Bob" Houston's chances for the Shrievalty were very slim indeed, but his boom has since expanded until there is very little doubt, but that he will get the nomination. Houston has had the support of his friends of the "Port" through the six years that he has wanted the office of Sheriff. Early in the fall Former Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, had practically come out against him. John E. Barr, one of Rankin's ablest lieutenants and leader of the "Port" delegation, would not follow Rankin's lead and stuck by his old friend. Rankin has since seen the wisdom of Barr's actions and has now come out openly for Houston.

Houston will receive Plainfield's support for the nomination despite the fact that an attempt was made to boom B. Frank Coriell, of this city, for the place. Coriell's boom will cut no figure in the convention. Mr. Coriell has made no effort to further it and will not.

Plainfield is going to have something on the county ticket if it is only an Assemblyman. There is a rumor, which has not yet been affirmed or denied, that Senator Cross is not anxious after all to be renominated to the Upper House and that great pressure will be brought to bear on Ernest R. Ackerman at the last to take the nomination. In that case, it is doubtful whether Plainfield would get an Assemblyman.

If Plainfield sends a representative

JAM OF BARGAIN SEEKING WOMEN.

Over a Thousand Go To Newark On Free Excursion.

EXCITING SCENE AT DEPOT.

TICKET AGENT NELSON COMPLETELY SWAMPED WITH PATRONS.

Hundreds Unable to Buy The Excursion Tickets at the Depot, and Many Returned Disgusted—Three Sections of the Train Run—Ninety-five Per Cent of the Passengers Were Women.

The second free excursion, run this morning under the auspices of the merchants of Newark, was a success, reconed from a numerical standpoint.

From a few moments after 8 o'clock Ticket Agent Nelson at the North avenue station, confronted an excited, struggling mass of humanity, 95 per cent of whom were women, who pushed, crowed and jostled each other in a frantic efforts to buy tickets. The women's waiting room was jammed full and overflowed into the men's department.

The crush about the ticket windows was something appalling. None but a woman, eager for bargains, would have had the courage to get into that jam. Ticket Agent Nelson was not given any assistance and he was unable to sell tickets fast enough to supply the demands made upon him.

Women with money between their fingers pushed their way towards the ticket windows only to be shoved back by those in front. The scramble reminded the writer not a little of scenes to be witnessed in a betting ring at a race track when the "talent" is trying to get on to a good thing.

Figuratively speaking, the struggle was a howling bedlam. The babble of voices and exciting shrill calls of the woman, who would occasionally become separated from their friends, was as exciting as it was amusing to the onlookers.

To add to the confusion the committee in charge of the trains did not put in an appearance until nearly 9 o'clock, and those who had tickets were compelled to wait on the station platform, not being allowed to enter the coaches in waiting for them at the west end of the depot.

It was not until the committee, consisting of Messrs. Lindeman, Rosenbaum, Vogel and Corbett, put in an appearance and announced that tickets could be secured on the train from the committee, was the crush about the ticket windows relieved.

Then there was a break for the train in the struggle to secure seats. Many women suffered from having their skirts disarranged and their tempers badly ruffled. But with all the jam not an accident occurred and no one's clothing was seriously damaged.

While the train was being loaded a number of merchants stood about with drawn faces, at the thought that $1,500 at least was being taken out of the city.

In the first section of the excursion there were thirteen cars filled to their limit. Two other sections were also run, one coming from Somerville and another sent out from Dunellen.

It is estimated that 2,500 people were carried into Newark today at the expense of the merchants of that city.

Ticket Agent Nelson sold 850 tickets at this station; 500 were sold at Somerville; about 200 at Bound Brook; 125 at Dunellen; 150 at Cranford and and 75 or 80 at Westfield.

Owing to the crush about the ticket office at the North Avenue station many women, afraid to stay in the crowd, gave up the trip to Newark and returned to their homes.

Taken altogether the excursion was a splendid success, and will no doubt prove a good advertisement for the Newark merchants if not a direct financial gain.

The Peerless Humorist

It will cost you just twenty-five cents to enjoy yourself tomorrow evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, when Royal S. Goldsbury, the peerless humorist, will give one of his best entertainments for the benefit of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church. The wonderful piano player "Angelus" will also be exhibited.

Serving on Struck Jury.

Through an oversight the name of W. W. Coriell was omitted from the Plainfielders who are serving on the struck jury at Elizabeth on the Pennsylvania Railroad case that is being tried today.

NO CADET COMPANY IN HIGH SCHOOL.

Board Decided To Change The Old Methods.

BOYS WERE NOT SATISFIED.

ONLY A FOURTH OF THEM WERE WILLING TO TRY THEM.

So The Board Has Given Up All Idea Of Having A Cadet Corps In The High School — Old Members Will Organize An Independent Organization Soon To Join Militia As Cadet Corps.

The Plainfield High School cadets will not reorganize this fall. It was the plan of the Board of Education to make a radical change in the corps this year but the change did not seem to find general favor with the boys of the High School and now the lack of a proper place in which to drill has practically killed the project.

Ever since the cadet corps was organized in 1894, it has been drilled by Captain George F. Edwards. In 1896, the cadets were uniformed and guns were obtained from the state. While the company was in a measure connected with the school, drill was held outside of school hours and there was really no relation between corps and school except that its membership was limited to pupils in the school.

This year it was decided by the Board of Education that the company should be more closely united to the school and that drill should be held during school hours. It was also thought best that A. B. Meredith, science instructor, should act as drill master. Mr. Meredith had considerable experience in that line while in Massachusetts.

The boys of the High Shcool were asked their opinion on the move and only a quarter of the number agreed to join the new company. The number was too small for effective work and the idea was abandoned. Then the Board could not secure the Crescent Rink at terms that the Board believed satisfactory so there was no place to drill in winter.

A meeting of a number of the old member of the old members of the High School cadets will be held some evening this week when a movement will be started looking toward the organization of a new cadet company entirely independent of the High School. It will be commanded by Captain Edwards and will probably be attached to the some regiment of the New Jersey National Guard as its cadet corps. Already some thirty boys have expressed their desire to join such an organization and the number will undoubtedly be increased. Many of the would-be members are High School boys. It is intended to take in members from Westfield Scotch Plains and Dunellen.

RESIGNED TO GAIN A VOTE.

Charles B. Stephens Becomes Past Commander to Give Winfield Scott Post More Influence.

At the meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., last evening, Commander Charles B. Stephens resigned his office. The vacancy will be filled at the next regular meeting of the post when nomination and election will take place. The reason why Mr. Stephens resigned is that by so doing the post will secure an additional vote in the department encampment owing to the fact that he is a past post commander, and the post do not feel like losing his vote which will be needed. At the election to be held a member who is not a past officer will be selected and thus all the necessary votes will be available.

TAX BILLS READY.

Borough Property Owners Must Pay by December 20th or be Charged Extra.

Notice is given to the taxpayers of the borough that the taxes assessed for the year 1899 are now due and payable, and that if the same are not paid by December 20th next, the names of the defaulters, with their respective taxes, will be returned, according to law, and interest at 10 per cent. with legal costs added in collection. The Commissioners of Appeal will meet at the Council rooms, 45 Somerset street. Tuesday, November 28, at 2 p. m. A discount of 6 per cent. per annum will be allowed from date of payment until December 20th.

Sunday-school Convention.

The nineteenth annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association will be held in the First Presbyterian church, Roselle, tomorrew. There will be sessions morning, afternoon and evening. Rev. Dr. Main, of this city, will present a paper on the home department, and Miss Nettie K. Beeching, of Washingtonville, will lead a conference in the afternoon.

$1,000 FOR THE HOSPITAL

BEQUEST MADE IN THE WILL OF LATE CHARLES SCHIPPER.

Majority of the Estate Held in Trust for Relatives, but After Their Deaths Part Will be Given to Worthy Institution.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 11—The will of the late Charles Schipper, who resided on West Seventh street, in Plainfield, and who was in business at 91 and 93 Wall street, was filed for probate with Surrogate Parrot, of Union county, this morning. The executors named are Charles T. Bingham, of Cranford, and Gustav Schipper, his brother, of Plainfield. In the event of the death of either Townsend Rushmore, of Plainfield, will serve in their place.

After bequeathing $1,000 to the Muhlenberg Hospital, in which he evidenced a great interest during his life, being one of the board of governors, he provides that the estate shall be held in trust and the remainder divided between his brother Gustav, his sister Emelie, with whom he lived, and Agnes Laure. To the first two each shall receive forty-five per cent. of the income, and the latter shall receive ten per cent.

After their deaths the income of the estate shall be divided as follows annually: Four per cent to the Muhlenberg Hospital; three per cent to the German hospital in New York; one and a half per cent to the Children's Home of Plainfield; one and a half per cent to the German Reformed church of North Plainfield, and the remainder among his heirs at law.

ECHOES OF CONVENTION.

INTERESTING AND PROFITABLE RALLY FOR ENDEAVORERS.

Delegates Reflect the Proceedings of the Convention in Reports Describing the Work of the Young Christians.

There was a good attendance at the Congregational church last evening on the occasion of the rally of the various societies of the local union of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor. The exercises were unusually interesting. At the front of the church were draped festoons of yellow and black, representing the colors of the State organization, and festoons of green and white, denoting the colors of the local union, while flowers and potted plants lent an inviting appearance to the sacred edifice.

Miss Florence G. Hawkins, president of the local union, presided. Seated upon the platform with her were Miss M. G. Morse, who was a delegate to the recent State convention held at Camden, and Rev. W. S. Lumbar, of Moorestown, N. J., vice-president of the State union.

Miss Morse followed gave a carefully prepared skeleton report called "Echoes from the Convention." It was replete with interesting reminiscences and highly entertaining. "Quiet Hours" was the subject of Miss Elizabeth VanWinkle, who was a delegate to the convention from the Park Avenue Baptist church. Miss Bessie Fitz Randolph, a delegate to the convention from the Seventh day Baptist church, then entertained the Endeavorers with a brief account of the "Closing Session" in which she related many interesting events not previously known.

Miss Hawkins followed with a lengthy recapitulation called "convention nuggets" which contained many excellent suggestions with regard to the Christian Endeavor work. Miss Hawkins' paper proved to be very interesting and contained much food for reflection.

Miss Hawkins then introduced Rev. Mr. Lumbar, who delivered an eloquent and scholarly address, filled with earnest words and happy suggestions on the important work that is necessary to be accomplished to further the welfare of the Christian Endeavor Societies throughout the land.

Before the audience dispursed for their homes, an informal social reception was held.

Sunday-school Workers to Meet.

Next week Tuesday the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention will be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church with sessions morning, afternoon and evening. Some of the best workers in the denomination will be present and take part.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Katherine Shafer, of Brooklyn, to Lambert H. Fish, of Grant avenue. Miss Shafer is well known in Plainfield where she has often visited.

Called as a Witness.

Constable William N. Pangborn, of the borough, was called to Elizabeth this morning as a witness in the ejectment suit of Victor D. Schomp against John Maire.

ENCOUNTER AWHEEL WITH HIGHWAYMAN.

Horace Hand Fired Two Shots From Revolver at Them.

COMING FROM THE 'PLAINS.

DESPERADOES' FACES CONCEALED BY WEARING MASKS.

Hand Knocked From His Wheel, but Had Anticipated Trouble and Had His Revolver Ready for Use—Held Assailants at Bay and Beat a Hasty Retreat Towards His Home in This City.

Horace G. Hand, of 711 East Sixth street, had an encounter with two highwaymen while riding his bicycle from Scotch Plains to this city at 11 o'clock last night that was decidedly thrilling. As Hand approached the slight incline in the road a short distance east of Raymond avenue, at the outskirts of the city, he noticed two men standing in the middle of the road. He immediately scented trouble and drew a 32 calibre revolver from his hip-pocket, which he always carries when on a lonely ride like that from Scotch Plains to Plainfield.

He carried the revolver in one of his hands as he guided the wheel with the other, but as he drew nearer to the men he noticed two bicycles lying at the side of the road. This eased his mind as he thought that the strangers were bicyclists who had met and stopped for a short talk. He was but a few feet away when the men separated, each stepping to the side as if to allow him to pass. Just then one of them exclaimed:

"Hey there, young fellow, hold up."

Hand became thoroughly frightened at this salutation and started to ride faster, and as he reached the spot where the men stood he saw that their faces were concealed with masks and that one of them carried a club. The one without the club jumped forward and dealt him a blow on the side of the body, making him lose his balance and fall into the roadway with severe force. In the tumble Hand clung to his revolver and as he rolled over he saw the man with the club coming towards him. Quickly pointing his revolver at the highwayman Hand fired twice. The stranger emitted a cry of pain and staggered back. The other desperado jumped forward to prevent his pal from falling, and by this time Hand regained his feet. He walked backwards for a few feet still pointing his revolver at the men, and then turned suddenly and ran towards the centre of the city at fast as he could.

When he reached home he told his father, Hezekiah Hand, and the two hurried back to the scene of the encounter. There they found Hand's bicycle lying at the side of the road where it had fallen, but no trace of the highwaymen or the wheels that the former had seen just before the assault. They waited around for a few minutes but got no trace of the assailants. The roadway showed where young Hand had fallen, but in the darkness it was impossible to tell whether or not the man who was shot lost any blood. Young Hand is positive, however, that the bullets from his revolver took effect.

As a result of his fall, Hand's left arm was badly sprained and bruised.

TEACHERS TO BE TAUGHT.

Annual Institute to be Held in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The annual institute of the Primary Sunday-school Teachers' Union will be held in the Sabbath-school room of the Seventh-Day Baptist church Monday. Miss Annie T. Harlow, of the John Wanamaker Sunday-school, Philadelphia, will speak at both afternoon and evening sessions.

At the annual business meeting of the union the same officers were reelected and are as follows:

President, Miss Nettie J. Beeching; first vice-president, Mrs. John A. Powlison; second vice-president, Mrs. Frank R. Baker; third vice president, Mrs. John P. Mosher; secretary and treasurer, Miss Ida L. Spicer; librarian, Miss Lizzie Rowley.

Wholesome Fun.

In speaking of Royal S. Goldsbury, the impersonator, the Pittsburg Post says: "His fun was of the sort calculated to make an audience leave pleased with themselves and the world in general." Mr. Goldsbury will appear at the Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow evening for the benefit of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church. There will also be an exhibition of the "Angelus," the piano player. Admission tickets cost 25 cents and the entertainment is well worth the price.

WILLIAM T. FRENCH SHOT BY ROBBERS

Highwaymen Realized That They Were Being Worsted.

BULLET FOUND BY X-RAY.

HOLD-UP OCCURRED IN WESTERN END OF CITY.

Their Conduct Resembled That of the Men Who Attacked Horace Hand on East Front Street an Hour Before — Made Good Their Escape — French Now in the Muhlenburg Hospital.

William T. French, Jr., age 20 years, a machinist, residing at 408 West Third street, had a lively experience at 12 o'clock last night, while walking along West Front street, on his way home from Dunellen. He was in company with William Tabb, of Dunellen.

Suddenly two men jumped out from behind some bushes and held the men up. A fierce struggle followed. The highwaymen seeing that they were getting the worst of the fight tried to get away. Before they disappeared one of them pulled a revolver and shot French in the arm above the wrist.

The strangers then jumped on their wheels, which were close by, and rode off. Neither one could be identified on account of the thick fog.

French and Tabb went to Dunellen and awoke Dr. Whitford, who made the injured man as comfortable as possible. This morning French went to the hospital for treatment. Those in charge were unable to locate the bullet until the X-ray machine was used. It was then discovered that the ball had entered the arm above the wrist and had taken a course toward the hand, where it was found imbedded in the upper part near the thumb.

The bullet was removed, and French is doing as well as can be expected. He will be detained at the hospital for sometime.

CHECKS WERE "N. G."

Edgar Vail Must Answer to the Grand Jury for Having Passed Them on Merchants.

Edgar Vail, formerly a conductor on the Lehigh Valley Railroad and later a conductor on the Plainfield Street Railway, was arrested by Captain Grant yesterday afternoon and turned over to Constable Mattox, who had a warrant for him. Vail is charged with issuing small checks and passing them on Charles Arnold, the butcher, and Herman A. Weber, the grocer. The warrants were issued by Justice Moffett, before whom Vail was arraigned late in the afternoon. He gave bail in the sum of $200 for his appearance before the justice Thursday afnoon at 4 o'clock.

Abram Vail, the accused's father, went on his bond. The warrant for Vail was issued several days ago, but the authorities were unable to find him. It is understood that the checks were issued to pay for meat and groceries, Vail having been out of work for sometime. Vail lives with his family at Second street and Central avenue.

GUESTS WERE SURPRISED.

Pleasant Event Arranged in Honor of Two Albany Girls.

Misses Anna Field and Helen Doyle entertained friends Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. W. Mayhew, of West Fourth street, by giving a surprise party in honor of Misses M. Matilda Dickson and Emma M. Nichols, of Albany, who are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. Mayhew. During the evening a number of choice selections, both vocal and instrumental, and a number of recitations were very pleasingly rendered. Among the many present were: Miss M. M. Dickson and E. M. Nichols, of Albany; C. Pierson, of Dunellen; S. Hill, A. Maynard, H. Doyle, A. Field, Maude Doyle, S. Taylor, B. Flannigan, M. Doyle; Messrs. A. Stills, A. White, H. Macbeth, I. Field, G. Mitchell, J. Brice, H. Kingslow, F. Kelso and C. Hunt. At 12:45 the guests took leave to the beautiful strains of "Home Sweet Home."

Sues the Recorder for $15,000.

Patrolman Conrad Brandt, of North Bergen, has begun suit against Recorder Henry Hegeman and his father to recover $15,000 for alleged liable. He will base his suit on the charges made against him by Recorder Hegeman at the last meeting of the Board of Council.

To Commence Their Fall Work.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will commence their fall work Friday at which time a meeting will be held in the lecture room of the church at 3 o'clock, and every member is earnestly requested to be present.

GALA TIME ARRANGED FOR THE FIREMEN

Complete Programme of the Celebration Tomorrow.

COMPANIES TO BE HERE.

THE PARADE WILL MARCH OVER 5 1-4 MILES OF STREETS.

Official Dignitaries Will Head the Line—Many Visiting Volunteer Companies Will Be Present, as Well as the Apparatus That They Own—Slight Change is Made in Line of March.

Every detail is now practically arranged for the firemen's parade that will be held in the borough tomorrow if the weather is at all favorable. The committee, consisting of Lambert B. Bodine, chairman; J. D. Anderson, secretary; F. A. Long, treasurer; James Daly and George Schlereth, has worked hard for the success of the affair and have done well. They have provided a line of march 5¼ miles in length and covering all the principal points. The line published in this paper a few days ago is correct with one exception, and that is the parade will not pass the cemetery on Chatham street, but will take in Fairview avenue.

The parade will form at 2 o'clock and when the borough fire alarm bell strike four, which will be at 2:30 o'clock, the parade will start. It is fully expected that there will be one thousand men in line, including six bands and three drum corps. The parade will be as follows, as near as it is possible to determine:

First there will be a line of borough police, and then will follow the prominent invited guests which will include Senator Chas. A Reed, all of the prominent officials of Somerset county, the Mayors of the borough and city, together with officials from this city, the Mayors of Bayonne, Princeton, New Brunswick, and possibly some other nearby cities. Following the dignitaries will come the Exempt Firemen Association, of this city, one hundred strong, with their silver hose carriage and Bartow's band of twenty pieces. Then will come Mercer Engine Company, No. 3, of Princeton, sixty strong, with apparatus, and Liberty Band, of that place. The next in line will be Lincoln Hose Company, of Perth Amboy, with one hundred men, hose wagon and a fife and drum corps. Following will be Phoenix Engine Company, No. 3, of New Brunswick, with ninety-five men, and Goodwill band. This company will give exhibition drills along the line of march, and afterward they will drill on Watchung avenue, open competition. Empire Chemical Engine Company, No. 2, of Westfield, with thirty men will come next in line. That comprises the first division.

The second division will be led by Relief Hose Company, No. 2, of Raritan, sixty, men and Crescent Band. They will have their elegant parade hose carriage. The next in line will be Hope Hose Company, of Bayonne, sixty men, with hose wagon and a band. They will be followed by Bound Brook Hose Company with sixty men and a drum corps. The last of the visiting companies will be Franklin Hose Company, of Rahway, with new hose wagon and team. Then will follow West End Hose Company, with the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, and Warren Engine Company, with all apparatus, and Queen City Band, of this city, forty-two men in all.

The chiefs of all the departments represented will be present, also the chief of the Boonton Fire Department. Headquarters will be established at Spencer's Hall on Somerset street. Arrangements have been make to take care of all the apparatus and horses. The apparatus of the Princeton department will arrive today and be stalled at Crescent Hotel. Bayonne's will arrive tomorrow morning, and the others will come between that time and 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and all the apparatus will be taken care of on Somerset street, between Dreyer's Hotel and Manhattan Hotel. The Dunellen and Scotch Plains fire department will also be represented. A committee for receiving the guests will be on hand and see that everyone is provided for.

Warren Engine Company will provide for five hundred guests at Saengerbund Hall, and William Stephenson will serve the dinner. The West End Hose Company will take care of the rest at the Arlington Hotel.

Below is the line of march which is correct with the exceptiontion mentioned and that is that Fairview avenue will be included, and that part of Ceatham street in front of the cemetery left out. In doing this a turn

INTEREST IS ANTICIPATED.

More Than the Government Owes in This Line is to Be Paid at Once.

CIRCULAR JUST ISSUED.

Treasury Department Decides to Anticipate All Interest Due Up to June 30, Next.

The Amount of Interest Involved Exceeds $25,000,000 — November Interest to Be Paid in Full—Why the Treasury Department Issued the Order.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The Treasury Department has decided to anticipate the payment of interest on the public debt not only for the month of November as was anticipated, but for the entire residue of the fiscal year ending June 30 next. The November interest will be paid in full, but a discount of two-tenths of one per cent. a month will be exacted on payments of interest maturing subsequent to November, counting from the date of payment to the date on which it legally becomes due. This will release $4,400,000 on account of the November interest and about $26,000,000 for the balance of the year.

Assistant Secretary Vanderlip said this action was taken because the receipts of the Government were now running larger than the expenditures, thus drawing from the channels of trade large sums of money, every dollar of which was demanded by the increased volume of business.

A calculation made in the Warrant and Bookkeeping Division of the Treasury Department shows that the total amount of interest due to and including July 1, 1900, which may be withdrawn under the circular issued is $25,896,000.

The following statement of its action was issued by the Treasury Department.

"The Treasury Department has decided to anticipate the interest for the entire fiscal year, the period ending with July 1, 1900. The interest due Nov. 1 will be paid in full without discount, but if holders of bonds wish to take advantage of the offer to anticipate interest due at subsequent dates, a discount at the rate of two-tenths of one per cent. a month will be exacted. The amount of interest due from now until the end of the fiscal year is about $30,000,000. The prepayment of this amount should be a relief of much importance to the present stringent money situation, while on the other hand the discount will be the saving of a large amount to the Government. The Treasury is in a position to advance these payments without the least embarrassment.

"The interest due November is made up of the three per cent. loan of 1898, the 5's of 1904, and the 4's of 1925. There is $1,600,000 coupon interest which will be payable at all sub-treasuries Oct. 13. The books for the registered bonds of 1904 and 1925 do not close until the 15th. The checks for the interest on these registered bonds will be mailed on Oct. 25, and the checks for the interest on the registered 5's will be mailed Oct. 23. The total prepayment of November interest is $4,363,244."

Regarding the action of the Department, Assistant Secretary Vanderlip said: "The Treasury is in a position to undertake very readily the prepayment of all interest due during this fiscal year, large as is that amount. The cash balance is an extraordinary large one, being now nearly $290,000,000. It was larger than this a year ago, but we were then just receiving the payments for the $200,000,000 war loan. Our cash balance now, however is far larger than is has averaged for many years, and if receipts continue to bear anything like so favorable a relation to expenditures as they have recently, it promises to be still larger instead of being reduced.

"The total amount of interest due between now and July 1 is $25,896,535. If the holders of all the bonds should this month take advantage of the offer for the prepayment of interest it would be a saving to the Government of $249,478 in the rebate which would be demanded. The several classes of United States bonds are now selling in the market on a basis of about 2 4-10 per cent. per annum, and the rebate which the Government asks—two-tenths of one per cent. a month—is at that same rate. If the demand for money is as urgent as is in some quarters represented to be, it would seem as if holders ought to be glad to anticipate the fiscal year's interest when the discount is so small, and that the situation ought to be, to a great extent, relieved by this action.

"I see no reason why this prepayment of interest should not meet with approval from every quarter. From the Government's point of view, it is certainly advantageous, in view of the extraordinary cash balance the Government has lying idle in its vaults, and of the saving which the discount will make, while, on the other hand, if offers to the money markets over $25,000,000 which can be obtained with the slight sacrifice of a discount at the rate of two-tenths of one per cent. a month, which, in view of the 30 and 40 per cent. quotations that have been made for call money in New York, should look most reasonable."

Benham Gets a New Trial.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The Court of Appeals has handed down a decision which grants a new trial to Howard C. Benham, the Batavia banker convicted and under sentence of death for the murder of his wife. Benham has been confined in Auburn prison for more than two years.

Scissors Destroyed Her Eye.

Hamilton, O., Oct. 11.—Clara, the nine-year-old daughter of Lawrence S Scheben, of Puthoff street, fell from a chair and the blade of a pair of scissors the child held in her hand pierced her left eye, destroying the sight, and it is feared that she will lose the sight of the other eye.

TWO NEGROES HANGED.

Double Execution in the Penitentiary at Moundsville.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 11.—Frank E. Broadnax and "Shep" Caldwell, both negroes, were hanged for brutal murders of which they were adjudged to be guilty in the McDowell County County Court. Both men swung simultaneously from the gallows in the new execution department of the State prison at Moundsville, and their punishment was the first to occur under the State law providing that all capital penalties shall be inflicted at the penitentiary. Warden S. A. Hawk had full charge of the double hanging for which the State had been making preparations for months, owing to the fact that the new statute required the erection of an extra building, fully equipped, at the State prison. Both negroes professed a change of heart and since their failure to secure a rehearing of the charges against them—funds for this purpose having been raised by voluntary subscriptions by fellow convicts—became reconciled to their fate.

Frank E. Broadnax, who was 25 years of age, shot and killed a 16-year-old boy, by the name of McFadden, in an altercation in a railway camp near Kimble, W. Va., on Jan. 10 last. He said the shooting was accidental.

"Shep" Caldwell, who was 28 years old, riddled his wife with a charge of birdshot because she came to visit him at Keystone, W. Va., where he was employed, accompanied by a man and woman to whose presence he objected. Caldwell also said the shooting in his case was accidental.

Minister Under Arrest.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11.—The Rev. J. A. Marsten of Owensville, Ind., has been arrested by the post office authorities, charged with violating the postal laws by using the mails for a scheme to defraud. It is alleged that he has been collecting money ostensibly for the use of the Red Cross Society, to be sent to Miss Clara Barton at Trinidad, Cuba, and that the money was never sent to the Red Cross Society. United States District Attorney Humphrey says that Marsten made a confession.

Landed Shipwrecked Crew.

Highland Light, Mass., Oct. 11.—The crew of a large three-mated schooner, which went ashore near Capon's Hollow life-saving station, was rescued through the united efforts of the men of Capon's Hollow and the Pamet River life-saving stations. The vessel is the Thomas W. Holder of Boston, bound from Liverpool, N. S., for New York with a cargo of pulp wood. The schooner is well up on the bar and is full of water. It is believed that saving her will be difficult.

The Train Was on Fire.

Kokomo Ind., Oct. 11.—An eastbound freight on the Clover Leaf Road came into town on fire, with the engine screaming for the Fire Department. The latter half of the train was ablaze, carrying a trail of fire through the streets. The department extinguished the flames, but not until the caboose was burned to the trucks and several cars badly damaged. The fire started from a hot box.

College Directors Elected.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 11.—The Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan, as well as many Ohio English Lutherans, closed their annual synod here. The following Directors to Wittenberg College, at Springfield, Ohio, were elected: Rev. A. J. Douglass, of Columbia City, Ind.; W. C. Patterson, of St. Joseph, Mich., and Philip Ray, of Camren, Ind.

Killed His Fourth Victim.

Bowling Green, O., Oct. 11.—John E. Swartz, a well-to-do farmer of Luckey, was killed at Lime City by a Toledo and Ohio Central passenger train. He was hard of hearing and drove on to the tracks. This is the fourth man the same engineer has fatally knocked off the track in Wood County the past 18 months.

Rich Copper Mine in Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 11.—There is excitemnet here over the discovery on the farm of Henry Stout, three miles from this city, of copper ore. The yield is from 3 to 15 per cent. of pure copper. Stout has leased his farm, and a mining company, with a capitalization of $125,000, is being organized to develop the ore.

Working Hard on Manila Fleet.

Vallejo, Cal., Oct. 11.—Orders have been received to rush the painting of the hull of the Boston, which is now in dock, so she can be taken out to permit the Newark to be docked. Work on the Badger is being rushed as rapidly as possible, so that the ship may go into the dock as soon as the Newark leaves it.

Want Half a Million.

Boston, Oct. 11.—The Boston syndicate, the trust, which controlls the sale of emery, has made an offer of $350,000 for the Safety Emery Wheel Company, of Springfield, Ohio. The capital stock of the company is only $50,000. A half million dollars is asked.

Died a Christian Scientist.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 11.—Miss Annie Myers, aged 30, died at her home on South Side, after an illness of two years. She refused to the last to see a physician, and died with a Christian Science book in her hands.

Had Receiver Discharged.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 11.—The Ingalls Zinc Company, whose plants and belongings were put into the hands of a receiver Friday, has liquidated all debts, appeared in Court and showing solvency had the receiver discharged.

Accident at a Funeral.

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 11.—A funeral party was returning from Okalla when Archey Cooper's team ran away. Mrs. Archey Cooper, Mrs. Albert Cooper and Edward Cooper each sustained dangerous injuries.

Meeting of Ohio Presbyterians.

Springfield, O., Oct. 11.—The Ohio Synod of the Presbyterian Church has convened here. It will be in session four days. About 600 delegates are present.

WAR NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

British Government Decides to Peremptorily Refuse Boer Demands.

DECLINES TO ARBITRATE

Massing of English Troops Necessitates Assembling of Boers for Defence of the Country.

Great Britain Refuses to Withdraw Her Troops or to Cease Landing Reinforcements — Intense Excitement Caused by Publication of the British Ultimatum.

London, Oct. 11.—The British Government has decided to peremptorily refuse to grant the four Boer demands, namely, for arbitration, the withdrawal of troops, the re-embarkation of British reinforcements already in South Africa, and the unloading in England of troops now upon the sea bound for South Africa.

War, therefore, will be raging in South Africa within forty-eight hours unless the Boers withdraw the demands which they have made upon the British Government.

There is no expectation here that these demands will be withdrawn, and every preparation is being made for the worst. The text of the ultimatum of the Boer Government was received by this Government from Sir Alfred Milner.

The Transvaal complains that while negotiations were proceeding between the two countries Great Britain was massing troops on the Transvaal borders, which was regarded as a threat against its independence. This massing of troops necessitated the assembling of burghers for the defence of the country.

The note then calls upon England to agree to arbitration or a conference concerning all points in dispute, and demands that British troops on the Transvaal borders be instantly withdrawn and a third of all British reinforcements sent to South Africa since June 1 also be withdrawn. If the demand of the Transvaal is complied with the Boer Government also agrees to withdraw its troops.

An immediate and affirmative answer is demanded of Great Britain at once, "else the Transvaal Government will be compelled to regard the action of Her Majesty's Government as a formal declaration of war and will not be responsible for the consequences."

The text of the ultimatum was made public by the Colonial office. It caused the most intense excitement. With the enthusiasm prevalent over the departure of the New South Wales Lancers, the ultimatum served to inflame all Englishmen and make the war fever run high.

The expiration of the time limit of the ultimatum does not leave Great Britain much time to strengthen the present military position, although there are still a few troops at Durban, Natal, available for dispatch to the front, and the Government doubtless will adopt the suggestion to form the refugees from the Rand into volunteer regiments, thus, while relieving their distress, utilizing excellent material.

The ultimatum naturally is the absorbing topic of conversation at the clubs and in political circles, and the papers, containing the text of the ultimatum, met with a good sale in the central parts of London, the newsboys doing a thriving trade on the closing of the theatres.

A general feeling was expressed that the Boers had made a mistake, as their forcing matters would tend to alienate the sympathy which might have been extended to them had they thrown the stigma of declaring war on Great Britain.

Dr. Gavin Brown Clark, Radical member of the House of Commons for Caithness, who has worked hard for peace, has received a characteristic letter of thanks from Commandant General Joubert, in which General Joubert declares that Cecil Rhodes, Dr. Jameson and Mr. Chamberlain as responsible for the mischief.

The Boers are full of fight and are ready and anxious to go into the field.

An Ovation for Dewey.

Shelburne Farms, Vt., Oct. 11.—From the throng that greeted Admiral Dewey's train as it rolled along through his native State it seemed as if all of Vermont had taken to the railroad stations. It seemed hardly possible that there were so many persons residing within the borders of the State as greeted him since he entered it. He is here with many of the members of his family, and declares that he is now perfectly happy.

From the time the Dewey train pulled into the depot at North Bennington until the Admiral left the cars the ovation to him has been continuous. At nearly every depot there was a brass band, but the cheers of the Admiral's friends drowned the music.

At Burlington the crowd shouted for a speech, but the Admiral said that he would have to leave the speechmaking to Governor Smith, who accompanied him, and he declined to talk.

Found Strangled to Death.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 11.—A woman whose identity is unknown, was murdered, apparently by strangulation, in a lonely spot in Pawtucket street early this morning, as the accompaniment it is believed, of an assault upon her by three men. The woman may have come from Lawrence, although persons who have seen her think she belonged to Lowell. Her alleged assailants are still at large, and the police have only the most shadowy clew in respect to their personality or whereabouts.

Fear a Gas Shortage.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 11.—The 40 factories established here in the past dozen years by reason of natural gas fuel are preparing to meet a possible shortage of gas by laying in a stock of wood and coal. This is being done on the advice of State Natural Gas Supervisor Leach, who also advises domestic consumers to do the same thing.

LABORING MEN RECEIVED.

Bricklayers and Stonemasons Call on the President.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—President McKinley received a delegation composed entirely of laboring men and was closeted with them for half an hour.

The party was made up principally of members of the Bricklayers and Stonemasons' Union, which some few weeks ago made the President an honorary member of their organization.

President Gubbins, of the Union, in the course of conversation mentioned the "bricklayers organization."

"Our organization, if you please. Don't forget me," smiled Mr. McKinley, and the committee promised that he would always be remembered as a full-fledged union bricklayer and stone mason.

The President asked many quesoitns relative to the condition of Chicago's laboring people.

The President declared he considered it a compliment to belong to the Bricklayers' Union and pulled from an inside pocket the card entitling him to a voice in its proceedings.

"I would like to have the international body of which our union is a part hold its convention of 1901 in Washington," said the President, as the building trades men were about to retire.

President Gubbins thanked him for the invitation and declared that the matter would be laid before the delegates to the convention of 1900.

President Leaves Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—President McKinley and the members of his Cabinet left Chicago for Evansville, Ind., on a special train over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. His departure with cheers of an immense throng ringing in his ears, brought to a close a day of genuinely hard work, in which the President scarcely had a moment of leisure for himself.

The final numbers on the President's extraordinary long list of engagements were a magnificent banquet by the Commercial Club and his visit to a meeting of the Chicago Bricklayers and Stonemasons' Union, of which he was elected an honorary member a fortnight ago.

Sword for Captain Chadwick.

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 11.—Twenty-five thousand people here celebrated "Chadwick Day." The special train with naval officers aboard arrived and a salute in honor of Rear Admiral Sampson was fired by the university cadets. In the party were Rear Admiral Sampson, Captain Chadwick and wife, Lieutenant C. C. Marshal and wife, and Commander S. A. Staunton.

CAPTAIN CHADWICK.

Among the visitors were Governor Atkinson, Senators Elkins and Scott, Secretary of State Dawson, General Spillman, General Appelton, Colonel Babb and Major Elliott.

Governor Atkinson presented the sword to Captain Chadwick on behalf of the people of the state. The scene was the reviewing stand. Captain Chadwick was deeply touched by the ovation and the gift and his words of acceptance were full of feeling. Joseph Moreland spoke to the subject "Our Guest." He accorded to Sampson a good share of the credit for the victory of Santiago.

Yachts Failed to Start.

New York, Oct. 11.—The fourth attempt to make the first race between the Shamrock and Columbia, was abandoned soon after the hour for the start, as the heavy fog which hung over the city in the morning still obscured the view at sea, and the wind was very light and unpromising. The yachts will try again on Thursday and thereafter every day till the match is concluded.

Leased an Ohio Plant.

Chillicothe, Ohio, Oct. 11.—The big Herrnstein planing mill plant in this city has been leased by the Horrocks Desk Company, of Herkimer, N. Y., which will take possession of the plant the 1st of January and manufacture here certain parts of their desks which are now being made in the East.

Natives to be Led By Kitchener.

Cairo, Oct. 11.—Lord Kitchener is to lead another expedition against the Khalifa. It will consist of 6,000 irregular troops, none of which will be English. Natives only are to be sent against the rebellious tribesmen.

Gomez to Head Cuban Army.

Havana, Oct. 11.—The organization of a new party is now almost certain. General Gomez will be set up as its leader, and it will give prominence to the better class of the veterans. At a meeting held here it was decided to send out a manifesto to that effect.

Has a Record for Elopements.

Ohio Falls, Ind., Oct. 11.—During the past week 40 marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk Goodwin, thus breaking the record. Fourteen eloping couples were married in one day, five another, and so on during the entire week.

The Chair Trust May Fail.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The proposed $30,000,000 chair trust is tottering. Many manufacturers are being deterred from joining through fear of prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

Killed in Electric Light Plant.

Ripley, Ohio, Oct. 11.—Elzie Sowers aged 32, fireman at the electric light plant, while turning off the current touched the metallic part of the plug switches and was instantly killed.

I have always enjoyed good health until about four years ago, when I began to be troubled with indigestion. Nothing I could get would give me permanent relief. I went from bad to worse. Night after night I would lie in bed tossing, rolling. My stomach being thus disordered, my blood became very impure, rheumatism took me in my feet and it was with great difficulty that I could walk. This was the state I was in about one year ago, when my attention was attracted by an advertisement of Ripans Tabules. The first Tabule gave me relief. When the entire package had been taken I found there was a marked improvement in my case. They have made a new man of me. I would not be without them. The lameness has left my feet, so that I can walk almost as well as ever, although I am 64 years old.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES (in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (SIX tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. RIPANS TABULES may also be had of grocers, general storekeepers, news agents and at liquor stores and barber shops.

LIFE'S DARK SIDE.

Two Girl's Seek Death in an Infamous New York Dive.

New York, Oct. 11.—McGurk's resort at No. 295 Bowery, known as "Suicide Hall," from the large number of young girls who have killed themselves there, has come to the front again, this time as the scene of a double attempt of self-destruction.

Two women, both barely twenty-one years old, deliberately swallowed carbolic acid in the midst of a carousal in the place, and one of them lies dead in the Morgue, while the other is fighting for her life in Bellevue Hospital.

So anxious was the manager to prevent another death in Suicide Hall that no sooner had the two girls swallowed the acid than they were seized by the employes of the place and rushed out into the street, where they were found by two policemen.

In the Bowery the two women were known as Madge Davenport and Mamie White. Madge Davenport was a tall, stately blonde, whose reputation for good looks and "swell" clothes had spread far on the east side. Mamie White is more familiarly known as "Big Mamie."

Madge and Mamie had gone into the drug store early in the evening and each had bought ten cents' worth of carbolic acid.

Some time later they repaired to McGurk's, and seating themselves at one of the tables soon had a crowd of hilarious sailors around them. In the midst of the dancing, singing, drinking and shouting, Madge Davenport turned to her companion and said:

"We've got what we want, haven't we, Mamie?"

Mamie smiled and nodded assent.

"And we're going to do what we said, aren't we, Mamie?"

For answer Mamie, still smiling, lifted her hand from under her handkerchief. It held a small brown bottle. At the same instant the Davenport woman raised her hand and then the sailors saw that each had small brown bottles. Before the drink-stupefied men could interfere, or even take in the situation, the women, quick as a flash, pulled out the stoppers of the bottles with their teeth and swallowed the contents. As the fiery acid burned its way down their throats both shrieked and clutched the table in their agony. The sailors, realizing the true state of affairs, stood aghast.

"Bart" O'Connor, the manager of the place, was standing by the bar. He knew what those shrieks and the pale faces of the women meant. That room had known such sounds and shrieks before. He did not need to glance at the little bottles clutched in the hands of the women, or listen to the sailors' excited warnings.

In a second he had turned out every light in the place, except one in the rear of the back room, and calling to the waiters and employes of the place, he seized the fainting women and rushed them back through the long hall at the side of the barroom and dance all into the street. They were left crying and moaning with the agony of the acid's burning.

Madge Davenport died within a short time. The physicians say that Mamie White has a fighting chance.

Habitues of McGurk's said that Madge Davenport had killed herself because a man said to be her husband, a sailor named Robert Ryan, had told her he was tired of her and was going to leave her. The woman, they said, had come here from Boston with Ryan, and the two had made their home at No. 11 First street, and it was there she had met Mamie White. The police say that Ryan was arrested in connection with the murder of George Eberhardt in Seventh street a few months ago, but was later released.

The woman had said that she and Ryan had been married in Boston. Ryan it was said, told her that he was tired of her and wanted to go back to Boston. Mamie White said that Madge had told her that Ryan had put all her fine clothes together and had sold them.

McGurk recently advertised his place on buttons as "Suicide Hall," and had men standing in front of it during the Dewey celebration announcing the fact that it "was the place where more suicides happen than any other place in New York," but the police stopped this practice.

Two Arrests Made.

New York, Oct. 11.—Two arrests have been made in connection with the murder mystery which has occupied the attention of the police since last Saturday. The arrested men are held in the West Twentieth street police station. They have not been taken to court, although they have been in the police station for the last twenty-four hours—in fact, one of them has been there since shortly after midnight on Monday.

Jordan Knocked Out.

New York, Oct. 11.—Another English champion fighter and the cleverest seen in these parts in many a day has gone down before the prowess of a sturdy American pugilist. Before 4,000 persons in the ring of the Lenox Athletic Club, Eddie Santry of Chicago, knocked out Ben Jordan of England, the same Ben Jordan who defeated Dixon. Jordan was beaten in the sixteenth round.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 11.—Stocks were dull and at about the same prices as at the close last night.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Closing prices for spot: Wheat 73, corn 31, oats 22, pork 8.17.

SMALL BANDS AT WORK.

Major Bell, With a Reconnoitering Party Succeeds in Badly Scattering the Enemy.

General Schwan's Column Enters San Francisco de Malabon Without Opposition—Filipinos Flee Before the Advance of the United States Troops.

Manila, Oct. 11.—Gen. Schwan's column entered San Francisco de Malabon without opposition. The Filipinos fled before the approach of the United States troops.

Major Bell, with 120 picked men of the Thirty-sixth Regiment, made a reconnoissance in the direction of Florida Blanco, four miles out of Gusgue, and encountered a body of 100 Filipinos, whom they routed, capturing a lieutenant and three armed privates.

Near Florida Blanco they met another body of natives and routed them, capturing another armed lieutenant and one private. Returning with twenty scouts Major Bell encountered the enemy a third time. The round reconnoissance resulted in scattering the Filipinos in that locality.

For the last two days small bands of Filipinos on the northern lines have indulged in considerable outpost firing. Simultaneously with the affair near Laloma Church the outposts of the American forces at Caloocan, Deposito and Mariquina were fired on. It appears that the enemy in the neighborhood are operating in bands composed of from five to twenty men, and it is reported that attacks are to be made on the hospitals.

The uprising in Manila will result in extra vigilance on the part of the United States troops.

The Campaign Has Opened.

Washington, Oct. 11.—From dispatches received here from the Philippines it can be stated with authority that a general movement to the northward has commenced in Luzon. The purpose of the campaign just opening is to take all of the important towns and retain them instead of abandoning them, as was done in the past.

Both Generals Lawton and McArthur are now advancing toward the north, each at the head of a considerable force. Eventually an expedition will be sent by water to Lingayen to flank the enemy and crush the Filipino army. The American troops intend to secure and retain control of the two railroad lines of Luzon. With the troops that have arrived during the rainy season all of the work laid out can be accomplished.

Dissatisfied With Transports.

Wahington, Oct. 11.—Secretary Root is not satisfied with the number of transports on hand for the transportation of troops to Manila. Unforseen difficulties have arisen to delay the movement of the troops as rapidly as was expected some weeks ago, and the proposition to add four or five more vessels to the transport fleet was one of the first subjects considered by the Secretary of War on his return to Washington. In his speech in Chicago he announced the purpose of the War Department to have 40,000 troops in the Philippines by the 15th of November, and the entire 65,000 there by the end of December.

To carry out this programme it will probably be necessary to increase the transportation facilities and the Quartermaster General has been directed to prepare a schedule showing the transports on hand and their probable dates of departure.

This statement was submitted to the Secretary of War. It shows 2,918 men now at San Francisco for transportation, consisting of regiments 28 and 31 of the first ten regiments and 300 recruits. The ships available for these men are the Mananenz, which will be ready to sail Oct. 15; Olympia, Oct. 20; Victoria, Oct. 20; and Hancock, Oct. 25, with an aggregate carrying capacity of 120 officers and 3,055 men. This will close the first movement by Oct. 25. Before this date, however, the movement of the troops of the twelve additional regiments will commence. It will begin with the departure of the Pennsylvania on Oct. 12, with 30 officers and 900 men, and the Newport and City of Pueblo on the same date, the former with 500 men and the latter, 800. On Oct. 25 the Tartar is expected to sail with 1,100 men and 45 officers. This vessel has not yet reached San Francisco but will probably arrive before the end of the present week.

The Senator is scheduled to leave on Nov. 1, with 35 officers and 700 men; City of Sydney, Nov. 15, 25 officers and 700 men; and Indiana, Nov. 20, 40 officers, 800 men. On the same date the following will probably sail: Ohio, 12 officers, 700 men; City of Pueblo, 36 officers, 690 men; Duke of Fife, 40 officers, 900 men; Nov. 22, St. Paul, 40 officers, 750 men. The Pathen, a new transport just authorized but not yet chartered by Major Long, is scheduled to arrive at San Francisco Nov. 16, but how soon she will be ready to sail is not known. She has a capacity of 25 officers and 780 men. This provides transportation for 383 officers and 9,320 men.

Spain Has Her Own Troubles.

Madrid, Oct. 11.—Premier Silvela, who has returned from San Sebastian, announced at a diplomatic function that there was no ground for the rumor of an alliance between Spain and Great Britain. He added: "The country's role should be confined at present to arranging the budget on a satisfactory basis."

Bryan's Illness Raises Doubts.

Webster, Iowa, Oct. 11.—William Jennings Bryan says he has hay fever, but the indications are that his condition is worse than he believes. At any rate, just how ill he is will hardly develop for a day or so.

Hold a Public Hearing.

There is but one sure and proper course for the Common Council to pursue with reference to the application of the People's Gas Company for a franchise to lay pipes in the streets of this city. That is to hold a public hearing, when everyone who wants to be heard on the subject may have an opportunity to do so. A public hearing will point out more correctly and positively to the Common Council what the sentiment of the majority of citizens is in respect to this franchise than any other medium that can be brought into play.

The granting or the refusal of this franchise, whichever it may be, is of the utmost importance to the people. If the claims of the new company are for the best interests of the people, then the promoters should be given an opportunity to expound them at a hearing to which the public is invited; if, on the other hand, the city will gain nothing by granting the franchise, and the owners and employed counsel of the old company can demonstrate this side of the question in a forceful manner, than it is equally as binding on the Council to allow them to be heard in public.

And beyond the representatives of the two competing companies individual citizens should also be given an opportunity to be heard. Whatever the representatives of the companies may have to say will be simply that which will work best to their corporate advantage, but in the voice of citizens who have only the welfare of the municipality at heart the Council will receive a wholesome expression of opinion that will tend to guide them in acting honestly and justly.

The public hearings held on the applications for trolley franchise have fully demonstrated that they are an essential to the Common Council in acting as its constituents desire. The proposed new Gas Company franchise is just as important for the interests of the city as the construction of street railways, and it is a duty that the Council owes to the city to hold a public hearing on this application of the People's Company.

THE BRAVE ADMIRAL WHO LOST AT MANILA.

"Nothing succeeds like success." While America is glorifying Admiral George Dewey for his victory at Manila the brave Spanish commander, Vice Admiral Montojo, who led a forlorn hope with almost sublime courage that day, is degraded by a Spanish court martial. He has been placed on the reserve list and deprived of the right of promotion. This because he couldn't whip "Our George" and his splendid floating fighters with a fleet in which there was little that was fit for modern sea warfare. It is thought, however, that Rear Admiral Montojo's friends will find means of setting aside the harsh sentence of the court martial.

Governor Voorhees, by his attitude in the scandal growing out of the management of the State Industrial School for Girls, seems to regard the people that elected him as unworthy of his confidence. Yesterday he announced that he had selected all the members of the new board of trustees of the institution, but that he would not allow the public to know who they are till after they had met and gone over the testimony taken regarding the recent investigation of the school. That is a policy that will not meet with public approval. New Jersey wants no star chamber proceedings. Let us have publicity, the more of it the better.

Francis B. Lee, who was nominated by the Democrats of Mercer county for Surrogate, has declined the honor. Mr. Lee gives as his reason for not standing large business interests that require his undivided attention. He is an attorney and the son of ex-Clerk of the Supreme Court Lee. Mr. Lee's declination has upset the plans of the Democrats, who are now at a loss for a candidate for the office.

There has been some talk of the possibility of ex-President Harrison losing his fee of $250,000 in the Venezuelan case should the revolution in Venezuela result in the overthrow of the government by which he was employed. The success of the revolution is not an impossibility, and in some of these small republics the private obligations of the defunct government are not always regarded.

There is only one thing left to do—load the Shamrock and the Columbia on a flat car and hurry them off to Chicago, where there is plenty of wind morning, noon and night. And the Chicago smoke is no worse than the Navesink fog.

Country journals report a big chestnut crop this year, and proof of it is found in the New Jersey political "news" published in the New York and Philadelphia newspapers, observes the Newark News.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The New Brunswick Fredonian is shocked to learn that the judges in New York have been assessed for political purposes. The Fredonian might confidentially inquire among the political leaders in this State whether New Jersey judges have ever been likewise assessed. Perhaps the information communicated will be of a nature to give our contemporary another and greater shock.—Newark Advertiser.

* * * * *

Those gas combinations are at it again. It is touching to witness the gullibility of the people when the interests of illuminating companies are concerned. Plainfield folk are in the throes now. They are hugging a delusive promise of a net gas rate of $1.25 after November 5. This gives the gas wizards time to make contracts with hundreds of new victims. The raise in price and the anger of the people come later. It was so in Trenton, as we all know, and it is going to be so in Jersey City and contiguous cities, where a big gas syndicate, with many a noble anti-trust Democrat backing it, too, is making a similar snare for pinching their patrons.—New York Press

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

John W. Crawford, who Saturday was appointed lieutenant and private secretary to Admiral Dewey, formerly resided in Paterson and is a native Jerseyman. The appointment was made upon recommendation of the Admiral. It carries a salary of $2,500 a year, which with allowances, etc., means about $3,000. Lieutenant Crawford is 31 years of age. He was born in Vineland, where his mother still lives. His wife's maiden name was Mamie Connell, a former Paterson girl. Lieutenant Crawford was a newspaper reporter when a young man.

An applicant in the Naturalization Court of Camden, when asked by Judge Armstrong, a brother of T. S. Armstrong, of this city, which city was the capital of the United States, replied "Gloucester City." His papers were refused.

The last man to apply was about 70 years of age, and he told the court that he secured his first papers 29 years ago in Minnesota, after driving 200 miles for them. When the time came for him to take out his second papers he was informed by a politician that he would get them for him if he would vote according to his dictation.

"I told him," said the applicant, "that I wanted to be a free American citizen and would vote to suit myself."

On the strength of this statement the Court ordered that he be naturalized without further questioning.

Interesting Wedding in Mexico.

Plainfielders who met Rev. Walter Temple, of Mount Holly, at the Christian Endeavor convention held in Plainfield in 1896, will be interested to learn of his marriage to Miss Margaretta Estelle Pease, of Mount Holly, October 3d, at Saltillo, Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Temple will carry on their mission work in Mexico, their home being at Zacatecas.

Boy Charged With Theft.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

Interesting Items.

A lady said to me the other day "We Plainfield people are very proud of your store and never fail to bring our friends to see it when visiting us." Such kindly expressions of interest are extremely gratifying to us as showing an appreciation of our efforts to make this a model shopping place. We believe our establishment possesses attractions for people of good judgment and refined taste far superior to that of the average store. The steady arrival of new goods and the continual rearrangement of stock creates a neverending mercantile panorama of peculiar interest. We have been opening winter goods in large quantities for weeks past contracted for in the main before the rise in prices, and feel confident of being able to offer good honest goods somewhat under price. For instance, within a week after placing our order for blankets the price advanced materially. That advance you save.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, October 11—The Common Council has decided to defer acceptance of the water service which the Watchung Water Company is to offer the borough until such time as the company has fulfilled the provisions of the franchise. Some exception was taken to the size of the bill, ($27,) presented for making the analysis of the water. The price charged for making an analysis of the water at the High School was but $10. At Monday evening's meeting of the Common Council a report was received from Prof. Myer, the chemist of Rutgers college, who made the analysis of the water. The analysis showed that the water though hard was pure and suitable for drinking purposes.

There will be a test of the water works Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock to determine whether there is the amount of pressure for which the franchise calls for. Fire Chief Doane, of the Plainfield Fire Department, has kindly consented to loan the borough a sufficient amount of hose to make the test.

The Union News depot at the railroad station has been discontinued. It was in charge of Charles Vail, who has secured a position with the Central Railroad.

This evening the marriage of Miss Caroline Fisher and Charles B. Mattis will be celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fisher,

The price of coal has been advanced by the local dealers from $5 to $5 25 a ton. This is twenty-five cents cheaper than it is sold in Plainfield.

The wedding of Miss Bertha, daughter of Nelson Giles, of New Market, and Mr. Johnson, of Plainfield, will take place today.

John Milligan has secured a position at his trade in New York.

The Dunellen band met for practice last evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 11—Saturday was the last of W. S. Emery's road races until next season, when Mr. Emery says he will run another series. The several races held have caused no little excitement among the residents of the village who have been watching and waiting to see what the League would do in the way of interfering with the sport. There is no doubt but what there were a large number who were opposed to Landlord Emery, but on the other side of the question there were many who favored the sport, consequently no one wanted to be personally responsible in stopping the races. What next season will do remains to be seen.

Rev. Mr. Shott and a delegation from the Baptist Sunday-school will attend the Sunday-school convention to be held in the First Baptist church, Roselle, tomorrow. Some have arranged to attend the three sessions, while a number will be able to attend the evening session only.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hand entertained a party of friends at their home last evening. The pleasant little affair was arranged by Mrs. Hand as a surprise upon her husband who was celebrating his thirty-second birthday.

The Board of Registry met and organized in the town rooms Tuesday morning. George Johnston was elected judge of election, Clarence Lambert, inspector, Frank R. Allen and John Radin, secretaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rogers, of Brooklyn, who recently returned from a two months' trip abroad, have been visiting Mrs. Rogers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ryno, of Front street.

Fanwood Council, 744, R. A., held their semi-monthly meeting in their rooms last evening. One candidate was initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dout, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gere, have returned to their home in Brooklyn.

Frederick Corey, of New York, who has been spending a few days with his father, Wm. Corey, has returned home.

Mrs. Wm. Hazel, of Elizabeth, has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Frentz.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 11—At the meeting of the Board of Education and advisory committee, appointed at the last school meeting for the purpose of prefecting plans for the furnishing of additional school facilities for the town, it was decided to hold another meeting next Tuesday and at that time to issue a call for a special school meeting at which time the voters of the township will be asked to approporiate about $40,000 for one large school building on what is known as the Henry property, on Elm street.

One of the largest funerals held in this vicinity in a long time occurred yesterday, when the remains of Mrs. Margaret Clark, widow of the late Ephriam Clark, who died at her home in Branch Mills on Sunday, were borne to their last resting place. Mrs. Clark was 87 years of age and having always lived in this neighborhood was well-known. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. N. W. Cadwell, pastor of the Westfield Presbyterian church.

The annual meeting of the Children's Country Home Association will be held at the Baptist church on Monday evening next, at which time several new members of the board of directors will be elected.

To Test the Law.

The legality of the bicycle ordinance regarding riding bicycles without a lamp at night is likely to be tested in Westfield. The bicycle of Fred Donaldson, a boy who lives in Fanwood, was seized Thursday night of last week, by Constable Chamberlin and Justice of the Perce Toucey, because he would not pay a fine of $3 imposed by the Justice of the Peace. Several people have interested themselves in the matter, and propose to test it.

FALLICIOUS ARGUMENT.

James E. Martine Tears Frank Bergen's Gas Talk to Councilmen All to Pieces.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The pleading of Hon. Frank Bergen on behalf of the old Plainfield gas monopoly was as amusing as it was absurd, the burden of his argument being that if the Council granted a franchise to the People's Company the old monopoly would "so reduce the price of gas that the opposition would be driven out of existence and their plant gobbled up by the existing company and closed up." The public would then be charged for the purchased non-productive plant, hence he argued in his clever way that the Council should refuse the new franchise.

To carry this argument to its logical end there would be but one lawyer, one baker and but one of every trade or calling in our city. I cannot believe that this argument of Mr. Bergen's had any effect upon the minds of the gentlemen composing the committee. To accept such a doctrine would and should relegate a man to oblivion, and to the hatred and disgust of his fellow citizens.

The Americans pride is "equal rights for all, special privileges to none." Mr. Bergen urged delay, insisting that there was no need of haste, etc, But when asked by the writer if in the meantime he would guarantee to the people gas at $1, he said he would not.

The aim of the old company is perfectly apparent. It is to shut out all competition and to hold in perpetuity the valuable privileges upon which they have so long fattened.

PROBABLE CHOICE OF G O P CONVENTION

to the Assembly the most probable candidate at the present time is William Newcorn, of the Fourth Ward. Newcorn has been one of the hardest workers in that ward and so far has received nothing at the hands of his party. His name has already been mentioned for the place.

If Squire does go back to the Assembly, that will leave one nomination for that body to be fought over by the townships and little boroughs.

East Orange Horse Show.

The directors of the Riding and Driving Club, of East Orange, have decided to hold a horse show on November 9th, 10th and 11th. There will be about forty classes and prizes will be offered in each. Walter D. Grand and R. F. Bryson are arranging for the show and W. E. Blitz has been engaged as secretary. There will be a number of horses entered that will also be shown later in New York.

The Second's New Major.

The military board of the Second Regiment met at Trenton and elected Captain Gilbert S. Cook, of Somerville, major, to succeed former Major Peter Vredenburgh, who resigned to accept a commission in the volunteer army. Major Cook was a member of the old Third Regiment and was a Captain since 1888. The election was conducted by Major Collins, of Elizabeth.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongued coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Manufacturer's SAMPLES.

We have just purchased from one of the largest and best manufacturers of Women's Cloaks their entire line of sample jackets. The lot consists in all of about two hundred garments. The price is just 50c on the dollar, and we propose to sell them on the same basis for a quick sale. Some of these garments were made up early in the season and are two or three inches longer than the prevailing style, but otherwise the shape and style is the latest and best. The garments are perfectly tailored and the fit and finish cannot be surpassed. Many of the styles are represented by only one garment of a kind.

$3.50 for $7.00 Jackets. $3.98 for $8.00 Jackets.
4.50 for 9.00 Jackets. 5.00 for 10.00 Jackets.
5.98 for 12.00 Jackets. 7.50 for 15.00 Jackets.
$10.00 for $20.00 Jackets.

MANUFACTURER'S SAMPLE UNDERSHIRTS.

50c the Garment.

We have placed on sale a lot of about five hundred and fifty men's heavy-weight merino and natural wool undershirts representing a manufacturer's sample line.

The actual values range from 75c to $2.00 the garment. Most of the styles are represented by only two or three garments of a kind with no drawers to match.

STRENGTH IN PRAYER.

"We kneel, how weak! We rise, how full of power!
Why therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
Or others, that we are not always strong?
That we are ever overborne with care,
That we should ever weak or heartless be,
Anxious, or troubled, when with us is prayer,
And joy and strength and courage are with Thee."

BE READY.

Have Faith in God and Be Always on the Alert.

I tell you that night there shall be two men in one bed, the one shall be taken and the other shall be left; two men shall be in the field, the one shall be taken and the other left. Luke 17th, 24. Two women shall be grinding together; the one shall be taken and the other left.

The disciples did not ask why? but when? but we deliberately ask the question why?

Not because God is a respector of persons because His word says He is not. It might be interesting to pick out a few instances where one has been taken and the other left. Take for instance Cain and Abel. I think it may be said Abel was taken and Cain was left. We read in Genesis that in process of time Cain brought of the fruit, of the ground an offering unto the Lord.

And Abel he also brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof and the Lord had respect unto Abel and to his offering. But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And in Heb. 11th and 4th, it is written: By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain by which he obtained witness that he was righteous. God testifying to his gifts and by it being dead yet speaketh. Cain evidently believed in God or he would not have offered the first fruits of his ground.

As far as faith in God is concerned his was equal to Abel's. It cannot possibly be said that he did not have faith or he would not have presented an offering which distinctly said "every good and perfect gift comes from God. And I do earnestly wish that every thoughtful reader would think of these two young men as having perfect faith in God and in His goodness, and the one was accepted and the other rejected and ponder over the question why? and how it is that Abel being dead yet speaketh and what it is that he says to us in this day of gospel light.

Does he not say by offering a lamb for a sacrifice and shedding its blood which is the life thereof, that his life was forfeited by his father's sin and he thereby sought mercy and pardon, and thus it was that Abel was taken and Cain who only offered a thank offering was left, and so Jacob was taken and Esau left, and Joseph was taken and his brethren left, and a Pharisee and sinner went up to the temple to pray and the sinner who cried for mercy was taken and the Pharisee was left. This is the old Methodist doctrine of being convicted for sin of being brought to realize not only that the wages of sin is death, and that death has passed upon all men in that all have sinned, but that in their case individually the verdict is guilty and the sentence is passed unless mercy can be obtained through the shedding of the more precious blood of Christ of which the first lamb was a type, there is no escape from the execution of the sentepce and the second or eternal death must be the consequence.

But God having provided for us this better sacrifice will do for the persistent sinner what He did for Abel He will have respect unto His offering and being justified by faith he will have peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ—John L. Fisher.

True Patriotism.

—In these days, when we have such an odd mixture of real and sham patriotism—of able statemanship and very low down politics—of seeking the very best interests of the whole State and of the whole country, in contrast to filling one's own purse—what a fine comment was that on Mordecai: "Accepted of the multitude of his brethren, seeking the wealth of his people, and speaking peace to all his seed" (Esther 10: 3). As incorruptible in refusing to bow down and "toady" to Haman as he was in the administration of the king's revenues; as devoted to his own people in his prosperity as in his adversity; as careful not to allow his promotion to alienate him from his own nation as he was prompt and emphatic in cautioning Esther not to do so, if she desired God's favor.—Rev. E. J. D. Pepper.

What Is Success?

What is success? Ask that question of a hundred different men, and they will give a hundred different answers. One man will say, "Success is $1,000,000;" another will say, "Success is world-wide publicity;" another will say, "Success is gaining that which you started for." But as it is a free country I give my own definition, and say, "Success is fulfilling the particular mission upon which you were sent whether to write a constitution or invent a new style of wheelbarrow or take care of a sick child." Do what God calls you to do, and you are a success, whether you leave $1,000,000 at death or are buried at public expense, whether it takes 15 pages of an encyclopedia to tell the wonderful things you have done or your name is never printed but once and that in the death column.—Dr. Talmage.

NEW FALL FURS.

Some Suitable Costumes For the Chill Days of October.

Fur collarettes are the most stylish of all additions to a costume, and as they will be in quite general use on cool days, almost before you read this, I shall mention a few of them.

The season of furs does not begin till November, but these collarettes may be worn all through October. There is a plaited victorine of chinchilla, the folds lying flat and close, ending in a stole front. The collar is high and round and has a rolled band border. At the throat is a bow of very pale pink tulle, with a fancy buckle imitating emeralds in the center. At the bottom of the stole tabs are ruches of the tulle. Rather a queer combination altogether, but a pretty one as well.

Another arrangement is called a pelerine. This has the rolled high collar, the flare being a little more pronounced. The cape portion consists of two skunkskins laid over the shoulders flat, the heads hanging down. They join in the back in a sailor shape. In the open space in front there are four tails and two full rosettes of black velvet set at the neck.

A zibeline collar is high and fluted all around. There is no bottom part to this, so that the collar stands up directly from the dress. In front are four tails, two quite long, say a foot. At the throat is a fancy bow of cream lace held by a bunch of violets. These are artificial, but are intended for looks only and when worn will be replaced by real ones. Chinchilla is the fur in another one, made with a smaller and more rolling collar and with a cascade of ten tails. A velvet bow was set at the throat with a bunch of red roses.

There are victorines, boas and short capes among the new early furs. Some boas have the appearance of being just simply limp little animals, their heads, feet and tails all being a part of them.

These light furs are all that are required with the fall costumes. The most of them have neat jacket shaped coats, finished in close design around the neck. This makes these pretty, new furs a welcome addition.

It is not easy to say that tight, flaring, double, paneled, tunic or princess skirts will be the favorite, for at the present time they are all seen and often. Probably they will all be worn. Still, my own impression is, from what is seen here and abroad, that the flaring skirt, with or without tailor stitching, will be a favorite.

Just at present tailor stitching in heavy silk is the prime favorite. Some really elegant effects are wrought with it. There was one Havana brown cloth tailor suit, the lower skirt touching the ground all around. There was a tunic, with strapped applique around this, cut out in graceful shape and heavily stitched. The tight basque jacket was also similarly ornamented on waist and sleeves. The wide revers and collar were of striped seal brown velvet.

There was a brown felt hat trimmed with brown tulle, velvet, striped quills and a bunch of red haws. There are many gowns with the tunic imitated by trimming, and these range through all grades and kinds of material.

Brown suits, blue suits, automobile red suits, gray suits and black suits are all seen and are all fashionable. Dark green and several shades of prune are also in vogue. Some are very brilliant, and others, again, are very soft and subdued in tint. So much black is worn that I really think half the suits of the season are black. The new crepons have taken hold of popular favor, and at least in skirts we shall see much of it.

The ugly and graceless coats and wraps of the extremists are likely to find adherents. They are as shapeless as a man's coat would look on a woman. Add to that a desire to put some feminine touch to it, and you see the result. Some are cut box shape pure and simple. Others have a seam in the back. One has a slight point in the back and two in front, while the sides are slashed up nearly to the arms. Stitching trims this coat.

Then there are mantles simply beyond the powers of description. I noticed one in particular. It was of soft woolly zibeline plaid in gray white and brown. The plaid was at least eight inches square. It was cut in loose sack fashion and pointed deeply in the back and still deeper in front, so that the point nearly reached the bottom of the dress. Cut in with the side seams were wing shaped sleeves, which reached around in front like a cape.

The pretty and jaunty little jacket basques are the favorites. Very many have vest effects in front of the same or other material. Often one sees a dark red vest with gilt buttons and others made of regular vesting, such as our great grandfathers wore.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

WOMEN'S REALM

A MISTAKE IN THE BIRD MARKET.

A Persian in the market-place
Longed for, so took home, a wren.
Yes, his was but a common case;
Such always are the ways of men!

Once his, the brown bird pleased him not;
Almost he wished he would take wing.
He loosed the cage-door, and forgot
The dark, unsinging, lonely thing.

Night came, and touched with wind and dew
(Alone there in the dim moonshine)
A rose that at the window grew—
And oh, that sudden song divine!

His children started from their sleep,
Their Orient eyes with rapture lit;
Their pale young mother hid to weep;
Their father did not care a whit.

He only heard the impassioned wail
From that small prison overhead.
"My wren is but a nightingale!
I'll wring its noisy throat!" he said.
—Sarah Platt, in Century.

Made a Mistake.

The Outlook say this story is true, and that, if you don't believe it, it can give you the names and affidavits of the ladies to whom it happened: They got into a Royal Oak 'bus to go to Bond street, and presently a well-dressed man with a fine diamond ring on the middle finger of his left hand, came in and sat next to one of them. She carried a purse in a pocket that found itself in the near neighborhood of the newcomer's bejeweled hand. When the ladies got off and undertook to pay for their purchases in Bond street, they found that they had been robbed. The purse was in the pocket, but the £7 10s. which it had contained was gone. In its place was a handsome diamond ring which had not been there before, and which was remarkably like the ring both ladies had noticed on the hand of the man in the 'bus. They thought the joke of the supposed thief in rather bad taste until, on taking the ring to a jeweler, they found that it was worth at least £40. Now they want to know whether the man was a mysterious philanthropist, a misguided humorist, an unlucky thief, or a plain lunatic.

Two Unwelcome Admirers.

A youngish widow, accompanied by a woman friend, went to Chicago not long ago, and has related this experience to some home friends, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. The widow being attractive, and her friend none the less so, had the misfortune to attract the admiration of two very well dressed men in the dining room of the hotel where they were staying. Of course, no notice was given by either woman, both being uncomfortably aware of the unflattering attention.

When the ladies arose, they observed one of the men questioning the waiter, apparently about themselves, and a moment after reaching their rooms were surprised by the knock of a bell-boy bearing two cards on his salver. The widow picked up the cards and read aloud: "Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Wilson." Without a moment's pause she turned to the boy. "Tell the gentlemen I am not in need of any sewing machine."

How She Felt.

The sensation of homesickness has been variously described, but never more graphically than by a little girl, who, miles away from home and mamma, sat heavy eyed and silent at a hotel table.

"Aren't you hungry, dear?" asked her aunt, with whom she was travelling.

"No."

"Doesn't your head ache?"

"No."

"What is the matter?"

The child's lip quivered, and she said in a tone to grieve the heart:—

"I'm seasick for home."—National Farmer.

A Baby's Feet.

A baby's feet, like sea-shell pink,
Might tempt should heaven see meet,
An angel's lips to kiss, we think,
A baby's feet.

Like rose-hued sea-flowers toward the heat
They stretch and spread and wink
Their ten soft buds that part and meet,
On baby's feet.

No flower-bells that expand and shrink
Gleam half so heavenly sweet
As shine on life's untrodden brink,
A baby's feet.
—Algeron Swinburne.

A New Fad.

One of the latest fads is to serve conundrums with the salad at an informal dinner party. Each guest draws a conundrum from among the lettuce leaves, and all of the answers are recorded in a book. The guest guessing the answers to the greatest number of brain-straining propositions receives a prize. One thing that may serve to console those who miss the prize is the saying that no one with any brain was ever known to read the answer to a riddle or to use a penwiper.

The Hosiery of To-day.

Hosiery is growing decidedly more frisky. Plain black stockings, once so universally favored, have no place in the up-to-date woman's wardrobe. Plain colors are still worn, but they would shame Joseph's coat when it comes to gaudiness. Black lisle thread stockings have intricate stripes and plaids and zigzag lines interwoven in silk in such combinations as yellow, blue and green, coral turquoise and lavender, and those of black silk are elaborately embroidered.

"I didn't know Mrs. Jones was so full of malice."

"What's the matter?"

"Why, when she left our flat she gave my wife her crayon portrait, four feet square, on a seven-foot easel."—Chicago Record.

THE DRYEST STATE

RAIN FALL VARIES FROM THREE TO TWENTY-FIVE INCHES A YEAR.

The People Do Not Concern Themselves Much About the Rain, But They Have a Fine System of Irrigation.

Arizona has some timber in the mountains and grass in the valleys, but these grow in spite of the fact that Arizona is in the dryest part of the United States. Even within the boundaries of this one territory, however, the rainfall varies from over twenty-five inches a year at Camp Goodwin in the mountains to three inches a year at Yuma on the desert. Twenty-five inches of rainfall a year means, perhaps, a possible crop. Three inches a year means no water at all. The people of Arizona do not, therefore, concern themselves much with rain. They talk about it once in a while, and on occasions an inch or two comes down in a solid chunk and is called a cloudburst, but such a rainfall has little relation to the possibilities of the soil from a productive point of view.

The settler in Arizona first seeks running water, and then, with confidence, settles himself upon the land and straightway proceeds to get rich, for running water upon Arizona soil is like unto a gold mine—it produces wealth. This has been the system ever since the memory of man, for there are Arizona ditches which are nearly 400 years old, and the present generation is not quite sure what manner of people dug them.

It is within the memory of man, however, when Arizona was almost a trackless desert, overrun with fierce and warlike Indians, and it is within the memory of even the children of Arizona that all this has changed; deserts have been made to bloom and all warlike Indians have either been sent to the happy hunting grounds or are used for exhibition purposes in wild west shows and Eastern expositions.

All this has been done by ignoring the usual way of watering the earth and by utilizing the melting snowbanks as their waters raced toward the sea. Fifteen hundred miles of artificial water courses, or ditches, have these ambitious and industrious Arizona people dug, and 500,000 acres of this wonderful valley lands grow rich with green things of the earth in response to the water from these ditches. It is not all fun to settle on these arid lands, and it is no easy task to have dug these ditches, but the results have paid ten fold to those who dared the task. Great mining camps are always near by. Miners always have money to spend They want the best the earth can give them, and the irrigated lands of Arizona have been paid for with the money dug from the bowels of the volcanic hills.

The running streams of Arizona are now doing all they can and still more water is wanted. To get this the people of the valleys not so favored with preparing to store the little that falls from the clouds at some seasons of the year. In the mouths of rugged canons they will place great rock dams. The melting snow and the winter rains will here mingle and lie quiet until the drought strikes the valley below and the parched vegetation calls for their use. Then the stored water will be loosed, to add more greenery, hence more wealth, to the dryest place in America.

An East Side Doll.

"I wish," said a young lawyer, who has an office in New York and a home in Brooklyn, "that I had kept account of the queer incidents I have noticed in the course of my walks through the east side on my way to the ferry. One of these incidents—it happened one rainy day last week—made a particularly strong impression on me. I was hurrying along Cherry street, holding my umbrella between me and a fine driving rain, when I noticed a little girl ahead of me. She was a very little girl, not more than 5 or 6 years old, poorly dressed and quite unprotected from the rain, so far as an umbrella went.

"I hurried along, vaguely thinking about how wet and cold and miserable the child must be, and reiterating in my mind a determination, to which I often come, not to go home by the ferry, but to take the bridge for the express purpose of escaping the sight of the children down there. When I came quite up to the child she turned suddenly and faced me. She looked up with the most engaging smile and said quite simply but pleasantly:

"'My dolly's a-sleep.'

"I looked down and discovered she was nursing in her little arms a whiskey bottle, quart sized and unadorned, save for a white label discolored by the rain. What did I do? Oh, I acquiesced in the dolly theory and expressed a few of the adult idiocies usual under under those circumstances. Then I took a good look at the shining eyes in the child's rain-wet face and went on. But in spite of any care in impressing on my mind the fact that her eyes were happy, I haven't been able to get rid of the recollection of that dolly."—New York Sun.

Dog Leaves Home to Live With Foxes.

Cascade Township, Lycoming county, has a dog that was stolen by foxes, and which now lives in the woods with the sly animals that stole it. N. J. Maloney, a farmer of the township, had had several chickens stolen by the foxes. Mr. Maloney was not the only person who missed some of his chickens. There were others. Some of the neighbors waited with shotguns for the thieves, and four or five foxes were killed.

Instead of doing that Mr. Maloney put a six-month-old pup in a kennel near the chicken coop. He thought the dog would frighten the foxes away; but he was mistaken. The first night that the pup was put on guard the foxes made a raid, and, besides one or two chickens, stole the dog. It was thought that the foxes had killed the dog; but several nights ago the dog was seen going along the edge of the mountains with two foxes. The dog has assumed the slyness of a fox and can run nearly as fast as the foxes.

"We have walked eleven miles this morning without stopping," said one Filipino soldier, discontentedly.

"That's so," answered the other. "We might as well join a golf club and be done with it."—Washington Star.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

CHANGED HIS TUNE.

"Cock-a-doodle!" crowed a rooster,
Standing on a fence:
"Cock-a-doodle! Cock-a-doodle!"
With a noise immense.

"I'm a gay and festive fellow,"
Was his daily song,
"With my glossy neck and plumage,
And my tail so long.

"Cock-a-doodle! Cock-a-doodle!
Watch me when you can!"
Over him a hawk came sailing—
How that rooster ran!

SOME CLEVER CHILDREN.

What Dickens Could Do When He Was Nine Years Old.

It has been contended that precocious cleverness foreshadows a career the reverse of brilliant. But this is not always the case, for, while it is undoubtedly true that most men and women do their best work at about the period of middle age, there are plenty of instances of persons who have risen to positions of eminence who displayed signs of genius at a very early age.

At the age of 9, Dickens used to delight his companions by telling them stories, while Scott composed a number of interesting tales when he was only 12. Charles Bronte, too, wrote numerous stories, poems and plays when he was 14, and at the age of 8 Macaulay compiled a universal history.

Writers in other lands have not infrequently given similar evidence of precocious cleverness. The great Scandinavian poet, Adam Wehlenschlager, when quite a child, evinced unusual skill in writing verses, and in his ninth year produced several short comedies for private theatricals. John Payne, an American actor and dramatist, was another prodigy from childhood. He wrote for the Press and was editor of the Thespian Mirror when only 13.

The musical world has brought forth many infant prodigies. Before he was eight years of age Mendlessohn excited the wonder of his teachers by his incredible facility in playing music at sight, and when he was only 11 he wrote his first cantata. Mozart played in public when he was 5, and Beethoven at 7 attracted attention by his phenomenal performances.

The distinguished German musical composer, Robert Schumann, also showed at a very early age remarkable talent for playing and composing. Although at the outset of his studies he lost the use of his right hand, he worked steadily on, struggling against all obstacles, and achieving success by his indomitable energy and genius.

Among artists, Raphael worked in the studio at 12, at which age Titian painted a Madonna. Landseer, the great animal painter, exhibited his pictures at 13, but he had previously given early indications of his genius by drawing animals well before he was 5 years of age.

Turning to individual instances of youthful precocity it is recorded of a Hanoverian lady named Dorothy Schlozer that she had the degree of doctor in philosophy conferred upon her when she was only 17 years of age. Before she was three years old she was taught German, and three years later she had learned French. Other languages followed in rapid succession and before she was 14 she had become an excellent classical scholar. In addition, she made herself acquainted with every branch of polite literature, as well as many of the sciences.

Another prodigy was Thomas Malkin, who learned to read and write with a rapidity that enabled him at the age of 3 to compose letters. A year later he had acquired remarkable proficiency in Latin, and in his seventh year he wrote fables, while some attempts he made at poetical composition were very creditable. But his most celebrated achievement was the conception of an imaginary country called "Allestone," in which, in a series of letters, he gave a vivid and intelligent description. He drew a map of this fanciful kingdom, giving imaginary names to the principal mountains, rivers, towns, and so on. This, however, was one of his last efforts, for he died at 7 years of age.

Of an individual named John Barretier it is declared he was the master of five languages at the age of 9; while in his 14th year he published a learned letter in Latin and translated the "Travels of Rabbi Benjamin" from Hebrew into French. Four years later the fame of his learning and writings attracted the notice of the professors of the university at Halle, who were so delighted with his wit and knowledge that they offered him the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Blaisse Pascal, one of the most profound thinkers and accomplished writers of France, is said to have shown precocious proofs of genius, particularly in mathematics, from his earliest childhood. At the age of 16 he composed a tractate on conic sections which excited great admiration, and before he was 26 he had composed the greater part of his mathematical works, and made the brilliant experiments in hydrostatics and pneumatic for which he is renowned.

At the present moment the 4-year-old son of a butcher is attracting considerable attention in Germany by his wonderful gifts. Only recently he was presented to the Anthropological Society of Berlin, as a remarkable example of early intelligence. His chief delight is reading, in which he showed himself exceptionally proficient at the age of two years. He evidently possesses a retentive memory, for he can repeat a large number of historical, biographical and geographical dates, including the dates of the births and deaths of innumerable Generals, poets and philosophers. All this knowledge, it is stated, has been self-acquired.

Mr. Goodthing (engaged to Johnny's sister).—Johnny, I'm going to make you a present. What do you wish?

Johnny—A box of candy.

Mr. G.—What else?

Johnny—Another box of candy.

Mr. G.—Oh, wish something else; your little stomach couldn't hold all that candy.

Johnny—Another stomach.—St. Louis Republic.

HONOLULU'S HOSPITALITY

Visitors to the Beautiful City Cheerfully Speak of the Pleasures of Their Stay.

The hospitalities of the residents of Honolulu have always been a marked feature of the stay of the various American ships in port, and the request to have the navy always represented there will be urgently seconded by naval men themselves. The climate has been delightfully spoken of for years by visitors, and everything said about it has been fully realized. A very funny example of the exact limits of the rain belt and the line of demarkation between sun and rain occurred here when a stranger upon inquiring his way to a certain street was told to walk right ahead until he met the rain and then it would be the second turn to the left.

In going through the town here one passes under overarching trees, through whose dense foliage the noon sunshine only trickles in dancing, broken lights. There are quantities of huge-leaved, wide-spreading trees, exotics from the South Seas, many of them rich in parasitic ferns, and others blazing with bright fantastic blossoms. The air is heavy with flowery sweetness, and one sees the delicate tamarind and feathery algaroba intermingling their fragile grace with the dark, shiny foliage of the deep red of fuchsias and geraniums which here attain the height and size of our large rhododendrons of home production.

In the deep shade of this perennial greenery the people dwell. The foreign houses show a very varied individuality, the specialities no doubt of the nation represented appearing in the architecture. The peculiarity in which all seem to share is that everything is decorated and festooned with flowering trailers. It is often difficult to tell what the architecture is, or which is house and which is vegetation, for all angles, lattice, balustrades, and verandas are hidden by jessamine or passion flowers or the gorgeous flame-like Bougamvillea.

The mixture of the neat grass houses of the natives with the more elaborate homes of the foreign residents has a very pleasant look. One sees many groups of aborigines sitting under the trees, each group with a mat in the centre with calabashes upon it containing poi, a fermented paste which is the national Hawaiian dish.

The City of San Juan.

Of San Juan, Porto Rico, it may be said that the city offers many and varied attractions to the sight seer. The well paved and scrupulously clean streets are a surprise and a revelation in themselves and indeed it is well the thoroughfares are clean, for the side walks are so narrow that it is impossible for more than two persons to walk abreast, and few, therefore, recognize the curb as a boundary line. San Juan is built on a sloping hill, which on its seaward side, rises abruptly from the bay and is made the more precipitous by a massive wall. The latter extends to and around the base of Morro Castle and continues at varying heights to the high fortress of San Christobal. Below it beats the surf, and as a military stronghold and defense the location seems impregnable. Great, gaping holes, however, along the exposed parapets, show that it is not, for here and there are seen evidences of the damage done by Sampson's shells when the Admiral's fleet bombarded San Juan and its fortifications. Nor were the forts the only sufferers, for back in the town several buildings still bear the marks of giant projectiles. One large edifice, now used as a barracks, had a whole section of its roof carried away by a shell, and the Church of San Domingo near the outskirts of the town, was fairly riddled with shot in the upper portion. The inside of the church was not damaged, but the authorities, in repairing the exterior, took occasion to make a window out of one of the holes, considering that easier than to fill the gap up with solid masonary.

Iron Plentiful in Porto Rico.

Much has been recently said about the mineral resources of Porto Rico and their commercial value. An official report to the United States Geological Survey just made by Robert T. Hill indicates that the most valuable metallic resource of the island is a large deposit of magnetic iron in a hill just north of Juncos. The ore is of great purity containing fully 65 per cent. of pure iron. It has been estimated that there are 35,000,000 tons of this ore in sight. On the most conservative basis the deposit contains 10,000,000 tons of metallic iron.

The deposit is ten miles distant from a seaport, and its development will necessitate the construction of a railroad. Mr. Hill reports that the conditions of the deposits could not be more favorable. The ore is encountered in compact masses, easy of extraction and covered only by a light layer of earth. The hill is about 470 feet high and the approach to it from the seaport of Naguabo is by a 2 per cent grade. Naguabo is said to be able to accommodate ships of 20 feet draft.

Gold is washed in small quantities from some of the Porto Rican rivers, notably the Luquillo and Loiza. The amounts gained, however, are unimportant, 50 cents to a dollar a day representing the average product of hard labor. The natives get the gold from the river sand and gravel. The mother rock of this metal has never been determined, but Mr. Hill doubts its existence, as he found no evidence of it on the island. He says that while it is impossible to reach any positive conclusion as to the quantity or value of the gold of the island, experience has shown that the placer deposits are not rich or extensive.

Lord Kitchener once served in the French army. That was in 1870, during the Franco-Prussian War, but his term of service was very short. He had just obtained his commission, and he volunteered for duty with the Mobiles of Dinan. He went up in a balloon at Laval and watched the enemy's tactics, but the ascent brought on an attack of pleurisy, and he had to return home.

In Germany it is considered necessary that a child should "go up" before it goes down in the world, so it is carried up stairs as soon as it is born. In case there is no upstairs, the nurse mounts a table or chair with the infant.

HARBOR OF SANTIAGO.

Features of the Beautiful Tropical Sunset and the Remarkably Short Twilight.

Isla de Pinos Which Is Famous for Its Fine Forests, Salubrious Climate and Thermal Springs—Progreso Is Far From Carrying Out the Idea Its Name Implies—Where Cleanliness Is Tabooed.

One who has not witnessed a sunset in tropical waters may be said to have lived almost in vain. There is no use trying to describe it—the crimson and gold, green, amethyst, purple and sapphire, reflected in varying tints on sea and shore, on sails and hills, in wonderful but brief pyrotechnics. I have seen hard-headed business men, as void of sentiment as the cattle and crops, the ores and machines they have come down here to invest their money in, "gush" like school girls under the glamor of the Western skies and drop into poetry with Wegg-like facility anent the dying day and Twilight letting her curtain down and pinning it with a star.

Our steamer left Port Royal at sunset, and hardly had we time to note the mossy roofs and towers of that shabby town all gilded in the evening light, before the picture faded and old Ocean became indeed a "gray and melancholy waste." It is worth coming far to watch the stars blaze out in the tropical night. There seems to be three times as many as are seen in the skies at home—all larger and brighter, not twinkling as in colder climates, but shedding a soft and steady illumination. And then the mysterious, far-reaching milky way; and the literally "golden" moon, swinging nearer to earth here than elsewhere!

The main course from Jamaica to Havana lies in a northwesterly direction across the Caribbean Sea, with several ports of call en route. First, almost due north to Santiago, at which point I did not land this time, retaining too vivid recollections of the fever recently encountered there. Through the yellow haze of a tropic morning we saw again the apparently unbroken wall of the Sierra Maestro; and at length the historic gap was disclosed—just wide enough to admit an ocean liner. The wonder is that Cervera's seven-thousand-ton cruisers ever managed to wiggle through the twisting neck of that bottle! The shallow water at the entrance of the sinuous channel does not conceal a sandbar, but a living, growing barricade of coral rock, requiring the most careful piloting to pass in safety. Doubtless the day is at hand when Yankee engineering will render the broad, deep bay beyond as accessible as it is now one of the finest harbors in the hemisphere.

Isla de Pinos, the only island of consequence among the hundreds that encompass the Queen of the Antilles, is nearly square in form, perhaps 60 miles long by 50 broad, and of exceedingly picturesque appearance. The island is famous for its pine forest and beautiful marbles, its salubrious climate and wonderful thermal springs. It is already a favorite sanitarium, and Cubans believe that a short residence here is an unfailing panacea for consumption.

To the north and east of Isla del Pinos the sea is dotted with the archipelagoes of Los Canarios and Baneo de los Jardines; innumerable tiny islands, such as "emerald gem in the ring of the wave." Traveling among them is unalloyed delight. The boat winds in and out the labyrinthine channels, over waters blue and luminous as the tropical skies, and so beautifully translucent that starfish lying on the silvery bottom, or sea flowers growing leagues below, look as though seen through glass. The air is indescribably balmy, the same in summer as in winter, and the eyes are continually feasted upon the beauty of verdure-clad shores and distant mountains, veiled in clouds

Progreso, the Mexican port, is far from carrying out the idea its name implies, having made no progress worth mentioning in about 400 years of Spanish occupancy. Groups of dark-faced men lounge idly in the doorways, and women in garments of spotless white are squatted along the curbstones with bowls of cooked meat for sale, or tamales made red-hot with ahi and odorous of grease and garlic.

In this part of the world it is considered a pernicious and unhealthful habit to wash one's face in the morning; but for "outside barbarians," who sometimes take such fearful risks, a big tin basin is provided, at which each takes his turn, using the same water that has served his predecessors, or replenishing the supply himself from the well in the patio.

From Progreso to Havana the journey is comparatively uninteresting, made mostly in the dark of night and far from shore. At daybreak Havana is sighted, and by sunrise the steamer is anchored between the Morros and Cabanas fortifications, whose "frowning walls" no longer frown upon our countrymen.

Slow in Decorating.

The people of the borough have certainly been rather slow in decorating for the firemen's parade that takes place tomorrow. At present there are few decorations. The people complain because they have been unable to learn the exact line of march. The official line was published in this paper a few days ago. It is published again today. Lack of information through the newspapers is due to the fact that one man was vested with all the power to furnish that information, and it has simply been impossible to see that man until yesterday, and thus the necessary information is not given out until today.

CLASSIS OF NEWARK.

Reformed Church Ministers Met In German Reformed Church Today.

The semi-annual meeting of the classis of the Reformed church for the Newark district was held in the Reformed church, Craig place, this morning. There were a large number of delegates present.

The business meeting consisted in the presentation of reports and the election of officers.

These officers were chosen: President, Rev. Charles W. Gulick, of Montclair Heigths; temporary clerk, Rev. W. W. Connor, of Belleville; permanent clerk, Rev. C. E. Wyckoff, of Irvington.

Rev. J. N. Morris, a former president, of Newark, read a paper with reference to the state of all vacant churches in the district.

Rev. Daniel H. Martin, D. D., of Newark, read a carefully prepared report, giving an idea of how $8,000 can be raised for domestic purposes.

Rev. Mr. Sharewood, of Linden, read an interesting paper on the work of supplying pastors.

After the business meeting the delegates were entertained with a splendid dinner prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary Society of the church.

This afternoon a devotional service is being held which is well attended.

After the dinner the delegates to the Clasis gave the women who served the repast a very hearty vote of thanks for the excellent service.

This afternoon the devotional exercises are being conducted by Rev. Lester Leggett, of Catskill, N. Y., who is visiting his mother on Grove street.

WIFE ARRANGED SURPRISE.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Bicknell Celebrated Their Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bicknell, of 726 South avenue, celebrated the fifth anniversary of their marriage last evening, and Mr. Bicknell was tendered a surprise by his wife. Charles Coddington, of Mt. Horeb, brother of Mrs. Bicknell, brought a load of people from various points and they took possession of the house. At a late hour supper was served.

Those present included the following: C. Coddington, Reuben Coddington, Miss Edith Nuse, Miss Anna Nuse, Amos Giddis, of Mt. Horeb; Miss Davis, Eugene Davis, Miss Althea Tunison, Miss Nettie Tunison, Lemuel Tunison, of Martinville; Mr. Tomas, of Warrenville; Miss Perrine, Miss Grace Wood, of Liberty Corner; Miss Minnie Bicknell, of Washingtonville; L. G. Henry, Miss Mamie Henry, Miss May Dilts, Harry Dilts, Wm. Dilts, of Plainfield.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

The village tavern, old stage coach, charming bar-maids, dashing redcoats, happy huntresses, Bow street constables, London belles, country rustics, squires, dames, and a fascinating Captain Scarlet, knight of the road, have been most happily introduced in "The Highwayman," the opera by DeKoven and Smith, which will be at Music Hall tonight. The ensemble movements and finales are remarkable for their brilliancy, and are magnificently executed by the Broadway Theatre Opera Company, who produce this successful opera. The management has spared no expense in staging "The Highwayman." The cast consists of the best artists on the lyric stage. Arthur Deagon will appear as Captain Scarlet, Miss Florence Wolcott, as the Lady Constance, and other metropolitan favorites whose talents are especially adapted to their respective roles. Extra musicians are carried by this organization and the augmented orchestra is under the direction of Anton Heindl. The local management is to be complimented for having secured an attraction of this magnitude, and there is little doubt but that a packed house will be the result, and, judging from the way in which the opera has been received throughout the country, a thoroughly enjoyable evening is in store for those who attend the performance.

* * * * *

The fact that "The Rising Generation" is to appear at Music Hall tomorrow night is sure to insure a crowded house. The comedy bubbles over with wit, humor and mirth. "It is to laugh" all through the action of the piece. The late Wm. Barry, as the versatile Mr. McShayne, was inimitable, and it is no disparagement to the father to say that the son, who is now handling the character, goes even his father one better in its portrayal. Miss Lydia Barry, that sweet contralto singer, will be heard to advantage in topical songs of the day; while the other comedians, whose comical antics have made the play a by-word the country over for real enjoyment, will contribute their individual share towards the feast of fun.

* * * * *

The "Knobs O'Tennessee," announced for Saturday night at Music Hall, portrays a vivid picture of mountain life in the foothills of Tennessee as it is today. In the struggle to live and let live in the fastness of the cloud-capped mountain knobs, in their simplicities of existence, with the frank delight of innocent children, they love and make merry. They suffer and never flinch. Their sacrifices are pathetic. Their heroics are tragic. They are gentle as they are strong. They are as pure as they are kind. They may be white trash but they are not clay eaters. Ignorant of the formalities of the wide outer world they are untainted by their temptations. The drama of their lives passes among the clouds, and sunshine and storm alternate. A story of intense heart interest and strong dramatic climaxes, without appealing to sensational effects to retain its hold upon the public, made it one of the strongest attractions presented last season and undoubtedly it will increase its popularity this season.

AN ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE.

Pleasant Affair in Honor of George Naylor's Twenty-ninth Birthday.

In honor of the twenty-ninth birthday anniversary of George B. Naylor his wife arranged and gave him a complete surprise at their home, corner of West Fourth street and Lee place, last evening. Mrs. Naylor had invited a number of friends to spend the evening, and her husband was wholly unaware of the intended visit. During the evening games and other forms of amusement were enjoyed, and at a late hour supper was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Naylor, John E. Naylor and son, Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Townley, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Lorton, Arthur Ross, Miss Ethel Naylor, Miss L. May Mowrey, Miss Helen Lee, Roy and Vincent Lee.

GONE UP IN SMOKE.

BUT FEWER CIGARETTES ARE USED THAN FORMERLY.

Tobacco Chewing is Also Somewhat on the Decline, but Snuff Taking Still Continues—Interesting Statistics From the Government Report.

The Government reports just issued shows that during the fiscal year of 1898-99 this country manufactured for home consumption 4,529,872,304 cigars. This is an apparent decrease of 12,144,266 from the year before. It should be stated that in April and May, 1898, when it was known that the tax was to be increased, there was a rush to get goods shipped out of the factories to escape the new tax, and it is estimated that about 120,000,000 cigars were thus made in excess of the normal product. These cigars really belong to the fiscal year just ended, and so it may be said that there was an actual increase instead of a decrease in production.

The tax amounted to $16,307,108 for 1898-99 against $13,626,049 in 1897-98, an increase of $2,681,058. It is also interesting to note that on the renewal of prosperity the product of what was generally regarded as th e cheap cigar districts no longer showed the great increases of a few years ago. The stogie districts of Pennsylvania show a decrease of 20,000,000 for the year, while the higher grade Philadelphia goods show an increase of nearly 12,000,000; the cheap goods of Ohio fell off 19,000,000, but the Virginia cheroots and stogies show a gain of 10,000,000. The districts manufacturing fine Havana cigars from imported Havana tobacco show increases, Key West and Tampa gaining 2,500,000 and New York gaining 14,000,000.

In cigarettes there is a crisis. For the past ten or twelve years this product steadily grew, increasing from 2,151,515,360 in 1889 to 4,063,169,093 in 1897, passing even the record of cigars. Then came the anti-cigarette agitation, and the tax was advanced from 50 cents a thousand to $1.50. The effect is seen in the fact that this year the total production amounted to 3,735,698,906 only. That there is apparently little decrease in the world's demand for cigarettes is shown by the fact that the exports of American-made cigarettes continue to increase despite the numbers of European firms with American machinery and American methods which have recently begun business. For the eleven months closing May 31 the total exports of cigarettes was 1,064,517,000, as against 899,317,00 for 1897-98, or an increase of 165,200,000. The tax collected on paper cigarettes in 1898-99 was $4,203,735, as against $3,593,011 in 1897-98, an increase of $610,742. On all-tobacco cigarettes the tax collected was $547,415, in 1898-99, as against $405,676 in 1897-98, an increase of $141,738.

In manufacturing tobacco, which includes chewing and smoking varieties, there is the greatest change. The heavy decrease in the chewing districts show apparently that at last the habit is well under way to extinction. The stronghold of the chewing industry, Missouri, shows a decrease of 5,000,000 pounds last year, the Fifth Kentucky district shows a decrease of 4,500,000 pounds, New Jersey shows a decrease of nearly 5,000,000 pounds, and the New York district, making the fine cut chewing tobacco, has a decrease of 1,000,000 pounds. The decrease of 57,155,231 pounds in manufactured tobacco from a gross product in 1897-98 of 294,287,941 pounds would seem to be in chewing tobacco rather than in smoking tobacco, although there appears little doubt that while the production of the cheaper kinds of smoking tobaccos has largely increased, the high-priced grades, selling at $1 a pound and upward, have greatly decreased in popularity. Once again the exports tell a different story. Last year there was exported 781,471 pounds of plug tobacco, as against 709,648 pounds in 1897-98, an increase of 73,823 pounds for the year.

Of snuff there is little to be said. It shows a total product for the year of 14,627106 pounds, this being a decrease of 904,045 pounds from last year's record; but this proves nothing, snuff being a product which is aged before sale, and the last two years combined show a gain of pretty large proportions.

Rush for Two-Cent Fares.

The new two-cent tickets on the branch lines of the Chicago General Railway were in great demand when inaugurated in that city the other day. Conductors were provided with big packages of tickets, but disposed of them soon. The cars were crowded with men going to the stock yards in the early morning, and extra tickets were called for by every conductor on the road during the afternoon.

Hundreds of men working at the yards who formerly walked to work readily bought the cheap tickets and evinced a sudden desire to ride. Late in the afternoon the cars could not accommodate all the passengers. The departure is an overwhelming success," said an officer of the Chicago General. "The fare is practically a cent a mile, and the company contemplates the extension of its lines at an early date on a similar schedule."

For Coin Collectors.

The Postoffice Department has received hundreds of letters asking for information about the shipment of $1,400,000 species from Havana to New York on the transport Buford, to pay for Cuban money orders. This money consists of old gold, silver and copper coins. Fully $500,000 of the amount is in rare old gold pieces. Much of it is badly abraded. The coins are of various dates back 200 or 300 years. There are thousands of pennies several hundred years old and all well preserved. Besides abraded coins there are many that are plugged. The Government will not lose anything on them as they were all taken by weight. Many thousands of them will sell for far more than their face value to coin collectors. A considerable proportion of the coin looks as if it had been buried during the war.

The churches of the United States claim 26,000,000 communicants, being about one-third of the entire population. During 187 the growth in church membership was 631,000.

A German railroad now building in Eastern Africa, where the climate is most dangerous to white man, recently offered positions to civil engineers at $1,125 per annum, station masters $1,000 and locomotive drivers $900.

In the north of Brazil, in the districts in the vicinity of the Amazon, are the forests containing the rubber tree, the amount of the product exported last year being valued at $50,000,000, and the supply as yet showing no signs of exhaustion.

In Toledo, Ohio, a city of nearly one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants, the death rate last year, according to the report of Dr. J. T. Woods, Health Officer, was 10.3. In Erie, Pa., during the last three years the rate has varied from 10.3 to 10.94.

After many years of public discussion, St. Petersburg has at last established a fixed tariff for cabs. These cabs are much used, as the street car system is little developed, but they are small and uncomfortable. There are many thousand in use.

Native linen mills in Mexico are holding their own, the imports of linen goods from Great Britain showing a falling off as compared with last year. In the first quarter of 1898 the importation was 409,400 yards; in the first quarter of this year, 383,200 yards.

In 1861 the population of England and Wales was about 20,000,000. In that year 258 divorce suits were entered. Ten years later there were 410 suits among 23,000,000 population, and last year there were 618 out of 26,000,000.

In the course of the last decade the manufacture of cotton goods has become a firmly established industry in Brazil. Vast areas of land are available for the growth of the raw material, labor is cheap, water power is convenient and can be utilized without great expense for driving the necessary machinery.

The British Navy has control of no less than sixty-two docks for its ships, of which sixty-one are of stone and one is of wood. All of the wooden docks with which the United States is provided are in need of extensive repairs, and it is only a question of time when these wooden structures must be replaced with stone.

AN ORDINANCE

to provide for the issuing of temporary notes for sewerage expenses pursuant to Chapter 33, P. L., 1899.

WHEREAS, The Common Council has ascertained and determined, and does hereby ascertain and determine that the expense incurred for the sewerage purposes specified in Chapter 33, P. L., 1899, in full to date, amounts to the sum of $7,654.70, and that it is expedient to provide for such expense by issuing temporary notes or obligations of the City, the same to be renewed from time to time in such manner as to make an equal amount thereof, as nearly as practicable, payable each year during five years from the date on which they shall be authorized:

The inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1.—That to provide for the expense aforesaid, temporary notes or obligations of said City be issued as follows: One note for one-fifth of said amount payable one year from date of issue; one note for one-fifth of said amount drawn for one year from said date, but subject to renewal for one year thereafter; one note for one-fifth of said amount drawn for one year from said date, but subject to renewal for two successive years thereafter; one note for one-fifth of said amount drawn for one year from said date, but subject to renewal for three successive years thereafter, and one note for one-fifth of said amount drawn for one year from said date, but subject to renewal for four successive years thereafter; all of said notes to bear interest at the rate of 4 per centum per annum.

Section 2.—That the Mayor and City Treasurer be, and are hereby authorized to make and execute the said notes, and apply the same for the purpose aforesaid.

PLAINFIELD BRIDE; BRUNSWICK GROOM.

Nuptials of Popular Young Couple Performed Yesterday

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

MISS CORA AMELIA SHEPPARD MADE A HANDSOME BRIDE.

Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Parents, Which Was Elaborately Trimmed for the Occasion—Couple Given a Rousing Farewell on Their Departure by Train for Wedding Tour.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Sheppard, 210 West Fifth street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Cora Amelia Sheppard, was united in marriage to Maurice E. McGrath, of New Brunswick, in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends.

The home was beautifully decorated with smilax and roses. In the hallway and along the balustrade the smilax, intermingled with roses, was twined from one end to the other.

At the hour appointed for the ceremony Miss Gertrude Sharp, of Plainfield, rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin, and at the same time the bridal party appeared in the front parlor through the hallway. The ushers were Frank H. Leitheiser and John Watson, of New Brunswick, who preceded the party, and were followed by the bride leaning on the arm of her father. The bridemaid, Miss Edna Woodruff, of Phillipsburg, came next, and then the groom and his best man, Edgar Sheppard, cousin of the bride. The party formed in a circle in the parlor, where the happy couple were made one by Rev. Charles T. Illick, pastor of the M. E. church, of Lahaska, Pa., and who is a cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a becoming gown of old peach colored broadcloth, trimmed with point lace and white satin, and she carried bridal roses. The bridemaid was gowned in garnet broadcloth, trimmed with white taffeta, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony the congratulations and best wishes of all were extended to Mr. and Mrs. McGrath, and many years of success and happiness were wished them. A wedding supper was then served, and during the early part of the evening the bride and groom departed from the city to enjoy a bridal journey. On their return they will reside in New Brunswick, where the groom has been employed for many years as a clerk in the postoffice. They will go to housekeeping at once in the groom's own residence which has been handsomely furnished.

The presents received by the popular couple are elegant and costly. They include a bedroom suit, a chiffonier, silverware, goldware, banquet lamps, china, and a check for a handsome amount.

The bride is a popular young woman and for a long time was in the employ of Crosby & Hill, where she made many friends.

Guests were present om Brooklyn, New York, Trenton, New Brunswick, Easton, Pa., Phillipsburg and Plainfield.

The bride and groom arranged to leave Plainfield at the North Avenue station at 5:37 o'clock last evening for New York. When they arrived at the station a short time before train time, they were met by a large number of the wedding guests, who appeared with plenty of rice and tin horns. The couple were given such a time as they will never forget. During the festivities the Newark free excursionists arrived at the station and swelled the crowd. They joined in and had lots of fun. The bride and groom took things good naturedly and enjoyed the fun immensely, and when finally they boarded their train they waved their hands to the crowd and departed amid laughter and good feeling.

Somerville's Gala Day.

Thursday, October 19th, Somerville will have a gala day. There will be a firemen's parade and business men's carnival. At least ten fire companies will be in line, and each will have a band. The business men will have about a hundred representative floats in line. In the evening there will be a bicycle carnival with prizes. The railroad companies have reduced the fares, and no doubt a large crowd will be present to witness what promises to be the biggest event in the history of the town and in central New Jersey.

To Commence Their Fall Work.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will commence their fall work at once and a meeting will be held in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and every member is earnestly requested to be present.

COCK-FIGHTING CASE.

Adjourned Again Until Evidence of a Man in Staten Island Can be Obtained.

The celebrated Linden cock fight case of the State Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against Fred Semler, John Semler, Jr., and Frederick Ritter, all of Linden, which was to have been called in Judge E. B. Collin's court yesterday, was again postponed. A new turn has taken place in the case which has now brought the matter into New York State.

Lawyer W. A. Coddington, who represents Sebastian Petrus, the complaining witness, and the State Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has made application to Judge Collins to take the testimony in New York State of Forest Spicer, at whose place the alleged cock-fight took place in Linden on the night of February 19th. Spicer now resides on Staten Island and refuses to come to the State of New Jersey. After Spicer's testimony is procured the case will be called again.

John L. Titus, also of Linden, and one of the defendants in the case, was tried and acquitted. The case is becoming one of the most noted in any Justice's court in the State.

UNBIDDEN GUEST ANGRY.

ABUSED WOMEN AND SOON FELL INTO HANDS OF POLICE.

Called at Home of Former Councilman Baker, but in a Few Hours After Was on His Way to Jail for Sixty Days.

There was an unbidden guest at the home of Former Councilman J. T. Baker, of Stelle avenue, early yesterday afternoon. He had an object in view, however. He was very frank about stating it. He wanted money. When he found there was no cash forthcoming he explained that he would accept food, if it was properly cooked, and there were no funds handy.

This stranger was not pleased at his treatment for he received neither cash nor food. He stated his thoughts very plainly, and his thoughts were of profane nature. As he reviewed the situation he decided that he had been very much abused individual and gave vent to his feelings freely. Then he went away.

Chief Grant was notified by telephone of the visitation. The Chief and Roundsman Frederickson went forth awheel to find the stranger. Frederickson captured him on West Seventh street and took him back to Baker's where he was identified.

The stranger was arraigned before City Judge Runyon later in the afternoon. He admitted that his language had been rather violent and that he had been begging. Plainfield wasn't a bad sort of a town, he said. His name was William Hurdy and he hailed from any old place. He had been out of work for sometime and found it necessary to live.

Judge Runyon was not impressed. As a member of the Advancement Association, he was for getting as many people to come to Plainfield as was possible but Hurdy wasn't the exact type he should choose. Elizabeth might appreciate him better. It was a fine of $25 or sixty days in jail. Hurdy decided to save his money and was escorted to the county jail.

SLOAN PRIZES.

First Won by Brooklyn Youth, Second by New Brunswick Boy.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Oct. 12th—At Kirkpatrick chapel President Scott, of Rutgers College, announced the winners of the Sloan entrance prize examination. The successful students were Charles F. Hammond, of Brooklyn, and Austin W. Scott, of New Brunswick, winning first and second prizes respectively. Eight freshmen entered the competition.

The Sloan prizes consist of a first prize, $100 in cash and scholarship, yielding $300, to apply to term bills; second prize, $50 in cash and scholarship, yielding $300, as in the first prize. The prizes were established seventeen years ago by Samuel Sloan, of New York, a member of the board of trustees.

Realty Changes.

The following transfers of real estate in the borough have been recorded at the county clerk's office in Somerville: Annie Cashin and husband to George Hummer, $1; Alfred University to George R. Schlereth, $1,400; Louis A. Hummer et ux., to John T. Case, $9,000; Helen M. McCutchen and husband to Miney Perrin, $1; Miney Perrin and husband to Helen M. McCutchen, $1.

Midgets Are Home.

Capt. John Laible and his wife, of Dunellen, known as the midgets, have returned from a European tour, and are stopping for a time at their home.

VIEWED ROUTE OF PROPOSED BELT LINE.

Officials of Brunswick Traction Company in Plainfield.

IN FAVOR OF EXTENSION.

WERE GUESTS YESTERDAY OF JAMES E. MARTINE.

Mr. Martine Met General Manager Edwd. H. Radel and Superintendent Rand at Metuchen and Drove Them to Plainfield—Were Much Pleased With Prospect—They Dined at the Kensington Hotel.

Close on the announcement of a a rival gas company for Plainfield comes the prospect of competition for the Plainfield Street Railway Company. The officials of the Brunswick Traction Company looked over the route of their proposed belt line, connecting the terminus at Metuchen with the one at Dunellen, yesterday afternoon, and were much pleased with the situation. There seems no doubt now but that the Brunswick Company will try to enter the city from the south.

General Manager Edward H. Radel and Superintendent Rand, of the Brunswick Company, were met at Metuchen yesterday morning by James Martine, of this city, and driven over the route of the proposed line. In this city they were taken to the old residence on Cedar Brook farm where a lunch was served. After looking over the probable line into the city by Woodland avenue to Randolph road, ending at the time at Park avenue, they they were taken to the Hotel Kensington, where dinner was served to Mr. Martine and his guests.

After dinner the party drove out to New Market and thence to Dunellen where the Brunswick company officials took one of their cars for home. They want to extend their line from Plainfield over to New Market and connect with the Lehigh Valley there and then join their present line at Dunellen. Developments in the advance of the road may be looked for at an early date.

A RELIC OF BYGONE DAYS.

Exempt Firemen's Hose Carriage Has an Interesting History in Connection With It.

The handsome silver hose carriage which the Exempt firemen drew in today's parade is perhaps one of the most costly of any in the country. As is well known the carriage was formerly the property of the Amity Hose Company, of New York, known as No. 38. Some of the members of that company were among the most prominent men in the city in those early days—somewhere back in the sixties. It is said that William M. Tweed, familiarly known as "Boss" Tweed, was an officer of the company. In 1866 or '67 the carriage was on exhibition at the Crystal Palace, New York, and was with difficulty rescued from that famous place of amusement at the time of the great fire. It was afterwards bought by the Alert Hose Company and later passed to the control of the Exempts, by whom it is now owned. While there are several very handsome hose carriages owned by fire departments in New York State and also in Pennsylvania, there is possibly none that originally cost as much as did this one. But this hose carriage, like others of its kind has long since passed out of date. They are considered more ornamental than useful and are so regarded by the up-to-date fireman of today. With the old hand engine and bucket brigade they have been relegated to a back seat and are only to be upon rare occasions when volunteer fire departments put on their best bib and tucker and make their annual parades. But what memories they revive! Every wheel and spoke is dear to the heart of the old time red shirt fire laddie. Fond recollections of other days are sacredly cherished by all firemen who boasts of the fact that he once "ran wid de machine."

PLIGHTED THEIR TROTH.

MARRIAGE OF MISS BERTHA GILES AND CHARLES JOHNSON.

Ceremony Permormed at the Home of the Bride's Sister in New Market—Making Their Pledge With a Ring.

An unique and pretty feature of the ceremony was introduced when the bridal party entered the room. Before taking their places beneath a handsome arch composed of flowers and evergreens, Messrs. Russell and Mefford Giles, brothers of the bride, encircled the party with an evergreen wreath and around which the assembled guests stood to witness the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jeptha D. Runyon. The happy couple plighted their troth with a wedding ring. Fred VanLew, of Plainfield, was best man and Miss Abben Giles, cousin of the bride, was the bridesmaid.

The marriage of Miss Bertha, the accomplished daughter of Nelson B. Giles, of New Market, and Charles Johnson, of Plainfield, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William Giles. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the young couple. Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church, of New Market, officiated.

The parlors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Giles were handsomely decorated with potted plants and flowers. The bride was dressed in a gray traveling costume and looked very pretty. After congratulations had been extended a sumptuous wedding supper followed. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were then driven to the railroad station where they took the train for a short wedding tour, which will include a trip to Washington, D. C. Upon their return they will live at the home of the groom's parents in this city. A number of handsome presents were received by the happy couple.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. Defendor, Newark; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Runyon, Jersey City; Mefford Runyon, Stelton; Prof. Frank Runyon, Hamilton, N. Y.; Chas. Runyon, Gertrude Runyon, Stelton; Mrs. J. B. Giles, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Giles and family, New Market; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Harris, Bound Brook; Mrs. Isaac Giles and family, Mefford Giles, Lena Myers, Russell Giles, Mr. and Mrs. VanLew, Plainfield; Mrs. Bailey and daughter, Somerville; the Misses Lulu and Edna Boice, New Brunswick; Willard Randolph, Brookside; Mrs. Calhoon, Miss Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Giles, New Market.

NO RACE TODAY.

Fog and Lack of Wind Again Prevent Yacht Race—Another Attempt to Be Made Tomorrow.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 12—Fog and lack of wind have again conspired to prevent the holding of the first of the international yacht races.

The challenger and the cup-defender laid at anchor inside the Hook during the morning nearly hidden by the fog. There was no wind at all although the weather bureau men promised some for the afternoon.

There was not the slightest chance of the weather becoming clear in time so at 12:25 the race officials called the race off for today. Another attempt to hold it will be made tomorrow.

TO RESIDE WHERE WEDDED.

Nuptials of Miss Hulda E. Erckson and Harold Jackson Performed in Their Furnished Flat.

A home wedding was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Hulda M. Erckson and Harold Jackson, both of the borough, were married in the furnished flat on Somerset street to be occupied by the bride and groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride was gowned in white, and was attended by her sister, Miss Selma Erckson, who wore a gown of pale blue silk. The best man was Frazee C. Putnam, of this city.

After the wedding supper was served. The rest of the evening was passed in a pleasant social manner. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson received a great number of useful and handsome presents, all of which will fill a place in their new home.

The groom is an employe at the Pond Tool Works.

Elizabeth Music Club Disbands.

The Elizabeth Music Club, after a successful career of eight years, has disbanded. An effort may be made to reorganize the society as a purely vocal club.

PUBLIC HEARING FOR CHEAPER GAS.

All Sides Will Have a Chance to Be Heard.

OCTOBER 26th IS THE DATE.

MANY WILL PROBABLY WANT TO TALK ON THE SUBJECT.

The Street Committee of the Common Council Will Not Take the Responsibility of Recommending Action on the Franchise, But Will Leave the Matter to the Whole of the Council.

The citizens of Plainfield and the advocates of the old and new gas companies will have an opportunity on the evening of Thursday, October 26th, to express their sentiments regarding the franchise that the People's Gas Company wants from the Common Council. The street committee, to which the application for a franchise was referred, has set a public hearing for that day.

The advent of a competing gas company has presented a very important question for the Council to settle and the members of the city legislative body are quite anxious for a general expression of opinion before any action is taken on the subject.

The prospect of lower rates for gas is something that interests every householder in the city and so the street committee hopes for a general expression of opinion from many representative citizens. There will undoubtedly be many to be heard on that occasion and it will be necessary to adjourn the hearing several times, perhaps. The committee wants everybody to be heard, however, and plenty of opportunity will be given.

HORSE ON TOP OF CYCLIST.

Charles Bonny Was in a Dangerous Predicament for a Few Minutes This Morning.

Charles Bonny feels that he has had all the excitement coming to him for awhile. Bonny is a colored man, living at 326 East Sixth street. He was riding his wheel along Park avenue near the railroad bridge this morning when it all happened.

Bonny was on the right side of the road going toward Front street when he saw a hack approaching with the horse on a trot. It was driven by Harry Roberts. Roberts pulled his horse up to the curb suddenly to allow his passenger to alight and did not notice Bonny. The first thing Bonny knew he and the horse were pretty well mixed up.

Bonny went down with wheel and horse on top of him. He was pinned under the horse and could not move until the horse was gotten on its feet again. Bonny was bruised and slightly cut but did not receive any serious injuries. His wheel, however, was badly wrecked and was taken to a neighboring repair shop.

ELDERS AND DEACONS.

Trinity Reformed Church Officers Chosen After Prayer Meeting.

The annual election for elders and deacons of Trinity Reformed church occurred last evening after the prayer meeting. O. W. Dunham was appointed chairman and H. W. Marshall clerk of the meeting. A nominating committee from the consistory through the chairman, W. F. Oliver, presented the names of the present elders and deacons for re-election, viz: Elders—F. E. Smith, H. J. Martin and A. L. Force; deacons—E. E. Anthony, C. M. Thorpe and F. C. Adams, and they were thereupon elected.

CITY NURSE RESIGNS.

Miss Octavia Setzer Finds That There is Not Work Enough Here.

Miss Octavia Setzer, the city nurse of the City Union of King's Daughters, has tendered her resignation to take effect Nov. 1st. The King's Daughters will hereafter engage a nurse when the needs for one are apparent.

The reason assigned by Miss Setzer for severing her relations with the City Union of King's Daughters is that there is not sufficient work to warrant her continuing her labors with that organization. Miss Setzer expects to leave the city.

Invitations Out.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Mary B. Gillies to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mabel Alce, to Nelson VanWinkle. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Avenue church, Wednesday afternoon, October 25th, at 5:30 o'clock.

To Receive State Councilor.

This evening Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will receive a visit from State Councilor Hansel, of Newark, also from a delegation from the council at Mt. Bethel. A full attendance of members is desired.

BUNDY'S FINE PRESENCE.

It Induced a Bookkeeper to Cash a Bad Check—The Doctor Arrested.

Detective Koeler, of the Newark police headquarters, went to Raritan Tuesday and arrested Dr. S. E. Bundy, formerly of Plainfield. Bundy was wanted for passing a check which was no good on Fergg's brewery in New-Newark several months ago.

Dr. Bundy has a good presence, and when he was short of cash went to the brewery, presented a check for $94 60 on a bank that didn't exist, and got the cash. Bookkeeper Schell gave him the money because he was impressed by his appearance, and found out too late that Dr. Bundy had made the check payable on a bank that was worth as much as a fog bank or sand-bank.

Dr. Bundy, who is said to have a long list of victims, gave bail before Justice of the Peace Daly in the place where he was arrested. The technical charge against him is that he obtained money under false pretenses.

Officer McCarthy, of this city, assisted in making the arrest by orders from Chief Grant, who had been asked by the Newark authorities to assist in locating the doctor. Bundy is also wanted in Bayonne for a similar offence.

PROPOSED BY THE PORT

NEW METHOD FOR REPRESENTATION ON COUNTY COMMITTEE.

Will Be Acted On By County Committee At a Meeting To Be Held Tomorrow Evening At Elizabeth.

The Republican county executive committee will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at Elizabeth. The meeting will be preceded by a meeting of the sub-committee which was appointed to draw up a constitution to include the proposed amendments. The report of the sub-committee will be made to the county committee at the meeting of the latter.

The constitution, as drawn up by the sub committee, will provide that there will be one member of the county committee from each election district, but no ward or township shall have less than two members of the county committee. Under the present ruling there is two members of the county committee from each ward and township, regardless of the number of election districts included.

This amendment was introduced by John E. Barr, of Elizabethport. It affects the "'Port" in that it gives that part of the county seat several more representatives in the county committee. Plainfield would have one more member under the new ruling than under the old.

STRUCK HIS HEAD HARD.

Straightened Up Standing on a Chair and Came in Contact With Gas Jet.

Herman Westphal, clerk at John Powers' drug store on Somerset street, met with a painful accident a few evenings ago that might have proved more serious. In performing a duty he was obliged to step on a chair to reach for an article, and in straightening up his head came in contact with a gas jet, the sharp point of which struck his head with great force.

The blow stunned Mr. Westphal and he fell to the floor, where he laid for some time in a semi conscious condition. Shortly afterward he was found by Mr. Powers, who sent his clerk to his home on Craig place. He was detained at home for a short time, and is now back to work. His head is still very sore, but no serious results are anticipated.

Jersey at the National Capital.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, October 12.—Representative Gardner has been placed on the sub-committee of the Industrial Commission, whose business it is to visit California and the other Pacific Coast States in November, and report conditions to the full Commission.

Attended Church Convention.

A large number of woman from the Presbyterian churches of this city went to Elizabeth today to attend the annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, which is being held in the Westminster church.

No Tidings of Stolen Horse.

As yet no tidings have reached David C. Smalley concerning his stolen horse and wagon, but he has not given up hope of finding it. Every effort is being made to locate it and he feels sure that he will recover the rig.

Smoker to Follow Business

A meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., will be held this evening. Several applications for membership will be acted upon and the business session will be followed by a smoker.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN ARE NOW ON REVIEW.

Everything Favorable for the Celebration in the Borough.

DECORATIONS TO BE SEEN.

THE MORNING DEVOTED TO RECEIVING THE VISITORS.

The Weather is Perfect for the Success of the Parade, Which Started at 2:30 O'clock—Exhibition Drill by Brunswick Company at the Conclusion of March—Some Other Interesting Details.

Bright and early this morning the members of Warren Engine Company and West End Hose Company, of the borough, were stirring about and preparing to receive their fellow firemen from various surrounding towns and cities. The clear weather gave every evidence of a beautiful day. There was a woeful lack of decorations yesterday, but this morning every borough resident hustled, and by noon nearly every house presented an attractive sight with pretty decorations. The borough firemen appeared for the first time in their new uniforms and their appearance was an occasion for favorable comment on the part of all. The committee in charge of the festivities completed all arrangements last evening.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the famous "Phœnix" engine of the New Brunswick department arrived in charge of Driver George Jacques, who drove the entire distance. The apparatus was stalled at Dreyer's Hotel sheds. A little later the hose carriage of Mercer Engine Company, of Princeton, arrived and was stalled at that same place. During the morning there the companies from Princeton, with Liberty band; New Brunswick, with Goodwill band; Bayonne, with apparatus and band, arrived.

A great deal of interest was centred in the company from New Brunswick, which will give a prize drill. The Mercer Company was accompanied by Mayor E. M. Opdyke, of Princeton, and Chief of Department Gill, with the assistant chiefs and other dignitaries. Most of the dignitaries arrived toward noon and were received by the committee on reception and taken care of by various ones appointed for that purpose.

A novel feature of the decorations was arranged by the committee. It was in the form of streamers across the street in front of the homes of the following persons: Mayor N. B. Smalley, Julius J. Stahl, Chief George H. Fairchild, B. F. Conover, William H. VanWinkle, Frank Shuck, Andrew Carney, Thomas Doud, D. C. Allen and J. A. Goodwin. Each streamer was different in that it extended a welcome to each company in line, mentioning each one.

Warren Engine Company house was elaborately decorated by the members. A large life-size painting of a fireman rescuing a baby at a fire was the prominent central figure, and was the work of William Stahl. Surrounding it is a display of American flags, and a row of incandescent electric lights that will be illuminated this evening. Over the entire line of march the decorations are more or less elaborate, and from one small flag to an abundance of bunting, flags, etc., there is the one purpose evidenced, welcome to the firemen.

In the business part of this city the merchants have caught the gala spirit and decorated elaborately. All of the stores are displaying decorations of more or less beauty.

Most of the firemen from out of town were escorted by guests, and many of them brought their families with them. Country folks from near and far rolled into the borough early this morning in all sorts of wagons, and today is surely a gala day for the borough.

By 1:30 o'clock this afternoon all of the visiting firemen had arrived and by 2 o'clock the various companies were forming in line, and about a half hour later there were four taps of the borough fire bell sounded and the procession moved and proceeded, to cover the line of march as already published. Along the various streets there were crowds of people, and as the paraders passed along they were cheered heartily by the admiring crowd. The fine martial music by both band and drum corp elicited the greatest enthusiasm on the part of all.

The men on duty at the Plainfield fire department headquarters on East Second street were busy all the morning preparing the decorations. A multitude of flags cover the front of the building and are arranged in artistic fashion.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

General Schwan and His Staff Are Ambushed By the Filipinos.

RESISTED DESPERATELY.

Several Volleys Are Poured on Them By the Enemy Concealed in Their Trenches.

American Forces Succeed in Dislodging the Filipinos and Put Them to Flight—Mules Collapse on Account of the Muddy Condition of the Country.

Manila, Oct. 12.—General Schwan's column, having accomplished its purpose of punishing the natives, is returning from San Francisco de Malabon, with artillery and the transportation service.

The Thirteenth infantry lost two officers—Captain Marion B. Safford and Captain Woodbridge Geary, both battalion commanders.

San Francisco de Malabon, Oct. 12.—Gen. Schwan's column, approaching this town, marched through a country so muddy that all the mules collapsed. The general occupied the town without fighting, the natives retreating under cover of the creek beds. Later, reconnoitering in force southward the United States soldiers discovered the trenches whence hidden Filipinos poured several volleys on the general and his staff. The enemy resisted stubbornly. The reconnoiterers, consisting of Capt. Geary's battalion of the Thirteenth Regiment and two guns of Riley's Battery, drove the natives two miles, fighting all the way. They found a field piece and several wounded and sick Filipinos flying red flags. They captured twenty-five Filipinos, including three officers. Many Filipino dead were strewn along the fields. The Americans' total loss was one officer and seven men wounded.

Gen. Schwan's main column started along a very bad road on the left bank of the river, flankers being thrown far out and Major Budd's battalion on the right bank covering the flank, rendering the fire from the native trenches ineffective. Major Budd returned to Santa Cruz before dark. The natives seem to be generally supporters of the insurrection, but few have arms. There was much firing at American soldiers from the natives' huts.

Funston is Popular.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 12.—Upon the receipt of the bulletin announcing the arrival of Gen. Funston and the Twentieth Kansas at San Francisco, Topeka turned into a bedlam. The whistles of all the manufacturing institutions began to screech, and every church bell in the city rang out the glad tidings. The streets were soon filled with persons, and there was great rejoicing. Reports of similar demonstrations came from Lawrence, Ottawa, Hutchinson and other Kansas towns.

His Opinion of Filipinos.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Gen. Funston, when asked what he thought of the Filipinos, said:

"They have some pretty good fighters there and some pretty good shots, but the majority of them are poor."

He added that while some of the Filipinos were intelligent, he did not think they were capable of self-government.

Discussion Leads to Murder.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—William E. Huesman, who is under indictment for killing James Minor last summer, probably fatally cut Dave Marshall, a tinner, at Twelfth and Kentucky streets, Wednesday. The men were talking of the Minor tragedy when the quarrel leading to the cutting arose. Huesman threw his adversary to the floor and drew a knife across his throat, severing the wind pipe. Huesman made his escape.

Death Roll in Cuba.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Gen. Brooke, at Havana, has made the following death report:

"Columbia Barracks, Quemados, Private George Godfrey, B, Eighth Infantry, died 9th, gangrenous dysentery; Puerto Principe, William Bartlett, E, Eighth Cavalry, died 9th, of yellow fever."

Taggart is Re-elected.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—Returns show that Thomas Taggart has been re-elected mayor by a plurality of from 200 to 300 votes. Charles A. Bookwalter, the Republican candidate, announces that he will contest Taggart's election on the ground of fraud. The election of the council and other city officials is still in doubt.

Will Represent British Interests.

London, Oct. 12.—The Foreign Office confirms the report from Washington that Great Britain has asked the United States Government to empower the United States Consular authorities in the Transvaal to represent British interests there during the hostilities.

Young Boy Dragged to Death.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—Rudy Reinsperg, 11 years of age, was riding on Floyd street, when his horse took fright. The lad was thrown and the reins became entangled with his feet. He was dragged three squares, and when picked up was dead.

Barkentine Uncle John Wrecked.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 12.—The barkentine Uncle John, bound from Honolulu to Puget Sound, went ashore on the west coast of Vancouver Island during a gale and is a total loss. The Uncle John left Honolulu on Sept. 18.

Forest Fires Extinguished.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—The forest fire which has raged for two days on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais has been extinguished by a timely rain.

WANTS TO BORROW CASH.

United States of Colombia Would Like About $14,000,000.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The United States of Colombia want to borrow three million pounds ($14,999,500) with which to replace its paper currency with silver.

"As a guaranty for this loan," writes Minister Hart from Bogota to the State Department, "the Government offers to pledge rental of the emerald mines of Muzo and Cosceuz, the product of the match monopoly, the annual sums due from the Panama Railroad Company to the Republic and the interest of the Republic in the Panama Canal. By another decree the re-establishment of a national bank is authorized, the shares of the bank to be offered to the public. The Government has other resources which, it is believed, it would put in pledge if necessary to secure this loan, namely, the customs receipts, the valuable salt mines (the production and sale of salt being a Government monopoly) and the Sabana Railroad, twenty-four miles of well-equipped railroad between Facatativa and Bogota.

Montpelier Entertains Dewey.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 12.—It was thought that a large crowd greeted Admiral Dewey upon his arrival here, but it was nothing to be compared with the multitude which turned out to-day to do him honor in his native town. It is a holiday in all that the word implies and it is doubtful if there has ever been so many people in Montpelier before in any one day. All business places are handsomely decorated for the occasion. The team that Dr. Webb brought along in the private car drew the carriage in which Admiral Dewey rode at the head of the monster parade. The festivities from start to finish were full of patriotism and good feeling.

Put Bartender in the Icebox.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 12.—Three robbers, heavily armed, drove up to the saloon of Monahan & Loftus, No. 50 Twelfth street, had a social time with the bartender, Michael Tully, and ended their visit by flourishing revolvers and marching the bartender into the icebox. There he was held prisoner while the thieves looted the cash-drawer, securing $42, and selected the best boxes of cigars from the case. They then drove away in a cab. Later the cabman and one of the robbers were arrested. Tully was a prisoner in the icebox for nearly an hour, and was almost frozen when released.

Bryan is Well Again.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Oct. 12.—Colonel W. J. Bryan is all right again and says he has fully recovered from his cold. He is fulfilling all his engagements. He arrived here from Webster City en route to Des Moines. He was one of a party in charge of G. A. Huffman, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. To all inquirers he observed in a joking way that he was all right.

Convicted the Angel Dancer.

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 12.—Huntsman T. Mnason, leader of the "angel dancers" on their so-called "Lord's Farm," has been convicted of keeping a disorderly house. In October, 1893, he was sent to prison for a year for a similar offence. Garry Storms, John McClintock, alias "John the Baptist," and Mary Storms, arraigned with Mnason, were acquitted.

State Commerce Convention.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Delegates to the State Commerce Convention assembled here. The session opened with an address by A. Abrams of New York upon the negligence of the state in the support of her commerce. He suggested that a great exposition should be held in New York City and the convention was asked to petition the legislature to give support to such an exposition.

Youthful Murderer Confesses.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Irving E. Shaw, aged 16 years was brought to the Saratoga county jail in Ballston Spa by Coroner McCarty, to whom Shaw confessed that he killed Jesse Blanch while both were hunting Monday. Blanch was of the same age as Shaw. They resided in Providence, a town in the western part of the county.

Burglars Wreck a Bank.

Monticello, Ind., Oct. 12.—The Reynolds Bank, at Reynolds, a village near here, was looted by robbers. The safe was blown up by dynamite, and a sum of money variously estimated at from $3,000 to $10,000 secured. The explosion demolished the frame building in which the bank was located. The robbers escaped.

California is Prosperous.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—According to estimates made by experts the farmers of California will receive about $15,000,000 this season for such products of their orchards and vineyards as are canned or dried. That is about $3,500,000 more than the total received last year.

Gas Stock Increased.

Albany, Oct. 12.—The Buffalo Gas Company, formed by the consolidation of the Buffalo City Gas Company and Buffalo Gas Light Company, filed papers with the secretary of state, which shows an increase of capital stock from $8,000,000 to $9,000,000.

Judge Borrows $800,000.

New York, Oct. 12.—Judge, the comic weekly, has borrowed $800,000 from the Knickerbocker Trust Company at 4½ per cent. The loan is payable in ten, twelve and fifteen years in gold.

American Cutter Arrested.

London, Oct. 12.—A telegram from Skibbereen, County Cork, Ireland, says an American fishing cutter has been arrested for fishing inside the limit off that port.

Doctor's Child Poisoned.

West Union, Ohio, Oct. 12.—The fourteen-months-old child of Dr. J. O. Wickerham, of Youngsville, swallowed a quantity of bicromide of mercury and is dead as a result.

The good deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills
Are spreading o'er the city.
Lifting burdens from aching backs,
Curing the pains of kidney ills.
Read the proof in a Plainfield man's words:

Mr. Jepp Zensen, of 728 W. Front street, Pattern maker by trade, says: "For a year I had symtoms of kidney trouble. A sort of grinding pain across my back at times extended up to my shoulders and there was a lameness over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills I cannot do otherwise than endorse them."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

PULPIT RAISES ITS VOICE

Ministers Will Take a Hand Against the Seating of Congressman Roberts

WILL FIGHT POLYGAMY.

Church Congregations Throughout the Country Will Listen to Sermons on This Subject.

Salt Lake City Preacher Starts the Movement Against the Congressman-Elect From Utah—Last Sunday in October to Be Devoted to the Matter.

New York, Oct. 12.—Ministers in many churches of New York and of the entire country will devote a sermon on the last Sunday of October to the fight being waged against the admission to Congress of Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah.

Secretary William R. Campbell, under direction of the Ministerial Association, of Salt Lake City, sent requests for the observance of that date, with special sermons, which requests have been received by the New York ministers.

John B. Devins, editor of the New York Observer, said: "I was with Mr. Campbell on my vacation this summer, and I found that he is doing a great work in Utah. While time has not yet elapsed for action upon the request, as it arrived only Wednesday, I have no doubt the suggestion will be widely followed. There is a great deal of feeling all over the country on this Roberts matter, which will make the ministers quite ready to co-operate. The leadership of Miss Helen M. Gould in a woman's movement has greatly added to the interest. Hardly any other woman in the country now could command more attention."

This is the note sent out by Mr. Campbell:

"My Dear Brother—The Salt Lake Ministerial Association, including in its membership the Methodist, Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian, Episcopalian and Lutheran ministers of Salt Lake City and vicinity, hereby sends greeting to all Christian ministers of every name throughout our land.

"Earnestly protesting against the threatened perpetuation of the practice of polygamy in Utah, and in behalf of the Christian home and the fair name of our beloved land we ask you, if you can consistently do so, to preach a sermon in defense of the Christian home on the last Sabbath of October, 1899, and to see that a general citizens' mass meeting is held in each county the following week to arouse public sentiment in favor of the expulsion of 'Elder' Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah, from the House of Representatives, and in favor of a constitutional amendment prohibiting polygamy and polygamous cohabitation in every State and Territory of our Union."

Secretary Campbell has also just issued this statement:

"It is frequently stated in the public prints that the fight which is being made against Mr. Roberts is prompted by partisan motives. The utter falsity of this charge becomes apparent when we remember that his predecessor belonged to the same political party that Mr. Roberts does, and that no fight was ever made to have him expelled from the House. Such a thing was not even thought of in connection with Mr. King.

"Moreover, the present political conditions in this State clearly indicate that if Mr. Roberts is expelled the man who is elected to fill the vacancy will also be a member of the same party. Hence, neither party has anything to gain or to lose in numerical strength in the present House by the expulsion of Mr. Roberts; but both would gain in prestige before the country and before the whole civilized world by doing their full part in promptly vindicating the historic position of the American Congress in its attitude toward polygamy, the arch-enemy of the home and the greatest foe to our civilization.

"The non-partisanship of this movement is further evidenced by the fact that a large percentage, if not the majority, of its staunchest supporters belong to the Democratic party to which Mr. Roberts professes to belong. These men strongly resent the insult offered to the party of Jefferson and Jackson by the proposition that it shall become the champion of the polygamist; and well they may, for as every intelligent person knows there is nothing in this country which is more anti-Democratic or anti-Republican, than a polygamous aristocracy, such as Mr. Roberts is seeking to have established upon our American soil.

"Again, it is frequently stated that we are fighting Mr. Roberts because he is a Mormon, that our campaign is therefore a species of religious persecution. The falsity of this charge is evident from the fact that Mr. King, Mr. Robert's predecessor, was also a Mormon and a high officer in the said church, the same as Mr. Roberts, though no fight of this kind was ever made upon him, because he respected the laws and the covenants made by his people in order to secure amnesty and Statehood.

"In a crisis like this the effort to degrade the campaign into a partisan squabble will utterly fail. The American people are a true and historic people. In the face of a deadly foe, all sections, creeds and parties will rally as one man to the defense of their cherished institutions. This campaign will demonstrate that this holds good not only in the presence of a foreign foe, but also when the foe springs up in our midst, especially when the attack is made upon the home, which, to every true American, is the dearest institution on earth."

Commercial Congress Opens.

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—Nearly all of the delegates to the International Commercial Congress, which is opened today in the auditorium of the main building of the National Export Exposition, have arrived. Representatives of forty nations and of about 300 of the principal chambers of commerce are here.

TALKED TO THE VETERANS

President McKinley Addresses the Blue and the Gray.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 12.—President McKinley and members of his cabinet came from Chicago to attend the national reunion of the Blue and the Gray. Ten thousand veterans and visitors thronged about the railroad station and those in gray vied with the veterans in blue in a tremendous ovation when the presidential party arrived.

Owing to the short stay of the President the party was at once escorted by the Cleveland Grays and reception committee to the fair grounds, where President McKinley delivered an address. He said:

"It gives me very great pleasure to participate with you, men of the North and men of the South, in this glad reunion of hearts. We are already unified, the peace which Grant and Lee made at Appomattox has kept, not by law or restraint, but by love and fraternal regard. The Union to-day rests not on force which may fail, but rests in the hearts of the people, a union that never can be severed.

"If I have been permitted in the slightest degree to help in the work of reconciliation and unification, I will esteem it the greatest honor of my life. When I made the call for troops to prosecute the Spanish war, men from the north and south, without regard to political belief or religious creed, rallied to the standard of the Union. The best men of the South came, the sons of old Confederate soldiers. The best of the North came, the sons of the old members of the Grand Army of the Republic. All men together in heart and hand to follow the flag of their country wherever it might lead. We have been reconciled: more than reconciled, for our reconciliation has been baptized in the best blood of both sections of our beloved country. If a northern soldier put the flag up at Santiago, a southern soldier, the gallant Brumby of Georgia put it up over Manila. It rests with us to look to the future, putting the past behind us. And this government relies upon the patriotism of the country, North and South, to stand by the purposes of the government and follow in the pathway of its destiny.

"I am glad to meet and greet you: we come together, not as we came a third of a century ago, with arms in our hands, but we come with love for each in our hearts."

Democrats Declare for Bryan.

New York, Oct. 12.—By a vote of 34 to 14 the Democratic State Committee adopted resolutions indorsing William Jennings Bryan for the Presidential nomination by the next national convention of the party. The resolution was offered to the committee by Richard Croker, and was opposed vehemently by David B. Hill. It was not this expression of sympathy for Mr. Bryan's illness that aroused Mr. Hill's opposition. It was Mr. Croker's definition of him as "the natural and approved leader of the Democratic party in the nation" that aroused Mr. Hill. But the resolution was carried, despite Mr. Hill's protest.

Think Girl Has Suicided.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 12.—It is believed that Annie Neuberth, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Philip Neuberth, who has been missing from her home since Sunday, has committed suicide. A hat worn by the girl at the time she left home has been found on the banks of Hollow Pond. It was stated by the police that the girl did not get along well with her relatives.

Nearly Devoured by a Hog.

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 12.—While feeding his stock Moses Massengale accidentally stepped upon a small pig, which began squealing. The mother, a very large animal, threw Massengale to the ground, and he was badly injured before the infuriated beast could be driven away. He will die.

Reorganizing Carnegie Company.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The reorganization of the Carnegie Steel Company has not been abandoned. It is now believed that at the beginning of the year renewed efforts are to be made to combine the company with certain other interests by means of further subscription.

Two More Cases of Smallpox.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Two more suspected cases of small-pox have broken out in the Thirty-first Volunteers at Angel Island. The names are not made public. The quarantine which was to have been raised will be preserved until it is discovered whether the cases are genuine.

Brooding Caused His Suicide.

Pekin, Ill., Oct. 12.—William Dillon, a bachelor farmer, committed suicide near here by drowning himself in an old well. Allen Leonard, at whose home he lived, also committed suicide last May. Brooding over the death is assigned as the reason for Dillon's rash deed.

President Wilson Not Ill.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 12.—The report emanating from West Virginia that Hon. William L. Wilson, President of Washington and Lee University, is dangerously ill is unfounded. He is actively attending his duties as President of the university.

Fire in a Louisiana Town.

New Iberia, La., Oct. 12.—Fire, which started in Estorage's drug store from the explosion of a lamp, destroyed a large part of the business section of this town. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

Great-Grand-Parents Married.

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 12.—James E. Martin, aged 84, and Mrs. Mary Annacost, aged 80, were married here on Wednesday. Both have great-grandchildren.

Situation in Venezuela.

Caracas, Venezuela, Oct. 12.—The Peace Party is gaining ground. The Government troops have been ordered to retreat on La Vistoria.

Not to Bar Consumptives.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—The State Board of Health has decided not to quarantine California against the consumptives of other states.

If you have any to be extracted remember you will not be hurt in the slightest. My local anesthetic is the best that can be obtained and is not known to the other dentists in this city. Gas strictly fresh administered by an expert if you want that. If you need artificial teeth you may rest assured that the greatest care will be exercised in selecting shape and color to harmonize with the face, also to restore the features to their natural expression and fullness. This is most important.

An athletic Philadelphian named Paul Harmon, a young man of exemplary habits, is a clever boxer, a fine wrestler and has won several medals in arenic sports. Curiously, however, although his muscular system has always seemed to be in splendid condition, his experiences in training have sometimes resulted in ill health, possibly because he has not paid the attention to diet that he should. As a consequence, he at one time became a severe sufferer from dyspepsia and his blood appeared to have become impure. It was a friend, who was also an athlete, who first directed his attention to Ripans Tabules. He made trial of them and has continued to use them ever since, and says of them: "I can sincerely recommend Ripans Tabules to those who suffer from any disturbance of the stomach, liver or from any nervous disorder which proceeds from these annoying troubles. They helped me wonderfully and I have always found that a single one gives relief."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

YOUNG WOMAN IS SUED.

Frank W. Ludman Asks for Damages to the Amount of $25,000.

New York, Oct. 12.—Suit for $25,000 damages for slander has been commenced in the Supreme Court by Frank W. Ludman, who is in business at No. 19 Whitehall street, against Miss Maud Hewitt, of West Eighty-sixth street, and a daughter of Francis Hewitt, a sugar broker at No. 102 Wall street. Both persons to the suit are young and socially conspicuous.

Miss Hewitt and Mr. Ludman have been long acquainted, and until recently are said to have been very good friends. Mr. Ludman is head of the firm of Ludman & Co., in Whitehall street, and alleges that he has suffered grievous injury by reason of statements circulated about him.

Counsel for the young woman and her family declare that there is absolutely no basis for the suit.

Bitten By a Rat.

New York, Oct. 12.—Seven-year-old Katie Shaughnessey, daughter of John Shaughnessey, of 105 Clermont avenue, Brooklyn, is slowly recovering from a terrible encounter with a huge rat. For a time, the life of the little girl, whose arms, head and body were almost covered with bites and scratches, was despaired of, but physicians, by unremitting care, forestalled bloodpoisoning, and she is now slowly recovering. Katie sleeps with her younger sister, Annie, in a room adjoining that of her father and mother. She was awakened to find a large house rat on the bed. The child sat up quickly and at the same instant the rat made a jump for her sister's face. Katie grabbed it around the body, but it wriggled free and, turning, bit her on the hand. She shook it off and it jumped at her. Then followed a struggle, in which the child's face and body were scratched with its sharp claws. Katie did not cry out, she says, for fear it would attack Annie again. But at last, finding herself growing weaker, she screamed. Her parents heard it and rushed in, only to see the huge rodent jump from the bed and disappear down a hole.

New York's Murder Mystery.

New York, Oct. 12.—No crime in recent years has aroused so much public interest as the murder of the young woman whose body was mutilated and scattered, parts thrown in the streets and parts in the river. The head, arms and legs below the knees are still missing. The police are bending their energies to discover the head, for until they find it there is little hope of identifying the dead woman.

Belief that the murdered woman may be Mrs. Gertrude Billings, wife of a Columbus avenue saloon-keeper, is strengthened. Her description tallies closely with the mutilated remains in the Morgue. Doctors say the lungs of the murdered woman show that she at one time had been very ill with pneumonia. Mrs. Billings had pneumonia a year ago.

Another missing woman whose disappearance the police are closely investigating is Mrs. Jennie Reynolds, a millinery buyer and wife of a well-to-do builder, with whom she did not live. She has been missing more than a week from her home, 208 West Nineteenth street.

Woman's Skull Fractured.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Joseph Sutton, the wife of a well-known resident of this place, was the victim of an assault. A man known as Tont Clink attacked her with a club and fractured her skull. Mrs. Sutton was removed to the hospital in an unconscious condition. Clink escaped across the meadows. Mrs. Sutton was alone when she was attacked. The motive of the assault has not yet been explained as Mrs. Sutton is at present unable to make a statement.

Has Dug His Own Grave.

Pineville, Ky., Oct. 12.—On Philips Fork Creek, in Leslie County, 20 miles from here, Ephraim Helton, an old soldier, has dug his own grave in a cave 50 feet from the outer surface. He did this by entering and cutting the vault in a rock inside the cave. He has measured it with his own body, and made it a perfect fit. He has cut his own tombstone, will build his own coffin and buy his burial clothes, so that no one may be put to any trouble in burying him.

Near Death in Submarine Boat.

Greenport, L. I., Oct. 12.—In a trial trip of the Holland submarine torpedo boat yesterday afternoon, the crew became suffocated by gas when the craft was under water and all came near losing their lives. As it was they were unconscious when taken out and were revived with much difficulty.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 12.—The stock market was nervous. The appearance of weakness for a time predominated, although a few prominent issues showed advances. Stock did not change hands with any rapidity nor in large lots. Money was abundant. The feeling with a majority was decidedly bullish, despite the war news from Africa.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Closing prices for spot: Wheat 70¼, corn 31½, oats 22⅞, pork 8.20, lard 5.37, ribs 5.08.

BOER FORCES MOBILIZED.

Two Armies Reported to Be Marching on the British Forces in Natal.

ALL ARE WELL ARMED.

Ten Thousand Boers at Laing's Nek Equipped With Mountain Quick-Firing Guns.

An Attack on Ladysmith Is Feared When Boers and Free State Columns Unite—Nearly 8,000 British Troops Are Encamped at This Particular Station.

London, Oct. 12.—It is rumored that Conyngham Greene, the British Diplomatic Agent at Pretoria, has been assassinated there.

The report, however, is unconfirmed and is discredited at the Colonial office.

A dispatch from Newcastle, Natal, says that at a meeting held there in the interest of peace a crowd of patriots invaded the hall, stormed the platform and moved and carried a resolution to support the Government in the war. The police were called upon to restore order and finally cleared the hall.

The military authorities in South Africa have declared a censorship over all telegrams, in order to prevent information regarding British movements from reaching the Boers.

The Government has chartered five more large steamers for the South African service.

Marching on British Forces.

London, Oct. 12.—Two armies are now marching on the British forces in Natal, according to cablegrams received here.

Troops from the Orange Free State marched across the border near Newcatle. The Boer army massed in the vicinity of Laing's Nek advanced at the same time.

Ten thousand troops have been mobilized there within two weeks. They are well equipped with mountain quick-firing guns and machine guns.

Charlestown and Dundee are equally threatened by the advance. When the Boer and Free State columns unite an attack on Ladysmith is feared.

Between 6,000 and 8,000 British troops are now in camp at Ladysmith.

The capture of that place would give the Boers command of the railroad from Durban to Pretoria and the branch running to the Free State.

Firing was reported near Charlestown, and it is feared the first skirmish occurred there in an attempt to check the Boer advance.

The Boer movement will give them command of the pass made famous by the battle of Majuba Hill.

The first embarkation of troops composing the British army corps, now almost ready for South Africa, has been set for October 20.

The Ferreira Gold Mining Company announces from Johannesburg that the Transvaal Government has seized its mines.

It is reported that Premier Schreiner and the entire Cape Colony Cabinet have been dismissed.

President Kruger has ordered all Boers out of the Transvaal to return immediately and report for service. Those who disobey will be heavily fined and imprisoned and their property will be confiscated.

Mafeking, on the Bechuana border, is menaced by 5,000 Boers under Commandant Cronje. Colonel Baden-Powell has 3,000 men there, well entrenched and provisioned.

It is thought he can hold out until reinforcements can be rushed to him.

People Officially Warned.

Newcastle, Natal, Oct. 12.—A telegram from the Government officially warned the people of this city that a force from the Orange Free State had invaded Natal through Cundy Cleugh Pass, thirty-seven miles southwest of here.

Widespread alarm followed the receipt of this dispatch, and most of the families began to pack up their clothing and valuables at once.

Within an hour an exodus to the coast was in progress. The city will be deserted in less than twenty-four hours.

The Free State Boers will meet no resistence until they reach Dundee, where a British garrison is stationed.

All of this country is being abandoned, couriers having been sent out warning the inhabitants of the raid.

Sympathy for Tranvaal.

New York, Oct. 12.—Carnegie Hall was well filled with a well-dressed audience which had gathered to express sympathy with the South African Republic in its trouble with Great Britain.

A resolution expressing the opinion that the Boers had shown a willingness to consider the alleged grievances of foreigners, and that therefore it was not the duty of Great Britain to force a conflict, but that the terms offered should be accepted or arbitration agreed to, was adopted.

Judge Van Hoesen offered a resolution asking the government of the United States to use its good offices in the interest of peace. Both resolutions were adopted.

War Forced on Boers.

London, Oct. 12.—Mr. William T. Stead, editor of the Review of Reviews, in the course of an interview, says:

"I maintain that this war is being forced upon the Boers by men who have never forgiven Majuba Hill. In my opinion, owing to Great Britain's unpreparedness, hostilities during the next two months will resemble the international yacht races off Sandy Hook. As there cannot be any serious fighting during that period, hostilities will be as dull as yacht races without wind. We have plenty of time, therefore, to count the cost and to reckon up the guilt of a contemplated wholesale homicide in the Transvaal. Long before Christmas, I take it, the fool-fury of the jingoes will have evaporated."

Welcome to the Fire Laddies.

In the this day and age of constant and rapid adjusting of municipal institutions to modern ideas and improvements the volunteer firemen are gradually passing from view in communities like Plainfield, where but a few years ago their name was legion. But there is still a multitude of small towns that depend upon the volunteer firemen—the ones picturesquely described in the old time lithographs as togged out in red shirts, blue trousers and monstrous helmets designed to protect their craniums from collapse in case a stray brick should fall thereupon during a conflagration. The services of these men are none the less appreciated and efficient now than a generation ago when crude hand engines and bucket brigades formed their fighting apparatus, because in the march of improvement in fire fighting machines the members of the companies operating them have kept pace.

But outside of a few exemptions from the demands of the law that ordinary citizens do not share in, the career of the volunteer firemen is one aptly described as "all honor and no pay." By a social evolution, however, the volunteer fire companies have became not only institutions of inestimable value in protecting their municipalities from the ravages of flames but also in affording organizations that kindle a brotherly and companionable feeling between one and another of the members. By this method a fraternal regard among the members has grown up till the social features incident to the volunteer firemen are quite prominent.

It is in this latter spirit that the celebration in connection with the annual inspection and parade of the North Plainfield fire department is held today. The visiting companies ere today are among the finest representatives of the volunteer firemen in New Jersey, and if the plans of the borough fire laddies are carried out successfully the day will be a gala one. From present prospects everything will go off in fine shape, and in behalf of the citizens of North Plainfield and Plainfield The Daily Press extends a hearty welcome to the visitors and trusts that they will depart with fond rememberances of the programme arranged for their benefit.

EXPERIMENTS WITH THE KYMOGRAPH.

Irregularity and doubtful potency in certain drugs makes thorough testing necessary to secure the best results. The required knowledge can be obtained only through physiological assays. The kymograph is the instrument generally used for these experiments, and the subjects are guinea pigs, rabbits, frogs, chickens and sometimes dogs.

With the annual harvest of nuts and golden pumpkins comes the fall crop of autumn leaves with their countless and variagated colors. The season when the foliage is the most beautiful is upon us. With recurring frosts comes the ever changing panorama that greets the eye wherever one may look. The scene presented these beautiful October days is a picture of nature that no artist can perfectly place on canvas, though some excellent imitations have been attempted. Like a kaleidoscope to the eye the changing of the leaves from day to day is interesting to watch. Certainly, nature is now dressed in her most attractive costume.

Chairman Jones, of the Democratic National committee, says that the next campaign will be fought on anti-imperialism, free silver, anti-trusts and reduction of tariffs, with William J. Bryan as the standard bearer. And this is straight from headquarters.

David B. Hill and Richard Croker may fight again. A contest between the city and the country is anticipated at the New York State committee meeting.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

What has become of the State sewerage commission that was coming to Plainfield to inspect the sewage beds?—Plainfield Press.

What has become of the State sewerage commission, anyway? Previous commissions have come along asking for our views and puffing up and down the river in steam launches. There was always an impression that something was being done, but this commission is different. It seems to consist of a typewriting machine and a letter file.—Passaic News.

* * * * *

In the arguments which he advanced to show why the Plainfield Common Council should refuse a franchise to a rival gas company, the counsel for the Plainfield Gas and Electric Lighting Company might have cited numerous precedents. He said that in the event of the franchise being granted the old company would fight competition with all its power, with the inevitable result of cut rates, followed by a truce and final consolidation. This course of proceedings has been so nearly universal that the lawyer was fairly justified in declaring it inevitable, thanks to the Legislature which has kindly made the consolidation of lighting companies easy. Still Plainfield should not be deterred from making the experiment. It might prove the exception to the rule.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The surprising success of the free excursion recently given by the merchants of Newark has served to awaken the business men of this city to a sense of the position in which they find themselves. Through the efforts of John J. Kenney a movement is about to be inaugurated to follow the good example set by the Newark houses. Some of the business men have been seen and it is the general opinion that in order to compete with the Newark people the merchants of this city must be up and doing and "fight them with their own weapons." In other words, it is proposed to give a free excursion to this city at an early date. There are no definite plans made yet, but the business men will possibly hold a meeting in a few days to see what can be done toward holding the trade that may be drifting to Newark by reason of the free excursions.

* * * * *

While Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Erin was lying off Bay Ridge a few days ago the owner of her was surprised to see a portly gentleman step upon deck and greet him. Sir Thomas gazed at him for a moment and then exclaimed: "Why how you have changed John. You've been growing fat." The caller was John Finlayson, who lives at Metuchen, near this city. He and Sir Thomas were chums together in Glasgow twenty-seven years ago, but had drifted apart and had not seen each other for over a quarter of a century. In Glasgow the two young men went to work at about the same time, their place of employment being close together. Sir Thomas was working in his father's store. When the future cup challenger became ambitious he took a store for himself and was accompanied by his father and John Finlayson when he first inspected this property. It was not long after this incident that Mr. Finlayson first came to America. He now has a small farm at Metuchen and devotes himself principally to raising ducks and dogs. Last week he sent an intelligent little fox terrier, "Mickey Finn," to Sir Thomas as a mascot for the Shamrock.

POLITICAL ROMANCES.

Democrats and Republicans Both to Meet Tomorrow Night.

Chairman Logan, of the Somerset county Democratic committee, yesterday issued a call for the county convention of that party to be held in Somerville, October 19th. The primaries for the election of delegates to this convention will be held in the borough of North Plainfield tomorrow night. The leaders of the party regret that the call has been issued at short notice for the primaries but a strong attempt will be made to get out a full attendance.

The Republican primary in the borough for the election of delegates to the county convention of that party will be held Friday evening in the basement of the borough school house.

—Charles Lister's cycle shop has been engaged as a polling place for the next election.

—By far one of the best entertainments of the season will be given at Y. M. C. A. Hall this evening by the C. E. of Trinity Reformed church. Royal S. Goldsbury, the impersonator, will appear. The admission will be twenty-five cents.

That Throbbing Headache.

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF

to the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee upsets the stomach, ruins the digestion effects the heart and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c. per package.

Domestic Finish Only.

With our new machinery we are making a specialty of the Collar and Cuff trade. No stretching of collars so common with laundries using the old-style gloss-finish machine. Have you heard about our new turn-down collar shaper? No? Well, try it; no break. Call and see us use it. Always welcome.

Interesting Items.

A lady said to me the other day "We Plainfield people are very proud of your store and never fail to bring our friends to see it when visiting us." Such kindly expressions of interest are extremely gratifying to us as showing an appreciation of our efforts to make this a model shopping place. We believe our establishment possesses attractions for people of good judgment and refined taste far superior to that of the average store. The steady arrival of new goods and the continual rearrangement of stock creates a neverending mercantile panorama of peculiar interest. We have been opening winter goods in large quantities for weeks past contracted for in the main before the rise in prices, and feel confident of being able to offer good honest goods somewhat under price. For instance, within a week after placing our order for blankets the price advanced materially. That advance you save.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 12th—Wm. G. Holton Council, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., are making arrangements to make a fraternal visit to Ivanhoe Council Monday evening next. A special trolley car has been chartered and the boys will be whirled over the rails at a lively speed. They will leave the borough at 7:40 o'clock. It is expected that a number of the members of the order living at New Market will accompany the Dunellen boys. The Press has been asked to extend an invitation to the New Market members of the order to join them in the visit.

Word has been received of the sudden death of Mrs. Mary Vail, which occurred yesterday at her home in Brooklyn. Mrs. Vail, who was a sister of Mrs. Nelson Runyon, of New Market, is well known in the borough. She frequently visited here.

There were 41 tickets sold at this station for the Newark excursion yesterday morning. In consequence of so many people being absent from town the place was almost deserted. Business was at a standstill.

The football team of the Whittier School lined up for practice yesterday afternoon. Arrangements are being made for a game with Somerville Saturday afternoon.

The announcement in The Press that Miss Caroline Fisher was to have been married last night was an error. It should have read next Wednesday evening.

The Misses Mabel and Ethel Jamison left yesterday to visit with friends at Newark.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 12.—The sacred literary society of the Baptist church held their regular weekly meeting in the parlors of the church last night. Mr. Shott is more than pleased with the interest taken in the study of the Bible stories and in the near future hopes to be able to begin the study of the talk of the stories or what the excavations in the Holy Land are doing toward proving the truth of the Bible.

The old banner pole on the corner by Paff's grocery has been cut down by order of the Township Committee who were afraid some of the boys who have been amusing themselves by taking electric shocks, might be injured.

Mrs. De Forest Thomae, of Mountain avenue, moved into Mr. Cleaver's cottage on Grand street Wednesday. Mrs. Thomae has leased the property for the term of 3 years through the real estate agency of L. M. Paff, Sr.

The merchants' free excursion to Newark Wednesday had a delegation of about forty from Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Scotch Plains was well represented at the performance of "The Highwayman," given in Music Hall last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stiliger, of Roselle, have been the guests of Mr. Stiliger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stiliger.

The Board of Registry has about completed their canvass for the voters in the township.

Mrs. George L. Dunn spent Wednesday with relatives in Newark.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, October 12.—The constables have been instructed by the Township Committee to arrest all ragpickers found in the township. This action has been taken because these men come to the town early in the morning and steal anything they can get their hands upon. One boy was arrested by Constable Chamberlain yesterday afternoon for stealing a pair of rubber boots, but he raised such a rumpus that the constable let him go when he had promised never to come to Westfield again.

The new vested choir will sing for the first time at St. Paul's church on Sunday, when the church will be reopened after having been extensively altered and enlarged. The Rev. Chas. Fiske will deliver the sermon both morning and evening.

—Use Press want ads

Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses and heals the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and cures Catarrh easily and pleasantly. Cold in the head vanishes quickly. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

The Upholstery Sale Success.

AN equal amount of business in a corresponding length of time has never been done in this remodeled and enlarged department. Monday every selling record was splendidly beaten, yesterday eclipsed the day before and, at time of writing, the busy buying crowds threaten to bring the sales up to a point beyond our greatest expectation. Why this rush, this wonderful trade turmoil, this unprecedented output? Certainly people have not reached their present pitch of enthusiasm without some good cause. Ask anybody who has been here and they will tell you that our assortments are larger and more varied than elsewhere, and that the savings by actual comparison were enormous. Will you be the one to miss this chance? Certainly not if you have an interest in these lines and your purse interests are consulted.

Linz. Der Kaiser schenkte 12,000 Gulden für die Ueberschwemmten. Als Staatshilfe wurden 15,000 Gulden für die erste Nothlage angewiesen.

Nesselsdorf. Bürgermeister Johann Stiborek, ein Mann von über 60 Jahren, hat sich auf dem hiesigen Friedhofe erschossen.

Zara. In Obrovazzo hat ein Brand neun Häuser eingeäschert. Die telegraphisch berufene hiesige Feuerwehr ging dahin ab und es gelang ihr, eine Ausdehnung des Brandes, sowie die drohende Explosion eines Spiritusmagazins zu verhindern. Obrovazzo selbst hat keine Feuerwehr.

Schweiz.

Bern. Die Jungfraubahn hat das Konzessionsbegehren für eine elektrische Bahn auf den Männlichen eingereicht. Der Männlichen ist unbestreitbar einer der schönsten Punkte des Berner Oberlandes. Die Ansicht von der Spitze dieses Berges stellte das bekannte Alpenpanorama der Genfer Landesausstellung dar.—Der Gotthardsoldat Stelzer ist bei einem Patrouillengang Nachts 2 Uhr von einer Brücke auf Fezt Bühl abgestürzt. Er erlitt einen Schädelbruch und starb sofort.—Man schätzt die Zahl der Touristen, die während der letzten Saison die Schweiz besucht haben, auf über 2,500,000 und die Gesammteinnahme der Hotels auf circa 120,000,000 Francs. Auf weitere 20,000,000 bis 30,000,000 Francs werden die Ausgaben der Fremden für Fahrtaxen, Frachten, Schmucksachen, Andenken u. s. w. veranschlagt. Insgesammt hätte also der Sommer 1898 unserem Lande eine Einnahme von nahezu 150,000,000 Francs gebracht, ein Resultat, das nicht so bald wieder erreicht werden dürfte.

Zürich. Das Bezirksgericht hat sieben Studenten, Mitglieder des Vereins deutscher Studirender in Zürich, die am 10. Juni bei einer Schlägermensur von der Polizei erwischt und wegen Duellvergehens unter Anklage gestellt wurden, von Schuld und Strafe freigesprochen und ihnen blos die Kosten des Untersuchungsverfahrens auferlegt.

Graubünden. Von München aus wurde das Engadin privatim um Abtretung der Wasserkräfte des Inn an eine Gesellschaft angegangen. Die Gesellschaft würde für elektrisches Licht und elektrische Bahn sorgen.—Bei Davos wurde eine mehr als [illegible] elektrische Gletschermühle mit doppeltem Kessel entdeckt.

TIMELY HINTS.

Decorative Lamp Shades, Refurnishing Rooms and Housekeeping.

A very decorative lamp shade may be made of four Japanese fans. The handle is cut just outside of the bamboo which passes through it, and the fans are fastened in an upright position to a square shade frame of wire, so as to have the edges touching. This over a bright light gives a very pretty effect if the fans have been well chosen—the palm-leaf fans are excellent for this purpose when a strong, steady light is desired without glare. For a round shade it is likely that five or six might be needed.

When refurnishing some portions of your house this autumn, if you would save labor eventually, remember that matting, with rugs, should cover the floor nearly all over over the house, instead of carpets. The reason is that wiping over and taking away the dust quietly, takes less time than sweeping—which always makes work through so generously distributing the dust all over the room. With good wall papers, but few ornaments, pictures and little drapery or furniture are needed. Only clean a thing when it is apparently necessary—for instance, wash off dirty marks on paint, but do not of necessity wash all the paint. This does not apply to cleaning sinks and such things.

Do not soak clothes over night. It sets the dirt when the water gets cold. Look over the soiled pieces and rub soap on the worst spots and put them in the tub with hot water to cover. Let them soak until the black stockings and woolens are washed and out of the way. Then wash the white clothes next and then the colored ones.

If every three days (much depends on the use and position of the room, of course) the floor of a room is run over with a carpet sweeper, dust at the corners collected, and the room be quietly dusted, it will not require the thorough housecleaning so frequently given by housewives.

Arrange your housekeeping so that you will have lighter work, turn your leisure into time for outdoor life rather than for sewing; learn to live in the air and the passion for new things, perfect things, more things will take its proper place.

Always wash woolens separately from cottons. Wash in quite warm water, add a tablespoonful of borax to each pail of water, rub soap into the water—not on the woolens—and rinse in two quite hot waters. Iron before dry, and they will look like new until worn out.

Brass and copper articles can be sent occasionally to be relacquered, thereby saving the cleaning and polishing that would otherwise be a weekly job.

Sickness Easily Barred.

"Keep your vitality above the negative condition and you will never know disease of any kind," writes E. B. Warma in the October Ladies' Home Journal. "No disease can exist where there is an abundance of pure blood. To get the necessary amount, eat nutritious food; to circulate it perfectly, then proper exercise; to purify it, get fresh air and sunlight. If a perfectly healthy condition of the skin exists and an even temperature of the surface of the body is maintained it is impossible to catch cold. Cold water baths taken every day will do much toward producing the former; proper food and exercise, the latter. Nature gives you an alarm in the first chilly feeling. Heed it at once or pay the enalty. Take a brisk walk or run, breathe deeply and keep the mouth closed. If you are so situated that you can do neither, as in a church, lectureroom or steam car, breathe deeply, rapidly and noiselessly until you are satisfied that your body has passed from a negative to a positive condition."

To Keep the Hands Soft.

Hands which easily become rough and red, may be greatly benefited by washing them two or three times a day in oatmeal water. Take some good fine oatmeal and boil it in water for an hour, strain, and use the liquid for the hands. It should be made fresh every day in summer, and every other day in winter, as it soon becomes sour and smells unpleasant. For hands which are unusually red and coarse this one to two hours. If they are peeled cases a few grains of chloride of lime should be added to the warm and soft water used for washing. Cacao cream is frequently used for softening and whitening the hands. It is composed of cacao butter, oil of sweet almonds, and refined white wax in equal parts. Melt them together and stir until cold.

New Coiffure Style.

There is a movement on foot to again have a fad for wearing the hair parted in the centre and prettily waved. Some charming American girls who were recently in Paris had their hair dressed at the most fashionable places, and the manner of parting the hair in the middle seemed to exactly suit their features. At some very swell functions thereafter their coiffures were greatly admired. The fashion which has been revived is now French "a la Americaine." Your summer tourists have been setting the fashions in gay Paris. But this is not at all unreasonable, since it is stated upon high authority that there have been more Americans in France this year than for the last decade.

The Care of Lamps.

Unfortunately for the busy woman, lamps need more attention than any other means of light, and many women know but little of the best methods of treating them. If lamp-chimneys are cleaned with a cloth dipped into alcohol, instead of soap and water, the result is better; and if the wicks are soaked in strong vinegar and thoroughly dried before being used, there will be no smoke. The burners will become clogged in the course of time, and ought to be treated to a ten minutes' boiling in a quart of water in which an ounce of washing soda has been dissolved. Wipe with a cotton cloth, and they will be as good as new. This really ought to be done every month.

THREE GIRL EDITORS.

Interesting Family of Young Women Journalists in Missouri.

One of the brightest and most enterprising women journalists in the United States is Miss Perl Griffin of Maryville, Mo. Perhaps no woman journalist ever faced harder obstacles or greater dangers than this clear grit, level headed young lady.

On April 8 Frank Griffin, owner of the Maryville Daily Review, was shot down in the street while gathering news by a political enemy. That day The Daily Review failed to appear for the first time since its foundation, but the next day it came out under the editorship of Perl Griffin, the daughter of the murdered man. The paper was dressed in deep mourning, and a brief and pointed editorial from the girl's pen described the shooting and announced that the journal would be continued as before.

Frank Griffin was the father of three very pretty girls. Their names are Perl, Zoe and Lula, and the oldest one, Perl, is barely 23 years of age. When Mr. Griffin started his first paper, the Maryville Advocate, about ten years ago, his eldest daughter begged to be taken into the office to learn the printer's trade.

She soon learned to set type and do other work which must be done around a country newspaper office. She was quick to learn and soon was able to attend to all of the business of getting out the paper.

Zoe and Lula wished to quit school and learn to set type. Their father took them into the office, and they, like their older sister, soon became expert typesetters and able to assist Perl and their father in getting out The Advocate.

In 1894 Mr. Griffin saw an opening for a weekly paper at Parnell City. He bought an outfit, and in January Perl issued the first copy of The Sentinel. It was a bright, newsy paper, of which the citizens were proud, and was given a good support. Other country newspapers commented favorably upon its clean, newsy appearance. The youngest daughter, Lula, had by this time learned the business so well that Mr. Griffin concluded he could publish the Maryville Advocate with her assistance. In May, 1894, The Herald, a weekly paper, was established by Zoe at Skidmore. There was considerable rivalry between Perl and Zoe to see which could publish the best paper.

Many subscribed for their papers at first out of curiosity to see what a girl would say, for they were both yet in their teens. In the fall of 1894 the Nodaway Democrat discontinued its daily edition. Mr. Griffin saw an opening for a daily and immediately began the publication of The Daily Review.

The work of gathering the news for a daily, setting the type and attending to the mailing was more than he and Lula could attend to, so they disposed of both the Parnell Sentinel and The Herald at Skidmore. With his girls to assist him, Griffin was able to publish his daily without any outside help. He commenced to push his girls forward, and alternately they were assigned the work of gathering the news and editing the paper. Their editorials were favorably commented upon. Mr. Griffin was a lawyer, and during court he was so busy with his work as an attorney that he left the full charge of The Review to his daughters.

MISS PERL GRIFFIN.

The day before their father was shot I had occasion to visit the office of The Review. I found Perl feeding the cylinder press, while Lula was attending to the mailing of their afternoon issue. That the girls understood the full details of the business could not be better shown than when they moved their plant into new and larger rooms about a year ago. The cylinder press was taken down and put up under the supervision of Perl and Lula.

In May, 1898, Guilford, in the southeastern part of the county, was without a paper. Griffin, having a chance to purchase an outfit cheap, bought it, and Zoe began publishing the Guilford Grit. She showed the true Griffin pluck and, although Guilford has barely 300 inhabitants, was able to make expenses. In December of the same year she was married to Clarence Miller of Savannah, Mo. Mr. Griffin then gave the plant as a wedding present. Mrs. Miller decided that Melbourne, Mo., a new town on the Port Arthur route, was a better place for a newspaper, so in January of this year she moved the Guilford plant there and commenced to publish the Melbourne News. It is still being run by herself and her husband and is liberally patronized by the Melbourne citizens and the farming community surrounding.

It is not probable that there is a family of girls in the United States who have at the age of these Griffin sisters been able to successfully edit and publish weekly and daily papers. The Review is the only daily in Missouri that is being run by women.

MILDRED MERRIAM.

WOMEN'S REALM

Stop Your Hair Falling Out.

If your scalp is easily irritated it is more than likely that the skin needs softening.

Women complain of their hair falling out, the constant desire to scratch the scalp, the dry appearance of the locks. They notice it; it irritates them, but they do nothing to alleviate it, thinking nature will take care of itself. Nature does, but she makes you suffer first, for she wants help.

If all these symptoms have appeared—and eight out of ten women so complain—this is what the specialists will do for you: Put on freely a tonic that softens, loosens, oils. Quinine is used sparingly on a scalp and hair dried out by salt bathing.

This tonic is rubbed in by thirty minutes of massage. Each part of the scalp is vigorously rubbed. Little by little the oil soaks in, and the locks remain glossy.

After the tangles are combed out, the hair is divided and sub-divided and a stiff, elastic brush used.

Wondrous Woman.

Every woman is secretly proud of her guests who dress well.

Some girls set their caps for husbands and others set their capital for titles.

A girl in love is often unable to express her thoughts, but it's quite different after marriage.

A chaperon is one who accepts the implication that she is old enough not to need watching.

Families are generally best conducted in which the wife does all the scolding. A man's scolding does no good.

When a poor girl who is long and lanky suddenly acquires wealth she at once becomes divinely tall and graceful.

When the girls are in doubt as to whether a visiting girl's complexion is "real" they take her wading and find out.

After a woman has been married two or three months she goes around with an expression on her face that looks suspiciously like wisdom.

Gluten Bread.

Persons suffering from diabetic troubles often find difficulty in getting the pure gluten bread at the bakers. It can, however, be readily made at home, with the assurance that neither milk, which contains sugar, nor sugar itself enters into its composition. In the winter the sponge can be set at night, but in the summer it is more advisable to set it in the morning and bake later in the day. Dissolve half a cake of compressed yeast in half a cup of lukewarm water, with a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of butter and flour to make a stiff batter. When thoroughly mixed, beat in the whites of two eggs, and set to rise. When light add only sufficient gluten flour to mold the loaves, as it should be as soft as it can possibly be handled. Put in greased pans, let it rise again until light and bake in a moderate oven three-quarters of an hour.

A Successful Experiment.

A lady, who from a generous heart or miscalculation prepared too many sandwiches for a recent picnic luncheon, was at a loss to know what to do with those left in her basket. She was about to toss them out when a friend suggested that she take them home and cook them for breakfast. The novelty of the experiment tempted her, and, following the instructions to roll them in beaten egg and fry, serving hot, she had a dish which all pronounced delicious. You see the meat between the slices of bread was minced ham, and while everyone knows that ham and eggs and fried bread naturally go together, few would have thought of the above method of serving them.

To Grease Waffle Irons.

There are a few special points in greasing waffle irons that are well for the novice to bear in mind. Put the irons over the fire until hot on each side, then rub both griddles with a piece of salt pork or suet on a fork or a bit of butter or sweet drippings tied in a clean cloth. The heat will melt the butter and let it run through the cloth. Close the griddles and reverse, which will allow the fat to run evenly over them. Put the butter into the center of the waffle iron over the fire, cover and cook.

Electric Linen Marker.

A useful invention is the electric linen marker. The linen is moistened with water or salt water, and a silver stamp is pressed upon it. A current of electricity is sent from the silver stamp through the linen, and prints it with a salt of silver. The current is then reversed, and the silver is reduced from the salt, thus forming permanent characters in the cloth.

A Big Mistake.

There are young women who think that they make themselves particularly agreeable to their male acquaintances by making themselves as much like them as possible in manner and conversation. This is the way these young women make one of the biggest mistakes of their lives.

The Thimble a Dutch Invention.

Thimbles are said to be of Dutch invention. The manufacture of them was commenced in England by one John Lofing, a mechanic from Holland, who carried on the business of thimble-making at Islington about the year 1695. He is said to have been very successful.

HUMOROUS SQUIBS.

A Strange Cry.

A few mornings ago the passengers on a South side car were startled by a curious cry.

"Corny shins—two fer five!"

It was a boy's voice, unmistakably. A shrill tenor that came from the rear platform.

"Corny shins—two fer five!"

The passengers looked around. The boy was hidden on the platform.

"What's the kid yelling about?" one man asked another.

"Some new Cuban fake, I s'pose," said the other man.

Again the voice rose thin and quivering.

"Corny shins—two fer five!"

By this time everybody was straining ear and eye to unravel the mystery.

"Corny shins—two fer five!" called the boy once more, as he appeared in the doorway, and came up the aisle. Then the mystery was solved.

Dangling from a very dirty hand were a half-dozen bright carnations.

"Corny shins," cried the boy; "two fer five!"—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Frosty.

"No," said Farmer Hayrix, "I wouldn't like to live in town. It makes you too thin-blooded."

"I never heard of that before," said the city visitor.

"I never heard of it, either. I jest noticed it for myself. I been keepin' summer boarders for three years, an' every one of 'em allays wore his coat at the table."

To Avoid Trouble.

Mrs. Wickwire—If you could stop drinking if you chose, why don't you choose?

Weary Watkins—Missis, I had a second cousin out West who had his eye shot out for refusin' a drink, an' I don't want to take no chances of meetin' his sad fate.

Taking His Measure.

Dudeleigh—I—aw, would like some collahs.

Salesman—Yes, sir. What size, please?

Dudeleigh—I—aw, guess fowteen inches is about the pwoppah thing.

Salesman—Yes, sir. Height or length?

A Subterfuge.

"I hyahs you is a very soun' sleeper," said Miss Miami Brown.

"'Deed I is," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "Sometimes de onlies' way mammy kin make me git o' bed in a hurry is to stan' behin' de door an' cluck like a chicken."

Information Wanted.

Mrs. Wickwire—I wonder what has become of the paper. There was an article in it I wanted to save—it was about jams.

Mr. Wickwire—Fruit, log or jim?

Experienced.

Poeticus—Have you read Shakespeare's "Love's Labor Lost?"

Cynicus—No, but I've taken a girl to the theater and had her talk to the man next her all through the show.

A Business Verdict.

Novice: Do you meet with much success in business nowadays?

Experienced Tradesman: Meet with it? No, indeed! I have to gird up my loins and chase after it.

Johnnie's Heirlooms.

Mr. Sprouter—An heirloom, Johnnie, is something that's handed down from father to son.

Little Johnnie—Huh! That's a funny name for pants!

Marksmanship.

"My wife's a fine shot. She can hit a dollar every time."

"That's nothing. My wife goes through my trousers and never misses a dime."

When He Needed It.

He—I'm working on a flying machine, dear.

She—It's too bad you haven't got it with you. I hear papa coming down stairs.

Close Guess.

"Who commands the Spanish Armada?" asked the teacher in history.

"McGinty," answered the boy who was never known to study his lesson.

Nothing Immutable.

The Gusher—We are on the eve of a great change, old chap.

The Guyer—Why, certainly. Summer underwear can't be worn forever.

God Bless Our Home.

Wife—Fred is such a thoughtful husband; he never goes away in the morning without kissing me goodby.

Lady's Maid—Nor me, either.

Why Some Marriages Are Failures.

A man marries a lovely creature in white satin and then lives with a woman who wears Mother Hubbards and dressing sacks.

Inscrutable Woman.

"Pa, did you know ma long before you married her?"

"Know her? Great Scott, child, I don't know her yet."

A Stunner.

"Isn't Mrs. Tanx a stunning creature?"

"I presume she is. Her husband is paralyzed most of the time."

Self-Defense.

"Why do you let your little boy play out on the sidewalk until bedtime?"

"If we didn't he would stay in the house and ask us questions."

In the Klondike.

—I want a pair of boots.

—Yes, sir. Canned or

FUN WITH A BURGLAR.

Victim Feigned Being Asleep and the Intruder Was Baffled.

The burglar who had served a short term in the Bridewell for being caught while trying to leave a house he had entered without the authority of the owners was engaged in the practice of his profession again.

"They don't catch me in no self-actin' cage this time," he said to himself, as he raised a rear window of the house he had selected as the scene of his operations and cautiously insinuated his head through the opening.

"I don't see no cards tellin' me it's all right, and not to make a noise, and will I please shut the pantry window so's the things won't freeze. I guess it's all straight."

With a whispered caution to his confederate, who was to remain on guard outside he crawled noiselessly in, stood a few moments to listen, and then proceeded to pentrate further into the interior.

Finding only a few things worth stealing on the lower floor he started up the stairway.

One of the steps creaked and he stopped instantly.

Not the slightest sound came from the rooms above, however, and, after waiting a reasonable time, he moved forward and upward with great caution.

Entering what seemed to be the main upper room he glanced about him.

Sufficient light came in from the streetlamp across the way to enable him to see a bed in one corner occupied by a man whose deep and regular breathing furnished sufficient evidence that he was sound asleep.

The man's clothing was hanging at the foot of the bed.

The burglar moved in that direction.

Instantly he heard a loud whisper:

"Don't do that! You'll wake him!"

Annoyed and alarmed at what he conceived to be a wholly unauthorized and bungling attempt on the part of his confederate to take a hand in the fine work of the job instead of remaining at his post of duty outside he turned his head and moved back a step or two.

"'St!" came the whisper again, louder than before.

The burglar glanced at the sleeper, who had not stirred, and then moved toward the door, with the intention of administering a voiceless rebuke to his reckless confederate.

"You blamed fool," whispered the voice again. "You haven't got sense enough to rob a sandbank. Let me do this!"

The burglar peered into the gloom of the upper hallway.

Not seeing his pal he stepped out through the door.

"Stop!" exclaimed a loud, determined voice. "If you move another inch in this direction I'll put a bullet through you!"

He jumped back and darted in the direction of the front window.

"Hi, there!" spoke another voice. "Don't go that way, either! Can't you see you're running right into a gun?"

Trembling in every limb he stood near the centre of the room uncertain what to do.

He put his hand to his hip pocket.

"If you make another motion with that hand," exclaimed a voice from somewhere in the darkness, "I'll shoot! I've got the drop on you!"

He stole another glance at the sleeper.

The man had not stirred.

The burglar felt a cold sweat breaking out all over him.

Then, as the savage yell of a fierce dog, apparently under the bed, came startlingly to his ear, he jumped with a yell of terror to the side window, five or six feet away, plunged through it, carrying the sash with him, and rolled down the kitchen roof into a deep snowbank, from which he emerged a second later and fled like a deer, followed by his bewildered confederate.

He had made the horrible blunder of trying to rob a professional ventriloquist—who happened to be awake. —Chicago Tribune.

The Mean Man.

There's the mean man that elbows his passage
And pushes you out in the street.
There's the mean man you meet on the railway
Who won't give a lady his seat;
There's the mean man that is looking for favors,
But won't give a nickel-piece tip,
There's the mean man that drinks of your liquids,
But carries no flask on his hip;
But the man that to me is the meanest
(The one I could hit with a tile)
Is the man that we tell something funny,
And he don't even give us a smile.
—Chicago News.

Followed Advice.

"The oculist recommended that I try glasses."

"Did you take his advice?"

"Yes, I tried 'schooners' and 'ponies.'"

"Well, did they benefit your eyesight?"

"Yes; after trying them I can see double."—Chicago News.

Took the Hint.

"What is your opinion of the open-door policy?"

"It depends on the season. Just now I don't think it ought to be open."

Thereupon the man in the office looked at the interviewer in such a meaning way that he immediately went back and closed it.—Chicago Post.

She Was Justified.

"I shall never speak to him again," she said.

"Why not?"

"Well, we were alone in the parlor last night when the gas suddenly went out."

"And what did he do?"

"Nothing."—Chicago Post.

"I see your cook left the house in indignation.

"Yes; I presume she was mad because she couldn't take it with her."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Here is an account of a New England farmer who has been missing for three weeks?"

"Perhaps he has concealed himself in the front parlor."—Life.
